U.S. Unit Withstands Red Waves

SAIGON (AP)—Units of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division withstood human wave assaults by North Vietnamese regulars charging through jungle and elephant grass near the Cambodian border Friday night and Saturday.

The fighting was the division's first major action of the war.

An American spokesman said U.S casualties were light overall and moderate for one of the companies involved in the battle 230 miles north of Saigon. American casualties at first had been described as moderate, indicating the companies involved were heavily mauled.

The infantry men were helped by B52 bombers from Guam and by other planes.

Fighting died down Sunday. There was no contact reported from the battle sector near the Plei Djereng special forces — Green Beret — camp.

RED DEAD

Headquarters said the number of North Vietnamese killed rose to 49 from Saturday's fighting and that U.S troops had captured two Communist soldiers.

The fighting involving units of the 4th — Ivy — Division, which arrived in Viet Nam during August and September, ranged from six to 15 miles west and northwest of the Plei Djereng camp.

On Friday night and Saturday, two companies of the 4th Division's 8th infantry Regiment were hit by a series of North Vietnamese attacks.

Three U.S. helicopters, one of them evacuating wounded, were shot down.

A U.S. spokesman said that also involved in the fighting as one company of the Third Brigade, U.S. 25th Infantry Division.

It was the first time since early this month that the North Vietnamese engaged Americans in any big action.

The battle set off speculation in Saigon that the attacks on the untried Americans marked the opening of a drive by North Viet Nam in the hope of influencing congressional elections in the United States Nov. 8.

It came as President Johnson, in Thailand, appealed to Hanoi to come to a peace conference.

Elsewhere in South Viet Nam, no other fighting of consequence was reported by the U.S and South Vietnamese commands Sunday.

The found 420 tons of rice 45 miles northwest of Saigon in Tay Ninh Province, long a Viet Cong stronghold.

A spokesman said that nearly all the rice will be distributed to Vietnamese villagers. The U.S troops also found 25 tons of salt and eight large drums of gasoline.

JOINING THE MANY GHOSTS and goblins lurking about this Halloween Monday night, ringing doorbells and yelling 'Trick or Treat' will be Amanda and Scott Fisher, children of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Fisher, Dogwood Drive, Monroe. The bewitching time is almost here and to start the spirit of the approaching fun evening Amanda and Scott costumed and asked their mother to help assemble cookies and candies in preparation for the ghosts, goblins and other eerie callers. Traditional Ghost Time Near Again

The traditional time for ghosts, goblins and witches to appear on the scene is drawing near as costumes and trick - or -treat bags come out of the closets to make ready for Monday night.

Some believe that Monday is the night that the "Great Pumpkin" arises out of the pumpkin patch and brings toys to little boys and girls who have proven themselves worthy during the past year. But this belief has not been proven yet, or at least we haven't had reports of anyone seeing it yet, although many UFO have been spotted from time to time.

Keeping with the times, the ranks of spooks and little gnarled women on broomsticks has been joined with creatures from outer space (obviously from the UFO's), astronauts, Batmen and Robins, and a few Green Hornets.

One never knows when he opens his door on this last night of October what will stand in it, but the best bet is to keep a good supply of candy, apples and cookies on hand, which seems to soothe these alien creatures.

Boycott Spreading To Half Of Nation

NEW YORK (AP) — The housewife revolt against rising food prices spread Saturday to nearly half the states in the nation.

In a few places there were signs of peace feelers from grocers.

Some asked the housewives to meet with them and discuss the problems. Others discontinued games and giveaways that housewives said boosted prices. A few storekeepers sent coffee and doughnuts to the pickets outside their doors.

An Associated Press survey showed housewife groups active in at least 21 states.

The goal of the women is to bring down the price of food, and the New York City markets department says consumer pressure helped cut the price of a pound of butter up to eight cents in the last two weeks.

Three dairies in Albuquerque, N.M., cut milk prices 5 to 7 cents a gallon, then announced layoffs of deliverymen and discontinued advertising to save money.

Officials of three supermarket chains in Denver agreed to try out one demand of the housewife group: They will close on Sundays to cut expenses. But they warned they will resume Sunday business if discount houses and other competitors continue operation.

The revolt was first sparked in Denver on Oct. 17. A spot check of stores in the city Saturday showed business apparently normal with long lines at every checkout station.

In their battle against higher prices housewives have unfurled the acronyms. Four times they yelled HELP, once for Housewives Eager for Lower Prices, in Oklahoma City; once for Home Economists for Lower Prices in Pittsburgh; once for Housewives Expect Lower Prices, in Monmouth County, N. J. and once for Housewives Enraged — Lower Prices, in Tampa, Fla.

Time Proves Of Essence To Lawyer

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP) — J. Minos Simon, an attorney here, said Saturday the reason he could not accommodate Gov. John McKeithen and appear as a voluntary witness Friday was because he was engaged in conferences about a murder trial.

The statement came after McKeithen had been subpoenaed to appear Thursday for a deposition in a case involving a fatal traffic crash involving the governor's son.

William Redmann, counsel for the governor, said Simon rejected offers for McKeithen to testify voluntarily Friday and that Simon considered his time more valuable than the governor's.

Simon, in criticizing the attitudes of the governor and his counsel, said Redmann was "obviously . . . so deeply immersed in McKeithen's political aquarium and has been on such a steady diet of public money that he has lost all sense of perspective."

Simon is defense counsel for J. W. Loftin, slated to go to trial on a murder charge Monday.

"I'm old-fashioned enough to believe that my duty to a client where his life is at stake is more important than the political ambition of anyone, including John J. McKeithen," he said.

Flaming Jet Hits Trailers Hurts Woman

POLAND, N.Y. (AP) — A flaming jet fighter crashed into two house trailers Saturday and critically burned a young pregnant woman in one of the dwellings, state police reported. The pilot ejected.

Mrs. Alberta Eaton, 19, who lived in a trailer court beside Route 28 near this community northeast of Utica, was taken to a hospital with first and second-degree burns of the upper body, arms and feet. Police said she was five months pregnant and was blown 15 feet from the building by the blast.

No one else was injured. The trailers were demolished, but the occupants of one were out shopping

The pilot, Capt. William R. Kershlis Jr., 34, of Ithaca, landed northeast of Poland and telephoned his New York Air National Guard base in Syracuse that he seemed to be all right.

An air base spokesman said the engine caught fire and stopped.

The single-engined, single-seat F86H tactical fighter was traveling with a second fighter, also attached to the 138th Tactical Fighter Squadron of the Guard at Hancock Field, Syracuse. The other pilot, Lt. Col. John Etherington, Syracuse, returned to Hancock Field.

President Johnson Goes To Malaysia, Greeted By Cheers

Congratulates People Upon Nation-Building

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — President Johnson arrived here Sunday and congratulated Malaysia for building "a free and prospering countryside that can relieve the poverty and apathy upon which communism thrives."

A crowd of more than 20,000 flag - waving Malaysians cheered him and Mrs. Johnson as they stepped out of their presidential jet to be welcomed by Malaysia's king and queen.

BANNER REMOVED

Johnson would have seen the banner, which was on his 14-mile route from the airport into the heart of the Malaysian capital. About 20 students watched as police removed the banner, but there were no incidents.

A leftist minority is opposed to the President's visit. Saturday night, a band of Chinese demonstrators tore down poles and set fire to American flags erected along a main road for Johnson's visit.

In an arrival speech, Johnson recalled the long war against Communist guerrillas in Malaya, saying "you valiantly subdued a Communist insurgency in your nation."

"Your achievement in this respect, I believe, has the greatest significance for our struggle in Viet Nam today," he declared. "You have shown that military action can stop Communist aggression and that while the aggression is being stopped — even more strongly when it is stopped — the peace, as well as the war can be won."

Malaysia's example "offers us hope for the future," Johnson said.

The welcome included a 21-gun salute.

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Riot police opened fire on Chinese anti-American demonstrators outside the United States Information Services office here Sunday, wounding at least two and possibly killing one. The incident occurred shortly after President Johnson's arrival.

The demonstrators marched on the USIS office, located in the heart of town, as President Johnson spoke to Malysian Cabinet ministers at Parliament House.

Witnesses said some 200 people, mostly Chinese, marched toward the building carrying banners and shouting anti-American slogans.

New Orleans Preacher Looks For 'Lost Souls'

But unlike the citizens of Nineveh, the citizens of Detroit didn't repent.

The "Chaplain of Bourbon Street", 39, toured Detroit show bars and burlesque houses, hoping to save the souls of the city's strip-tease dancers.

But everywhere he went in the downtown area, deors were slammed shut.

He spoke to assorted passers-by, including four French sailors, three long-haired youths, an 11-year-old shoe shine boy and three kids eating ice cream in front of a Third Avenue strip joint.

One youngster, wearing a "Jesus Saves" button, said she recognized him from a television appearance.

But he couldn't get within voice range of a single stripper.

"If I'd have gone up to that window with a submachine gun and a breastplate, I wouldn't have stirred them up like I do with this book," he said.

"When you walk up to somebody and pull this book on 'em," he continued, "it's like you just said 'stick 'em up.' "

He said he found downtown Detroit relatively clean, but "the people of Sodom and Gomorrah would have blushed if they walked down Third Avenue."

He said he could understand why burlesque house managers were reluctant to let him in.

"When somebody buys a ticket to see a skin show, they don't want to get preached to," he said.

At one strip joint, the preacher managed to give a handful of religious literature to the manager for distribution to the strippers.

A few seconds later, the manager returned for more.

"I want to make sure all the girls get one," he said.

Reverend Bob, as he prefers to be called, said he feels the girls are "defiling their bodies." But, he added, "These people are sincere. They'll admit they need help."

"You can be more effective with sinners who admit what they are than with the self-righteous who live a life of pretense," he said.

He became a preacher in 1958, setting up an office on New Orleans' famed Bourbon Street. He has visited Saigon, Las Vegas and Hollywood and is planning to open branch offices of his "Ministry of Bob Harrington Inc." in all three cities.

More Pleasant Weather Due

Witnesses said some 200 people, mostly Chinese, marched toward the building carrying banners and shouting anti-American slogans.

Amendments To Be Outlined

The Monroe Morning World, in accordance with its usual custom when Constitutional Amendments are offered voters, will analyze and make recommendations on the 45 proposed amendments to be voted on November 8.

The analysis will be carried on Sunday, November 6, two days before the election.

Weeks of study by lawyers and others versed in Louisiana Constitutional law and history, as well as information furnished by the Public Affairs Research Council, by the Council for Better Louisiana and by local interested groups will be condensed in the analysis.

'Actors' Take $159,000

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Three men posing as armored car service employes hoodwinked the Schwegmann Brothers Super Market into giving them an estimated $159,000 Saturday night.

The theft was discovered only when the real team of armored car men arrived to collect the day's receipts, said the Jefferson Parish sheriff's office.

Officers said the three thieves wore green caps and shirts, were armed with guns, and drove away with the money in a compact bus or a green truck.

New Orleans Preacher Looks For 'Lost Souls'

But unlike the citizens of Nineveh, the citizens of Detroit didn't repent.

The "Chaplain of Bourbon Street", 39, toured Detroit show bars and burlesque houses, hoping to save the souls of the city's strip-tease dancers.

But everywhere he went in the downtown area, doors were slammed shut.

He spoke to assorted passers-by, including four French sailors, three long-haired youths, an 11-year-old shoe shine boy and three kids eating ice cream in front of a Third Avenue strip joint.

One youngster, wearing a "Jesus Saves" button, said she recognized him from a television appearance.

But he couldn't get within voice range of a single stripper.

"If I'd have gone up to that window with a submachine gun and a breastplate, I wouldn't have stirred them up like I do with this book," he said.

"When you walk up to somebody and pull this book on 'em," he continued, "it's like you just said 'stick 'em up.' "

He said he found downtown Detroit relatively clean, but "the people of Sodom and Gomorrah would have blushed if they walked down Third Avenue."

He said he could understand why burlesque house managers were reluctant to let him in.

"When somebody buys a ticket to see a skin show, they don't want to get preached to," he said.

At one strip joint, the preacher managed to give a handful of religious literature to the manager for distribution to the strippers.

A few seconds later, the manager returned for more.

"I want to make sure all the girls get one," he said.

Reverend Bob, as he prefers to be called, said he feels the girls are "defiling their bodies." But, he added, "These people are sincere. They'll admit they need help."

"You can be more effective with sinners who admit what they are than with the self-righteous who live a life of pretense," he said.

He became a preacher in 1958, setting up an office on New Orleans' famed Bourbon Street. He has visited Saigon, Las Vegas and Hollywood and is planning to open branch offices of his "Ministry of Bob Harrington Inc." in all three cities.

LUDWIG ERHARD
. . . Back To Wall

Chancellor Asks More For Taxes

BONN, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's new minority government, its back to the wall, asked Saturday for higher taxes to keep West Germany's promises to buy arms in the United States.

The government sought increased levies on tobacco, liquor, gasoline and other oil products. There may also be an increased tax for some big firms.

Whether it could muster the parliamentary majority to put this through was far from clear. Rainer Barzel Bundestag leader of the Christian Democratic party, said he and Erhard would try.

MANDATE

The party, Barzel added, has a mandate to run the government until 1969.

Barzel, 42, is one of the prime candidates to replace Erhard, who will be 70 in February. There were few politicians in Bonn who thought Erhard could last as long as that.

Barzel declined to repeat a declaration he has pushed through the party leadership earlier this month: "Erhard is and remains chancellor." He referred a questioner to a statement he made Friday that a majority of the party in the Bundestag is still behind the chancellor.

Erhard was off campaigning in the region around Frankfurt, backing his party's candidates in a state election to be held Nov. 6.

Erhard said he did not mean to quit so long as he can stay under the constitution. Taken literally, this would mean he would remain in office until 1969 or until a majority of the Bundestag ousts him by electing a successor. That would be hard to do.

The majority that elected him broke up Thursday when the four ministers of the Free Democratic party resigned from his cabinet to oppose new taxes. But they were not yet ready to join a majority for putting in someone else.

Reinforces Allied Stand

LBJ's Summitry Ends In East-West Accord

MANILA (AP) — President Johnson's venture in summit diplomacy in the Far East is ending with evidence that he and his allies have succeeded in reinforcing their stand on Viet Nam and in creating a new basis for U.S.-Asian partnership.

These two themes—allied unity in the war and creation of a new international system along the rim of Asia—have dominated the Manila summit conference and Johnson's public speeches and private talks with leaders he has visited.

The President has had two practical objectives in view.

One was to achievesuch unity among allies fighting in Viet Nam that, if and when the Communists are ready for negotiation the allies will be in agreement on conditions of the peace they seek.

In Manila they spelled out conditions which amounted to a definition of war and peace, and conference officials said the agreement was unanimous.

The other objective the President had in mind in coming to the Far East was to lay a new foundation for building economic and political strength—on Asian initiative and with American help—throughout the area edged by Red China. Declarations of the Manila conference spelled out the aims of this still developing program.

Johnson's associates and reportedly the President himself will go home with the conviction that the tour has been a success despite demonstrators.

His brief visit to Viet Nam, with its secrecy and surprise, topped in publicity the climax of the summit conference. No comparable event had occurred since President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower went to Korea in 1952.

Speculation that this and other aspects of the 31,000-mile tour were politically motivated, reflecting presidential worry about his home-front standing, has continued. He said he went to Viet Nam because he could not be in this part of the world without visiting the troops.

Apart from U.S. political implications the visit to Cam Ranh Bay dramatized the extent of U.S. commitment to South Viet Nao. Much of the communique issued at the Manila summit sessions had the same meaning, though it disappointed those who had hoped before the conference that a new concession would be offered to North Viet Nam to enter into negotiations.

The new offer—a pledge of withdrawal of U.S. and allied troops within six months after peace—was designed to underscore a policy of postwar withdrawal which the United States had announced previously.

The war aims agreed by all seven heads of government were essentially those which the United States has proclaimed since it became a full-scale belligerent in South Viet Nam in early 1965: defeat of Communist attempts to take over the country by force and establishment of conditions making it independent and secure.

After the conference Johnson sent emissaries to a number of Asian and European capitals to keep his peace offensive going and to explain what was discussed in Manila and what was not. The President has been anxious to avoid the impression over the world that this was a council of war, as the Communists have charged, or that it made plans to escalate the conflict.

Ship Probe Halts Talks About Tanker

PORT ARTHUR, Tex. (AP) — A Coast Guard board of inquiry adjourned Saturday after hearing 15 witnesses including 12 survivors of the tanker Gulfstag.

The ship carried a cargo of automobile gasoline and exploded and burned Monday off the Louisiana coast with the apparent loss of 7 lives among the 40 crew members.

Thirty three survived, including three burned.

Crew members told the hearing which opened Thursday that a massive fire enveloped the stern after a series of explosions.

The seven missing are believed to have been trapped in their rooms or the engine room.

The board directed its questions around a pump room where the fire is assumed to have started.

A pumpman, Homer Fontenot of Port Arthur, said there had been a skim of gasoline about an inch thick floating on several inches of water in the pump room bilge. He said this was normal.

The Coast Guard was unable to determine what may have set off the fumes.

Capt. R. A. Barber of New Orleans, chairman of the board, said the board would examine the hulk of the Gulfstag, "if and when it is possible."

The ship is 60 miles south southwest of Morgan City, La. It capsized, putting out the flames. The bow is sticking high out of the water.

Officials of the Gulf Oil Corp.'s marine department here said a decision has not been reached on what to do with the vessel. A Gulf spokesman said most of the ship's cargo of 153,000 barrels of gasoline is thought to be intact.

MRS. A. OTIS Birch has a kiss for her husband at Breckenridge, Tex., following a ruling Saturday by Judge Griffin that Birch was not being held against his will by his wife. The 95-year-old millionaire appeared in court to testify on his wife's behalf. Mrs. Birch, the former Pearl Choate had been a resident nurse for Birch and his first wife for 16 months. The first Mrs. Birch died in October of this year. (AP Wirephoto)

Big Blonde Wins 'Hand' Of 95-Year-Old Husband

BRECKENRIDGE, Tex. (AP) — Dist. Judge H. Griffin ruled Saturday that A. Otis Birch, 95, deaf and almost blind, was not being restrained of his liberties by his bride of four days, Pearl Choate Birch, who had been his nurse since 1963.

It did not matter to him, Birch said, that the 205-pound Mrs. Birch served a lengthy murder sentence. The millionaire philanthropist repeated in court that he did not want to return to California, where he once lived in South Pasadena.

Birch, one-time oilman and citrus grower, testified at what in effect was a custody hearing pitting his new wife against his relatives and friends.

The marriage prompted friends and kin to determine whether he was being held involuntarily by the new Mrs. Birch.

In testifying, the questions and answers went this way:

"Is Pearl Choate Birch holding you against your will?"

"No, she is not."

"Assuming the judge told you you were free to go anywhere you wanted to, where would you go?"

"I would go to 1213 West First St., Breckenridge, Tex." This is where he and Mrs. Birch are residing.

Mrs. Birch said she and her philanthropist bridegroom will continue to reside in Breckenridge, a West Texas oil town.

Birch also testified that he "did not think it was advisable considering all the circumstances" to see his relatives. Some complaints had arisen that Miss Choate, while his nurse in California, had estranged him from relatives and friends.

Birch testified he does not want to return to his California home because, he declared in a loud, clear voice, the authorities want him to take a sanity test.

The first Mrs. Birch died in Breckenridge Oct. 7. Miss Choate had cared for both in California and elsewhere.

Mrs. Dale Musgrove, who attended the elderly couple at the Breckenridge Nursing Home for 18 days, quoted Mrs. Birch as telling her: "Why are we moved so much? Why are we at the mercy of this woman? Please call our friends in California and they will come and get us."

Dr. Frank Payne, testified he examined Birch Sept. 10 and found him in very good shape for his age.

The hearing was a habeas corpus case brought by Harlan J. Moehn of Danville, Iowa, a distant relative who came to Breckenridge to investigate the death of the elderly Mrs. Birch.

Also in effect taking part were Martha Tulley, a niece who was appointed guardian of Birch by a California court. Another was Dr. Adrian Heaton, president of the California Baptist Seminary in Covina, Calif., to which Birch made numerous contributions.

The new Mrs. Birch, married seven times but using her maiden name until her marriage last Wednesday in Altus, Okla., became a nurse for the Birches shortly after she left the penitentiary in 1963.

Alexandrian Killed In Bar

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP)—An Alexandria man was killed Saturday when he was shot in the back in a neighborhood bar.

Police said Willie Byrd was struck in the back with a 22 pistol shot. Police said Charles Rainey, 40, manager of the Ebony Club, was showing the pistol to some customers when the pistol discharged.

Rainey has been charged with manslaughter.

Bishop Pike, Editor Seek JFK Evidence

NEW YORK (AP)—Episcopal Bishop James A. Pike and Edward M. Keating, publisher of Ramparts Magazine, said Saturday they are forming a committee to ask President Johnson to release what they called "suppressed" evidence bearing on President John F. Kennedy's assassniation.

Pike discussed the committee with newsmen on his arrival from the Wheeling, W. Va., meeting of the Episcopal House of Bishops which accepted a committee recommendation that heresy charges against him not be started, but censured Pike for "irresponsibility" in some statements espousing liberal theology.

Pike said he came to the conclusion that Kennedy was the victim of a conspiracy, not a lone assassin. The bishop said his thinking on the conspiracy possibly dated back a year.

Keating joined with the bishop at Kennedy Airport to discuss the committee. Pike stopped off there enroute to a church meeting in Cleveland.

Both men said they would accept the lone-assassin theory if it were confirmed by examination of the "suppressed" evidence.

Keating charged that about 50 per cent of the data from the Central Intelligence Agency and about 50 per cent of the FBI's evidence was withheld.

Wants Snowball

Tommy Harvey, 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Harvey of 1712 So. 6th St., told his mom that he wasn't going to sleep Saturday night until he got his snowball back. Not a real snowball, but Snowball the cat. It seems the young feline, pure white and just under a year old, disappeared from the home early Saturday and has not been seen since.

Turning to Jes' Ramblin' as a sort of court of last resort, Mrs. Harvey said, "He is just four and you know how children are with pets. He has been crying all night and says he won't go to sleep."

Jes' Ramblin' indeed knows how small boys and pets are, so if any one sees a Snowball and it's a cat please contack Mrs. Harvey.

N.Y. Makes Two Reports About UFO's

PATCHOGUE, N.Y. (UPI) — The Air Force Saturday investigated reports of a multicolored unidentified flying object (UFO) that hovered at tree-top level and screeched.

It was the second consecutive night that UFO's were reported in the eastern Long Island area. Other sightings were reported last week. The Air Force said it was looking into all the reports.

Several hundred persons, including policemen, said they saw the UFO's, one of which was photographed. The photo showed a bright, starlike object in the dark sky.

The latest sightings were reported by a radio station that said it received 15 telephone calls Friday night and early Saturday from five communities encompassing the width of Long Island.

The callers reported seeing a white cylindrical object with red and green lights hovering anywhere from 200 feet above the ground to tree-top level. Some said it emitted screeching noises.

American Legion Barbecue Slated

L. B. Faulk Post No. 13, American Legion, has announced plans for a barbecue to be held Monday night at 6:30 p.m. at American Legion Hall on Forsythe Ave.

Commander Marion E. Dupont has requested that all members notify him or general chairman Charles Cascio if they plan to attend the gathering.

Among the guests scheduled to attend are: Department Commander Arthur A. Viallon of Port Allen, Department Vice Commander Theron J. Deloach of Homer, Department Adjutant Wilson J. Hebert of Baton Rouge, Past Department Commander Mike Gehr of Alexandria, Department Vice Commander C. J. "Skipper" Acosta of Napoleonville.

Plans are also being formulated by the group for the Veterans Day Parade and Memorial Service Nov. 11.

Queen Quietly Tours Area

ABERFAN, Wales (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II toured the Welsh disaster village of Aberfan Saturday and said afterward: "All I could give them was my understanding and sympathy as a mother."

There were no flags flying, there was no parade, no pomp for this royal visit.

The sad-faced queen and her husband, Prince Philip, spent about 30 minutes in the home of Jim Williams, 61, a former miner who lost seven relatives in the Oct. 21 coal slag avalanche.

Diggers have recovered 147 bodies — mostly children — from the black sludge which crushed Pantglas Junior School and 17 houses. Ten or more people are missing, making a feared death toll of about 160. Little hope is held of finding any more bodies.

Earth clearing operations were still going on as the royal party arrived. The queen and Philip drove past small pockets of silent spectators to the hillside cemetery where 81 children were buried Thursday in two 60-foot long trench graves. Tears glistened in the queen's blue eyes as she gazed down at the mass graves.

She and Philip placed a wreath among the others fringing the graves, then stood for a moment in silence with heads bowed. They have four children.

Then the queen walked half a mile down the winding road to Jim Williams' cottage. Williams was waiting there to take the royal party inside for a cup of tea.

Later, in Moy Road, where the junior school stood, the queen stopped and talked to dozens of children and bereaved parents. Almost hidden in a mass of people, she walked up to the school site.

There were no cheers. The thin crowd stood silent.

Philip, who visited the disaster scene several days ago, pointed out to the queen where a great wall of sludge had cut across the road, demolishing the school and houses.

"Full up of emotion she is. You can see that," said one woman of the queen.

ATTENDS MEET

J. P. McKee Sr., of Executone Systems Company, 1510 Cypress Street, West Monroe, authorized distributor of Executone Communication and Sound Systems, attended a Regional Sales meeting this weekend of the Executone Organization at the Sheraton Charles Hotel, New Orleans, from October 27-29.

DIVIDEND DECLARED

HOUSTON, Tex. — The regular quarterly dividend of 26-¼ cents per share on the common stock of Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation was declared by the company's board of directors at a meeting here. The dividend is payable Dec. 1 to stockholders of record at the close of business on Nov. 4.

Dividends on twelve issues of preferred stock also payable Dec. 1 to stockholders of record at the close of business on Nov. 4 are as follows: $1.12-½ per share on the 4.50 per cent convertible Series; $1.18¾ per share on the 4.75 per cent convertible series; $1.25 per share on the 5.00 per cent series; $1.25 per share on the 5.00 per cent series (1964); $1.25 per share on the 5.00 per cent series (2nd 1964); $1.26-¾ per share on the 5.07 per cent series; $1.28-⅛ per share on the 5.125 per cent subordinate convertible series; $1.33-¾ per share on the 5.35 per cent subordinate convertible series; $1.38 per share on the 5.52 per cent series; $1.40 per share on the 5.60 per cent series; $1.43-¾ per share on the 5.75 per cent subordinate convertible series, and $1.67-½ per share on the 6.70 per cent series.

U.S. Voters Face Bewildering Choices When Decision Day Rolls Around Nov. 8

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A bewildering assortment of judgements face the nation's voters election day. They must decide whether to curb obscenity in California, finance education with a lottery in New York, abolish the death penalty in Colorado and let horses run at night in New jersey.

Voters must also decide on taxes in Massachusetts and Illinois; liquor-by-the-drink in South Carolina; lowering the voting age to 18 in Michigan and paying a Viet Nam war bonus in Louisiana.

In addition, there are decisions with heavy racial overtones in Bakersfield, Calif., and in Mississippi. New York City residents face the hotly debated question as to whether their city should have a civilian review board to hear protests of police brutality.

These are among the constitutional amendments, initiatives, and referendums which will appear on state and local ballots Nov. 8. Only six states and Puerto Rico will not have at least one such decision to make.

California apparently plans to crack down on obscenity with the backing of Republican Gubernatorial candidate Ronald Reagan and over the opposition of Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

Private polls indicate that Californians will strike from state law the phrase that movies, books and pictures which have "redeeming social importance" are not obscene and set up a full system to enforce the obscenity statute, perhaps even on the basis of citizen complaints.

On the eastern seaboard, New Yorkers will decide whether to hold a statewide lottery, with all the money going to finance education.

The proposed lottery, patterned after one in New Hampshire, has been approved twice by the state legislature. If endorsed by the voters, as expected, implementing legislation will have to be passed by the legislature and approved by the governor.

The annual yield has been estimated by backers at $400 million a year although the opposition calls this excessive. They also have raised the question of whether it is moral to finance education with gambling profits.

A copyrighted poll by the Denver Post indicates that Colorado will retain the death penalty and reject life sentence without parole as the maximum term for capital crimes. Two recent murders — one the slaying of a coed on campus and the other of a 9-year old girl —dimmed chances of changing the law.

Waiting the outcome are five men in Colorado's death row. Gov. John Love has stayed their executions pending the vote.

Although 18 states will decide tax questions, two of the more significant tests will come in Illinois and Massachusetts.

Massachusetts must decide whether to retain a 3 per cent sales tax which does not fall on such necessities as food, clothing and prescriptions.

N.Y. Makes Two Reports About UFO's

PATCHOGUE, N.Y. (UPI) — The Air Force Saturday investigated reports of a multicolored unidentified flying object (UFO) that hovered at tree-top level and screeched.

It was the second consecutive night that UFO's were reported in the eastern Long Island area. Other sightings were reported last week. The Air Force said it was looking into all the reports.

Gallup Poll

Wallace Poses Threat To GOP

By GEORGE GALLUP

If Gov. George Wallace heads a third party movement in the 1968 Presidential contest, he will pose a far greater threat to the Republicans than he will to President Johnson.

Wallace may bow out of the race, as he did in 1964, but present indications are that he will head a third party, especially if the Republicans select a "moderate" on civil rights.

As a third party candidate, as judge on the basis of present survey evidence, he would poll only a small part of the total vote, some 7 per cent. But these votes would come largely from people who are anti-Johnson Administration.

Apart from the effect his candidacy might have on the 1968 election, his backing today is also a pretty good indication of the number of militant segregationists to be found in the nation. These are votes which undoubtedly will be cast against Democratic candidates in the national elections next week.

To make an early assessment of the Wallace strength, the Gallup Poll staged a three - man "test election," matching John- against Richard Nixon, presently the first choice of the GOP rank - and - file, and Wallace. This question was asked:

"Suppose the Presidential election were being held TODAY — if Richard Nixon were the Republican candidate and Lyndon Johnson were the Democratic candidate and Gov. George Wallace of Alabama were the candidate of a third party, which would you like to see win?"

The results of this nationwide survey, when compared to the results of an earlier two-way "trial heat" between only Johnson and Nixon, show that wallace would hurt the Republicans far more than he would hurt the Democrats. This is shown in the following table:

— NATIONWIDE TOTALS —

	Two-Way Race	Three-Way Race
Johnson	51%	51%
Nixon	40	34
Wallace	—	7
Undecided	9	8

"BACKLASH" BY LABOR?

Organized labor has become fearful that the white backlash may lead many of their members to vote against "liberal" candidates this year. Eight per cent of manual workers across the nation — many of them union members — presently support Wallace in this three-way race. This is twice the proportion of professional or white collar people who do the same.

Wallace receives his greatest support in the South and does least well in the West and East. He wins the vote of 6 per cent in the Midwest.

In the South, Wallace wins 17 per cent of the vote to Johnson's 40 per cent and Nixon's 34 per cent. A comparison of these findings with the results of the two-way race in the South shows that, with Wallace in the race, Johnson loses more than Nixon but retains a clear lead:

— SOUTHERN VOTERS —

	Two-Way Race	Three-Way Race
Johnson	49	40
Nixon	37	34
Wallace	—	17
Undecided	14	9

Wallace is strongest in the five "deep" South states carried by Goldwater in 1964. In this area he polls nearly as many votes as does Nixon; however, both still trail Johnson.

The following table shows the extent of the Wallace vote among the major groups in the population:

	Who Say Would Vote For Wallace
National	7%
Men	7
Women	7

SIMILAR PATTERN IN '64

It will be recalled that early in the 1964 campaign, Wallace vowed to run for President on a third party ticket. In primary contests that year, he rolled up impressive figures (as high as 43 per cent of the vote in Maryland) against "stand-in" candidates for President Johnson.

However, when Wallace was included in a three-way Gallup Poll "test" against Johnson and Goldwater that year, the Wallace vote cut into Johnson's total in the South, but at the same time, split the GOP vote, enabling Johnson to win the region.

Wallace later backed out of the campaign, supporting Goldwater. In the election, Goldwater carried the "deep South" and won 48 per cent of the major party vote in the entire 13-state region. At the same time Johnson was carrying the rest of the nation by a resounding 64 per cent.

Goldwater's candidacy in 1964 was obviously pleasing to Southerners — he was not deemed too "liberal" on civil rights or states rights. This is undoubtedly one reason why Wallace abandoned the campaign that year.

NATURE OF WALLAE

While many Northerners look upon Gov. Wallace as a rabid racist, who would turn the civil rights clock back 100 years, he has many enthusiastic followers in the South.

A Walnut Hill, Florida farmer had this to say about him: "Wallace would make a great President as for as we're concerned. He's smart, and this is not known by too many Northerners. He would fight for us."

He is also praised for his personal qualities: "Never touches a drink," "He's as honest as they come," "What a man," "He's so nice."

A Gulfport, Mississippi housewife couldn't stop praising him: "He said when he became Governor he wouldn't have liquor in the mansion. He's such a good man; 'he's strong, kind. I'd vote for him over and over again."

Southern whites who oppose Wallace often cite his "inflexibility" saying that "there are problems a President has to face other than civil rights." Also some feel that a Wallace vote would help, rather than hurt, Johnson's chances in the South.

A Montgomery, Alabama minister said:

"I wouldn't want to see Wallace win on the national level, although I think the Wallaces are fine people. He would be too stubborn on too many issues as President."

Shreveport Plant Hit By Strike

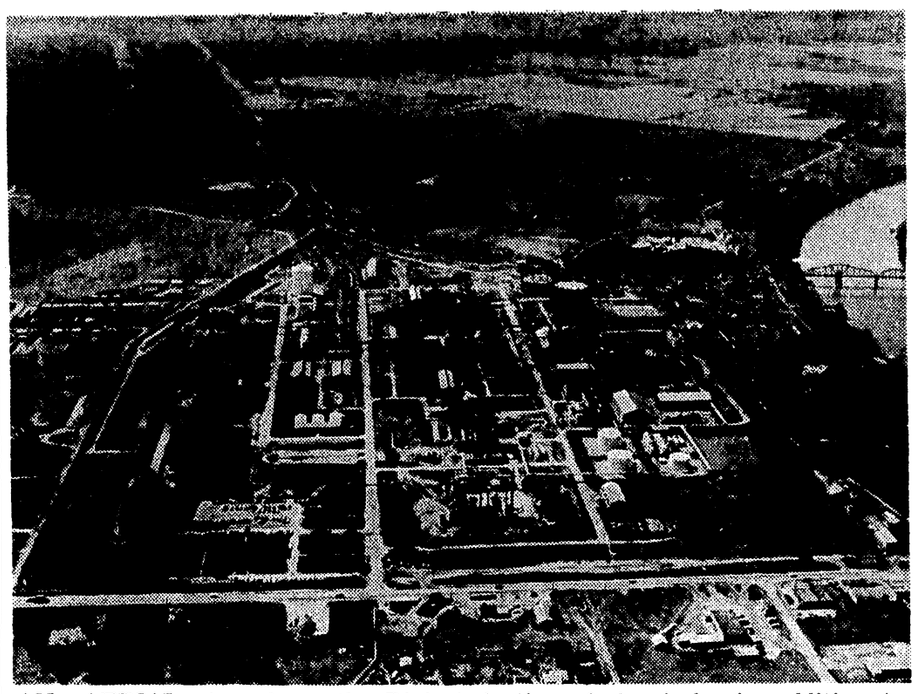
SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — The International Electrical Workers Union struck against the Baifield Industries plant here Saturday.

The plant, which manufactures certain parts of war bombs, employs about 475 persons, 300 of whom are represented by the union.

Anthony Zigler, a representative of the union, said the strike was called early Saturday morning after weeks of negotiations. "The plant's management has failed to meet the union demands in several areas, especially those concerning wages," he said.

S. Mark Lovell, plant division manager, said the plant would not suspend operations because of its part in the over-all national defense program.

He said, "The plant will be open to all employes that want to work. If necessary, new employes will be hired to keep the plant in operation."



AN AERIAL view shows the Dixie Plant of Commercial Solvents Corporation in Sterlington. CSC purchased the amonia plant in 1946 from the federal government and has expanded the production of chemicals, in addition to ammonia. An anniversary appreciation luncheon will be held Monday commemorating the 20 years it has been owned by CSC.

Solvents Celebration Is Monday

Civic, business and agricultural leaders from West Monroe, Bastrop, Farmerville and Sterlington have been invited. These men, representing the areas where most CSC employes live, will be given the opportunity to meet the company's new president, Robert C. "Rob" Wheeler, who is headquartered in New York.

Wheeler, in addressing the group, will carry out the theme "Partner in Progress." T. O. Bancroft Sr. will introduce Wheeler and George Rorex, president of the Ouachita Bank, will be master of ceremonies. Maynard C. Wheeler, chairman of the board and chief executive of CSC, will be an honored guest at the luncheon which will be at the Paragon Club at 11:45 a.m. Monday.

CSC has been closely identified with the Northeast Louisiana area since 1931 through its Thermatomic Carbon Company Division. In 1942 CSC started operation of the ammonia plant which it had constructed for the federal government to manufacture ammonia for war-time explosives. Four years later, after the war, the company purchased this operation, known now as Dixie Plant.

During the past 20 years, the CSC operation has begun the production of methanol, nitroparaffins, ammonium nitrate and derivatives of these chemicals, in addition to ammonia production.

Same Enthusiasm But Different Date

By Travis Mayo

Happiness is relative.

In 1910 a motion picture reviewer writing in the Monroe newspaper was overjoyed with a traveling "movie," projected by a hand-cranked camera. "Isn't it a progressive and glorious age that we live in!" he raved.

The movie he had just seen was "The Fly Pest," a silent treatment of the danger to health of food exposed to the housefly. The reviewer was certain that treatment of this interesting subject would bring "all the families of the world closer together."

Two world wars later, people in the motion picture industry are still raving about our progressive and glorious age and making predictions about universal brotherhood.

Latest occasion for accolades is the world premiere of a multi - million dollar roadshow attraction titled "Is Paris Burning?", a reenactment of the liberation of Paris during World War II.

A 1966 press announcement on the spectacular reads strangely like the 1910 optimistic proclamation: "The world has waited half a century for the growing accord between France and Germany, both as much the victims as the winners through two world wars. That is why Gert Frobe, a German, and Yves Montand, a Frenchman, both film stars of renown, are pleased by their reunion —a symbol of the new world — in the film recreation of the 1944 liberation of Paris."

Their reunion for filming of this motion picture, the writer concludes, "underscores once more that the world has changed and a common bond of understanding and respect is now a way of life for Frenchmen, Germans and hopefully for all mankind."

THEN AND NOW

Realism, too, is relative.

The 1910 reviewer had to have a vivid imagination. The art of linking pictures together in a narrative form was still in the experimental stage since narration had first been utilized in "The Great Train Robbery" of 1903, and Al Jolson's "The Jazz Singer"—the first talking movie — did not come along until 1927

The early-day reviewer, however, was tremendously impressed by motion picture realism. "These pictures," he wrote, "are more impressive than written stories. They fix incidents and happenings upon the memory so that they stick. They bring all happenings with absolute accuracy right to the eyes of all the people."

Today, annual cinema attendance is 2,178,800,000 persons and the domestic box office returns are more than $1.6 billion. Today's sophisticated theatergoer would die of boredom at the extensive twitching of a housefly. They much prefer the perambulating Elizabeth Taylor in a multi - million dollar Egypt.

To the give the viewer a sense of realism, the makers of "Is Paris Burning?" blackened the historic landmarks of Paris to make them look as they did in 1944 when the U.S. Army Fourth Division on Aug. 25, 1944, freed Parisians from Nazi occupation.

The re - enactment was photograhed on location in Paris and utilized the talents of the nations which contributed the participants in the original historical occurrence. Glenn Ford, who took part in the actual liberation 21 years ago and was awarded the Medal of Liberation, portrays Gen. Omar Bradley. Many members of the original French Underground were consultants or extras.

WORLD PREMIERE

No less spectacular than the movie itself was the world premiere of "Is Paris Buring?" held last Monday and Tuesday in Paris, France.

At the premiere, holders of the Medal of Honor of the Resistance and Order of Liberation, along with French President Charles rence. Glen Ford, who DeGaulle, were present to greet the stars at the Palais de Chaillot.

French and foreign dignitaries and an international press corps saw the premiere, which was preceded by a parade of military vehicles through the streets, retracing the path of the Second Armored Division.

Twenty-four famous monuments of Paris, including the Eiffel Tower, were lit up in fiery red to simulate burning. The film's title is taken from Adolf Hitler's query to Nazi general Von Choltiz, the man entrusted with the mission of destroying Paris by fire rather than let it fall back into Allied hands.

Barricades similar to those used in World War II were erected in the streets of modern - day Paris and anti - aircraft searchlights combed the sky as Larry Collins and Dominique Lapierre, authors of the best-selling book on which the film is based, led a delegation of French press officials through the streets.

Then the city was changed to a gay, festive air with flowers and banners and strolling musicians participating. Church bells throughout the city chimed to symbolize the liberation and special commemoration ceremonies were held at the Eiffel Tower. The festively costumed Republican Guards, astride white horses and holding flaming torches aloft, lined the walkways and three military bands provided music. The evening was climaxed by a fireworks display and dancing in the streets.

By Travis Mayo

Happiness is relative.

In 1910 a motion picture reviewer writing in the Monroe newspaper was overjoyed with a traveling "movie," projected by a hand-cranked camera. "Isn't it a progressive and glorious age that we live in!" he raved.

The movie he had just seen was "The Fly Pest," a silent treatment of the danger to health of food exposed to the housefly. The reviewer was certain that treatment of this interesting subject would bring "all the families of the world closer together."

Two world wars later, people in the motion picture industry are still raving about our progressive and glorious age and making predictions about universal brotherhood.

Latest occasion for accolades is the world premiere of a multi - million dollar roadshow attraction titled "Is Paris Burning?", a re-enactment of the liberation of Paris during World War II.

A 1966 press announcement on the spectacular reads strangely like the 1910 optimistic proclamation: "The world has waited half a century for the growing accord between France and Germany, both as much the victims as the winners through two world wars. That is why Gert Frobe, a German, and Yves Montand, a Frenchman, both film stars of renown, are pleased by their reunion —a symbol of the new world — in the film recreation of the 1944 liberation of Paris."

Their reunion for filming of this motion picture, the writer concludes, "underscores once more that the world has changed and a common bond of understanding and respect is now a way of life for Frenchmen, Germans and hopefully for all mankind."

THEN AND NOW

Realism, too, is relative. The 1910 reviewer had to have a vivid imagination. The art of linking pictures together in a narrative form was still in the experimental stage since narration had first been utilized in "The Great Train Robbery" of 1903, and Al Jolson's "The Jazz Singer"—the first talking movie — did not come along until 1927

The early-day reviewer, however, was tremendously impressed by motion picture realism. "These pictures," he wrote, "are more impressive than written stories. They fix incidents and happenings upon the memory so that they stick. They bring all happenings with absolute accuracy right to the eyes of all the people."

Today, annual cinema attendance is 2,178,800,000 persons and the domestic box office returns are more than $1.6 billion. Today's sophisticated theatergoer would die of boredom at the extensive twitching of a housefly. They much prefer the perambulating Elizabeth Taylor in a multi - million dollar Egypt.

To the give the viewer a sense of realism, the makers of "Is Paris Burning?" blackened the historic landmarks of Paris to make them look as they did in 1944 when the U.S. Army Fourth Division on Aug. 25, 1944, freed Parisians from Nazi occupation.

The re - enactment was photograhed on location in Paris and utilized the talents of the nations which contributed the participants in the original historical occurrence. Glenn Ford, who took part in the actual liberation 21 years ago and was awarded the Medal of Liberation, portrays Gen. Omar Bradley. Many members of the original French Underground were consultants or extras.

WORLD PREMIERE

No less spectacular than the movie itself was the world premiere of "Is Paris Buring?" held last Monday and Tuesday in Paris, France.

At the premiere, holders of the Medal of Honor of the Resistance and Order of Liberation, along with French President Charles rence. Glen Ford, who DeGaulle, were present to greet the stars at the Palais de Chaillot.

French and foreign dignitaries and an international press corps saw the premiere, which was preceded by a parade of military vehicles through the streets, retracing the path of the Second Armored Division.

Twenty-four famous monuments of Paris, including the Eiffel Tower, were lit up in fiery red to simulate burning. The film's title is taken from Adolf Hitler's query to Nazi general Von Choltiz, the man entrusted with the mission of destroying Paris by fire rather than let it fall back into Allied hands.

Barricades similar to those used in World War II were erected in the streets of modern - day Paris and anti - aircraft searchlights combed the sky as Larry Collins and Dominique Lapierre, authors of the best-selling book on which the film is based, led a delegation of French press officials through the streets.

Then the city was changed to a gay, festive air with flowers and banners and strolling musicians participating. Church bells throughout the city chimed to symbolize the liberation and special commemoration ceremonies were held at the Eiffel Tower. The festively costumed Republican Guards, astride white horses and holding flaming torches aloft, lined the walkways and three military bands provided music. The evening was climaxed by a fireworks display and dancing in the streets.

Solvents Celebration Is Monday

Civic, business and agricultural leaders from West Monroe, Bastrop, Farmerville and Sterlington have been invited. These men, representing the areas where most CSC employes live, will be given the opportunity to meet the company's new president, Robert C. "Rob" Wheeler, who is headquartered in New York.

Wheeler, in addressing the group, will carry out the theme "Partner in Progress." T. O. Bancroft Sr. will introduce Wheeler and George Rorex, president of the Ouachita Bank, will be master of ceremonies. Maynard C. Wheeler, chairman of the board and chief executive of CSC, will be an honored guest at the luncheon which will be at the Paragon Club at 11:45 a.m. Monday.

CSC has been closely identified with the Northeast Louisiana area since 1931 through its Thermatomic Carbon Company Division. In 1942 CSC started operation of the ammonia plant which it had constructed for the federal government to manufacture ammonia for war-time explosives. Four years later, after the war, the company purchased this operation, known now as Dixie Plant.

During the past 20 years, the CSC operation has begun the production of methanol, nitroparaffins, ammonium nitrate and derivatives of these chemicals, in addition to ammonia production.

Moon-Orbiting Soviet Luna Duplicates Earlier American Feats, Relays Pictures

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The pictures were the first successfully transmitted to earth from an orbiting Soviet moon probe, duplicating a similar American feat in August.

Two of the Soviet pictures appeared sharp and clear on Moscow television less than an hour after the announcement that the spacecraft, Luna 12, was photographing the moon.

Luna 12 is the third Soviet satellite to orbit the moon this year. Luna 10, the first man-made moon satellite, took no pictures. Luna 11 apparently tried to transmit picture signals without success. Britain's Jodrell Bank Observatory picked up scrambled picture signals from it in August.

Moscow television showed two pictures of the moon's surface taken by Luna 12. Moon craders and light and dark areas of the lunar terrain were clearly visible on both.

The official announcement said the closest Luna 12 comes to the moon is 58 miles. Its far point is 940 miles. America's Lunar Orbiter 1, the first satellite to photograph the moon from lunar orbit, flew closer, to within 36 miles, in August.

The United States announced that Lunar Orbiter 1 crashed on command into the back side of the moon Saturday to keep its radio signals from interfering with a new American moon probe set for next month. Luna 12 apparently was taking pictures at the time America ended the lunar orbiter flight but the Soviet announcement said nothing about photographing the crash.

The Russians announced no specific further missions for Luna 12 beside picture taking and reporting on the conditions of near lunar space. There had been speculation in the diplomatic community here that the Russians might attempt to bring Luna 12 back from moon orbit—something never done before.

The pictures taken by Luna 12 were seen here as an important step in the Soviet moon program. Luna 9 was the first man-made device to land undamaged on the moon and the first to send pictures back to earth from the moon's surface. But the value of such pictures, duplicated later by the United States, was restricted by the limited area the camera could record from the landing site.

Scientists Want To Test Viruses For Possible Cancer Cause, Source Of Vaccines

TOKYO (AP) — "It is too exciting not to try to do it, despite the immense work involved," the scientist said.

"It" is the discovery of a test to check whether viruses really cause human cancers. The guiling virus, or using other means 300 viruses known to infect humans—could be accurately fingerprinted and identified.

That ability, in turn, could open the door to making vaccines against any cancer-causing viirus, or using other means to halt their cancerous behavior.

This new finding is one encouraging highlight among hundreds of research reports presented this past week to the ninth International Cancer Congress.

"For the first time, it offers a test to see if viruses really cause human cancer," said Dr. Maurice Green of the Institute for Molecular Virology, St. Louis University School of Medicine. He gives major credit for development of the technique to Dr. Kei Fujinaga, a Japanese scientist working at the St. Louis institute.

Many scientists have suspected that viruses are at least one cause of human cancers. But there's been no proof. Viruses, some suspect, may take over part of the genetic "code" in a healthy cell. This code is a great string of instructions, known as DNA, that directs all of a cell's activities.

But a virus, or part of it, substituting itself for part of the DNA code, cannot be detected in the DNA.

DNA gives its orders through another chemical, known as messenger RNA, which is a reproduction or template of the DNA code. The messenger RNA travels out from the cell nucleus to give "orders" for making the special proteins each cell has.

The big new step is that messenger RNA can be isolated from cells—including cancerous ones.

By special new techniques, the strand of messenger RNA can be compared with a strand of DNA from any virus, Green said.

That ability, in turn, could open the door to making vaccines against any cancer-causing viirus, or using other means to halt their cancerous behavior.

This new finding is one encouraging highlight among hundreds of research reports presented this past week to the ninth International Cancer Congress.

"For the first time, it offers a test to see if viruses really cause human cancer," said Dr. Maurice Green of the Institute for Molecular Virology, St. Louis University School of Medicine. He gives major credit for development of the technique to Dr. Kei Fujinaga, a Japanese scientist working at the St. Louis institute.

Many scientists have suspected that viruses are at least one cause of human cancers. But there's been no proof. Viruses, some suspect, may take over part of the genetic "code" in a healthy cell. This code is a great string of instructions, known as DNA, that directs all of a cell's activities.

But a virus, or part of it, substituting itself for part of the DNA code, cannot be detected in the DNA.

DNA gives its orders through another chemical, known as messenger RNA, which is a reproduction or template of the DNA code. The messenger RNA travels out from the cell nucleus to give "orders" for making the special proteins each cell has.

The big new step is that messenger RNA can be isolated from cells—including cancerous ones.

By special new techniques, the strand of messenger RNA can be compared with a strand of DNA from any virus, Green said.

The annual Fifth District birthday luncheon of Kappa Kappa Iota teachers' sorority was held Saturday at Highland Park Country Club here with the Ruston Epsilon Chapter serving as hostess.

Delta Chapter of Monroe was in charge of local arrangements with Mrs. Warren McGee as committee chairman. Mrs. Nell Carnahan, president of the Ruston chapter, presided during the program.

Special guests were Mrs. Anne Baker of Shreveport, State president of the sorority, and Mrs. Mildred McCormick of Shreveport, former state president and candidate for president of the Louisiana Teachers' Association.

More than 30 representatives from Baton Rouge, Sicily Island, Gilbert, Columbia, Ruston, Shreveport and Monroe attended.

Rites Held For Victim Of Shooting

Funeral services were held Saturday for Billy S. "Tebo" Taylor, 53, of 111 Pear St. West Monroe, whose death Friday afternoon by a gunshot wound in the head, was ruled self-inflicted Saturday by Ouachita Parish Coroner Dr. J. W. Cummings.

Burial was at the Ashley Cemetery following the services.

Mr. Taylor's body was found Friday afternoon in the 500 block of Jonesboro Rd. alongside of his automobile.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Laura Taylor, three sons Billy Joe, Bobby, and Rickey Taylor, all of West Monroe, one daughter, Mrs. Jerry Rouse of Long Beach, Miss., his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Wright of Chatham and one sister, Mrs. M. R. Tolar of Chatham and four grandchildren.

He was a 25 year resident of West Monroe, but was born in Eros.

Pallbearers for the funeral included H. A. Sanderson, Johnny Marshall, Bill Matty, Bill Lindsay, J. H. Frasier and Doyle Hobbs.

Lady Bird's Schedule Could Prove Hardest

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — President Johnson said Saturday night he is getting catnaps to break up his heavy schedule and his wife, Lady Bird, may be having a harder time keeping up with her schedule than he was.

That could be true, because Mrs. Johnson had a busy day before attending a reception given the Johnson's by Prime Minister Thanom Kttikachorn at Govenment House. It was there Johnson made his remark.

Floating along in the gleaming mahogany 40-foot launch of Queen Sirikit, Mrs. Johnson toured Bangkok's many canals and visited a floating market. As her launch drew up, men, women and children offered Mrs. Johnson gift baskets of fruits, orchids and other exotic wares they were selling from their tiny wooden boats.

"Absolutely facinating," the First Lady exclaimed as she accepted many of the tiftys.

"I feel I really have seen the face of the country here," she continued, "teeming with life, mothers having breakfasts in their boats, children lined up at school, a man cleaning fish."

The queen did not accompany Mrs. Johnson on the canal tour because of a severe cold, but later she joined the First Lady in a visit to Thai Red Cross headquarters and toured a hospital ward.

The Johnsons staged a return state dinner Saturday night in a borrowed royal banquet hall for Thailand's King Bhumibol Adulyadej, the queen and 132 other guests, including members of the diplomatic community.

The theme was white and yellow — featuring colors of the Thai royal household. The menu included American roast filet of beef and a dessert made from strawberries flown from Japan. It was named strawberry suthep, using the Thai word for angels.

Monroe Man Official Of Heart Fund

NEW ORLEANS (Special) — Frank K. McDermott of Monroe has been named state vice-chairman of the 1967 Heart Fund, Dr. Sam A. Threefoot, president of the Louisiana Heart Association and director of the Touro Research Institute in New Orleans, has announced.

He is stationed in Monroe with the Louisiana State Market Commission and the Louisiana Department of Agriculture as Agricultural Promotion and Marketing Specialist, also heading up poultry products inspection for the northern district.

In accepting his role as 1967 vice - chairman for the state Heart Fund, McDermott said that he will ask others to abide by his rule of action in combating cardiovascular disease, Louisiana's Number One Killer: "TNT", which he explains "Today, not tomorrow".

McDermott, vice - president of the Ouachita Parish heart council, also holds membership in the Monroe Salvation Army Board, Monroe Chamber of Commerce, North Monroe Lions Club, Ouachita Valley Council of Boy Scouts, International Lion Counselors, Civil Defense for Ouachita Parish, Monroe Knights of Columbus No. 1337, Ouachita 4-H Training Team in Poultry, and other civic and altruistic organizations.

He is a member of the Good Shepherd Catholic Church and received recognition as "Monroe Outstanding Citizen for 1965". He has also received Lions Club citations for civic and community activities.

Mr. and Mrs. McDermott have one married daughter and two grandchildren.

Special Meeting Of Jury Called

A special meeting of the Ouachita Parish Police Jury has been called for 6 p.m. Tuesday to discuss details of construction and moving of the parish highway department, according to A. E. Montgomery Jr., Ward 10 juror and chairman of the jury's property committee.

Financing of the move is an expected topic. The jury at its last meeting voted to borrow sufficient funds to start construction of a new department headquarters on Well Road in West Monroe, or go ahead with the sale of the present site on Sterlington Road and then rent it from the buyer, whichever proved the cheaper. The jury has until April to complete the sale.

Black Power Advocate

Berkeley Students Cheer Carmichael

BERKELEY, Calif (AP) — Stokely Carmichael, leader of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee, was cheered wildly by 14,000 mostly white students Saturday when he decried U.S. involvement in Viet Nam and the universal draft

The "black power" advocate, addressing a capacity crowd in the outdoor Greek Theater on the University of California Berkeley campus, said the only way to stop the war in Viet Nam is for young Americans to say "to h— with the draft."

"And I am saying, "To h— with the draft," he shouted.

Roaring approval, the students rose from their seats in a standing ovation. He remained poised on the stage of the theater repeating the last words of his defiance until the applause weakened.

Forty policemen were on hand for Carmichael's appearance but there were no incidents.

Carmichael's trip to California was delayed by a Selective Service physical examination in New York. Following the exam, he said publicly that he would refuse to serve in the armed forces if drafted.

In California, the announcement that Carmichael would speak to a rally on "black power" at the state university brought quick political reaction. Republican gubernatorial candidate Ronald Reagan sent a wire to Carmichael asking him to cancel his trip.

Reagan challenged Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown, seeking a third term as governor, to join in the request. Brown said he deplored Carmichael's appearance, but left the administration of the university's Free Forum to school officers.

The all-day rally on the campus was sponsored by the Students For a Democratic Society. They spent $1,400 on plane fares for featured speakers and $600 to rent the university facility.

A collection was taken from the spectators at the theater for those expenses. At one point the master of ceremonies announced a $1,000 check had been donated. All funds over the cost of the rally were to be donated to SNCC.

Soviet Trade

MOSCOW (AP) — A Syrian delegation headed by Yahia Urudakid, a director in the Economic Ministry at Damascus, has arrived to begin talks Monday on increasing Soviet-Syrian trade under a general agreement signed earlier this year.

Births Declining

LONDON (AP) — The birth rate of England and Wales is shown in statistics from the register general to have declined for two full years. In the 1966 third quarter, 216,000 births were registered for a rate of 17.8 per thousand population. This was a drop from 18.1 in the 1965 third quarter and 18.4 in the same period of 1964.

Three Buildings Slated For Dedication At Tech

RUSTON (Special) — Speakers to participate in the dedication of three buildings during homecoming at Louisisna Tech Saturday, have been announced by a committee of the alumni association.

The buildings, being used for the first time this semester, are as follows:

Kidd Hall, dormitory for women, with the speaker to be L. V. E. Irvine, former head of the Tech music department and now affiliated with the Tech Concert Association, dedication at 10 a.m.

Caruthers Hall, dormitory for men, talk by L. J. Fox, former sociology professor now retired from Tech, program at 10:45 a.m.

Wilson Cafeteria, remarks by Dr. Rodney Cline, former education professor and dean of instruction at Tech, who now is a professor of education at Louisiana State University program to start at 11:30 a.m.

The new cafeteria is named for Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Wilson, deceased Tech staff members. They came to Tech, then the Louisiana Industrial Institute, in 1908, when Mr. Wilson was appointed head of the music department, a post he held for 18 years. He taught vocal music and directed choral groups, the band and the orchestra. He died in 1953.

During World War I, at a time when the Tech dining hall abruptly was left without supervision, Mrs. Wilson assumed that responsibility. She managed the dining hall for eight years. Her death occurred in 1932.

The women's residence hall, an eight-story building to be dedicated Saturday, is named in tribute to the memory of Mrs. Stella B. Kidd, who taught music at Tech for 29 years and was organist at the First Baptist Church in Ruston for 45 years.

She was the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Booles of Ruston. Her father was a member of the original board of trustees of Louisiana Industrial Insitute here.

Mrs. Kidd retired from the Tech faculty in 1948. She died in 1955.

The eight-story dormitory for men students to be dedicated at homecoming is named for J. D. Caruthers, Shreveport business man and Tech alumnus, who died Aug. 26, 1961, aboard the SS Hanseatic during a crossing of the Atlantic Ocean.

Mr. Caruthers, a native of Lisbon, entered Louisisna Industrial Institute, now Tech, in 1921. That year, the legislature officially changed the name to Louisiana Polytechnic Institute. As a member of the woodworking class of 1922, Mr. Caruthers assisted in carving the letters spelling "Louisiana Polytechnic Institute," which were placed on top of the old Administration Building. It fell his lot to make the "T" in "Polytechnic" and he delighted in saying in later years that he put the "T" in Tech.

In 1925, with the assistance of L. J. Fox, then of LSU, Mr. Caruthers helped organize the Theta Kappa Nu fraternity which in 1939 becam Lambda Chi Alpha. Following his graduation from Tech, Mr. Caruthers made his home in Shreveport. He was elected president of the Tech alumni association in 1947 and held the office for three years.

Besides the special dedicatory events, the homecoming agenda includes registration of alumni and the coffee for former students at 9 a.m. Saturday in Adams Hall parlor.

Classes of years ending in sixes will be recognized during homecoming. These include classes of 1906, 1916, 1926, 1936, 1946, 1956 and 1966.

Five classifications of homecoming displays are being planned. They are religious, sorority, dormitory and independent divisions. Trophies, recognition plaques, and points for school spirit trophies will be awarded winners in each division.

Tech's homecoming opponent will be Southeastern Louisiana College, with the grid game being set for 2 p.m. The annual alumni business meeting will be held at 4:30 p.m. in Memorial Gymnasium, with the alumni barbecue to follow at 5:30 p.m. in the Men's Old Gymnasium.

Activities will close with the T Club dance in Memorial Gymnasium at 8 p.m. Saturday. Besides being presented in pregame ceremonies, the homecoming queen and court will be introduced at the dance.

Tech's band will perform at pre-game and halftime ceremonies.

Fraternities, sororities and religious centers on the campus will have open house homecoming day.

Tulane Sets Homecoming This Week

NEW ORLEANS (Special) — This is Homecoming Week at Tulane University — a week dedicated to the 40,000 Tulane alumni throughout the world.

Highlight of the week will be the crowning of the 1966 homecoming queen, Miss Jane Rush of San Antonio, Tex., during halftime of the Tulane-University of Miami football game to be held at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at Tulane Stadium.

Miss Rush, a junior student at Newcomb College, women's liberal arts division of Tulane, will be crowned by the newly-elected president of the Tulane Alumni Association who will be installed earlier that day at the association's annual meeting.

At 9 p.m., Friday, Queen Jane and her court of six maids will be introduced to Tulane alumni at the annual homecoming dance at the Jung Hotel, and again at the annual meeting of the Tulane Alumni Association at 4 p.m., Saturday at the University Center.

Maids in the 1966 Tulane homecoming court are Jo Ann Christensen of Houston, maid of honor; Mary Nelson Crilly, Belleville, Ill.; Susan Gold, Alexandria, La.; Patrice Harrison, Coral Gables, Fla.; and Marjorie Nolan and Barbara Lynn Edin, both of New Orleans.

Three Buildings Slated For Dedication At Tech

RUSTON (Special) — Speakers to participate in the dedication of three buildings during homecoming at Louisisna Tech Saturday, have been announced by a committee of the alumni association.

The buildings, being used for the first time this semester, are as follows:

Kidd Hall, dormitory for women, with the speaker to be L. V. E. Irvine, former head of the Tech music department and now affiliated with the Tech Concert Association, dedication at 10 a.m.

Caruthers Hall, dormitory for men, talk by L. J. Fox, former sociology professor now retired from Tech, program at 10:45 a.m.

Wilson Cafeteria, remarks by Dr. Rodney Cline, former education professor and dean of instruction at Tech, who now is a professor of education at Louisiana State University program to start at 11:30 a.m.

The new cafeteria is named for Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Wilson, deceased Tech staff members. They came to Tech, then the Louisiana Industrial Institute, in 1908, when Mr. Wilson was appointed head of the music department, a post he held for 18 years. He taught vocal music and directed choral groups, the band and the orchestra. He died in 1953.

During World War I, at a time when the Tech dining hall abruptly was left without supervision, Mrs. Wilson assumed that responsibility. She managed the dining hall for eight years. Her death occurred in 1932.

The women's residence hall, an eight-story building to be dedicated Saturday, is named in tribute to the memory of Mrs. Stella B. Kidd, who taught music at Tech for 29 years and was organist at the First Baptist Church in Ruston for 45 years.

She was the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Booles of Ruston. Her father was a member of the original board of trustees of Louisiana Industrial Insitute here.

Mrs. Kidd retired from the Tech faculty in 1948. She died in 1955.

The eight-story dormitory for men students to be dedicated at homecoming is named for J. D. Caruthers, Shreveport business man and Tech alumnus, who died Aug. 26, 1961, aboard the SS Hanseatic during a crossing of the Atlantic Ocean.

Mr. Caruthers, a native of Lisbon, entered Louisisna Industrial Institute, now Tech, in 1921. That year, the legislature officially changed the name to Louisiana Polytechnic Institute. As a member of the woodworking class of 1922, Mr. Caruthers assisted in carving the letters spelling "Louisiana Polytechnic Institute," which were placed on top of the old Administration Building. It fell his lot to make the "T" in "Polytechnic" and he delighted in saying in later years that he put the "T" in Tech.

In 1925, with the assistance of L. J. Fox, then of LSU, Mr. Caruthers helped organize the Theta Kappa Nu fraternity which in 1939 becam Lambda Chi Alpha. Following his graduation from Tech, Mr. Caruthers made his home in Shreveport. He was elected president of the Tech alumni association in 1947 and held the office for three years.

Besides the special dedicatory events, the homecoming agenda includes registration of alumni and the coffee for former students at 9 a.m. Saturday in Adams Hall parlor.

Classes of years ending in sixes will be recognized during homecoming. These include classes of 1906, 1916, 1926, 1936, 1946, 1956 and 1966.

Five classifications of homecoming displays are being planned. They are religious, sorority, dormitory and independent divisions. Trophies, recognition plaques, and points for school spirit trophies will be awarded winners in each division.

Tech's homecoming opponent will be Southeastern Louisiana College, with the grid game being set for 2 p.m. The annual alumni business meeting will be held at 4:30 p.m. in Memorial Gymnasium, with the alumni barbecue to follow at 5:30 p.m. in the Men's Old Gymnasium.

Activities will close with the T Club dance in Memorial Gymnasium at 8 p.m. Saturday. Besides being presented in pregame ceremonies, the homecoming queen and court will be introduced at the dance.

Fraternities, sororities and religious centers on the campus will have open house homecoming day.

THE STATE OF NEW Hampshire has a legal, sweepstakes lottery, the only one in the United States. At Rockingham Park Race Track in Salem, N.H., early last month, the winning "sweeps" ticket was drawn with official fanfare. The ticket is drawn from one of four large drums in rear, and then paired with a horse from the small drum on table (foreground). The sweepstakes money goes directly to the school districts on a per-pupil basis. (AP Newsfeatures Photos)

IN A LAS VEGAS, Nevada, fun-place, a patron pulls the handle of a slot-machine. She hopes, of course, to hit the jackpot. In 1965, the Federal Government collected excise taxes of more than $15 million from coin-operated gaming devices. In the same period, the State of Nevada got one-fourth of its total revenue from all gambling in the state.

Gambling, legal and otherwise, produces hundreds of millions of dollars every year for states and cities, and millions more for 'good works.' Raffles, illegal but condoned, pay for churches, scholarships, hospitals, and care of the needy.

By BERNARD GAVZER
Associated Press Writer

In the day's of Rome's grandeur, Nero financed a building project or a few dozen statues of himself by relying on a Roman invention: the lottery.

In the 19 centuries which have since elapsed, kings and knaves have tried to improve upon the Roman invention or find other magic means of raising money.

More often than not they turned to some form of gambling as the most painless way of extracting money from the tax-sick citizenry.

And so it is by long tradition that even a theoretically anti-gambling nation such as the United States should in fact be abuzz with legal gambling action. It is.

CASUAL VARIETY

And there also is the casual, unlicensed gambling conducted by thousands of churches, fraternal orders, veterans groups, civic organizations, political clubs and memorial societies. This raises millions of dollars for "good works."

What is the extent of this gambling and what is done with the money?

The most visible form of legal gambling — the one that has more bettors than any other — is horse racing, with pari-mutuels operating in 28 states. Nevada has all forms of gambling, except for a lottery. New Hampshire has a sweepstakes lottery, the only one in the United States. Maryland allows slot machines in four counties. California licenses card rooms by local option. Florida has dog tracks and jai alai frontons. Bingo is played in all 50 states, even though it is illegal in some.

The states with pari-mutuels skimmed $369 million off the tracks last year. The federal government collected excise taxes of $15 million from coin-operated gaming devices and $6 million from wagers. New Hampshire got $3.89 million from the 1966 sweepstakes lottery. Nevada raked in $15 million—one-fourth of its total revenue. New York's bingo activity brought in $200,000.

Rep. Paul Fino, New York Republican, contends this is penny ante stuff considering the enormous volume of gambling, which he claims is a $100 billion-a-year activity. Fino is a veteran proponent of a national lottery.

"We stand virtually alone among the nations of the world in our hypocrisy in refusing to recognize and accept the wisdom and advantages of a national lottery," he says.

Fino replies: "I would use the proceeds of a national lottery — about $10 billion — half for reduction of the gigantically mounting national debt and half to reduce personal income taxes."

While Fino plumps for his lottery, there already is, in effect, a local national lottery operated by thousands of sponsors. This is the commonplace raffle in which anything from a house to a hubcap may be the prize.

The raffle is almost entirely illegal, almost entirely unregulated, and almost universally condoned by police — so long as an acceptable group is doing the promoting.

Knowledgeable persons in the printing industry and in the supply of prizes give some clues to how extensive this might be.

Most raffle books are produced by job printers, though some are mimeographed and hand-numbered.

"You could figure that each printer might print raffle books for 10 different customers in one year," says a printing industry expert. "That's a very conservative guess. But on that basis, you could safely figure there were 188,550 different raffles in one year."

"If a group plans to give away a $5,000 Cadillac or a $500 color television set," says an authority on gambling prizes, "it wants to gross at least double the value of the prizes."

A canvass of groups conducting raffles — and they cover the spectrum of religious, social, civic, cultural and economic groups in America — indicates that even the smallest organization may distribute as many as 1,000 books and gross around $1,000. On that basis, raffles would generate a flow of perhaps $188,550,000 a year.

If raffles are illegal, how come they operate so widely?

"Well," answers the chairman of the men's group in a high Episcopalian church in New Jersey, "there's certainly no one in my town who is going to complain. Even the police buy chances. They know what we do with the money. So far, we've paid for a new roof for the church, a new organ, new vestments, new hymnals, new prayer books and also summer camp for some kids who couldn't afford it."

The good purpose is what justifies almost all of this gambling.

NOMINAL LIMIT

"We do not frown upon raffles or such gambling as bingo," says a Roman Catholic monsignor in New York, "unless it is a case where an individual clearly gambles beyond a modest capacity, that is, he gambles so much that the welfare of his family is threatened."

Raffles are so popular they have produced this current joke:

"Did you hear about the group of Cadillac dealers who got together to raffle off a church?"

—In Yonkers, N.Y., the John F. Kennedy Boys Club was created through raffle money, and raffles pay for uniforms and buy sites for baseball and other sports activity.

—In Las Vegas, a building fund for a new temple started through a gin rummy contest.

— In St. Louis, the bartender at a private club supervises a World Series pool, the proceeds of which are used for an annual Christmas party for needy kids.

— In Concord, N.H., an Elks Lodge gives Thanksgiving baskets to needy families, pays for Christmas parties and conducts an Easter egg hunt for hundreds of kids.

What if these gambling activities had to stop?

SCHOLARSHIPS

"I don't think we'd be able to pay for many of the things we do unless we had bingo," says Don Dussault, exalted ruler of Elks Lodge No. 1210 in Concord, N.H. "We gave $1,000 scholarships to three high school students, sponsored a Little League team, and a dozen other things. We'd have to raise our dues if we didn't have the bingo money, and I doubt that we'd be able to do that."

The regulated forms of gambling, such as the parti - mutuels, usually produce money that gets mixed into general revenues of a state, county or city. But there are places and times at which the use of such money is very specific.

New Hampshire's sweepstakes money goes directly to the school districts on a per pupil basis. The 1966 distribution is figured at $14.60 per pupil, much less than has been hoped for originally. However, this might change if voters next month approve increasing the number of places where tickets may be sold.

M. Wayne Bowie, superintendent of schools at Plymouth, N.H., says: "There is no question that sweepstakes revenue has allowed me to increase school budgets for salaries and equipment as well as materials that we might otherwise not have obtained. However, some districts are still of the impression that sweepstakes revenue should be used only to reduce taxes."

After World War II, Illinois increased its take of pari-mutuel betting to pay for a bonus which averaged $352 to each of 890,000 returning vets or next-of-kin.

Ak-Sar-Ben—Nebraska spelled backwards — in Omaha is a non-profit racetrack operation which uses its money for scholarships, ambulances, school-crossing traffic lights, charities and aiding county fairs. In 1965, some of the $1,219,609 taken at Ak-Sar-Ben paid for more than 500 scholarships and fellowships for agricultural students going to schools in Nebraska and Iowa.

In Florida, $39 million was collected from horse racing, greyhound racing and jai-alai frontons. Each of 67 counties got a $290,000 cut, which they used as they wished. Volusia County gave school teachers a bonus, Panama County built an athletic stadium. Others built court houses, hospitals, jails. There are special race days on which proceeds go to specific schools for atheltic scholarships, medical students or architects.

Calvert County, Maryland, uses its slot machine money for the county hospital in Prince Frederick, finances a fund for indigent patients, and uses the rest of the $190,000 it collects for school construction and improvements.

All states which have pari-mutuels use some of the money for expositions and state and county fairs. Illinois, for example, paid for its exhibit at the New York World's Fair with funds from the pari-mutuel take.

The pressure to cash in on public enthusiasm for gambling has a number of states investigating the possibility of lotteries. New Yorkers will vote next month on a state lottery. Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller is lukewarm, saying there are better and more desirable ways of raising revenue.

Other states talking about lotteries are Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New Jersey, Florida, Colorado, Idaho and Alaska.

Opponents of lotteries and legalized bingo deride them as "sin taxes." An Italian count once dismissed lotteries as "a tax upon imbeciles."

But the cry of the bingo man, the casual and sometimes shy pitch of the amateur raffle ticket huckster seem likely to endure in the land, especially as long as the ticket buyer can shrug his shoulders and say, "Oh, well, it all goes for a good purpose."

"DAILY DOUBLE PAYS 37.20" reads the tote board recently at Acqueduct Race Track in New York City. Bettors on the "flats" are busy at pari-mutuel windows. Horse-racing, the most visible form of widespread legal gambling in the U.S.A., has pari-mutuels operating in 28 states. Last year, these states netted $370 million of the over $4-½ billion which was bet at their tracks.

U.S. Troops' Leadership Role In South Viet Nam Military Drive Is Increasing

What has happened to South Viet Nam's part in its war while the American commitment of ground troops has risen beyond 300,000 men? Here is a report by a Pulitzer Prize winning correspondent who has been covering the Viet Nam conflict since 1962.

By PETER ARNETT

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — More and more, the United States takes the leading role in the war. When U.S. combat troops move into the Mekong Delta, as now expected, the war will be American - led throughout South Viet Nam. U.S. troops already have taken the offensive everywhere else in the country.

The realities of heavy casualties, high desertions and wavering morale have crept up on the Vietnamese army forged to fight the Communists.

SECONDARY ROLE

The mission of the Vietnamese has become the essentially secondary role of pacification. Even in this field, the pacification record of the Vietnamese over the years is leading Americans to move in. There are reports that 25 per cent of the U.S. aid money earmarked for pacification will be spent by U.S. units next year. This year they spent only 2 per cent.

The Americans are trying to achieve in pacification a break-through similar in scale to their military successes against the best North Vietnamese troops this year.

The Vietnamese are not contesting this American takeover of the war. Indeed they are encouraging the move into the delta, the only area still free from foreign troops.

Vietnamese officials are also reportedly encouraging direct American participation in pacification.

COMPELLING REASON

The Vietnamese have compelling reasons not to assert the dominant role in the war they held until earlier this year. Their armed forces have tripled in size since 1960, but the Viet Cong have increased twenty-fold not counting the invading North Vietnamese.

Weary from years of bloodshed that has taken the lives of 50,000 soldiers, including many of the bravest men and the best officers, the Vietnamese army has not responded as much as hoped for from the morale-building presence of foreign troops. These foreign forces virtually have precluded military defeat, a possibility that was real late in 1964 and early in 1965 when the Viet Cong launched a series of blows against the Vietnamese.

What enemy bullets have failed to do, internecine political strife within the military has succeeded in doing, removing many military leaders. Not a general left in authority is a noted strategist. The best generals in Viet Nam discovered they fought wars with far greater expertise than they dabbled in politics, and have ended up either in foreign exile or drummed out of the services.

REGIONAL RIVALRIES

Wounds are still open from regional rivalries that have sent whole divisions into revolt. U.S. advisers with key Vietnamese divisions around Saigon have a "coup watch," with U.S. officers instructed to flash a warning to the American high command if any battalion turns up the road toward Saigon. Vietnamese officers and battalions are shifted hundreds of miles away when they are suspected of scheming.

The Vietnamese military is hampered by a chain of command fettered with a confusing array of responsibilities. A typical operation in Kien Tuong Province included rangers, regional and popular forces, special forces, national police and counter-terrorism teams. The province chief had command control, the special forces operational control. From there the chain of command sprouted off to the division commander, a special forces team at Can Tho, the corps commander and so on. Conflicting orders often passed back down to the field.

Enterprise is swamped by such conflicts. Operations are slowed because a field commander would rather do nothing than risk the ire of those up the chain. The enemy can disappear by the time everyone in the command chain is satisfied with an order.

This confusion has a direct effect on provincial governments, because Viet Nam is administered by the military. The elected provincial councils have little say on how things should be run, and no authority.

MANY HATS

The key figure is the province chief, who wears many hats. He must get along with the division commander who provides the strike units to knock out the Viet Cong in his area, with the corps commander who can fire him, the various ministries in Saigon who provide money and supplies, and his American advisers who provide direct military support and aid materials.

By satisfying one party and not the other, the province chief can find himself lacking troops, money, helicopters—or without a job, depending on who has been affronted.

The American advisory effort has paralleled the confusing Vietnamese system.

In addition, the Vietnamese military structure has been weakened by almost 300,000 desertions since January 1963.

Americans are loath to criticize the Vietnamese fighting men. Day in and day out more Vietnamese blood is being spilled than American, and there have been cases of fantastic Vietnamese bravery. But basic strategy differences are apparent. The Vietnamese have proven incapable of launching the campaign-type operation that keeps men in the field for months in relentless pursuit of the enemy.

The Vietnamese army rarely stays more than one night in the field. Much of the army is tied up in static defense postures, protecting bridges and garrisoning towns. Divisions free only six battalions at most for offensive actions and are reluctant to commit this many except in emergency. Some divisions, notably the 10th at Xuan Loc east of Bien Hoa, and the 25th west of Saigon, seem to have forgotten whan an offensive operation is.

TRAPPED IN ROLE

The Vietnamese have trapped themselves into a defensive role that neither time nor the ardent advice of relays of American advisers had sprung.

Consequently, the regular army suffers only 17 per cent of the casualties. The rest are borne by the "Ruff Puffs," the regional and popular forces close to the enemy, who have no choice but to fight.

American ground troops are taking far more casualties than Vietnamese regulars in a direct comparison. There were 3,523 Americans killed in the first nine months of this year. Vietnamese dead totaled 6,859. The regular Vietnamese army suffered 1,138 dead.

Most of this year there were fewer American troops in the country than in the Vietnamese army.

The American casualties reflect the war's upsurge and indicate that the Communists have concentrated on fighting U.S. troops.

Vietnamese casualties were actually lower for the first six months of 1966 than in the first half of 1965, yet the Vietnamese were reporting the same number of battalion-sized operations each week.

The lethargy in the Mekong Delta war reflects the Communist interest in American ground forces. Enemy battalions recruited in the delta are being sent north to engage American troops, and most Viet Cong harassment of delta outposts has ceased.

SEESAW ACTION

Vietnamese troops have scored some notable kills in the delta, but so have the Communists. The seesaw action will continue there, U.S. advisers believe, until American troops start conducting long-term campaigns like those that are driving the Communists from the Highlands.

American troops in the delta would have all the advantages of modern technology, much of it denied the Vietnamese. Massive artillery barrages will soften up the U.S. infantryman's path. Air power will be available.

There are those who feel that the Vietnamese, if given the kind of air and artillery support that U.S. infantrymen expect as a right, might have presented a different picture.

American tactics have succeeded against the most hardened of enemy battalions. Obliterating firepower has ground down North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops.

These tactics may succeed in the delta where the static defense posture of the Vietnamese has failed.

The Vietnamese armed forces have a paper strength of 705,000 men, a more than threefold increase over the 212,000 men rostered in late 1960. The accuracy of the current figure is in doubt because many units are known to be under strength. Recent investigations disclosed that some districts chiefs were padding rosters of popular forces under their control by as much as 30 per cent and pocketing the extra pay checks.

The official roster figures this way:

Regular army: 290,000 troops, divided into 10 divisions with support units spread throughout four corps, a strategic reserve of six marine battalions, and 35 and seven airborne battalions, and 25 ranger battalions. The army has been increased by three full divisions since 1961. One division has been added since the American troop buildup began.

Air force: 18,000 men, flying and servicing 18 squadrons of fighter bombers, transport planes and reconnaissance aircraft, a total of 450 planes. The air force has tripled in size since 1960. Vietnamese pilots training in Texas will bring back a squadron of F5 Freedom Fighters, making seven fighter squadrons in the air force.

Navy: 10,000 men, deployed in delta river assault groups and on coastal surveillance craft. Navy has doubled in size in three years.

Regional forces: 141,000 men, deployed in company-size units in Viet Nam's 43 provinces, formerly known as the Civil Guard. These paramilitary forces get regular army pay but are more lightly armed and given less training. They have tripled in strength since 1960.

Popular forces: 139,000 men, deployed in platoon-sized units under control of district chiefs. A home guard formerly known as village militia, they are poorly trained and paid less than one third what the regular and regional forces receive.

National police: 55,000.

Armed combat youth: 22,000, involved in pacification.

DEPLOYMENT

How effectively are these units deployed?

The allies have a theoretical troop superiority of 4-1 in Viet Nam, but in actual "teeth" strength it is more like 1-1.

The best estimates show that the "teeth" units of the Vietnamese army number 90,100, and of these, the mobile striking force is 25,000.

The Vietnamese army is more active in the delta than anywhere else, with battalions conducting brief but frequent helicopter assaults with mixed results.

Elsewhere in Viet Nam, the Vietnamese are vastly overshadowed by aggressive American divisions moving after every scrap of intelligence on the enemy's movements.

The U.S. Marine high command in Da Nang was angered when two Vietnamese divisions in its area revolted against the Saigon government earlier this year.

In southern areas around Saigon, one U.S. officer said of the Vietnamese 5th Division: "The war would be over in six months if they cut down all the hammocks," a jibe at the Vietnamese devotion to the siesta.

One U.S. division commander told this reporter: "We just can't get the Vietnamese to get into a fight alongside us. It is their war, they have too."

And yet the Vietnamese can surprise Americans with their aggressiveness, particularly the marines and airborne units in Saigon's strategic reserve who are being used continuously in the field these days.

But the follow-through, the persistence in drive shown by the Viet Cong and the Americans, is still to be matched by the Vietnamese.

American authorities are encouraged by some government moves to improve the military, moves suggested as long ago as 1962.

One of these is to impose strict penalties against desertion. In 1963, a total of 37,000 men deserted. It doubled the next year to 74,000, and went to 113,000 last year. In the first six months of 1966 there were 67,000.

Under an amnesty thousands of deserters returned to their units. Severe penalties may be a detriment to soldiers who casually take a day, a week or a month off from the war to go about their own business.

There is no real way to compare government defections to those of the Viet Cong. In the first six months of 1966, a total of 9,836 Viet Cong turned themselves in to Vietnamese authorities under the "open arms" program, a third again as many as in the same period in 1965. Three-quarters of them were soldiers.

THE STATE OF NEW Hampshire has a legal, sweepstakes lottery, the only one in the United States. At Rockingham Park Race Track in Salem, N.H., early last month, the winning "sweeps" ticket was drawn with official fanfare. The ticket is drawn from one of four large drums in rear, and then paired with a horse from the small drum on table (foreground). The sweepstakes money goes directly to the school districts on a per-pupil basis. (AP Newsfeatures Photos)

IN A LAS VEGAS, Nevada, fun-place, a patron pulls the handle of a slot-machine. She hopes, of course, to hit the jackpot. In 1965, the Federal Government collected excise taxes of more than $15 million from coin-operated gaming devices. In the same period, the State of Nevada got one-fourth of its total revenue from all gambling in the state.

GAMBLING

Gambling, legal and otherwise, produces hundreds of millions of dollars every year for states and cities, and millions more for 'good works.' Raffles, illegal but condoned, pay for churches, scholarships, hospitals, and care of the needy.

By BERNARD GAVZER
Associated Press Writer

In the day's of Rome's grandeur, Nero financed a building project or a few dozen statues of himself by relying on a Roman invention: the lottery.

In the 19 centuries which have since elapsed, kings and knaves have tried to improve upon the Roman invention or find other magic means of raising money.

More often than not they turned to some form of gambling as the most painless way of extracting money from the tax-sick citizenry.

And so it is by long tradition that even a theoretically anti-gambling nation such as the United States should in fact be abuzz with legal gambling action. It is.

CASUAL VARIETY

And there also is the casual, unlicensed gambling conducted by thousands of churches, fraternal orders, veterans groups, civic organizations, political clubs and memorial societies. This raises millions of dollars for "good works."

What is the extent of this gambling and what is done with the money?

The most visible form of legal gambling — the one that has more bettors than any other — is horse racing, with pari-mutuels operating in 28 states. Nevada has all forms of gambling, except for a lottery. New Hampshire has a sweepstakes lottery, the only one in the United States. Maryland allows slot machines in four counties. California licenses card rooms by local option. Florida has dog tracks and jai alai frontons. Bingo is played in all 50 states, even though it is illegal in some.

The states with pari-mutuels skimmed $369 million off the tracks last year. The federal government collected excise taxes of $15 million from coin-operated gaming devices and $6 million from wagers. New Hampshire got $3.89 million from the 1966 sweepstakes lottery. Nevada raked in $15 million—one-fourth of its total revenue. New York's bingo activity brought in $200,000.

Rep. Paul Fino, New York Republican, contends this is penny ante stuff considering the enormous volume of gambling, which he claims is a $100 billion-a-year activity. Fino is a veteran proponent of a national lottery.

"We stand virtually alone among the nations of the world in our hypocrisy in refusing to recognize and accept the wisdom and advantages of a national lottery," he says.

Fino replies: "I would use the proceeds of a national lottery — about $10 billion — half for reduction of the gigantically mounting national debt and half to reduce personal income taxes."

While Fino plumps for his lottery, there already is, in effect, a local national lottery operated by thousands of sponsors. This is the commonplace raffle in which anything from a house to a hubcap may be the prize.

The raffle is almost entirely illegal, almost entirely unregulated, and almost universally condoned by police — so long as an acceptable group is doing the promoting.

Knowledgeable persons in the printing industry and in the supply of prizes give some clues to how extensive this might be.

Most raffle books are produced by job printers, though some are mimeographed and hand-numbered.

"You could figure that each printer might print raffle books for 10 different customers in one year," says a printing industry expert. "That's a very conservative guess. But on that basis, you could safely figure there were 188,550 different raffles in one year."

"If a group plans to give away a $5,000 Cadillac or a $500 color television set," says an authority on gambling prizes, "it wants to gross at least double the value of the prizes."

A canvass of groups conducting raffles — and they cover the spectrum of religious, social, civic, cultural and economic groups in America — indicates that even the smallest organization may distribute as many as 1,000 books and gross around $1,000. On that basis, raffles would generate a flow of perhaps $188,550,000 a year.

If raffles are illegal, how come they operate so widely?

"Well," answers the chairman of the men's group in a high Episcopalian church in New Jersey, "there's certainly no one in my town who is going to complain. Even the police buy chances. They know what we do with the money. So far, we've paid for a new roof for the church, a new organ, new vestments, new hymnals, new prayer books and also summer camp for some kids who couldn't afford it."

The good purpose is what justifies almost all of this gambling.

NOMINAL LIMIT

"We do not frown upon raffles or such gambling as bingo," says a Roman Catholic monsignor in New York, "unless it is a case where an individual clearly gambles beyond a modest capacity, that is, he gambles so much that the welfare of his family is threatened."

Raffles are so popular they have produced this current joke:

"Did you hear about the group of Cadillac dealers who got together to raffle off a church?"

—In Yonkers, N.Y., the John F. Kennedy Boys Club was created through raffle money, and raffles pay for uniforms and buy sites for baseball and other sports activity.

—In Las Vegas, a building fund for a new temple started through a gin rummy contest.

— In St. Louis, the bartender at a private club supervises a World Series pool, the proceeds of which are used for an annual Christmas party for needy kids.

— In Concord, N.H., an Elks Lodge gives Thanksgiving baskets to needy families, pays for Christmas parties and conducts an Easter egg hunt for hundreds of kids.

What if these gambling activities had to stop?

SCHOLARSHIPS

"I don't think we'd be able to pay for many of the things we do unless we had bingo," says Don Dussault, exalted ruler of Elks Lodge No. 1210 in Concord, N.H. "We gave $1,000 scholarships to three high school students, sponsored a Little League team, and a dozen other things. We'd have to raise our dues if we didn't have the bingo money, and I doubt that we'd be able to do that."

The regulated forms of gambling, such as the parti - mutuels, usually produce money that gets mixed into general revenues of a state, county or city. But there are places and times at which the use of such money is very specific.

New Hampshire's sweepstakes money goes directly to the school districts on a per pupil basis. The 1966 distribution is figured at $14.60 per pupil, much less than has been hoped for originally. However, this might change if voters next month approve increasing the number of places where tickets may be sold.

M. Wayne Bowie, superintendent of schools at Plymouth, N.H., says: "There is no question that sweepstakes revenue has allowed me to increase school budgets for salaries and equipment as well as materials that we might otherwise not have obtained. However, some districts are still of the impression that sweepstakes revenue should be used only to reduce taxes."

After World War II, Illinois increased its take of pari-mutuel betting to pay for a bonus which averaged $352 to each of 890,000 returning vets or next-of-kin.

Ak-Sar-Ben—Nebraska spelled backwards — in Omaha is a non-profit racetrack operation which uses its money for scholarships, ambulances, school-crossing traffic lights, charities and aiding county fairs. Navy: 10,000 men, deployed in delta river assault groups and on coastal surveillance craft. Navy has doubled in size in three years.

Regional forces: 141,000 men, deployed in company-size units in Viet Nam's 43 provinces, formerly known as the Civil Guard. These paramilitary forces get regular army pay but are more lightly armed and given less training. They have tripled in strength since 1960.

Popular forces: 139,000 men, deployed in platoon-sized units under control of district chiefs. A home guard formerly known as village militia, they are poorly trained and paid less than one third what the regular and regional forces receive.

National police: 55,000.

Armed combat youth: 22,000, involved in pacification.

DEPLOYMENT

How effectively are these units deployed?

The allies have a theoretical troop superiority of 4-1 in Viet Nam, but in actual "teeth" strength it is more like 1-1.

The best estimates show that the "teeth" units of the Vietnamese army number 90,100, and of these, the mobile striking force is 25,000.

The Vietnamese army is more active in the delta than anywhere else, with battalions conducting brief but frequent helicopter assaults with mixed results.

Elsewhere in Viet Nam, the Vietnamese are vastly overshadowed by aggressive American divisions moving after every scrap of intelligence on the enemy's movements.

The U.S. Marine high command in Da Nang was angered when two Vietnamese divisions in its area revolted against the Saigon government earlier this year.

In southern areas around Saigon, one U.S. officer said of the Vietnamese 5th Division: "The war would be over in six months if they cut down all the hammocks," a jibe at the Vietnamese devotion to the siesta.

One U.S. division commander told this reporter: "We just can't get the Vietnamese to get into a fight alongside us. It is their war, they have too."

And yet the Vietnamese can surprise Americans with their aggressiveness, particularly the marines and airborne units in Saigon's strategic reserve who are being used continuously in the field these days.

But the follow-through, the persistence in drive shown by the Viet Cong and the Americans, is still to be matched by the Vietnamese.

American authorities are encouraged by some government moves to improve the military, moves suggested as long ago as 1962.

One of these is to impose strict penalties against desertion. In 1963, a total of 37,000 men deserted. It doubled the next year to 74,000, and went to 113,000 last year. In the first six months of 1966 there were 67,000.

Under an amnesty thousands of deserters returned to their units. Severe penalties may be a detriment to soldiers who casually take a day, a week or a month off from the war to go about their own business.

There is no real way to compare government defections to those of the Viet Cong. In the first six months of 1966, a total of 9,836 Viet Cong turned themselves in to Vietnamese authorities under the "open arms" program, a third again as many as in the same period in 1965. Three-quarters of them were soldiers.

Non-Voter's Disgrace

Bad officials are elected by good people who stay at home on election day. Those who say that if they don't vote they are not responsible when bad officials are elected are only kidding themselves. One who doesn't vote at all is just about as much to blame for the election of incompetent or conniving officials as are those who vote for some one they know is out to grab what he can get. This is true because a vote against the bad official might defeat him.

In the same way, bad decisions relating to their own government decisions on amendments to the state Constitution, for example — are made by good people who stay at home.

Compared to the state average, Monroe and Northeast Louisiana usually have good percentage voting records but the state average is far below what it should be. In the recent second Democratic primary, only 47 per cent of the qualified voters went to the polls in one area of the state. This drop to less than one-half the qualified voters who cast ballots was described as "shameful" and "a disgrace." All the governmental decisions for that area were made by a majority of a minority of the registered voters.

In saying that good people who do not vote are sometimes responsible for the election of bad officials, the Monroe Morning World does not cast any reflection on any successful or unsuccessful candidate in the recent Democratic primary. But there is always a choice and if the choice was not the best in any contest, then those who were qualified to vote and failed to cast ballots are at least partly to blame.

In the area in which the voting dropped to 47 per cent, there was only one precinct in which the voting went as high as 64 per cent of the registered voters. Sixty-four per cent is a weak record but one rather startling feature of the election in that area was that the only precinct which voted as high as 64 per cent is what is called an "all-Negro precinct."

One analyst in that area said the "registered Negroes showed a greater sense and acceptance of their responsibilities as citizens than did the white people of any other precinct." He added that "in quite a few of the precincts the percentage of registered voters going to the polls was down in the 30s — as low as 31 per cent at times."

The local ballot on November 8 will include a few races in which Republicans are running against Democrats. Regardless of whether voters of this area want to give the Republican party a boost by voting for its candidates or want to support worthy Democrats who are running, every qualified voter should make an expression by casting a ballot.

There will be 45 constitutional amendments on the ballot. Each is important.

There is Amendment No. 1, for example, which specifically would permit any Governor of the future to serve a second successive four-year term if the people so decided through the usual party primaries and general elections. But, there are eight other amendments directly related to Amendment No. 1 — they are a package and should be considered as such by voters in making their decision.

There is an amendment dealing with state bonds backed by taxes, specifying certain conditions as to passage by the Legislature.

There is an amendment concerning use of whatever amount of the tidelands escrow fund, now running far into the hundreds of millions of dollars, which comes eventually to Louisiana.

There are amendments to remove power of the Governor—any Governor now or in the future—within local governments, parish, municipal or governmental agencies, through reducing by hundreds the number of appointments a Governor can make to fill vacancies in these governments.

There are also a number of amendments that are vital to other cities and parishes — that are local to these cities and parishes in their application — but which must be approved by the whole state.

It is up to every qualified voter to do his duty by going to the polls on November 8.

Business Council View

When such leaders as Henry Ford and the president of the United States Chamber of Commerce say they think President Johnson is doing a good job and they would vote for him now if he were up for re-election, the conclusion must be drawn that the business-White House honeymoon has been extended.

However, the conclusion would be erroneous. Even though business executives foresee another big year in 1967, they also point to signs less than reassuring. These signs were discussed at the recent meeting in Hot Springs, Va., of the Business Council, a very in-group of corporation leaders.

It seems the business community has become wary of White House attitudes on wages, prices, tax, policy, labor supply — and the ever-tightening vise on money and credit. What really angered many businessmen was Congressional approval of the seven per cent tax credit for new capital investment. Promoted as an anti-inflationary measure, the move was considered ill-advised for this reason: if a firm laid more money on the line for new, productive equipment, costs could be reduced, the output could be increased, and inflation combated thereby. So what's with the credit suspension?

Reporters who questioned the blue-chip executives of the Washington-based council found that Government attitudes on labor unions and profits were unsettling. For example, one manufacturer noted that Johnson had been looking the other way as labor unions struck for big way settlements. The settlements destroyed the 3.2 guidelines, and fed union desired to strike for more and more.

In the same context, a New York vice-president said that Johnson's economic advisers seemed to feel that industry should absorb rising costs out of profits.

Council members are pretty certain — and they are borne out by Republican George Mahon's speech in Lubbock, Tex.—that a tax increase is in the wind. This is viewed as preferable to price and wage controls. Still, many wonder whether a tax bite after January will be effective.

Business has to look at the future with reservations; there are too many imponderables. After all, the gross national product is expected to be $783 billion next year. Even with all the interference from the White House manipulators, this isn't a bad forecast.

Stolen Credit Cards

Now that credit cards are accepted for almost any kind of goods and services (one young woman proved she could live 30 days on credit cards alone), these cards have become choice black market items for crime syndicates. Waiters in restaurants are said to have become key figures in a $20 million-a-year racket.

National Better Business Bureau placed the racket's take at $20 million annually and industry officials say this figure is extremely conservative.

Cards, stated Insider's Newsletter, are most frequently stolen by waiters, who simply "forget" to return them to drunken or absent-minded customers. The waiters sell them immediately to middlemen, who are the syndicate operators. The middlemen, promptly sell them to small-time crooks for about $200.

The Golden Rule

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

Here is an eye-opener for you: Jesus of Nazareth did not give civilization the Golden Rule as stated in your recent editorial.

"Golden Rule" is the English name for the precept in Matthew vii, 12 (Luke vi, 31): "Whatsoever you would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them." Certainly, it should be the summary of the Christian's duty to his neighbor; however it is not peculiar to Christianity.

Jesus himself says that it is "the law and the prophets." The negative form of the Golden Rule is to be found in Tob. iv, 15, and again in Hillel and Philo. Beyond this, it appears in one form or another in Plato, Aristotle, Isocrates and Seneca, to say nothing of the "reciprocity" principle enunciated by Confucius.

Also, the Golden Rule appears in various forms in seven of the world's great religions, many of them founded hundreds of years before the birth of Jesus.

Thanks for your time and consideration.

Cause Of Riots

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

It is indeed a strange thing how some people or organizations will always try to put the blame of an occurrence where it does not belong. The occurrance to which I am referring is the Civil rights revolution that occurred in Cleveland, Ohio. This race war took place during the months of June and July of this year.

Here is a list of reasons which the so called liberals of the Great Society used, in order to express their opinion to why the Cleveland riot was started. These so called liberals went so far as to blame the riot on such things as weather conditions, lack of recreational facilities, police brutality, mass unemployment, inadequate education, substandard housing and minimum welfare programs.

Every reason mentioned in this list is absurd. For example, let's discuss the weather condition first. At the time the riot occurred, the temperature was between 72 degrees and 84 degrees. I feel sure that this factor will eliminate the weather conditions.

In the Haugh area where the riot took place, there were more recreational facilities than in any other section of the city. This fact was revealed by Cleveland Recreational Commissioner, John Nagy.

Let's discuss the reason, police brutality. For some time before the riot occurred many patriotic citizens of Cleveland, under the leadership of sales executive, Dave Manley, started a Committee to support their local police. Fifty billboards were erected to remind the people to support their local police. Thousands of flyers, window and bumper stickers were used in their support drive. A film strip entitled "Civil Riots", U.S.A. was shown to over fifty-thousand persons. Because of this drive, the citizens of Cleveland didn't buy the reason, police brutality.

The fact that the Haugh area was not a slum area knocks the substandard housing idea in the head.

As far as welfare programs are concerned, Haugh has welfare programs that other areas haven't even heard about yet.

The enraged mayor of Cleveland, Mayor Ralph Locker, asked the Cleveland Grand Jury to get the facts. This they did, and did well. The jury found that this whole plot was Communistic inspired.

This riot was planned at the JFK House. These initials stand for Jomo Freedom Kenyatta House located in the middle of the Haugh area. It is interesting to know that the JFK House was temporarily closed in February, but during the month of April, it was opened by four ministers who belonged to The Council of Churches of Christ of Greater Cleveland.

A great deal more information could be told, but I will close by quoting an expression made by Mayor Ralph Locker.

Mayor Locker said, "Thank God for a Grand Jury which had the guts to be the first such body of its kind to place the blame where it really belongs and where everybody knew it belonged where everybody knew it belonged all the time — on the Communists."

George Blake Escape Scandalous Episode

LONDON. The lead in the Daily Express, which to be sure is not given to understatement, suggests the gravity of the thing, the Soviet spy, is the latest installment in the most scandalous saga of official blunder and ineptitude in the annals of British espionage. To appreciate its full significance one must recall the enormity of Blake's treachery, for which he received the unprecedented sentence of 42 years. Blake was directly and deliberately responsible for the death or imprisonment of at least 40 of Britain's most important foreign agents . ."

An accompanying cartoon shows Prime Minister Wilson addressing his home secretary, Mr. Roy Jenkins, who a few days ago had refused to carry out the court order to flog a life prisoner who had assailed and killed his warden: "Mr. Jenkins, if you won't flog the prisoners, you should threaten to flog the warders — otherwise we won't have any spies left, either." On Wilson's left is a file cabinet, its four drawers pulled out and empty. They are labeled: "Top secrets", "very top secrets", "incredibly top secrets", and "the topmost secrets." In the background is the outline of Wormwood Scrubs, the Graustarkian prison whence Blake had recently taken leave. The window bars are being methodically sawed open by the inmates. A ladder and rope are perched outside, and above hovers a helicopter, "Flight 261 to Moscow."

I SAT IN THE House of Commons and watched the Conservatives handle the matter. They worked hard to come up with a high dudgeon, and their biggest guns were trained on the government. Edward Heath, the shadow Prime Minister, wanted a complete investigation. Duncan Sandys said it was a pretty discouraging thing to the police to spend their time catching criminals, while the government let them get away. (That very morning, two more criminals had escaped from another penitentiary, Quintin Hogg said that the government's spokesman, Mr. Roy Jenkins, was being shamefully evasive.

At this point the squalid figure of Mr. Emannuel Shinwell rose from the Labour benches and said that it was a disgrace that Mr. Heath was attempting to make a political issue out of the escape of Blake. "If it was left to me, I would throw him out of the place." The House and galleries rocked with pleasure, indignation, excitement, hilarity. Shinwell has always been candid not to say taurine. He served in Clement Attlee's cabinet after the very favorite pin-cushion. After a cabinet reshuffle, Shinwell went from Minister of Coal to Minister of War, eliciting from Churchill the historic jibe that, inasmuch as during Mr. Shinwell's first tenure, the country had been without coal, one could only hope that now that he was Minister of War, the country would be without war. The House of Commons is the place to go for that kind of exchange.

MR. HEATH was rather heavy-handedly insisting that the Labour Government take full responsibility for the escape of the traitor Blake. Very well, said Mr. Jenkins, the Labour Government should accept responsibility for the treason performed by the traitor Blake. The House howled with glee.

The formal maneuver of the Labour Government was to appoint a commission to look into the matter of prison security. The formal position of the Conservatives is that it is all very well to do something to avoid the escape of future prisoners, but meanwhile perhaps the most important British prisoner since Rudolf Hess has flown the coop, and somebody's socialist head should be cut off.

The Tories are politicians enough to know that Jenkins is a dangerous man, dangerous because of his extraordinary competence, his wit and solidity. They cannot therefore let pass an opportunity to hurt him. But they did not score. In the first place the general impression is that the blame should be shared. If Wormwood Scrubs was inadequately secure as a prison, why then did the Conservative Government of 1961 consign Blake there? The public temper here is that it is a shocking thing that Blake should have got away (no doubt he is even now in Moscow, telling whatever else he knows that he didn't tell before about English security; including how to escape from English prisons), but that his escape was an act of God, no more reflecting on one political party than the tragedy at Aberfan reflects on one of the parties.

But the little infield practice I witnessed in the House of Commons had the melancholy effect upon this particular Tory of convincing him that pound for pound, the front line of the Labour Party is heavier by far than the Conservative opposition.

The Almanac

Today is Sunday, Oct. 30, the 303rd day of 1966 with 62 to follow.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter.

The morning stars are Mars and Jupiter.

The evening star is Saturn.

The second President of the United States, John Adams, was born on this day in 1735.

On this day in history:

In 1941, a German submarine torpedoed and sank an American naval destroyer, although America was not yet in the war.

In 1948, an Army transport from Germany arrived in New York City with the first refugees to arrive in the United States under the Displaced Persons Act.

In 1965, American planes killed 48 South Vietnamese civilians when they bombed a wrong area. A South Vietnamese officer was blamed and went on trial.

JAMES J. KILPATRICK

A LITTLE BEFORE 11 o'clock this past Tuesday morning, Republican Raymond P. Shafer, 48, arrived at Albright College. Capture the moment, if you will:

A small college, quadrangled a town clock chiming; a cluster of old classroom buildings, a new library. It is raining — not a downpour, but a cold and intermittent drizzle. The autumn foliage has the faded look of worn rugs. The curbs are thick with golden leaves, glistening feebly in the rain.

Shafer is his party's candidate for Governor. The day before had seen him campaigning in northeastern Pennyslvania — in Tioga, Bradford, Wyoming, Carbon and Luzerne countries. He had spent the night in Wilkes-Barre, where he had spoken to a rally of 2,000 persons in the armory. Early Tuesday, he and his party had boarded three helicopters, and now they are working the rolling country of Berks and Lehigh counties.

HE ARRIVES on campus in the first of three bustling station - wagons, stickered and beribboned, to be greeted by pretty girls in Shafer hats. As he comes striding up the walk, he is every inch the candidate: Bare-headed, handsome, smiling, waving, shaking every hand in reach. Inside the auditorium doors, he faces a flight of eight steps. Without pausing, he takes the first two in one dynamic bound — and quite magically, for no explainable reason, his entrance produces a moment of pure catharsis. The whole fantastic phenomenon of the American political campaign suddenly is captured in a split-second tableau: the candidate, head high, hand in air, leaping up the steps, to the applause of straw-hatted girls too young to vote.

I offer the moment to you as a symbol, as a tribute. Doubtless Shafer's opponent, Democrat Milton Shapp, was not far away, in Pottsville or Shamoykin or Berwick, bounding up a few steps of his own. It is a part of the ritual that candidates, at least until they reach the rank of elder statesmen, must always take their stairs two steps at a time. They must smile until their jaws ache, and wave until their arms give out, and they must never show fatigue. If it is drizzling, they must go among the people bare-headed, without raincoats, because candidates must demonstrate their stamina. On the campaign trail, no candidate can walk; candidates always stride.

IT IS PERHAPS a sentimental gesture to wish them well, all of them, wherever they are tonight, whatever befalls them when the spotlights fade on Tuesday week. Campaign time is a great and gaudy time in these United States. It is exhausting, exhilarating, boring, exciting. It is showtime, played on the vastest stage on earth, and don't let any of the cynics tell you that it isn't packed with suspense and tears and laughter.

To be sure, the drama has its faults. Most campaign oratory is partisan hooey, long on hokum, short on truth. The candidate who is "delighted to be here" quite often is revolted by the thought. His eyes ache, his feet hurt, his stomach still growls from the offenses of Wilkes-Barre or Pottsville or wherever. He is worried about money, about local kooks who cost him votes, about the competence of some of the hangers-on around him. Mostly he is worried about losing. He is dead tired, and tomorrow is never more than a few hours off.

A SALUTE TO the candidates should include a salute to the candidates' wives. Politics is tough on men; it is tougher on their women. A man in public life soon cultivates the unseeing eye, the unhearing ear, the armored skin that blunts the cutting edge of insult. Their wives have no such skill. When their man is cut, they bleed inside. One recalls Bess Truman, biting her lip; and Mamie Eisenhower, her pleasant face a mask of pain; and Martha Taft, Senator Bob's courageous wife; Pat Nixon in tears. The ladies play the hardest role.

Something needs to be said, as well, for the thousands of extras in the chorus — the lickers of stamps, the sealers of letters, the drivers of campaign wagons. In the instant of taking two steps at a time, one sees the precinct man, perspiring, the writers of speeches, the friers of chicken, the wearers of buttons. "I give you the next Governor of Anywhere." Applause, applause! And the band plays on.

Yet finally, one captures a sense of the candidates' people. From a stage, especially by night, their faces are like upturned flowers, dimly seen. They are more than mere audience, more than a painted backdrop. They provide the wire that keeps the candidate going — or the cold water that cools him off. The campaign ritual embraces them as well, in a kind of poetic demand: the willing suspension of disbelief. They must have stamina, too.

Hail, candidates, whoever you are! May all your doubtful wards come rolling in, and all your idle pledges be forgotten. Onward, Messrs. Shafers! Onward, by whatever name your buttons may proclaim you. Up the stairs, and into the waiting hall! You are delighted to be here, this rainy morning, wherever it is you are.

Johnson's Political Character Disclosed

A SINGLE INCIDENT reveals Lyndon Johnson's political character as sharply as any I can call to mind. It has just happened, but it was buried under the headlines of the Johnson stumping in Asia.

As Mr. Johnson left Washington, and while most reporters were busy recording the razzle-dazzle of that momentous event, a simple, barely noticeable announcement was put up on the bulletin board of the White House press room. It said:

What did it mean? Plenty. Bill 279 states that "no person shall be denied the opportunity to obtain or retain employment because of non - membership in a labor organization." In short, a right-to-work law. It had been passed by the legislature, vetoed by the governor and then passed again over the governor's veto by more than two-thirds of the members of the Guam Legislature.

THE BILL represented, beyond a shadow of a doubt, the overwhelming will of the people of Guam. But by a quirk of the law establishing Guam as a self-governing territory of the United States, the President is given the authority to sustain or overrule such legislative action.

First, there is the heavy-handed manner in which he suppressed the expressed will of the people of Guam.

The veto had been on his desk since last July. He could have acted in August or September. Or any time in October. But he waited until the last minute, until he was as fully protected as possible by the overwhelming activity of his Asian junket.

There, for everyone who cares to look, is Mr. Johnson the master political manipulator.

LOOKING AT the content of his action you see him as a political autocrat with his kingly disregard for the will of the people and his lordly insistence on having his way, always and in every way.

On the one hand he says he favors increased self - determination for all U. S. possessions, making him popular in those territories. On the other hand knowing there are more votes controlled by labor than there are in the territories, he has vowed to these labor leaders that he will destroy the 19 state laws which permit people to work whether or not they are members of unions.

The mere fact that the people of Guam wanted such a law could scarcely bother Lyndon Johnson. Nor could his position regarding freedom in the territories give his conscience so much as a twinge when compared to his overriding drive for political power.

Thus, down the drain go the will of the people of Guam and all the fine words about freedom political independence and self determination. And up on the White House bulletin board goes Lyndon Johnson's casual, back handed slap at all the fine words of freedom which marked his triumphal tour through Asia where he preached mightily on the virtues of self - determination.

Self - determination with his permission, of course. Freedom, so long as it doesn't disturb his plans. How ironic this must seem to the men who fly the B-52s based in Guam to bomb Viet Nam.

National Better Business Bureau placed the racket's take at $20 million annually and industry officials say this figure is extremely conservative.

Cards, stated Insider's Newsletter, are most frequently stolen by waiters, who simply "forget" to return them to drunken or absent-minded customers. The waiters sell them immediately to middlemen, who are the syndicate operators. The middlemen, promptly sell them to small-time crooks for about $200.

The Golden Rule

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

Here is an eye-opener for you: Jesus of Nazareth did not give civilization the Golden Rule as stated in your recent editorial.

"Golden Rule" is the English name for the precept in Matthew vii, 12 (Luke vi, 31): "Whatsoever you would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them." Certainly, it should be the summary of the Christian's duty to his neighbor; however it is not peculiar to Christianity.

Jesus himself says that it is "the law and the prophets." The negative form of the Golden Rule is to be found in Tob. iv, 15, and again in Hillel and Philo. Beyond this, it appears in one form or another in Plato, Aristotle, Isocrates and Seneca, to say nothing of the "reciprocity" principle enunciated by Confucius.

Also, the Golden Rule appears in various forms in seven of the world's great religions, many of them founded hundreds of years before the birth of Jesus.

Thanks for your time and consideration.

Cause Of Riots

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

It is indeed a strange thing how some people or organizations will always try to put the blame of an occurrence where it does not belong. The occurrance to which I am referring is the Civil rights revolution that occurred in Cleveland, Ohio. This race war took place during the months of June and July of this year.

Here is a list of reasons which the so called liberals of the Great Society used, in order to express their opinion to why the Cleveland riot was started. These so called liberals went so far as to blame the riot on such things as weather conditions, lack of recreational facilities, police brutality, mass unemployment, inadequate education, substandard housing and minimum welfare programs.

Every reason mentioned in this list is absurd. For example, let's discuss the weather condition first. At the time the riot occurred, the temperature was between 72 degrees and 84 degrees. I feel sure that this factor will eliminate the weather conditions.

In the Haugh area where the riot took place, there were more recreational facilities than in any other section of the city. This fact was revealed by Cleveland Recreational Commissioner, John Nagy.

Let's discuss the reason, police brutality. For some time before the riot occurred many patriotic citizens of Cleveland, under the leadership of sales executive, Dave Manley, started a Committee to support their local police. Fifty billboards were erected to remind the people to support their local police. Thousands of flyers, window and bumper stickers were used in their support drive. A film strip entitled "Civil Riots", U.S.A. was shown to over fifty-thousand persons. Because of this drive, the citizens of Cleveland didn't buy the reason, police brutality.

The fact that the Haugh area was not a slum area knocks the substandard housing idea in the head.

As far as welfare programs are concerned, Haugh has welfare programs that other areas haven't even heard about yet.

The enraged mayor of Cleveland, Mayor Ralph Locker, asked the Cleveland Grand Jury to get the facts. This they did, and did well. The jury found that this whole plot was Communistic inspired.

This riot was planned at the JFK House. These initials stand for Jomo Freedom Kenyatta House located in the middle of the Haugh area. It is interesting to know that the JFK House was temporarily closed in February, but during the month of April, it was opened by four ministers who belonged to The Council of Churches of Christ of Greater Cleveland.

A great deal more information could be told, but I will close by quoting an expression made by Mayor Ralph Locker.

Mayor Locker said, "Thank God for a Grand Jury which had the guts to be the first such body of its kind to place the blame where it really belongs and where everybody knew it belonged where everybody knew it belonged all the time — on the Communists."

George Blake Escape Scandalous Episode

LONDON. The lead in the Daily Express, which to be sure is not given to understatement, suggests the gravity of the thing. the Soviet spy, is the latest installment in the most scandalous saga of official blunder and ineptitude in the annals of British espionage. To appreciate its full significance one must recall the enormity of Blake's treachery, for which he received the unprecedented sentence of 42 years. Blake was directly and deliberately responsible for the death or imprisonment of at least 40 of Britain's most important foreign agents . ."

An accompanying cartoon shows Prime Minister Wilson addressing his home secretary, Mr. Roy Jenkins, who a few days ago had refused to carry out the court order to flog a life prisoner who had assailed and killed his warden: "Mr. Jenkins, if you won't flog the prisoners, you should threaten to flog the warders — otherwise we won't have any spies left, either." On Wilson's left is a file cabinet, its four drawers pulled out and empty. They are labeled: "Top secrets", "very top secrets", "incredibly top secrets", and "the topmost secrets." In the background is the outline of Wormwood Scrubs, the Graustarkian prison whence Blake had recently taken leave. The window bars are being methodically sawed open by the inmates. A ladder and rope are perched outside, and above hovers a helicopter, "Flight 261 to Moscow."

I SAT IN THE House of Commons and watched the Conservatives handle the matter. They worked hard to come up with a high dudgeon, and their biggest guns were trained on the government. Edward Heath, the shadow Prime Minister, wanted a complete investigation. Duncan Sandys said it was a pretty discouraging thing to the police to spend their time catching criminals, while the government let them get away. (That very morning, two more criminals had escaped from another penitentiary, Quintin Hogg said that the government's spokesman, Mr. Roy Jenkins, was being shamefully evasive.

At this point the squalid figure of Mr. Emannuel Shinwell rose from the Labour benches and said that it was a disgrace that Mr. Heath was attempting to make a political issue out of the escape of Blake. "If it was left to me, I would throw him out of the place." The House and galleries rocked with pleasure, indignation, excitement, hilarity. Shinwell has always been candid not to say taurine. He served in Clement Attlee's cabinet after the very favorite pin-cushion. After a cabinet reshuffle, Shinwell went from Minister of Coal to Minister of War, eliciting from Churchill the historic jibe that, inasmuch as during Mr. Shinwell's first tenure, the country had been without coal, one could only hope that now that he was Minister of War, the country would be without war. The House of Commons is the place to go for that kind of exchange.

MR. HEATH was rather heavy-handedly insisting that the Labour Government take full responsibility for the escape of the traitor Blake. Very well, said Mr. Jenkins, the Labour Government should accept responsibility for the treason performed by the traitor Blake. The House howled with glee.

The formal maneuver of the Labour Government was to appoint a commission to look into the matter of prison security. The formal position of the Conservatives is that it is all very well to do something to avoid the escape of future prisoners, but meanwhile perhaps the most important British prisoner since Rudolf Hess has flown the coop, and somebody's socialist head should be cut off.

The Tories are politicians enough to know that Jenkins is a dangerous man, dangerous because of his extraordinary competence, his wit and solidity. They cannot therefore let pass an opportunity to hurt him. But they did not score. In the first place the general impression is that the blame should be shared. If Wormwood Scrubs was inadequately secure as a prison, why then did the Conservative Government of 1961 consign Blake there? The public temper here is that it is a shocking thing that Blake should have got away (no doubt he is even now in Moscow, telling whatever else he knows that he didn't tell before about English security; including how to escape from English prisons), but that his escape was an act of God, no more reflecting on one political party than the tragedy at Aberfan reflects on one of the parties.

But the little infield practice I witnessed in the House of Commons had the melancholy effect upon this particular Tory of convincing him that pound for pound, the front line of the Labour Party is heavier by far than the Conservative opposition.

The Almanac

By United Press International

Today is Sunday, Oct. 30, the 303rd day of 1966 with 62 to follow.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter.

The morning stars are Mars and Jupiter.

The evening star is Saturn.

The second President of the United States, John Adams, was born on this day in 1735.

On this day in history:

In 1941, a German submarine torpedoed and sank an American naval destroyer, although America was not yet in the war.

In 1948, an Army transport from Germany arrived in New York City with the first refugees to arrive in the United States under the Displaced Persons Act.

In 1965, American planes killed 48 South Vietnamese civilians when they bombed a wrong area. A South Vietnamese officer was blamed and went on trial.

Campaign Is Great, Gaudy Time In U.S.

A LITTLE BEFORE 11 o'clock this past Tuesday morning, Republican Raymond P. Shafer, 48, arrived at Albright College. Capture the moment, if you will:

A small college, quadrangled a town clock chiming; a cluster of old classroom buildings, a new library. It is raining — not a downpour, but a cold and intermittent drizzle. The autumn foliage has the faded look of worn rugs. The curbs are thick with golden leaves, glistening feebly in the rain.

Shafer is his party's candidate for Governor. The day before had seen him campaigning in northeastern Pennyslvania — in Tioga, Bradford, Wyoming, Carbon and Luzerne countries. He had spent the night in Wilkes-Barre, where he had spoken to a rally of 2,000 persons in the armory. Early Tuesday, he and his party had boarded three helicopters, and now they are working the rolling country of Berks and Lehigh counties.

HE ARRIVES on campus in the first of three bustling station - wagons, stickered and beribboned, to be greeted by pretty girls in Shafer hats. As he comes striding up the walk, he is every inch the candidate: Bare-headed, handsome, smiling, waving, shaking every hand in reach. Inside the auditorium doors, he faces a flight of eight steps. Without pausing, he takes the first two in one dynamic bound — and quite magically, for no explainable reason, his entrance produces a moment of pure catharsis. The whole fantastic phenomenon of the American political campaign suddenly is captured in a split-second tableau: the candidate, head high, hand in air, leaping up the steps, to the applause of straw-hatted girls too young to vote.

I offer the moment to you as a symbol, as a tribute. Doubtless Shafer's opponent, Democrat Milton Shapp, was not far away, in Pottsville or Shamoykin or Berwick, bounding up a few steps of his own. It is a part of the ritual that candidates, at least until they reach the rank of elder statesmen, must always take their stairs two steps at a time. They must smile until their jaws ache, and wave until their arms give out, and they must never show fatigue. If it is drizzling, they must go among the people bareheaded, without raincoats, because candidates must demonstrate their stamina. On the campaign trail, no candidate can walk; candidates always stride.

IT IS PERHAPS a sentimental gesture to wish them well, all of them, wherever they are tonight, whatever befalls them when the spotlights fade on Tuesday week. Campaign time is a great and gaudy time in these United States. It is exhausting, exhilarating, boring, exciting. It is showtime, played on the vastest stage on earth, and don't let any of the cynics tell you that it isn't packed with suspense and tears and laughter.

To be sure, the drama has its faults. Most campaign oratory is partisan hooey, long on hokum, short on truth. The candidate who is "delighted to be here" quite often is revolted by the thought. His eyes ache, his feet hurt, his stomach still growls from the offenses of Wilkes-Barre or Pottsville or wherever. He is worried about money, about local kooks who cost him votes, about the competence of some of the hangers-on around him. Mostly he is worried about losing. He is dead tired, and tomorrow is never more than a few hours off.

A SALUTE TO the candidates should include a salute to the candidates' wives. Politics is tough on men; it is tougher on their women. A man in public life soon cultivates the unseeing eye, the unhearing ear, the armored skin that blunts the cutting edge of insult. Their wives have no such skill. When their man is cut, they bleed inside. One recalls Bess Truman, biting her lip; and Mamie Eisenhower, her pleasant face a mask of pain; and Martha Taft, Senator Bob's courageous wife; Pat Nixon in tears. The ladies play the hardest role.

Something needs to be said, as well, for the thousands of extras in the chorus — the lickers of stamps, the sealers of letters, the drivers of campaign wagons. In the instant of taking two steps at a time, one sees the precinct man, perspiring; the writers of speeches, the friers of chicken, the wearers of buttons. "I give you the next Governor of Anywhere." Al-plause, applause! And the band plays on.

Yet finally, one captures a sense of the candidates' people. From a stage, especially by night, their faces are like upturned flowers, dimly seen. They are more than mere audience, more than a painted backdrop. They provide the wine that keeps the candidate going — or the cold water that cools him off. The campaign ritual embraces them as well, in a kind of poetic demand: the willing suspension of disbelief. They must have stamina, too.

Hail, candidates, whoever you are! May all your doubtful wards come rolling in, and all your idle pledges be forgotten. Onward, Messrs. Shafers! Onward, by whatever name your buttons may proclaim you. Up the stairs, and into the waiting hall! You are delighted to be here, this rainy morning, wherever it is you are.

Johnson's Political Character Disclosed

A SINGLE INCIDENT reveals Lyndon Johnson's political character as sharply as any I can call to mind. It has just happened, but it was buried under the headlines of the Johnson stumping in Asia.

As Mr. Johnson left Washington, and while most reporters were busy recording the razzle-dazzle of that momentous event, a simple, barely noticeable announcement was put up on the bulletin board of the White House press room. It said:

What did it mean? Plenty. Bill 279 states that "no person shall be denied the opportunity to obtain or retain employment because of non - membership in a labor organization." In short, a right-to-work law. It had been passed by the legislature, vetoed by the governor and then passed again over the governor's veto by more than two-thirds of the members of the Guam Legislature.

THE BILL represented, beyond a shadow of a doubt, the overwhelming will of the people of Guam. But by a quirk of the law establishing Guam as a self-governing territory of the United States, the President is given the authority to sustain or overrule such legislative action.

First, there is the heavy-handed manner in which he suppressed the expressed will of the people of Guam.

The veto had been on his desk since last July. He could have acted in August or September. Or any time in October. But he waited until the last minute, until he was as fully protected as possible by the overwhelming activity of his Asian junket.

There, for everyone who cares to look, is Mr. Johnson the master political manipulator.

LOOKING AT the content of his action you see him as a political autocrat with his kingly disregard for the will of the people and his lordly insistence on having his way, always and in every way.

On the one hand he says he favors increased self - determination for all U. S. possessions, making him popular in those territories. On the other hand, knowing there are more votes controlled by labor than there are in the territories, he has vowed to these labor leaders that he will destroy the 19 state laws which permit people to work whether or not they are members of unions.

The mere fact that the people of Guam wanted such a law could scarcely bother Lyndon Johnson. Nor could his position regarding freedom in the territories give his conscience so much as a twinge when compared to his overriding drive for political power.

Thus, down the drain go the will of the people of Guam and all the fine words about freedom political independence and self-determination. And up on the White House bulletin board goes Lyndon Johnson's casual, backhanded slap at all the fine words of freedom which marked his triumphal tour through Asia where he preached mightily on the virtues of self - determination.

Self - determination with his permission, of course. Freedom, so long as it doesn't disturb his plans. How ironic this must seem to the men who fly the B-52s based in Guam to bomb Viet Nam.

Justice Clark

The news media in the United States owes Supreme Court justice a vote of thanks for defending it against the lofty theorists of the nation's legal profession.

Recently, Justice Clark said that the guidelines set forth by the court in the Sam Sheppard murder case were aimed at judges and not at the public's source of information and in so doing he underscored the position of the press.

Obviously, the courts have the powers, jurisdiction and control to do their job without imposing restrictions of questionable constitutional standing, the Texas jurist said.

Recently, an American Bar Association committee proposed restrictions on release and publication of information pertaining to crime. This also drew opposition from Mr. Clark, who is not among the advocates of changes in methods of covering criminal trials, nor does he foresee any such decision by the high court in the near future.

The support of a free press by high legal personages of Justice Clark's caliber offers fresh hope that the legal intelligentsia's drive toward censorship can be blunted before it gains momentum.

Our opinion has always been that the bar association is delving into affairs that are not of its concern, when it seeks to stem the flow of information to the public. Maybe eventually such statements as those made by the justice will impress even the loftiest thinkers on rights and privileges.

Correct Grammar

The weekly bulletin of the Rotary Club of Houston, Texas has come up with an amusing list of ungrammatical rules for those of us who have trouble composing our sentences.

They go like this:

1. Verbs has got to agree with their subjects.
2. Each pronoun agrees with their antecedents.
3. Don't use no double negatives.
4. Join clauses good, like a conjunction should.
5. In letters memos reports etcetera use commas to keep a string of items apart.
6. Don't use, comas which, aren't necessary.
7. Check to see if you any words out or make any misteaks in spelling.

QUOTE OF THE WEEK overheard in a street corner conversation: "We should quit making friends with any more nations; they might invite us to participate in their wars."

Time For The Ghosts

Most people don't believe in ghosts — at least until you start talking about them, then most will come up with a ghost story, and generally, although they won't admit it, it is from their own experience.

With Halloween tomorrow, maybe this is the time to recall some true ghost stories — and me I believe in them — ghosts that is.

Therefore if you live alone in a big, old house, call in a friend to hold your hand while reading this.

"We're sure most people have heard floorboards crack, or bumps in the attic and door hinges squeal.

You get up, turn on the lights and see nothing. Yet there is a feeling of a presence there.

According to ghost-hunter Hans Holzer, some people claim to see human forms floating about their homes when such sounds are heard.

Incidentally, if that should happen at your house, Holzer says, don't faint, run or reach for a gun.

"Ghost don't chase people," he said, adding "Ghosts are spirits in trouble and won't harm the living. In fact, 99 per cent of all ghosts aren't aware that you see them. They only see their world."

Holzer, who believes in ghosts, is a parapsychologist specializing in extrasensory perception, psychic experience, ghosts and haunted houses.

For 20 years, he says, he's tracked after ghostly things in reportedly haunted houses. He said he has chased ghosts from several hundred places and currently has requests for help from nearly 1,500 occupants of haunted houses in the United States.

His theory, whether you accept it or not, is that if a person dies before his time and by violent means and hasn't had premonitions of an untimely ending, a part of the personality hangs on, roaming about restlessly.

One ghost, he says, is Marion Gernt, age 300. She suffers from the nightmare of an untimely death by fire and lives in a house in England. Another, according to Holzer, is Hungry Jucy, believed to haunt June Havoc's place on New York's West Side. That ghost is said to date from the Revolutionary War.

Holzer has written books about ghosts, describing many of them.

Honestly, I've had a couple of experiences with ghosts. Once as a teenager. While walking by a country church and cemetery late at night, I heard as plain as day hammering going on inside the church which was located at the cemetery gate. Nothing showed and I didn't tarry around to investigate.

Another was late in the afternoon along a country road when a form floated across in front of me. As I got even with the place, I didn't see anything — but an eerie feeling hit me.

I broke the four-minute mile and that was long before it officially was broken.

And if you really want to hear some ghost and spirit stories, attend a wake for the dead way out in the country as I did as a youth where the neighbors come in with food and sit up all night with the dead.

When you've done that and heard the stories that make the rounds, these fables about the Flying Saucers are tame by comparison.

The 89th Congress

President Johnson has praised the 89th Congress as the greatest of them all. That is the way Caesar spoke of the Roman Senate after it had been shorn of power.

The 89th was the greatest rubber-stamp Congress in U.S. history. Only a couple of filibusters kept it from enacting the President's every wish. Look at the record.

Congress used to be a legislative body. It examined the needs of the government, heard the recommendations of the President and drafted appropriate legislation.

The 89th Congress was different. The Executive took over legislative draftsmanship and told the Congress what the President wanted the law to be. The job of Committee Chairmen was to defend the Executive demand from challenge in the Congress.

This legislation by Executive mandate was an insult to the Congress. It lay down a Party edict for the legislators to follow. A Congress sensible of its own high responsibility would have torn up the Executive bills and deposited them in a waste basket. A legislative body writes its legislation after hearings are held and all evidence is received, not before.

The World's Week In Focus

Red Nuclear Shot Unnerves Asian Neighbors

By Oland Silk

THERE WAS dancing in Peking streets. People shouted joyfully, beating gongs and praising Mao Tse-tung. The reason: Red China had exploded on target a nuclear weapon carried by a guided missile.

The blast — the fourth Chinese nuclear test since Oct. 16, 1964 — took place two days after the Manila conferees made peace commitments amid signs that the U.S. and Russia were warming up to a treaty that would ban the spread of atomic weapons. It also served to steal headlines away from President Johnson midway his Asian tour.

ALTHOUGH there were no details on how far the missile traveled, where the test was staged or the size of the warhead, U.S. defense officials expressed no surprise at the unpleasant development. Secretary McNamara predicted last December that Red China would have a missile capability of 500-700 miles by 1967.

Such capability will pose a threat to Nationalist-held Formosa, Thailand and Okinawa, the island fortress 400 miles off the China coast. It will also place neighboring India and Russia under the nuclear gun of a powerful psychopath.

American officials were quick to point out that a number of years would elapse before a direct Chinese nuclear attack can be made against this country. That left China's neighbors with little consolation. Apprehension appeared to be the prevailing mood among them, but not panic.

The Peking announcement, made through the New China News Agency, said "China's purpose in developing nuclear weapons is to oppose the nuclear monopoly and nuclear blackmail by the United States and the Soviet Union acting in collusion."

CHINA-WATCHERS speculated about whether the explosion would actually enhance Peking's political prestige in the world. Three other explosions did at first — then came setbacks in Africa, Cuba and Indonesia.

The initial effect of the test, other than unsettling Asian nerves, was to turn more diplomatic eyes onto the proposed anti-proliferation treaty. Many diplomats believe that efforts to keep the earth from becoming a bristling atomic camp is the most vital issue of the age.

Boycott, Kidnaping

For example:

The female fury centered on the practice of giving trading stamps. Grocers and stamp dealers defended the practice as actually lowering prices by raising volume.

OTHER GROCERY operators said the housewives were simply barking up the wrong tree. Look, you've got the wrong man, they chorused.

W. B. Murphy, president of Campbell Soup Co., said "the food store is a handy goat for the housewife, but the housewife is wrong. The guilty party is the rising economy, with its rising cost pressures."

Others blamed the Johnson Administration for curtailment of the use of farm laborers from Mexico, which raised harvesting costs. Bad weather, wage increases, a smaller-than-usual wheat crop and greater export demand were also added to list of reasons for high prices.

SUPERMARKET operators meeting in Miami promised to battle spiraling prices by fighting inflation. Housewives jeered, and noted that prices have come down in places, so "it can be done."

Meanwhile, organizations such as MMFF, HELP, WASLP, and WOW formed in ever-increasing number. The last initial refers to "Women on the Warpath."

Texas and Massachusetts governors ordered immediate investigation of food prices. Political maneuver? Quite possible. Both John Connally and John Volpe are up for re-election. In New York, presidential adviser Esther Peterson said the boycotts inspired more intelligent buying.

NO ONE knew for sure when the confrontation would end. One brave soul ventured a guess at "within the next two months."

Inflation, meanwhile, had bankers so disturbed that they suggested in convention at San Francisco that the Administration pass a general increase in federal taxes. The president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce backed the proposal.

A suggestion of a different sort came from A. Philip Randolph, Negro civil rights leader. He proposed a massive "Freedom Budget" designed to wipe out poverty in the United States by 1975. The plan would increase the federal budget from the present $112.8 to $155 billion within nine years; a $2 hourly minimum wage, set up a guaranteed income program for persons who cannot get jobs, and increase social services. Randolph is president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters.

A CONVICTED murderess caused a stir in Texas, Oklahoma, and California. She was Pearl Choate, 59-year-old amazon who married her 95-year-old patient, multi-millionaire A. Otis Birch. Miss Choate was charged with kidnaping Birch in Breckenridge, Tex., and traveling with him to Oklahoma where they were married. The couple returned to Breckenridge where, presumably, Birch's relatives filed the kidnaping charges. Miss Choate told newsmen she didn't have to marry him for his money because, "it was all in my name months ago."

The big blonde — she weighs 205 pounds — received a 22-year-sentence for murder in the 1949 slaying of an Amarillo man. She was paroled, and later sent back to prison for theft. During her domestic troubles with the Birch family last week, she allegedly took a butcher knife to a cousin.

Birch made his fortune in California citrus, and has given millions to Baptist colleges and churches.

OVER 200 Negroes arrested in Grenada, Miss., awaited trial for picketing integrated public schools. They protested harassment of colored children by whites. Most of the prisoners were held in Grenada, Batesville, Oxford, and Greenville jails.

ONLY ABRAHAM Lincoln has come closer to a war front than President Johnson, shown above with American soldiers at the Cam Ranh Bay base in South Viet Nam. Johnson made the trip from Manila in secret, shutting off all communication outlets to thwart any enterprising newsman. Johnson was accompanied by Gen. Westmoreland who said more men would be needed to win the war. LBJ told the general he expected him to come home "with the coonskin on the wall."

A panel of psychiatrists found Richard Speck, accused killer of eight student nurses, sane, and thus able to stand trial. Six panelists examined the vagabond seaman; the decision was unanimous.

Rep. Adam Clayton Powell was sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $250 if he doesn't produce a financial statement for a panel of judges on Monday. The civil contempt warrant can be served only in New York, and there's no guarantee the slippery preacher - congressman will venture into the state. So, he may avoid arrest.

Congress adjourned leaving a large workload for the next session which begins in January. Social security, the union shop, unemployment compensation, a possible tax raise, home rule for Washington, D.C., gun controls, open housing, and interstate travel of agitators are just a few of the Great Society leftovers from the 89th.

ONE important item passed in the last-minute surge was a campaign reform rider attached to a bill by Senator Russell Long, D-La. Under the plan, taxpayers could check-off $1 to finance presidential campaigns. The two major parties would receive about $30 million each. Johnson was expected to approve the non-germane rider, but it opened up a cornucopia of possibilities, proposals and counter proposals for additional reform legislation. If it sounds a bit complicated now, just wait until January.

. . . And Other Troubles

THE WHITE House and organized labor were pleased with the record of the 89th Congress. AFL-CIO President George Meany said it did more for "people in more areas of need than any of its predecessors. We must re-elect all the liberals in the 89th Congress and defeat all those who fought progress, fought President Johnson, and fought labor."

Postmaster General Lawrence O'Brien cabled the President in Manila to report that in two years Congress enacted 181 of the Administration's 200 major proposals — a batting average of .905.

Meanwhile, the Americans for Constitutional Action, reported Congress voted more conservatively in 1966 than in 1965. It called the trend "legislative backlash."

Down Pennsylvania way, Fred Waring's touring road show smashed into the back of a trailer, seriously injuring four entertainers and the bus driver. In addition, 33 other members were bruised and battered, including the grey - haired amestro himself. The Turnpike accident forced cancellation of four engagements in two states. They were scheduled to perform in Houston Saturday. Morale was high, physical condition poor.

Ford and Chrysler reported taking in more money than ever before in the opening nine months of the year — and made less profit doing so. General Motors, giant of the auto world, boasted of fabulous sales, the second best in history, but also a decline in profits.

GEORGE Hamilton, actor boyfriend of Lynda Bird Johnson, and civil rights leader, Stokely Carmichael, faced re-examination by their draft boards. Hamilton is now classified 3A, deferred because he is sole support of his mother. Carmichael, the black power kingpin, is classified 1Y, which means he doesn't meet current standards for induction.

Episcopal Bishop Pike was censured by his church's House of Bishops for "irresponsible" doctrinal statements. He asked the body for an investigation of his theological views, and his colleagues complied. Pike said he had no alternative but to seek the inquiry since his life had been affected by heresy charges. Rt. Rev. Henry Louttit, Bishop of South Florida, who brought the heresy claims, said Pike just wanted to be a martyr. The controversial bishop calls himself a "reductionist", which means generally that he believes more and more in less and less.

Asian Drama

ACCORDING TO an AP survey, the Viet Nam war was fading as a campaign issue. But it is likely to be revived when President Johnson returns from his dramatic tour of Asia. He is expected to campaign for Democrats right up to Nov. 8.

The President and the other anti-Communist allies announced after the Manila conference their readiness to withdraw all forces from South Viet Nam within six months after their peace conditions are met.

Conditions: when subversive forces of North Viet Nam are withdrawn, infiltration ceases, and violence subsides. There wasn't exactly a stampede from the Red camp to meet the requirements.

Johnson, who loves surprises, pulled a big one by flying to South Viet Nam's Cam Ranh Bay base to visit GIs. He spoke to the men, pinned medals on heroes, signed leg and arm casts at a hospital, and ate dinner with officers and enlisted men. GIs, who can't work up political partisanship when so many other things are on their mind, cheered and applauded their visitor.

HIS STAY lasted over 2 hours, and was not reported until he was safe back in Manila. On arrival there two days earlier, he was met by a howling mob of 3,000 Asian students. And those boys in Australia who tossed the paint on his bubble-top wrote letters of apology.

On Friday the Presidential party went to Thailand.

About the time of the secret trip, fire broke out in the U.S. aircraft carrier Oriskany, killing 34 jet pilots and nine others. The 43 victims were trapped when magnesium flares exploded three decks below, blocking exits and corridors. The pilots had been daily risking their lives against targets in North Viet Nam.

IN BRITAIN, the Labor government cracked down on the sloppily-run prison system after Soviet spy, George Blake, escaped from Wormwood Scrubs jail.

As a onetime British Foreign Office employe, he passed secrets to the Russians. Result: the whole Western intelligence network in the Middle East and Eastern Europe collapsed. Forty agents disappeared, were either imprisoned or liquidated.

The Week's Twin Cities-Area News In Review

By RICHARD TYLER

Wrap your mind around these words and test your Sunday morning citizenship:

"The national government should do none of those things the state government can do for itself. The state government should do none of those things the local governments can do effectively for themselves.

"And no government should do for the people the things the people can themselves do."

The American State Papers? The Federalist? Representative Government? By Jefferson, Madison, John Stuart Mill? No.

TYLER

Actually, the words were spoken last week in Monroe by former Gov. Sam H. Jones, a man proven by events as well as by his own honorable word to have "no political axes to grind."

The concept above, taken from his address, of course, is not original with the 69-year-old Lake Charles attorney, nor did he claim it was. But part of the essence of his talk before the Kiwanis Club was that living the thought is perhaps a harder task today than when it was conceived.

In prior chatting with the press, good government seemed the origin and destination of every train of thought running. Jones seemed, in short, to live up to his notices as a man with the experience, intellect and integrity to cope with the task assigned: To think the unthinkable and come to grips with the reorganization of state government.

That's what lies ahead and mind-staggering as it is, the former governor feels it can't come too soon. The immediate past, present and near future, however, concerned him Wednesday in Monroe as, on a swing through north Louisiana, he sought support for nine constitutional amendments he helped formulate.

Numbered 2, 4, 5, 14, 16, 18, 19, 20 and 21, the revisions aim at curbing what Jones sees as an unhealthy growth of power in the executive branch of government and its outstripping in size and influence of the legislative and judicial. But primarily they seek restoration of local control in municipalities and parishes.

Success of the amendments "would strike a mighty blow," although Jones maintains more reform is necessary, even in the constitution itself and its amending process. The ex-governor calls that Louisiana document, already amended some 600 times, "monstrous."

For the expressed sake of his amendments, Jones did not and has not taken a public stand on the first of the 45 amendments to be considered by the voters Nov. 8 — that allowing governors two consecutive terms. He has said he feels a position on either side of that hotly-debated issue could jeopardize the work of his Committee on Governor's Powers.

OTHERS JOINING

Notwithstanding the former governor's reticence about Amendment 1, others in the Twin City area were joining, in substantial number, Gov. John McKeithen's drive to make two-term guberantorial succession possible.

"Let McKeithen Run;Vote Number 1" became more than a bumper sticker slogan. It became the week's rallying cry, as one by one officials said the idea was a good one.

In the order they came, the list, by Friday evening, included Sen. Spencer Myrick, Oak Grove; Rep. David Patten, Catahoula; West Monroe Mayor Bert Hatten; Rep. S. S. DeWitt, Tensas; Rep. James McCormack, Morehouse; Rep. J. W. Richardson, Caldwell; Rep. Benny Christian, Richland; Sen. J. C. Gilbert, Sicily Island; Monroe Mayor W. L. Howard; Street Commissioner W. D. H. Rodriguez; Sen. Jamar Adcock of Monroe; Rep. Edgar Lancaster, Madison; Ouachita Police Jury President T. W. Humphries and Ward 6 juror Lloyd Coon.

Of the local officials, except for Adcock, the endorsements were "on principle" and apparently were not based on personalities. Hatten's statement spelled this out, holding that in government as in business turning out the top executive every four years is not a good practice.

He held, as did Howard, who also endorsed the nine Jones amendments, that governors should share the right, with other elected state officers, of seeking re-election. Howard, the recipient of a "non-political" visit from Gov. McKeithen on Monday, made an analogy between state and city government.

In the Monroe mayor's opinion, had he not been able to seek re-election, which he has done twice, long-range plans — such as those for the city's new Government Center, dedicated Sunday—might not have been carried out.

The mayor had not responded publicly to earlier questions about the succession amendment, but his statement Thursday said he had been studying all the amendments for several weeks. While he had no plans to do so, he added that he would campaign for Amendment 1, if asked.

Rodriguez' statement said he has favored gubernatorial succession "for a number of years."

The feelings of Humphries and Coon also were "on principle," though Adcock said his reason for backing the amendment is "simple." An administration floor leader, he declared, "I want to see John McKeithen governor for six more years," since, "I feel he has been the greatest governor this state has had in modern times."

Coon's decision to back the amendment "100 per cent" followed his vote last week in the 12-7 majority against extending official jury support. "My vote to table the resolution was not because I was against the amendment, but just because I felt each juror should speak independently," he said Friday.

LIVELY POLITICS

All accounted, the last was a lively political week, despite the governor's "non-political" visit. The new $2.8 million Monroe Government Center, counting up, actually was visited by three governors during the period — McKeithen, Jones and James A. Noe, local businessman who headed the citizens' committee which promoted the bond issue that funded the project. Official business started in the Center on Monday.

The incumbent, however — due to return this Thurday to address the West Monroe Lions' Club Family Night program at Riser School — had other tours on his local agenda Monday. Among the stops was E. A. Conway Memorial Hospital, where a $2.2 million expansion is slated.

McKeithen also gave Howard a "strong commitment" on construction of the north-south expressway through the city. The two officials concurred, after a private talk, that the approximately $3 million project to link I-20 with U.S. 80 will be "speeded up."

Also during the week, the governor naturally was hoping for the succession amendment's success and looking beyond to say what has been almost a foregone conclusion — that he probably will face in the race for the mansion former Gov. Jimmie Davis and former U.S. Rep. Gillis Long. Davis, in the meantime, was elected in Memphis, Tenn., as president of the National Gospel Music Association, succeeding Tennessee Ernie Ford.

More political news centered on the implicit disagreement of McKeithen and Adcock on the one hand and Sen. Howard Jones of St. Joseph on the other over the viability of state finances. Politics probably were germaine also in the issue of teacher pay raises, which got mixed in the apparent financial uncertainty.

McKeithen and the legislative budget committee chairman discounted, in effect, Jones' insistence that the state will wind up in the hole by the end of the fiscal year June 30. Adcock, an estimable expert on large sums of money (and the Louisiana budget of $1.3 billion is middling), made plain a positive commitment of the administration to finish implementation of school salaries, adding his contention that it can be done through June with existing revenues.

Jones, a budget committee member himself, was commenting separately that a new tax may be needed just to break even and he promised figures this week to gird the contention. McKeithen found the state's financial position sound, he said, though he still is thinking in terms of a possible tax for implementation purposes.

On the subject of pay, West Monroe Mayor Hatten, having recently weathered the threat of a strike by some workers, last week announced that the city's aldermen have turned down raises requested by municipal firemen. West Monroe finished its last fiscal year with a deficit of over $24,000.

And a final political word might concern the Jackson Parish Police Jury's action Thursday with regards to Senate reapportionment. The word was "No," and it was delivered to this hypothesis, "Should Jackson Parish be distributed with Caldwell, Catahoula, Concordia and LaSalle." Jurors suggest the "community of interests" would be more favorable with Bienville, Claiborne and Lincoln Parishes.

CIVIC FRONT

The Government Center was the week's major civic front knockout, but it was far from the only project underway or in mind. The Monroe Civic Center, which will join the Government Center next Labor Day to form a City Plaza, was looking, in the vernacular, better every day.

Meeting for the first time in the new City Hall on Tuesday, the Monroe Council accepted bids — not always the apparent low ones — totalling $295,931 on furniture and equipment for the cultural complex. Seeming low bids were passed over in a number of cases, as the Council followed the advice of Center Director Bill Lillyman to "buy for the future as well as for the present." The director said the less expensive items did not meet base specifications.

Lillyman, by the way, formerly headquartered in offices at Selman Field, came downtown Friday to new accommodations in the City Hall, for which he can check more closely the work across Seventh Street on the Civic Center.

Still talking civic improvement and progress of a sort, readers who recall the first lines of this Sunday's treatise may observe that the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) last week was proposing to skip the step between national and local governments.

A member of the department's planning staff was in Monroe on Thursday to appear before the fourth inter-governmental cooperation session between Twin City and parish official circles.

Newly-formed, HUD is expected to spend on grants and other assistance in this fiscal year around $4.3 billion. "Total community planning" and formation of a Regional Planning Commission would be required for HUD assistance on possibly desired projects — a sewage treatment plant in West Monroe, recreation parks in the parish, airport improvements in Monroe.

An official who attended said privately afterwards that various federal agencies seem almost in competition to expend their funds.

Meanwhile, a local improvement done locally was illustrated Friday when the Ouachita Police Jury dedicated its first oxidation pond. Located in Ward 3, off the Moore Road, was built and paid for, on a 10-acre site with room for additions, exclusively by the parish.

Sanitation Chairman C. W. Whetstone said the pond will mean the end of raw sewage dumping onto the Ouachita River by parish-franchised septic tank haulers.

Another problem of old was center stage in the limelight again last week, after a recurrence of foul odors and house-staining on the Monroe southside described as the "worst ever."

Mayor Howard sent a telegram to officials of Olin Mathieson in West Monroe, "asking them to advise us if they have taken any of the measures proposed to prevent such occurences." Commissioner H. W. McSherry, who visited the company about a month ago with Howard and Commissioner Rodriguez, went again. He urged Olin's use in its pond treatment system of a chemical enzyme recently adopted by the city for its sewage disposal plant.

A number of complaining residents notified the local papers of the odors and stains. "I'm staying behind this until something is done," McSherry said.

OTHER NEWS

While space remains, there are these last week items that mustn't be omitted:

— Delta Airlines, founded in Monroe in 1925, had its annual stockholders' meeting at Central Bank and presented bank President Conway Crossland with a portrait of Delta founder and former Monroyan, the late C. E. Woolman. It will hang in the bank's Delta Room.

— Absentee voting began, prior to the Nov. 8 general election, and runs through 5 p.m. Monday.

— United Givers' Fund workers were pressing ahead toward a $295,482 goal, having collected $180,097, or 60.8 per cent of the need.

—The well-known W. W. Durden, 87, of Ruston, died Monday. He was a former manager of the city's Chamber of Commerce.

— Southern Bell District Manager W. E. Whetstone gave Monroe officials a golden telephone, symbolic of the company's having installed its 50,000th phone in the Monroe Exchange area.

Justice Clark

The news media in the United States owes Supreme Court justice a vote of thanks for defending it against the lofty theorists of the nation's legal profession.

Recently, Justice Clark said that the guidelines set forth by the court in the Sam Sheppard murder case were aimed at judges and not at the public's source of information and in so doing he underscored the position of the press.

Obviously, the courts have the powers, jurisdiction and control to do their job without imposing restrictions of questionable constitutional standing, the Texas jurist said.

Recently, an American Bar Association committee proposed restrictions on release and publication of information pertaining to crime. This also drew opposition from Mr. Clark, who is not among the advocates of changes in methods of covering criminal trials, nor does he foresee any such decision by the high court in the near future.

The support of a free press by high legal personages of Justice Clark's caliber offers fresh hope that the legal intelligentsia's drive toward censorship can be blunted before it gains momentum.

Our opinion has always been that the bar association is delving into affairs that are not of its concern, when it seeks to stem the flow of information to the public. Maybe eventually such statements as those made by the justice will impress even the loftiest thinkers on rights and privileges.

Correct Grammar

The weekly bulletin of the Rotary Club of Houston, Texas has come up with an amusing list of ungrammatical rules for those of us who have trouble composing our sentences.

They go like this:

1. Verbs has got to agree with their subjects.
2. Each pronoun agrees with their antecedents.
3. Don't use no double negatives.
4. Join clauses good, like a conjunction should.
5. In letters memos reports etcetera use commas to keep a string of items apart.
6. Don't use, comas which, aren't necessary.
7. Check to see if you any words out or make any misteaks in spelling.

QUOTE OF THE WEEK overheard in a street corner conversation: "We should quit making friends with any more nations; they might invite us to participate in their wars."

Time For The Ghosts

Most people don't believe in ghosts — at least until you start talking about them, then most will come up with a ghost story, and generally, although they won't admit it, it is from their own experience.

With Halloween tomorrow, maybe this is the time to recall some true ghost stories — and me L believe in them — ghosts that is.

Therefore if you live alone in a big, old house, call in a friend to hold your hand while reading this.

"We're sure most people have heard floorboards crack, or bumps in the attic and door hinges squeal.

You get up, turn on the lights and see nothing. Yet there is a feeling of a presence there.

According to ghost-hunter Hans Holzer, some people claim to see human forms floating about their homes when such sounds are heard.

Incidentally, if that should happen at your house, Holzer says, don't faint, run or reach for a gun.

"Ghost don't chase people," he said, adding "Ghosts are spirits in trouble and won't harm the living. In fact, 99 per cent of all ghosts aren't aware that you see them. They only see their world."

Holzer, who believes in ghosts, is a parapsychologist specializing in extrasensory perception, psychic experience, ghosts and haunted houses.

For 20 years, he says, he's tracked after ghostly things in reportedly haunted houses. He said he has chased ghosts from several hundred places and currently has requests for help from nearly 1,500 occupants of haunted houses in the United States.

His theory, whether you accept it or not, is that if a person dies before his time and by violent means and hasn't had premonitions of an untimely ending, a part of the personality hangs on, roaming about restlessly.

One ghost, he says, is Marion Gernt, age 300. She suffers from the nightmare of an untimely death by fire and lives in a house in England. Another, according to Holzer, is Hungry Jucy, believed to haunt June Havoc's place on New York's West Side. That ghost is said to date from the Revolutionary War.

Holzer has written books about ghosts, describing many of them.

Honestly, I've had a couple of experiences with ghosts. Once as a teenager. While walking by a country church and cemetery late at night, I heard as plain as day hammering going on inside the church which was located at the cemetery gate. Nothing showed and I didn't tarry around to investigate.

Another was late in the afternoon along a country road when a form floated across in front of me. As I got even with the place, I didn't see anything — but an eerie feeling hit me.

I broke the four-minute mile and that was long before it officially was broken.

And if you really want to hear some ghost and spirit stories, attend a wake for the dead way out in the country as I did as a youth where the neighbors come in with food and sit up all night with the dead.

When you've done that and heard the stories that make the rounds, these fables about the Flying Saucers are tame by comparison.

The 89th Congress

President Johnson has praised the 89th Congress as the greatest of them all. That is the way Caesar spoke of the Roman Senate after it had been shorn of power.

The 89th was the greatest rubber-stamp Congress in U.S. history. Only a couple of filibusters kept it from enacting the President's every wish. Look at the record.

Congress used to be a legislative body. It examined the needs of the government, heard the recommendations of the President and drafted appropriate legislation.

The 89th Congress was different. The Executive took over legislative draftsmanship and told the Congress what the President wanted the law to be. The job of Committee Chairmen was to defend the Executive demand from challenge in the Congress.

This legislation by Executive mandate was an insult to the Congress. It lay down a Party edict for the legislators to follow. A Congress sensible of its own high responsibility would have torn up the Executive bills and deposited them in a waste basket. A legislative body writes its legislation after hearings are held and all evidence is received, not before.

The World's Week In Focus

Red Nuclear Shot Unnerves Asian Neighbors

By Oland Silk

THERE WAS dancing in Peking streets. People shouted joyfully, beating gongs and praising Mao Tse-tung. The reason: Red China had exploded on target a nuclear weapon carried by a guided missile.

The blast — the fourth Chinese nuclear test since Oct. 16, 1964 — took place two days after the Manila conferees made peace commitments amid signs that the U.S. and Russia were warming up to a treaty that would ban the spread of atomic weapons. It also served to steal headlines away from President Johnson midway his Asian tour.

ALTHOUGH there were no details on how far the missile traveled, where the test was staged or the size of the warhead, U.S. defense officials expressed no surprise at the unpleasant development. Secretary McNamara predicted last December that Red China would have a missile capability of 500-700 miles by 1967.

Such capability will pose a threat to Nationalist-held Formosa, Thailand and Okinawa, the island fortress 400 miles off the China coast. It will also place neighboring India and Russia under the nuclear gun of a powerful psychopath.

American officials were quick to point out that a number of years would elapse before a direct Chinese nuclear attack can be made against this country. That left China's neighbors with little consolation. Apprehension appeared to be the prevailing mood among them, but not panic.

The Peking announcement, made through the New China News Agency, said "China's purpose in developing nuclear weapons is to oppose the nuclear monopoly and nuclear blackmail by the United States and the Soviet Union acting in collusion."

CHINA-WATCHERS speculated about whether the explosion would actually enhance Peking's political prestige in the world. Three other explosions did at first — then came setbacks in Africa, Cuba and Indonesia.

The initial effect of the test, other than unsettling Asian nerves, was to turn more diplomatic eyes onto the proposed anti-proliferation treaty. Many diplomats believe that efforts to keep the earth from becoming a bristling atomic camp is the most vital issue of the age.

Boycott, Kidnaping

For example:

The female fury centered on the practice of giving trading stamps. Grocers and stamp dealers defended the practice as actually lowering prices by raising volume.

OTHER GROCERY operators said the housewives were simply barking up the wrong tree. Look, you've got the wrong man, they chorused.

W. B. Murphy, president of Campbell Soup Co., said "the food store is a handy goat for the housewife, but the housewife is wrong. The guilty party is the rising economy, with its rising cost pressures."

Others blamed the Johnson Administration for curtailment of the use of farm laborers from Mexico, which raised harvesting costs. Bad weather, wage increases, a smaller-than-usual wheat crop and greater export demand were also added to list of reasons for high prices.

SUPERMARKET operators meeting in Miami promised to battle spiraling prices by fighting inflation. Housewives jeered, and noted that prices have come down in places, so "it can be done."

Meanwhile, organizations such as MMFF, HELP, WASLP, and WOW formed in ever-increasing number. The last initial refers to "Women on the Warpath."

Texas and Massachusetts governors ordered immediate investigation of food prices. Political maneuver? Quite possible. Both John Connally and John Volpe are up for re-election. In New York, presidential adviser Esther Peterson said the boycotts inspired more intelligent buying.

NO ONE knew for sure when the confrontation would end. One brave soul ventured a guess at "within the next two months."

Inflation, meanwhile, had bankers so disturbed that they suggested in convention at San Francisco that the Administration pass a general increase in federal taxes. The president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce backed the proposal.

A suggestion of a different sort came from A. Philip Randolph, Negro civil rights leader. He proposed a massive "Freedom Budget" designed to wipe out poverty in the United States by 1975. The plan would increase the federal budget from the present $112.8 to $155 billion within nine years; a $2 hourly minimum wage, set up a guaranteed income program for persons who cannot get jobs, and increase social services. Randolph is president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters.

A CONVICTED murderess caused a stir in Texas, Oklahoma, and California. She was Pearl Choate, 59-year-old amazon who married her 95-year-old patient, multi-millionaire A. Otis Birch. Miss Choate was charged with kidnaping Birch in Breckenridge, Tex., and traveling with him to Oklahoma where they were married. The couple returned to Breckenridge where, presumably, Birch's relatives filed the kidnaping charges. Miss Choate told newsmen she didn't have to marry him for his money because, "it was all in my name months ago."

The big blonde — she weighs 205 pounds — received a 22-year-sentence for murder in the 1949 slaying of an Amarillo man. She was paroled, and later sent back to prison for theft. During her domestic troubles with the Birch family last week, she allegedly took a butcher knife to a cousin.

Birch made his fortune in California citrus, and has given millions to Baptist colleges and churches.

OVER 200 Negroes arrested in Grenada, Miss., awaited trial for picketing integrated public schools. They protested harassment of colored children by whites. Most of the prisoners were held in Grenada, Batesville, Oxford, and Greenville jails.

ONLY ABRAHAM Lincoln has come closer to a war front than President Johnson, shown above with American soldiers at the Cam Ranh Bay base in South Viet Nam. Johnson made the trip from Manila in secret, shutting off all communication outlets to thwart any enterprising newsman. Johnson was accompanied by Gen. Westmoreland who said more men would be needed to win the war. LBJ told the general he expected him to come home "with the coonskin on the wall."

A panel of psychiatrists found Richard Speck, accused killer of eight student nurses, sane, and thus able to stand trial. Six panelists examined the vagabond seaman; the decision was unanimous.

Rep. Adam Clayton Powell was sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $250 if he doesn't produce a financial statement for a panel of judges on Monday. The civil contempt warrant can be served only in New York, and there's no guarantee the slippery preacher - congressman will venture into the state. So, he may avoid arrest.

Congress adjourned leaving a large workload for the next session which begins in January. Social security, the union shop, unemployment compensation, a possible tax raise, home rule for Washington, D.C., gun controls, open housing, and interstate travel of agitators are just a few of the Great Society leftovers from the 89th.

ONE important item passed in the last-minute surge was a campaign reform rider attached to a bill by Senator Russell Long, D-La. Under the plan, taxpayers could check-off $1 to finance presidential campaigns. The two major parties would receive about $30 million each. Johnson was expected to approve the non-germane rider, but it opened up a cornucopia of possibilities, proposals and counter proposals for additional reform legislation. If it sounds a bit complicated now, just wait until January.

. . . And Other Troubles

THE WHITE House and organized labor were pleased with the record of the 89th Congress. AFL-CIO President George Meany said it did more for "people in more areas of need than any of its predecessors. We must re-elect all the liberals in the 89th Congress and defeat all those who fought progress, fought President Johnson, and fought labor."

Postmaster General Lawrence O'Brien cabled the President in Manila to report that in two years Congress enacted 181 of the Administration's 200 major proposals — a batting average of .905.

Meanwhile, the Americans for Constitutional Action, reported Congress voted more conservatively in 1966 than in 1965. It called the trend "legislative backlash."

Down Pennsylvania way, Fred Waring's touring road show smashed into the back of a trailer, seriously injuring four entertainers and the bus driver. In addition, 33 other members were bruised and battered, including the grey - haired amestro himself. The Turnpike accident forced cancellation of four engagements in two states. They were scheduled to perform in Houston Saturday. Morale was high, physical condition poor.

Ford and Chrysler reported taking in more money than ever before in the opening nine months of the year — and made less profit doing so. General Motors, giant of the auto world, boasted of fabulous sales, the second best in history, but also a decline in profits.

GEORGE Hamilton, actor boyfriend of Lynda Bird Johnson, and civil rights leader, Stokely Carmichael, faced re-examination by their draft boards. Hamilton is now classified 3A, deferred because he is sole support of his mother. Carmichael, the black power kingpin, is classified 1Y, which means he doesn't meet current standards for induction.

Episcopal Bishop Pike was censured by his church's House of Bishops for "irresponsible" doctrinal statements. He asked the body for an investigation of his theological views, and his colleagues complied. Pike said he had no alternative but to seek the inquiry since his life had been affected by heresy charges. Rt. Rev. Henry Louttit, Bishop of South Florida, who brought the heresy claims, said Pike just wanted to be a martyr. The controversial bishop calls himself a "reductionist", which means generally that he believes more and more in less and less.

Asian Drama

ACCORDING TO an AP survey, the Viet Nam war was fading as a campaign issue. But it is likely to be revived when President Johnson returns from his dramatic tour of Asia. He is expected to campaign for Democrats right up to Nov. 8.

The President and the other anti-Communist allies announced after the Manila conference their readiness to withdraw all forces from South Viet Nam within six months after their peace conditions are met.

Conditions: when subversive forces of North Viet Nam are withdrawn, infiltration ceases, and violence subsides. There wasn't exactly a stampede from the Red camp to meet the requirements.

Johnson, who loves surprises, pulled a big one by flying to South Viet Nam's Cam Ranh Bay base to visit GIs. He spoke to the men, pinned medals on heroes, signed leg and arm casts at a hospital, and ate dinner with officers and enlisted men. GIs, who can't work up political partisanship when so many other things are on their mind, cheered and applauded their visitor.

HIS STAY lasted over 2 hours, and was not reported until he was safe back in Manila. On arrival there two days earlier, he was met by a howling mob of 3,000 Asian students. And those boys in Australia who tossed the paint on his bubble-top wrote letters of apology.

On Friday the Presidential party went to Thailand.

About the time of the secret trip, fire broke out in the U.S. aircraft carrier Oriskany, killing 34 jet pilots and nine others. The 43 victims were trapped when magnesium flares exploded three decks below, blocking exits and corridors. The pilots had been daily risking their lives against targets in North Viet Nam.

IN BRITAIN, the Labor government cracked down on the sloppily-run prison system after Soviet spy, George Blake, escaped from Wormwood Scrubs jail.

As a onetime British Foreign Office employe, he passed secrets to the Russians. Result: the whole Western intelligence network in the Middle East and Eastern Europe collapsed. Forty agents disappeared, were either imprisoned or liquidated.

Notwithstanding the former governor's reticence about Amendment 1, others in the Twin City area were joining, in substantial number, Gov. John McKeithen's drive to make two-term guberantorial succession possible.

"Let McKeithen Run;Vote Number 1" became more than a bumper sticker slogan. It became the week's rallying cry, as one by one officials said the idea was a good one.

In the order they came, the list, by Friday evening, included Sen. Spencer Myrick, Oak Grove; Rep. David Patten, Catahoula; West Monroe Mayor Bert Hatten; Rep. S. S. DeWitt, Tensas; Rep. James McCormack, Morehouse; Rep. J. W. Richardson, Caldwell; Rep. Benny Christian, Richland; Sen. J. C. Gilbert, Sicily Island; Monroe Mayor W. L. Howard; Street Commissioner W. D. H. Rodriguez; Sen. Jamar Adcock of Monroe; Rep. Edgar Lancaster, Madison; Ouachita Police Jury President T. W. Humphries and Ward 6 juror Lloyd Coon.

Of the local officials, except for Adcock, the endorsements were "on principle" and apparently were not based on personalities. Hatten's statement spelled this out, holding that in government as in business turning out the top executive every four years is not a good practice.

He held, as did Howard, who also endorsed the nine Jones amendments, that governors should share the right, with other elected state officers, of seeking re-election. Howard, the recipient of a "non-political" visit from Gov. McKeithen on Monday, made an analogy between state and city government.

In the Monroe mayor's opinion, had he not been able to seek re-election, which he has done twice, long-range plans — such as those for the city's new Government Center, dedicated Sunday—might not have been carried out.

The mayor had not responded publicly to earlier questions about the succession amendment, but his statement Thursday said he had been studying all the amendments for several weeks. While he had no plans to do so, he added that he would campaign for Amendment 1, if asked.

Rodriguez' statement said he has favored gubernatorial succession "for a number of years."

The feelings of Humphries and Coon also were "on principle," though Adcock said his reason for backing the amendment is "simple." An administration floor leader, he declared, "I want to see John McKeithen governor for six more years," since, "I feel he has been the greatest governor this state has had in modern times."

Coon's decision to back the amendment "100 per cent" followed his vote last week in the 12-7 majority against extending official jury support. "My vote to table the resolution was not because I was against the amendment, but just because I felt each juror should speak independently," he said Friday.

LIVELY POLITICS

All accounted, the last was a lively political week, despite the governor's "non-political" visit. The new $2.8 million Monroe Government Center, counting up, actually was visited by three governors during the period — McKeithen, Jones and James A. Noe, local businessman who headed the citizens' committee which promoted the bond issue that funded the project. Official business started in the Center on Monday.

The incumbent, however — due to return this Thurday to address the West Monroe Lions' Club Family Night program at Riser School — had other tours on his local agenda Monday. Among the stops was E. A. Conway Memorial Hospital, where a $2.2 million expansion is slated.

McKeithen also gave Howard a "strong commitment" on construction of the north-south expressway through the city. The two officials concurred, after a private talk, that the approximately $3 million project to link I-20 with U.S. 80 will be "speeded up."

Also during the week, the governor naturally was hoping for the succession amendment's success and looking beyond to say what has been almost a foregone conclusion — that he probably will face in the race for the mansion former Gov. Jimmie Davis and former U.S. Rep. Gillis Long. Davis, in the meantime, was elected in Memphis, Tenn., as president of the National Gospel Music Association, succeeding Tennessee Ernie Ford.

More political news centered on the implicit disagreement of McKeithen and Adcock on the one hand and Sen. Howard Jones of St. Joseph on the other over the viability of state finances. Politics probably were germaine also in the issue of teacher pay raises, which got mixed in the apparent financial uncertainty.

McKeithen and the legislative budget committee chairman discounted, in effect, Jones' insistence that the state will wind up in the hole by the end of the fiscal year June 30. Adcock, an estimable expert on large sums of money (and the Louisiana budget of $1.3 billion is middling), made plain a positive commitment of the administration to finish implementation of school salaries, adding his contention that it can be done through June with existing revenues.

Jones, a budget committee member himself, was commenting separately that a new tax may be needed just to break even and he promised figures this week to gird the contention. McKeithen found the state's financial position sound, he said, though he still is thinking in terms of a possible tax for implementation purposes.

On the subject of pay, West Monroe Mayor Hatten, having recently weathered the threat of a strike by some workers, last week announced that the city's aldermen have turned down raises requested by municipal firemen. West Monroe finished its last fiscal year with a deficit of over $24,000.

And a final political word might concern the Jackson Parish Police Jury's action Thursday with regards to Senate reapportionment. The word was "No," and it was delivered to this hypothesis, "Should Jackson Parish be distributed with Caldwell, Catahoula, Concordia and LaSalle." Jurors suggest the "community of interests" would be more favorable with Bienville, Claiborne and Lincoln Parishes.

CIVIC FRONT

The Government Center was the week's major civic front knockout, but it was far from the only project underway or in mind. The Monroe Civic Center, which will join the Government Center next Labor Day to form a City Plaza, was looking, in the vernacular, better every day.

Meeting for the first time in the new City Hall on Tuesday, the Monroe Council accepted bids — not always the apparent low ones — totalling $295,931 on furniture and equipment for the cultural complex. Seeming low bids were passed over in a number of cases, as the Council followed the advice of Center Director Bill Lillyman to "buy for the future as well as for the present." The director said the less expensive items did not meet base specifications.

Lillyman, by the way, formerly headquartered in offices at Selman Field, came downtown Friday to new accommodations in the City Hall, for which he can check more closely the work across Seventh Street on the Civic Center.

Still talking civic improvement and progress of a sort, readers who recall the first lines of this Sunday's treatise may observe that the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) last week was proposing to skip the step between national and local governments.

A member of the department's planning staff was in Monroe on Thursday to appear before the fourth inter-governmental cooperation session between Twin City and parish official circles.

Newly-formed, HUD is expected to spend on grants and other assistance in this fiscal year around $4.3 billion. "Total community planning" and formation of a Regional Planning Commission would be required for HUD assistance on possibly desired projects — a sewage treatment plant in West Monroe, recreation parks in the parish, airport improvements in Monroe.

An official who attended said privately afterwards that various federal agencies seem almost in competition to expend their funds.

Meanwhile, a local improvement done locally was illustrated Friday when the Ouachita Police Jury dedicated its first oxidation pond. Located in Ward 3, off the Moore Road, was built and paid for, on a 10-acre site with room for additions, exclusively by the parish.

Sanitation Chairman C. W. Whetstone said the pond will mean the end of raw sewage dumping onto the Ouachita River by parish-franchised septic tank haulers.

Another problem of old was center stage in the limelight again last week, after a recurrence of foul odors and house-staining on the Monroe southside described as the "worst ever."

Mayor Howard sent a telegram to officials of Olin Mathieson in West Monroe, "asking them to advise us if they have taken any of the measures proposed to prevent such occurences." Commissioner H. W. McSherry, who visited the company about a month ago with Howard and Commissioner Rodriguez, went again. He urged Olin's use in its pond treatment system of a chemical enzyme recently adopted by the city for its sewage disposal plant.

A number of complaining residents notified the local papers of the odors and stains. "I'm staying behind this until something is done," McSherry said.

OTHER NEWS

While space remains, there are these last week items that mustn't be omitted:

— Delta Airlines, founded in Monroe in 1925, had its annual stockholders' meeting at Central Bank and presented bank President Conway Crossland with a portrait of Delta founder and former Monroyan, the late C. E. Woolman. It will hang in the bank's Delta Room.

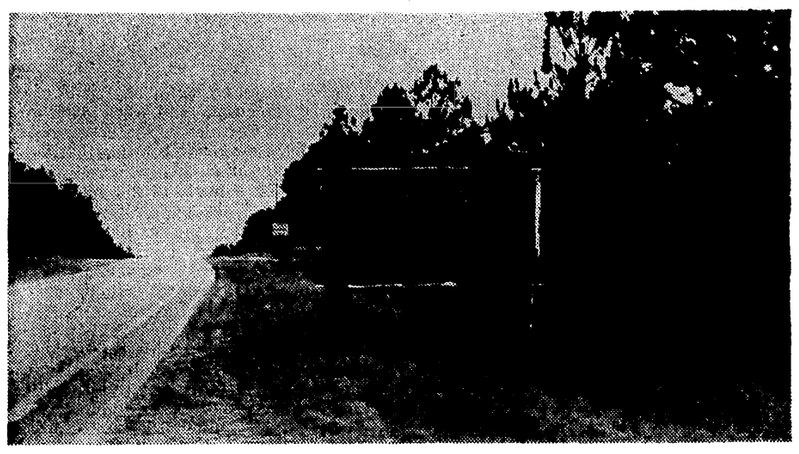
— Absentee voting began, prior to the Nov. 8 general election, and runs through 5 p.m. Monday.

— United Givers' Fund workers were pressing ahead toward a $295,482 goal, having collected $180,097, or 60.8 per cent of the need.

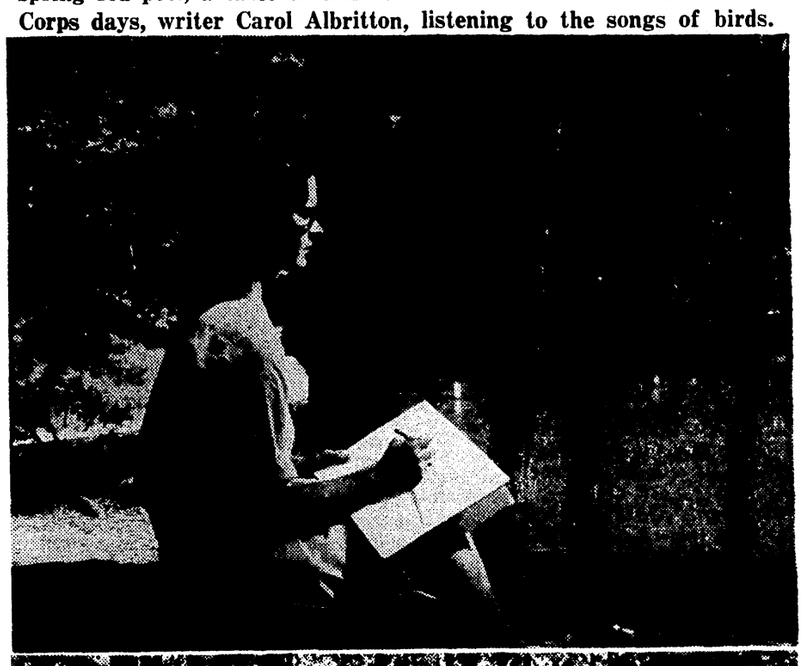
—The well-known W. W. Durden, 87, of Ruston, died Monday. He was a former manager of the city's Chamber of Commerce.

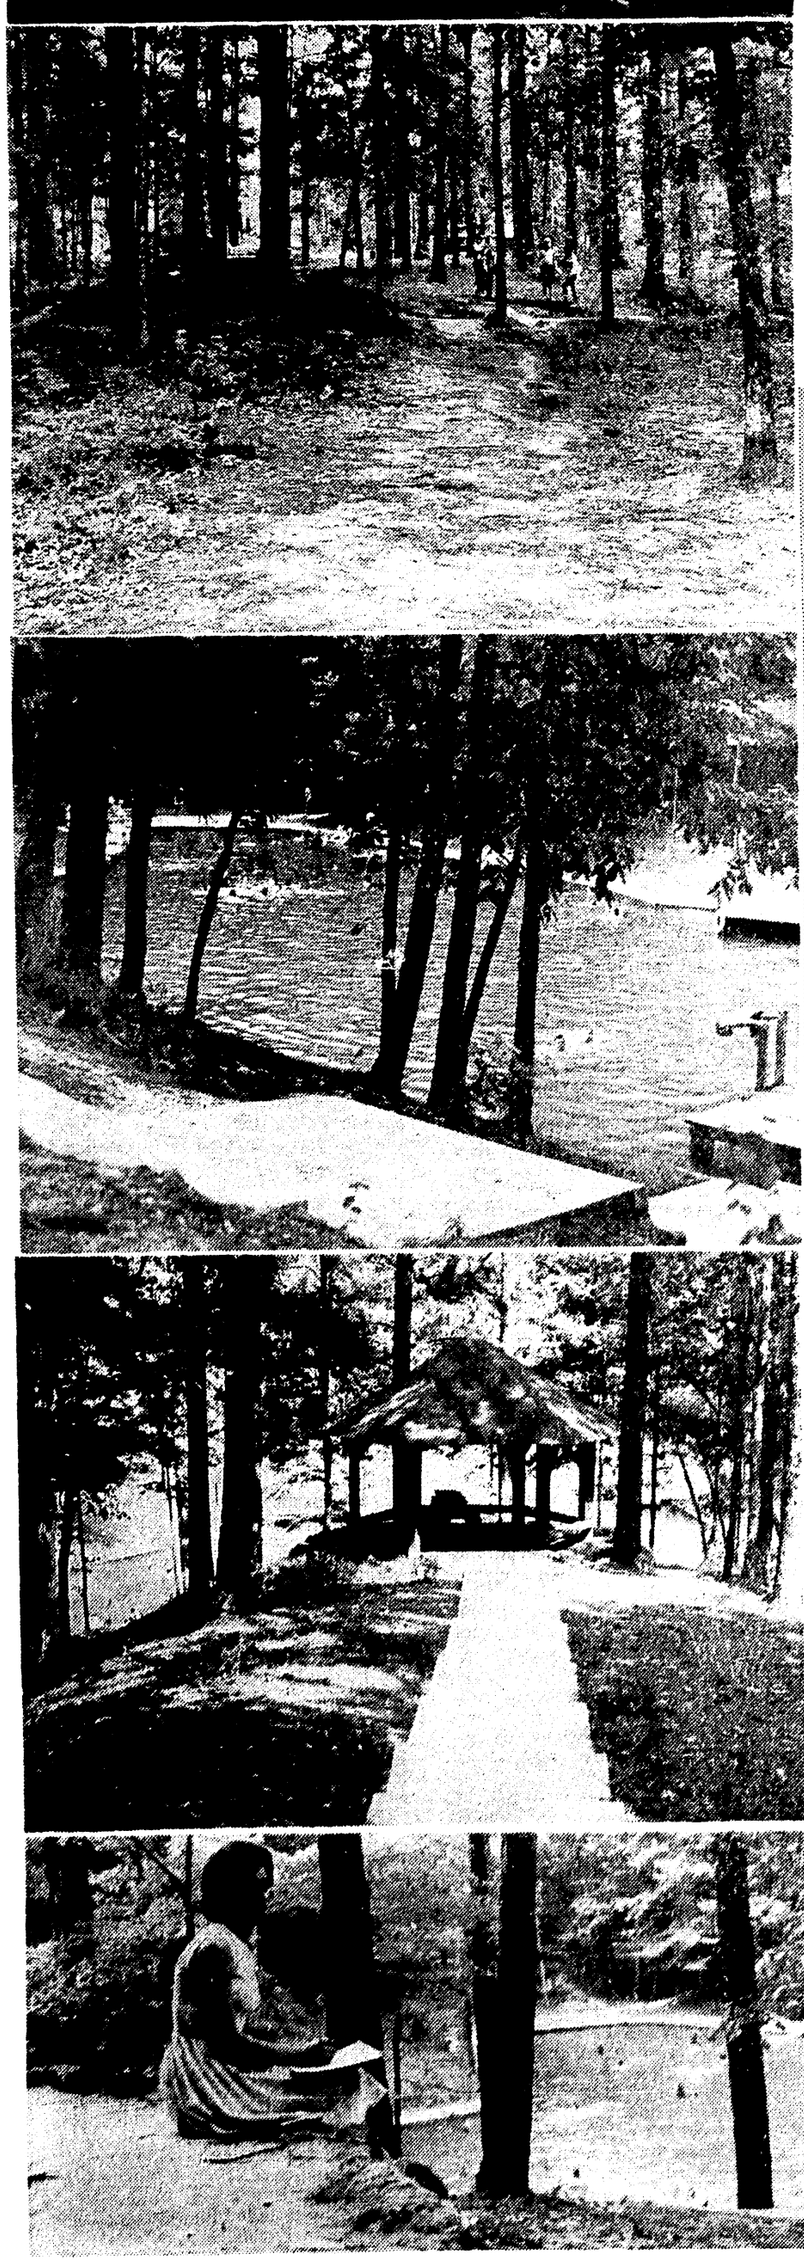
— Southern Bell District Manager W. E. Whetstone gave Monroe officials a golden telephone, symbolic of the company's having installed its 50,000th phone in the Monroe Exchange area.

Gum Springs Area Nature Retreat



FROM THE SIGN on U.S. Highway 84, several miles west of Winnfield, visitors to Gum Springs Recreation Area move into a region of many natural attractions. Recorded are some scenes photographed in the recreation area: Artist Kathy Greer does a nature sketch, children play among the trees, swimmers enjoy a workout in the spring fed pool, a table shelter constructed in Civilian Conservation Corps days, writer Carol Albritton, listening to the songs of birds.





A haven for nature lovers, picnickers, and swimmers, located nine miles west of Winnfield, was originally developed as a recreation site for boys in the old Civilian Conservation Corps in the middle 1930's, but now its facilities are open to the public.

PATRICIA MAXWELL

The jumping-off place for this Shangri-La is Winnfield, and as you head out of town on U. S. Highway 84 you will need to be especially careful not to miss the modest redwood sign which reads: Gum Springs Recreation Area. Because of the simplicity of the sign and the entrance, which give no hint of the beauty lying beyond, you might go by unimpressed — and unaware that you had missed one of the most delightful public parks in all the Southland.

This simplicity is, of course, the charm of this place. Here is the rustic glorified, the wilderness in its own natural splendor. In the lush 10-acre spread of rolling wooded hills there lies, among the varied arrays of perennial shrubs and prolific wild flowers, an unusual park that offers an unfamiliar atmosphere: the air of tranquility and uncluttered creation.

"ENCHANTMENT"

Serving as lively enjoyment for the vivacious and rugged, Gum Springs is also an ideal retreat for the sentimental; a paragon for impressional lovers of untrammeled beauty. The hushed calm is so complete that no noise can break the enchantment — not the call of playing children nor the sound of picnickers and swimmers. Each sound, instead, becomes a blended part of the natural perfection here. Its serenity denies distriction.

This picturesque paradise, nine miles west of Winnfield, has an interesting background. Developed in 1935 by the Civilian Conservation Corps as a recreation site for the CCC boys, some 40 or more springs were cultivated forming a natural sand bottom swimming pool at the head of a creek in a steep hollow. A recent innovation is a chlorination system which further purifies the spring water for the swimmers use. Gray-white salt rock walls border the pool matching the long spiral of concrete steps that follow the steep sloping lay of the land ascending like a narrow lane of dove-gray carpeting among the towering trees.

ENCIRCLING HILLS

In the hills encircling the pool like sheltering arms, elaborate picnic units are arranged in scenic spots. A total of 37 units with fireplaces, tables, and underground garbage disposals have been developed. There are six tent platforms for family size tents and a large barbeque grill for the camper's convenience. Water fountains have been well distributed throughout the area. Restrooms are also dispersed in suitable locations on the grounds and two bathhouses are situated near the pool. There are three asphalt parking areas, and single car parking spurs alongside each picnic table in the region.

UNUSUAL TABLES

There are two unique tables, leftovers from CCC occupation. Built of massive cypress logs and covered by odd conical shaped sheds of the same wood, they give an air of dignity and, yes, history to the park. Dirt daubers build their mud nests in the corners of the pavillion roofs here, and lovers or just loners, have carved their names into the thick wood pillars as a memorial to love or an attempt to leave a mark on the world of their souls passing. They stand impregnable on hills that rise directly above the pool blending their soft wood colors into the still-rising landscape behind them.

Nothing is overlooked here. Winding around the park are cleared trails edged with salt rock for hiking and admiring the magnificent acreage of pine, oak, gum, hickory, walnut trees, and in the spring, white blooming dogwood and wild pink azeala.

The stately trees, denizens of Kilmer's poem, combine with wild, semi-tropical shrubs and flowers and countless varieties of fern to lend an exotic new look to each changing season.

Even when summer's swarming host has gone for the year the park draws others back. Women gather the fallen russet-toned leaves in the autumn for decorative arrangements and in the spring children gather polliwogs from the deserted pool. In these quiet times you may come upon an engrossed writer or artist soaking in inspiration. Quietly be-ing.

A woman's writing group in nearby Jonesboro-Hodge looks forward to these off-seasons, for they have found the atmosphere perfect to inspire creative expression. They come often to the park, laden with typewriters, scribble pads, cameras . . . and anticipation. Only the persistent sound of birds breaks the awesome silence . . and that, a pleasant diversion. When the writers leave, they carry back more with them than just a piece of paper bearing words. They find themselves revitalized from having rested in this paragon.

And so it is, whether you are a vacationer passing through Louisiana or a regional stay-at-home, or just a nature-watcher looking for a scenic thrill — you have a treat awaiting you when you venture westward on Highway 84 toward the faded redwood sign which modestly bids you welcome!

PROTHO MANSION, located on Louisiana Highway 477, just beyond the junction of U. S. 71 at St. Maurice near Natchitoches.

Stately Mansion Steeped In Colorful Background

Gone are the days when Protho Mansion was widely known as a center of hospitality, and a gathering place of important people. But, in its past are many stories of glittering social functions, hidden money, tragedy, and military strategy meetings.

By PATRICIA MAXWELL

What is an old plantation house without its legends? Merely a house. But the Protho Mansion at St. Maurice has its ghosts, its tales of insanity and hidden money and mass death by yellow fever, and its history which make it not just an old house but a part of our heritage.

It was built in 1826 by the wealthy Protho family of South Carolina on land acquired from Alexander O'Reilly, a Spanish governor of Louisiana, who had the land originally from the Spanish Crown. With its three stories and wide, cool balconies it commanded a magnificent view of the Red River flowing below it and of the hundreds of acres of land between Red River and the Cane River five miles away at Natchitoches which the Prothos held under cultivation. This, with its guest houses, slave quarters and long avenues of trees and shrubs made it a plantation worthy of the name.

HOSPITALITY

Due to a reputation for hospitality and a central location, being just west of where the Harrisonburg Road section of the El Camino Real and the Natchitoches-Monroe Military highway intersected before crossing the Red River by ferry at Natchitoches, the Protho Mansion became a favorite stopping place for dignitaries staying in or moving through the area. From the time of its building until the intervention of the Civil War it was the center of social activities for Natchitoches and was the scene of many glittering functions; such as the gala entertainments held for General Zachary Taylor, later our 12th president, and his son-in-law Jefferson Davis, an officer in the U.S. Army, as Taylor tarried on his way to take command of his army in the Mexican War, 1846-48.

It was here that Sam Houston organized his military expedition for Texas Independence and Davy Crockett and Jim Bowie are said to have stayed the night on their way to join the fight against Santa Ana.

In 1853 yel' fever, probably brought up from New Orleans where it was epidemic by guests trying to escape it, struck the household killing several members of the family and many slaves.

During the reconstruction period following the Civil War the Prothos were evicted by the notorious D. David Bault, carpetbagger boss for Natchitoches Parish and Ward five of Winn Parish, who installed himself as sheriff and his relatives in every other office of consequence. Upon the withdrawal of federal troops from the state in 1876, Bault left and the Prothos regained their homeplace, but only temporarily.

It soon passed into the hands of the E. W. Tiddlie family who lived there from 1897 until 1933, the longest occupation other than the original owners.

Judge Thomas Milling, while vice president of Standard Oil Co., bought the house in 1933. The house was restored to its former glory with its priceless antiques painstakingly recovered and a vast amount of material pertaining to its history was collected. After Judge Milling's death the heirs disposed of the furnishings of the house and the papers were lost or destroyed.

LONG VACANT

The house was vacant for a number of years due to litigation concerning the will. It was at this time that it became a way-stop for traveling salesmen and the tales of ghosts began to circulate. It was impossible — the salesmen said — to sleep in the house because of midnight noises, the sound of nuts rolling across the floors of the attic where once huge barrels of nuts had been stored, dragging sounds and ghostly footsteps. Then, so the legends go, carpenters sent by one of former owners came and tore into the walls supposedly to repair them, but when they had gone a few old pieces of money were found scattered where they had worked. The stories of money hidden in the house were proved and the ghosts were silent.

Today the house is owned by the Beatrice Small family, descendants of the former caretakers. But even in its rundown, bedraggled condition it retains a sense of its former grandeur.

It stands, still amazingly sound structurally, stolidly looking out over its once magnificent view that is now blocked by growths of scrub pine. It seems to be waiting to be noticed, waiting for its just recognition, and for preservation, before it is too late.

Underground Fire Boosts Production Of Oil In Area

By NELL LEE
Correspondent

Oil, one of America's richest resources, is becoming harder and harder to find as the years go by, so researchers are seeking to find successful methods of recovering the oil left in the ground, since this is more economical and successful than drilling new wells. According to an expert in the field, only about one out of every 15 to 20 wells drilled, becomes a producer.

Sun Oil Company has ignited an in situ combustion project for recovering oil from a reservoir through the use of fire at the May-Libby Reservoir a few miles southwest of Delhi. This project, though similar in many respects to other secondary recovery projects, seems to be more efficient.

In the in situ process, air is pumped into an oil reservoir through an injection well. At the same time, heat is liberated at the bottom of the injection well until the oil in the formation reaches its kindling temperature. After a fire has been established in the reservoir, it is kept burning by the continued injection of air. This continuous air injection causes a combustion zone to develop and move through the reservoir from the injection well to the production well.

NOT FREE-FLAME

The fire traveling through the formation is not the free-flame type, but is the smoldering type of fire which travels through a cigarette. Oil in the formation is banked ahead of the burning zone and is recovered in producing wells. The portion of the reservoir through which the flame passes is left void of both oil and water.

The objective of the pilot project is to burn out a small part of the May-Libby Reservoir (approximately 200 acre feet), in order to determine if the fire flooding process can be used commercially in the remainder of the reservoir.

Ignition of this reservoir was accomplished through the use of a gas burner located at the bottom of the air injection well. The burner is very similar to the large torches or flares common to oil fields during the 1930's. However, in this case the torch is extending downward in the well so that the 1000 degree flame plays across the perforations into the reservoir and the heat energy released is put to work recovering more oil.

The underground fire is currently burning at a temperature of approximately 700 degrees farenheit in the reservoir, 3,400 feet below the surface of the earth.

The gas burner was extinguished on August 21, 1966, after injection of approximately 40,000,000 B.T.U. of heat into the reservoir. The fire is currently being fed by the injection of about 1,500,000 standard cubic feet of air per day. Air injection at this rate must be continuous for about two years before the degree of success of the project can be determined.

PROGRESS MONITORED

The progress of the fire front as it travels the 930 feet between the wells will be monitored through the analysis of gases returning to the surface through the offset production wells. This gas should contain large percentages of nitrogen and carbon dioxide. The arrival of the fire at the production wells sometime in 1968, should be foretold by changes in the physical properties of the oil and water production.

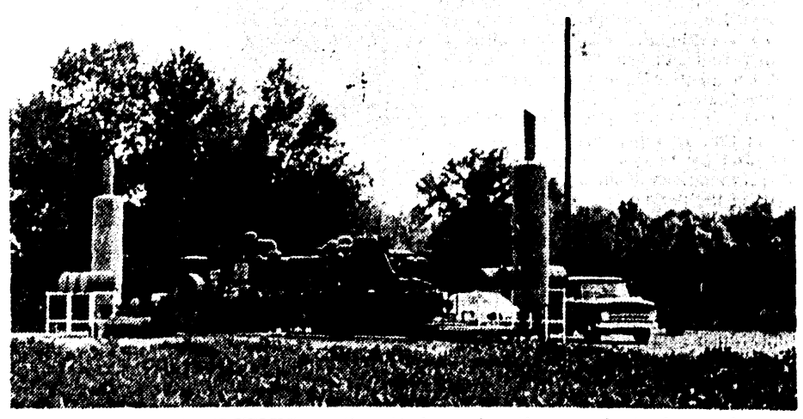
The in situ combustion process is replacing more conventional methods of secondary recovery, because of its higher efficiency. More conventional methods of recovery frequently leave up to 60 per cent of the oil in the ground. Engineers estimate that approximately 85 per cent of the oil contacted could be displaced by the in situ combustion process. The remaining 15 per cent will be consumed by the fire as it travels through the reservoir.

Sun Oil Company operates six reservoirs in the Delhi Unit. Consequently the degree of success of the in situ project could very definitely influence future oil production from the entire unit.

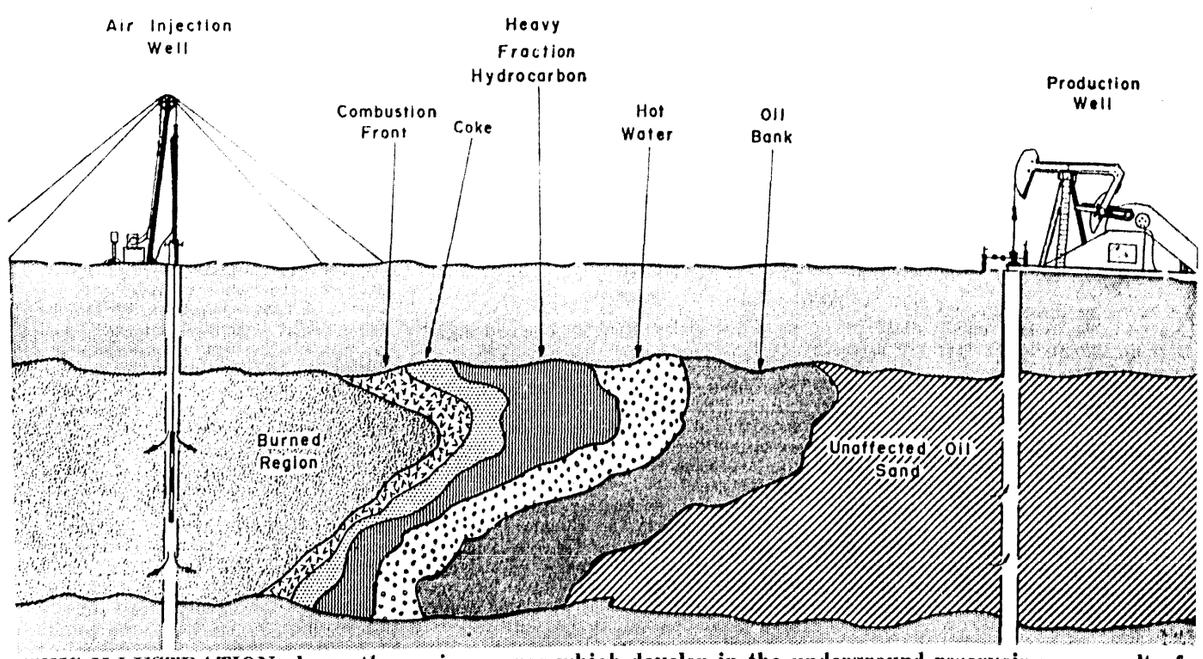
Supervision of the project comes from J. B. Higginbotham, Doyle Stegall, and Earl Dittman in Delhi; Luther Ellison and Paul Fletcher in Dallas; and W. C. Hardy, leader of the thermal recovery group in Sun's Research and Development Laboratory in Richardson, Texas. These men are closely associated in the project.

This particular method of oil recovery is being used in several places, but according to an official, this is the only place in the state of Louisiana that it is in use.

This is only one of several processes being tested to increase oil recovery and sources in Dallas are quoted as saying, "We're not trying to set the world on fire; we just want to recover more oil."



SURFACE FACILITIES at 'in situ' combustion project shown here, are at site southwest of Delhi. This process of recovering oil is described by project officials as apparently more efficient than other secondary recovery methods.



THIS ILLUSTRATION shows the various zones which develop in the underground reservoir as a result of the combustion process being used in the recovery of oil near Delhi.

Ignition of this reservoir was accomplished through the use of a gas burner located at the bottom of the air injection well. The burner is very similar to the large torches or flares common to oil fields during the 1930's. However, in this case the torch is extending downward in the well so that the 1000 degree flame plays across the perforations into the reservoir and the heat energy released is put to work recovering more oil.

The underground fire is currently burning at a temperature of approximately 700 degrees farenheit in the reservoir, 3,400 feet below the surface of the earth.

The gas burner was extinguished on August 21, 1966, after injection of approximately 40,000,000 B.T.U. of heat into the reservoir. The fire is currently being fed by the injection of about 1,500,000 standard cubic feet of air per day. Air injection at this rate must be continuous for about two years before the degree of success of the project can be determined.

PROGRESS MONITORED

The progress of the fire front as it travels the 930 feet between the wells will be monitored through the analysis of gases returning to the surface through the offset production wells. This gas should contain large percentages of nitrogen and carbon dioxide. The arrival of the fire at the production wells sometime in 1968, should be foretold by changes in the physical properties of the oil and water production.

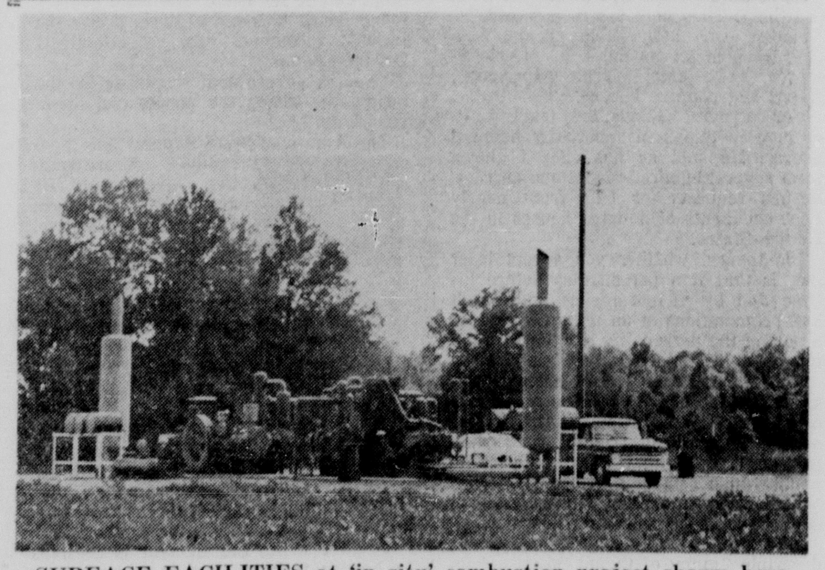
The in situ combustion process is replacing more conventional methods of secondary recovery, because of its higher efficiency. More conventional methods of recovery frequently leave up to 60 per cent of the oil in the ground. Engineers estimate that approximately 85 per cent of the oil contacted could be displaced by the in situ combustion process. The remaining 15 per cent will be consumed by the fire as it travels through the reservoir.

Sun Oil Company operates six reservoirs in the Delhi Unit. Consequently the degree of success of the in situ project could very definitely influence future oil production from the entire unit.

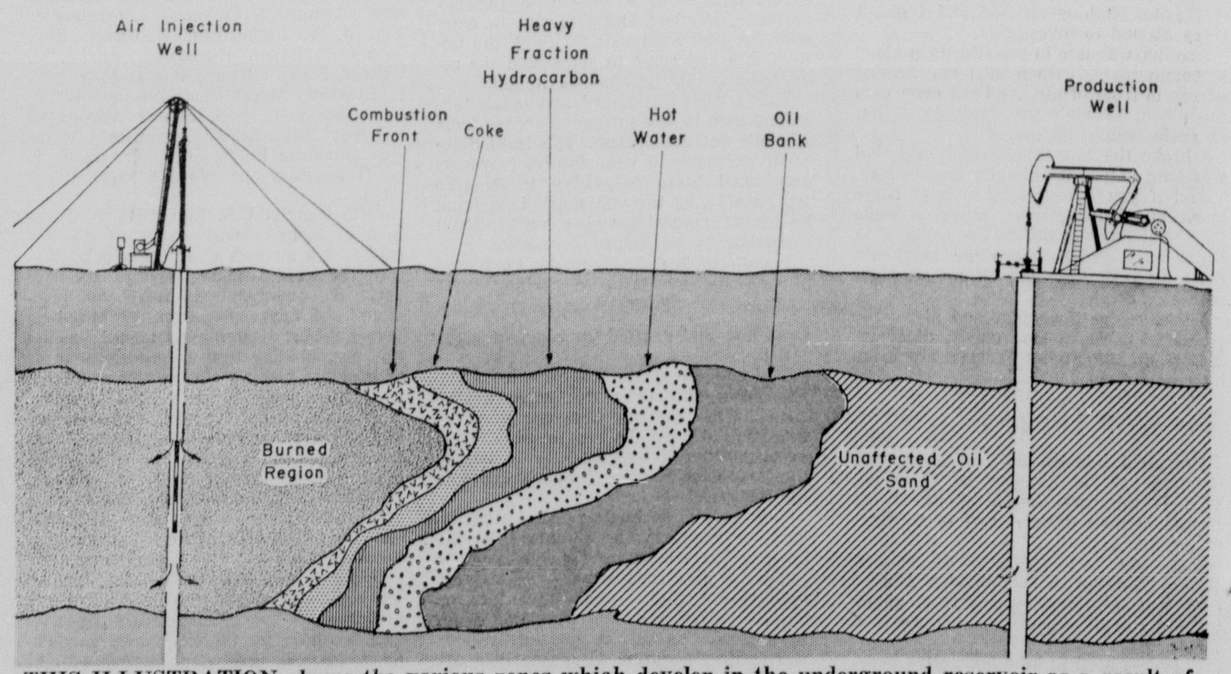
Supervision of the project comes from J. B. Higginbotham, Doyle Stegall, and Earl Dittman in Delhi; Luther Ellison and Paul Fletcher in Dallas; and W. C. Hardy, leader of the thermal recovery group in Sun's Research and Development Laboratory in Richardson, Texas. These men are closely associated in the project.

This particular method of oil recovery is being used in several places, but according to an official, this is the only place in the state of Louisiana that it is in use.

This is only one of several processes being tested to increase oil recovery and sources in Dallas are quoted as saying, "We're not trying to set the world on fire; we just want to recover more oil."



SURFACE FACILITIES at 'in situ' combustion project shown here, are at site southwest of Delhi. This process of recovering oil is described by project officials as apparently more efficient than other secondary recovery methods.



THIS ILLUSTRATION shows the various zones which develop in the underground reservoir as a result of the combustion process being used in the recovery of oil near Delhi.

How Black Market In Music Tapes Now Being Operated

EDITOR'S NOTE — With today's equipment, it's easy to tape music right off the radio, or even sneak whole concerts and operas right out of the hall. All of which has led to a booming black market in tapes.

By DAVE SMITH
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — This is a true story. Only the names have been changed, to protect the guilty.

It is the story of bootleg Beethoven, blackmarket Bach, purloined Puccini and — the mind boggles at the thought — filched Frescobaldi.

Our story begins on a gray, damp Tuesday. The reporter, trenchcoat collar upturned, rivets his gaze on the small Manhattan music shop where, he is informed by confidential sources there is brisk traffic in black market tape recordings of live concerts.

He steps from the curb, narrowly escaping death under a speeding black car. He jaywalks across the street and slips unobtrusively into the shop.

"May I help you?" asks a chubby man — we'll call him Mr. Mortimer — in a tone that is somehow both courteous and strongely menacing.

"Oh-oh. I wonder if he's wise," the reporter thinks, then

Most marketeers, far from feeling twinges of guilt, regard themselves as a sort of wideworld cultural heritage board.

snaps: "No thanks, just looking."

Silent as a shadow, the reporter sideles unnoticed along the walls. Suddenly he spots what he came for: right there on that shelf, a row of unmarked, noncommercial tapes. Black market stuff. He wheels on the proprietor and blurts in barely concealed excitement:

"Hi! I'm a reporter and I'd like to do a story on this underground tape business."

"Why sure," says Mortimer. "It's illegal, of course, but what do you want to know?"

Then, without a qualm, Mortimer spills the beans on a black market operation that is studded with the glittering names of musical legend and in which the marketeers, far from feeling twinges of guilt, regard themselves as a short of worldwide cultural heritage board.

Ever since recording tape was brought within easy economic reach of the public, somebody, somewhere, at any hour of day or night, is committing what has been referred to as "piracy on the high C's."

And to the music-lover, the pirate treasure outclasses pieces of eight by a country mile: Maria Callas and Joan Sutherland singing roles they've never recorded commercially, decades-old broadcasts conducted by the late Arturo Toscanini, the legendary piano artistry of Schnabel and Rachmainoff, the excitement of actual performance at a Bayreuth or Salzburg festival,and scores of singers in the dawn of their careers, at the top of their form and over the hill.

Because opera fans are known as the most red in tooth and claw among fanatic music-lovers, it is perhaps no surprise that opera is by far the most popular object of piracy.

And among these jolly robbers, the most numerous are the amateurs, who settle for taping concerts off the radio in the safety of their own homes.

They meet other amateurs, swap duplicates to enlarge their tape libraries, criticize the height of each other's fi and contrive ways to afford better equipment.

Then, the big time: smuggling equipment into Philharmonic Hall or the Met and snatching the performance right out of the singers' mouths, so to say. This is a thrill the pirates liken to panning the gold out of Ft. Knox itself.

It isn't as hard as you might think. Within the past 10 or 15 years, tape recorder manufacturers have shrunk their product to handy portables, some as tiny as a cigarette package. The most popular unit for smuggling into halls is about the size of a transistorized cigar box, easily concealed in an attache case or handbag. As a byproduct of the age of electronic eavesdropping, there are now microphones so small they can be hidden in a coatsleeves or disguised as fountain pens, tie-clips or cufflinks.

Some composers and performers are irritated at the thought of their work being passed around without permission. They complain that the performance might not represent their highest artistic standard, then that the recording quality might not set off their talents in the best light, and finally that they're not being paid any royalties. In such disputes, Mortimer says, he stops marketing the tapes; if no one squawks, he goes right on. The business, though growing, is still small, so few musicians bother suing.

Some dealers rake in $10,000 to $15,000 annually from this lucrative sideline.

Often, indeed, musicians are flattered at the fanatic devotion that motivates this business and often pitch in to help peddle the tapes to their adoring fans.

As with any black market where laws do not regulate prices, the sky can be the limit. Mortimer, for instance, gets $25 and up for a complete opera — more than most commercial albums cost — and figures he raked in $10,000 to $15,000 on this sideline last year.

Most black marketeers, however, go into the underground for fun rather than profit, and if you can track them down they will usually share the wealth with you for $3 to $5 for tape, which is just about at cost.

The net result of more than 30 years of piracy, Mortimer estimates, is a vast underground catalog much larger and more varied than what's on the commercial market.

Commercial record companies generally do not sink a lot of money into mass pressings of unfamiliar music, but tape buffs, able to run off a tape on a one-at-a-time basis, face no such limitations. They dart in after the prize, unencumbered by the weighty complexities of contracts, copyrights and royalties, and they often emerge with odd loot: world premieres of new works, rarely performed ones, far-out stuff.

Samuel Barber's new opera "Antony and Cleopatra," which opened the new Met, has yet to appear on a commercial label, for instance. But half of a dozen or more spectators got it on tape at the grand opening. Probably many more taped it at home from the broadcast.

The underground aiso has any number of performances by famed musicians whose contracts limit what they can do on discs but not on stage. There are tapes of hundreds of live performances by singers who can never sing together on commercial recordings.

These are the pride of the black marketeers, who assert that much music is being offered on tape that the world would never hear otherwise, and today's music is being preserved for tomorrow's heritage.

Red Plane Sets Record For Lifting

MOSCOW (AP) — A record lift by an airplane—88 metric tons—was claimed Saturday for the huge Soviet AN22 Anteus transport.

Soviet authorities said the load lifted to 6,500 meters—21,325 feet—Thursday had taken the record from an American-made Douglas C133A transport that lifted 53.5 metric tons in 1958. A metric ton is 2,204.6 pounds. The load claimed by the Russians would be about 194,000 pounds. The American total was about 118,000 pounds.

The four-engine AN22, first shown publicly 16 months ago, is scheduled to go into commercial service in the Soviet Union soon as a cargo and passenger carrier. It can haul up to 720 persons at a speed of almost 500 m.p.h.

A report on possible extension of the Selman Field runway to facilitate jet aircraft traffic, a locale report on an 18-hole golf course, and a progress report on formation of a convention and tourist bureau occupied members of the board of the Monroe Chamber of Commerce Friday.

Guests at Friday's board of directors meeting at chamber headquarters were city planner George Parsons, airport manager H. B. Hargrove and convention chairman Charles Penn.

Parsons presented a report on the status of planning for a joint city - parish - metropolitan area planning commission. The city planner elaborated on topics he introduced Thursday night at the meeting at the new City Hall with area officials when Frank Seavey of Fort Worth explained the role of the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Penn reported on the progress of a proposed Convention and Tourist Bureau to operate as a department of the Monroe Chamber of Commerce and the board authorized its formation. The bureau is expected to go into action around the first part of 1967 and prior to the opening of the new Civic Center.

Hargrove reported on the correspondence between local officials and the Federal Aviation Authority on plans to extend the runway at Selman Field. Airport officials generally agree that runway extension is the first step in plans to create Monroe-Dallas jet service.

One of the questions asked Speavey Thursday concerned the federal policy on funds for outdoor recreation projects under a master plan when a federal agency owns the chosen land. Hargrove discussed the possibility of creating an 18-hole golf course on open land adjacent to Selman Field. The Sports Committee is looking toward an engineering study and design.

Monroe Chamber president George Rorex reviewed plans for the Commercial Solvents 20th Anniversary appreciation luncheon and chamber manager Jim Williams laid down plans for the industrial buscapade to Longview, Texas.

Twin City officials, parish governmental officials and the industrial committeemen of the West Monroe Chamber of Commerce will be invited to join the Monroe chamber in a trip to Longview to look over that city's industrial parks. The The Longview Chamber of Commerce will host the tour.

In return, members of the Longview chamber and city officials are expected to make a reciprocal trip to Monroe to visit its cultural and civic projects and centers.

GOLDENTIME

Along the roadside, a creek rushes and sings. Conifers, oaks, elms, and sourwoods line both sides of the creek and cling precariously from the side of a nearby mountain. The valley below, on the far side of the trees, is a green, gold, and dark brown quilt of farmlands which bask in the late autumn.

In the foothills of the Appalachians, seasons have marched by, and the summer is gone. In the mountains of Tennessee, North Carolina, and North Georgia, it has vanished — replaced by the glory of autumn and signs of approaching winter. The change is marked by trees — trees which adopt colors that are a challenge to the strokes of an artist's brush.

U.S. 19 twists out of Dahlonega, the little gold mine village of Lumpkin County, Georgia, and winds through the foothills. You can see, in the distance, the mountains of the great Appalachian chain. Dark and powerful, they seem to lament the loss of summer's friendly skies.

The road curves up a steep grade and finally reaches a stone inn at Neal's Gap. From the inn's flagstone terrace are seen miles and miles of mountains which stride across the earth in a procession unmatched in beauty or grandeur. Mountains, valleys, clouds, trees and skies seem to join in an amazing spectrum. Across the highway from the inn, a portion of the Appalachian Trail creeps through the trees as it wanders along the rugged hillsides.

At Neal's Gap, air is crisp and not yet touched by tarnish and smog of cities. It is fresh, clean, and if you could store up an auto trunkload, it could be sampled as is vintage wine.

Autumn near Neal's Gap is fresh apple cider, sorghum, and sourwood honey sold at roadside stands. It is a thatch of sugar cane, a mound of orange pumpkins, golden squash, and hanging gourds. Autumn is the time of burning leaves when the world and the valleys are touched by a light blanket of wonderful blue haze. And in the dusk, the haze is haloed by lights in the windows of mountain homes. It is nights when the first chill soft winds of winter rush through the passes and rustle across Lake Winnfield Scott. It is that wondrous first night when you can light a fire in the hearth. When the world is asleep, you watch the flickering needles of flame bounce through the logs, and see them reflected as eerie dancers on the cabin ceiling.

More than anything, autumn is the trees — orange, gold, and stunning hues of red, cardinal, and even maroon. When the wind shakes the trees, there is a cascade of sparkling colors which rustles and flows to the earth. In the days when the sun is out, honeybees work through the last vestiges of sourwood, lynn, and whatever else still bears a bloom. In the night, the mountains are still, and you can imagine them before the people came, when they were crossed only by the path of a fox or a deer.

On weekends, whole train, car, and busloads of people come to the mountains to see the trees because it is something to remember until another autumn, something to carry them through the dreariness of winter. There is a remembering also of the fallen leaves, the golden sacrifice of autumn for summers yet to come.

De Gaulle Might Halt Flights Of U.S., Allies Over France

PARIS (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle apparently plans to crack down on American and other Allied flights over France after next spring, Western diplomatic sources said Saturday.

By doing so he could plunge the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) into major new crisis, the sources said.

Diplomats saw a warning of De Gaulle's latest NATO plans at one point in his Friday news conference. In it he stated that in five months time—that is, after his April 1 deadline for withdrawal of all Allied troops and bases from French soil—no Allied forces or planes will be able to remain on or fly over French territory without authorization.

"Troops, war material, ships and planes that wish to pass through here," De Gaulle declared, "will do so with authorization that we shall give them in each individual case and for the limited time they will be in France or in our skies and they will defer to orders of the French command."

Unil last spring U.S. and other NATO-member planes were allowed to fly over French territory and land on French airfields under blanket NATO permits.

On May 4, 1965, De Gaulle put these rights on a month-to-month basis by notifying France's NATO partners that henceforth the permits would be issued only each month.

However, NATO sources said that until now this has created no complications. They said the permits have been issued monthly without being requested and always one month in advance.

This meant, diplomatic sources noted, that the United States and other NATO countries have not found themselves in a situation at the end of any given month where in a day or so they would have to cease flights over France.

GOLDENTIME

Along the roadside, a creek rushes and sings. Conifers, oaks, elms, and sourwoods line both sides of the creek and cling precariously from the side of a nearby mountain. The valley below, on the far side of the trees, is a green, gold, and dark brown quilt of farmlands which bask in the late autumn.

In the foothills of the Appalachians, seasons have marched by, and the summer is gone. In the mountains of Tennessee, North Carolina, and North Georgia, it has vanished — replaced by the glory of autumn and signs of approaching winter. The change is marked by trees — trees which adopt colors that are a challenge to the strokes of an artist's brush.

U.S. 19 twists out of Dahlonega, the little gold mine village of Lumpkin County, Georgia, and winds through the foothills. You can see, in the distance, the mountains of the great Appalachian chain. Dark and powerful, they seem to lament the loss of summer's friendly skies.

The road curves up a steep grade and finally reaches a stone inn at Neal's Gap. From the inn's flagstone terrace are seen miles and miles of mountains which stride across the earth in a procession unmatched in beauty or grandeur. Mountains, valleys, clouds, trees and skies seem to join in an amazing spectrum. Across the highway from the inn, a portion of the Appalachian Trail creeps through the trees as it wanders along the rugged hillsides.

At Neal's Gap, air is crisp and not yet touched by tarnish and smog of cities. It is fresh, clean, and if you could store up an auto trunkload, it could be sampled as is vintage wine.

Autumn near Neal's Gap is fresh apple cider, sorghum, and sourwood honey sold at roadside stands. It is a thatch of sugar cane, a mound of orange pumpkins, golden squash, and hanging gourds. Autumn is the time of burning leaves when the world and the valleys are touched by a light blanket of wonderful blue haze. And in the dusk, the haze is haloed by lights in the windows of mountain homes. It is nights when the first chili soft winds of winter rush through the passes and rustle across Lake Winnfield Scott. It is that wondrous first night when you can light a fire in the hearth. When the world is asleep, you watch the flickering needles of flame bounce through the logs, and see them reflected as eerie dancers on the cabin ceiling.

More than anything, autumn is the trees — orange, gold, and stunning hues of red, cardinal, and even maroon. When the wind shakes the trees, there is a cascade of sparkling colors which rustles and flows to the earth. In the days when the sun is out, honeybees work through the last vestiges of sourwood, lynn, and whatever else still bears a bloom. In the night ,the mountains are still, and you can imagine them before the people came, when they were crossed only by the path of a fox or a deer.

On weekends, whole train, car, and busloads of people come to the mountains to see the trees because it is something to remember until another autumn, something to carry them through the dreariness of winter. There is a remembering also of the fallen leaves, the golden sacrifice of autumn for summers yet to come.

89th Triples Funds For U.S. Schools

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 89th Congress, dubbed the "Education Congress" by President Johnson, more than tripled the record of its predecessor in voting money for schools.

The U.S. Office of Education figures that the just-ended 89th supplied it with $7.2 billion for the two-year period July 1, 1965-June 30, 1967.

By contrast, it said, the 88th Congress voted $2.2 billion for two years.

The 89th began its breaking records early in 1965 with the passage of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, extending general federal aid to grade and high schools for the first time. It was "the greatest breakthrough in the advance of education since the Constitution was written," said the President.

The question of participation by church-related and other private schools had blocked the general aid bill for years.

The 89th Congress solved the problem by directing aid to pupils and teachers instead of institutions.

About $1 billion was spent in the first year of the Elementary and Secondary Act. The figure will reach about $4 billion in fiscal 1968.

Remedial programs to upgrade basic skills, such as reading and mathematics, claim the largest share of the money. Funds are allocated according to the number of children from poor families in a school district, but pupils are eligible to participate regardless of family income or the type of school they attend.

Seven million children in about three-quarters of the nation's 26,000 school districts have been helped to catch up in vital prerequisites to learning, and a 1966 amendment liberalizing qualification requirements soon will permit more districts to participate.

Another section of the act has poured $100 million into school libraries, adding about 40 million books.

A provision to encourage creativity in education has financed 1,000 projects, including busing of students in Newton, Mass., and a special term in college last su mmer for bright students in Oregon.

Funds also were provided for large scale research into problems of elementary and secondary education, and for state departments of education struggling with questions of their own effectiveness.

A number of departments have launched cooperative planning ventures with neighboring states, while others have added statistical and data processing techniques to modernize their operations.

The 89th Congress dealt also with higher education. In two sessions, it authorized $5.5 billion in grants and loans over four years with the largest portion for construction of laboratories, classrooms and housing.

The Office of Education is dispensing about $500 million in construction aid with the figure to double by 1969.

Other sections of the Higher Education Act are providing $58 million in grants to 134,486 needy students at 1,421 colleges and universities this year.

An additional 200,000 students are meeting college expenses through a $99 million work-study program.

Another innovation in the act is a federally-insured loan program for students from middle and higher income families.

A provision for library aid has disbursed $5,000 grants to 1,800 schools this year for the purchase of books, periodicals, phonograph records and other aids.

A program to aid small and struggling colleges has promoted teacher and program exchanges with large universities. About 60 per cent of the $5 million pledged for this school year is going to predominantly Negro institutions.

89th Triples Funds For U.S. Schools

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 89th Congress, dubbed the "Education Congress" by President Johnson, more than tripled the record of its predecessor in voting money for schools.

The U.S. Office of Education figures that the just-ended 89th supplied it with $7.2 billion for the two-year period July 1, 1965-June 30, 1967.

By contrast, it said, the 88th Congress voted $2.2 billion for two years.

The 89th began its breaking records early in 1965 with the passage of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, extending general federal aid to grade and high schools for the first time. It was "the greatest breakthrough in the advance of education since the Constitution was written," said the President.

The question of participation by church-related and other private schools had blocked the general aid bill for years.

The 89th Congress solved the problem by directing aid to pupils and teachers instead of institutions.

About $1 billion was spent in the first year of the Elementary and Secondary Act. The figure will reach about $4 billion in fiscal 1968.

Remedial programs to upgrade basic skills, such as reading and mathematics, claim the largest share of the money. Funds are allocated according to the number of children from poor families in a school district, but pupils are eligible to participate regardless of family income or the type of school they attend.

Seven million children in about three-quarters of the nation's 26,000 school districts have been helped to catch up in vital prerequisites to learning, and a 1966 amendment liberalizing qualification requirements soon will permit more districts to participate.

Another section of the act has poured $100 million into school libraries, adding about 40 million books.

A provision to encourage creativity in education has financed 1,000 projects, including busing of students in Newton, Mass., and a special term in college last summer for bright students in Oregon.

Funds also were provided for large scale research into problems of elementary and secondary education, and for state departments of education struggling with questions of their own effectiveness.

A number of departments have launched cooperative planning ventures with neighboring states, while others have added statistical and data processing techniques to modernize their operations.

The 89th Congress dealt also with higher education. In two sessions, it authorized $5.5 billion in grants and loans over four years with the largest portion for construction of laboratories, classrooms and housing.

The Office of Education is dispensing about $500 million in construction aid with the figure to double by 1969.

Other sections of the Higher Education Act are providing $58 million in grants to 134,486 needy students at 1,421 colleges and universities this year.

An additional 200,000 students are meeting college expenses through a $99 million work-study program.

Another innovation in the act is a federally-insured loan program for students from middle and higher income families.

A provision for library aid has disbursed $5,000 grants to 1,800 schools this year for the purchase of books, periodicals, phonograph records and other aids.

A program to aid small and struggling colleges has promoted teacher and program exchanges with large universities. About 60 per cent of the $5 million pledged for this school year is going to predominantly Negro institutions.

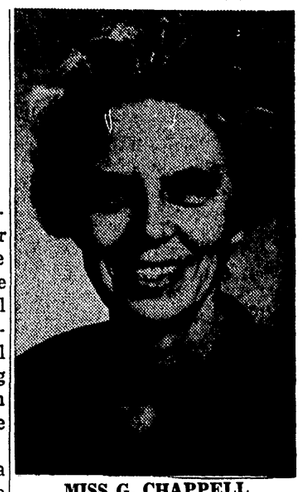
Rev. Bennett Evangelist For Series



MISS G. CHAPPELL

The associate executive secretary of church extension for Brazos Presbytery in Texas, the Rev. Jack K. Bennett, will be evangelist for a series of revival services at Memorial Presbyterian Church, N. 4th and Mill streets, West Monroe, starting today and continuing through Friday, it was announced by the Rev. Hugh Bradshaw, pastor.

The evangelist will conduct a series on an introduction to the Book of Acts at morning and evening services. Each message will be a unit in itself.

CHURCH GROWTH

"He will lead the congregation in an understanding of what made the New Testament Church grow as it did," said the Rev. Mr. Bradshaw.

Services today will be at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., and weekday services will be at 7 a.m. and 7 p.m.

The Rev. Mr. Bennett has primary responsibility for the Sabine area, which includes the Beaumont - Port Arthur - Orange industrial triangle in southeast Texas.

Prior to assuming his present work, he was for six and a half years pastor of the Homer Presbyterian Church, served as stated supply of both the Athens and Haynesville churches, and was instrumental in bringing into being both Evergreen Presyterian Vocational School for mentally retarded boys and the Presbyterian Village of Homer for nursing patients. He was active in church courts as well.

A native of Rusk, Tex., the Rev. Mr. Bennett worked for some 12 years as an abstracter and landman before entering seminary. He was district landman for an oil company in Shreveport from 1950-1953. Immediately prior to entering the ministry, he was co-partner in an abstract firm in Palestine, Tex., where he was also active in both church and civic affairs. He did his B.D. work at Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary in Austin, Texas, where he won the Janie Maxwell Morris Fellowship in 1957 and the Sam B. Hicks Fellowship in 1958. He received the Th.M. degree from that same institution in 1964.

In his present position, he has served as stated supply of the Vidor, Tex. Presbyterian Church and presently serves as organizing pastor of three new works in the area — Amelia, Hardin-Jefferson and High Island. He is also engaged in research on a Board of Church Extension experimental ministry known as Operation Outreach, a volunteer service program for young men of approximately 20-24 years of age. The first 12 of such young men from across the Assembly are scheduled to be working with Mr. Bennett in the Sabine Area in Church Extension and evangelism by September 1, 1967.

He is married to the former Gloria Elizabeth Mackey of Mexia, Texas. The couple have five daughters — Carla Ann, 16; Kathy and Karen, 14; Gloria Kay, 11; and Lisa Lynn, 4. They make their home in Beaumont.

THE REV. JACK BENNETT

PAUL A. ERICKSON

Lecture Set On Spiritual Perception

An explanation on how to develop "spiritual perception" will be presented by Christian Scientist Paul A. Erickson, at a public lecture 8 p.m. Tuesday at the First Church of Christ, Scientist, 224 Auburn Ave., Monroe.

Title of the lecture is "The Value of a Spiritual Outlook."

Mr. Erickson, who once served as a chaplain's assistant at the U.S. Military Academy, gave up a position as manufacturer's agent in Chicago several years ago to become a recognized practitioner in the Christian Science healing ministry.

He also is an authorized teacher of religion, and is currently on a tour as a member of the Board of Lectureship of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

Methodist Youths To Join Here In Special Drive

"West Monroe will win a share in a Nobel Peace Prize this year, through efforts of the junior high boys and girls of First Methodist Church, West Monroe, who will go Trick or Treating for UNICEF on Halloween", Glen Langston,, church education director, announced.

This award was given to the United Nation's Children's Fund last fall, for 20 years of life-saving work in more than 100 countries. Monday these children will join over three million other youngsters across the nation in the program.

"Every penny they get will mean six glasses of milk for hungry youngsters", Langston said. "A nickel buys the penicillin to cure two little victims of yaws, an ugly, crippling tropical disease. A dime provides the antibiotics to save a child suffering from trachoma from total blindness. A quarter means enough BCG vaccine to protect 20 children against tuberculosis".

"Local residents will be asked to donate "treats" of coins when the young people knock on doors. They will be identified by the black and orange collection cartons bearing UNICEF's symbol of the mother and child.

"Our young people consider UNICEF an outstanding organization for the betterment of brotherhood and an excellent opportunity for them to help other children throughout the world," said Langston. "Through cooperation in this program they are given the chance to do something for world peace and to express their Christian love for children of all nations."

Youth Workshop Scheduled At Church Here

The First Methodist Church of Monroe, located at the corner of Jackson and Wood streets, will be the scene Saturday of a Youth Workshop.

The workshop sponsored by the First Church will be open to youth and adult workers from churches of any denominations who wish to attend. It is aimed at youths from senior high departments, youth counselors, and also is open to pastors.

Introductions will be given by the Rev. George Harbuck, pastor, and the keynote address will be given by Glen Langston, director of christian education of the First Methodist Church of West Monroe, who will deal with programs for youths.

PURPOSE

The purpose of the workshop is to strengthen the youth program at local levels.

Among others on the program will be the Rev. August Aamodt, associate pastor of the First Methodist Church of Shreveport, who will deal in the area of fellowship and recreation.

The Rev. Henry Blount, associate pastor of the First Methodist Church of Shreveport, will discuss adult workers with youths, and the Rev. Deen Thompson, pastor of Sulphur Methodist Church, Sulphur, will conduct a study in the area of worship.

Mrs. D. V. Loflin will be in charge of registration and general assembly.

Lunch will be served at noon in the church's fellowship hall.

Missionary Nurse Will Speak Here

Miss Geraldine Chappell will be featured speaker at 10:45 a.m. services at West Monroe First Church of the Nazarene, and will speak at a missionary rally at 2:30 p.m. at the Monroe First Church of the Nazarene.

She has a bachelor of science degree in nursing education and also has a registered midwifery degree. She was assigned to India in 1946. She will tell of her experiences in working with members of the medical staff and other national workers in India, as well as recalling her time as a prisoner of war during World War Two.

Annual Meet Of Louisiana Baptists Set

The 119th session of the Louisiana Baptist Convention will open its three day meeting on Tuesday in Pineville's First Baptist Church, with approximately 2,000 Baptists representing 1,300 churches from throughout the state expected to attend.

The annual Convention Sermon will be preached in the opening session by the Rev. H. L. Sampson, pastor of the Ridge Avenue Baptist Church, West Monroe.

Throughout the three-day session the Convention group will hear annual reports from various agencies, institutions, and representatives of the Southern Baptist Convention.

On Wednesday morning a budget for the Convention mission programs of over $3¼ million will be presented for adoption. New officers will be elected on Wednesday afternoon.

The closing session on Thursday morning will hear a report from the Special Committee on Church-State Relations presented by Judge Fred Jones of Ruston.

EARL WALDRUP

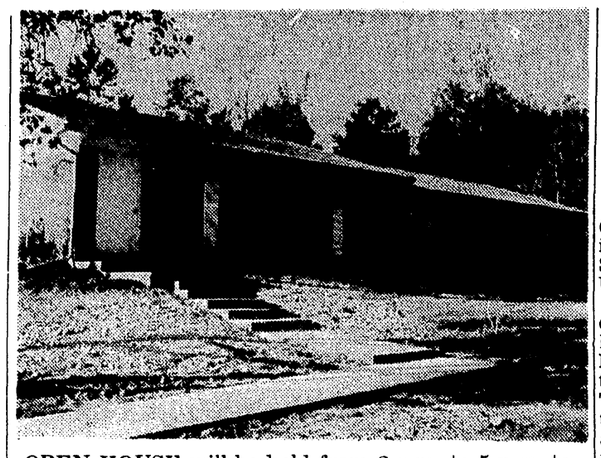
Leadership Conference At Parkview

Parkview Baptist Church in Monroe will host an area church leadership conference at 7 p.m. Monday. The two-hour meeting is designed for leaders of all church educational organizations and all pastors and is one of 24 being conducted throughout the state.

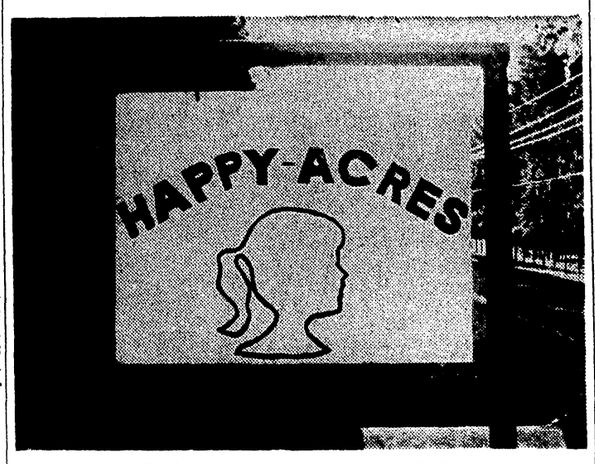
Conference leaders will include Earl Waldrup, supervisor of the field services section of the associational unit of the Baptist Sunday School Board, Nashville, Tenn.; Charles Stanley Howell, associational consultant with the Sunday School Board; Lucien Coleman of the Southern Baptist Brotherhood Commission, Memphis, Tenn.; and Miss Marjorie Jones, Woman's Missionary Union youth worker, Brimingham, Ala.

Earl Murphy and Cliff Holcomb, both of Nashville, Tenn.; the Rev. Jimmy P. Crowe, Louisiana Training Union secretary, Alexandria; and Dr. W. L. Stagg, Jr., Louisiana Baptist Convention missions and stewardship secretary, Alexandria, will also lead conferences.

Dr. Luther B. Hall of West Monroe, area field worker for Baptists, said that similar conferences are scheduled Tuesday, Nov. 1 in Mer Rouge and Thursday, Nov. 3 in Dubach.



OPEN HOUSE will be held from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. today at this child care cottage in Happy Acres subdivision, Arkansas Road, West Monroe, which is maintained by the White's Ferry Road Church of Christ, West Monroe.



THIS SIGN signifies the location of Happy Acres subdivision in West Monroe, where the White's Ferry Road Church of Christ has constructed the first of several child care cottages, as a part of its long-range program in this field of service.

Church Child Care Work Program Is Expanding

Details behind the child care program of White's Ferry Road Church of Christ in West Monroe, were explained recently by William E. DeLoach, minister of education.

"The outstanding mark of the church of the first century," he said, "was that it was extremely militant and active in doing, as well as in teaching. Luke records in Acts 1:1 that 'Jesus began both to do and to teach.' Recognizing their need for greater activity in doing as well as in teaching, a number of the members of the White's Ferry Road Church of Christ, West Monroe, met in February of 1965 to lay long range plans toward developing a child care program."

He continued,"The tentative goal for the first home was set for approximately February of 1966. However, an unusual opportunity to acquire five children who had lost their mother-through a serious illness was brought to the attention of the church in August of 1965. Because of this unique opportunity, the White Ferry Road congregation found itself in its child care program ahead of schedule.

HOME ATMOSPHERE

"This child care program utilizes the home cottage atmosphere rather than the institutionalized atmosphere. The major advantage is that each home or cottage provides a normal home - life situation, thus making the children feel more secure and allowing the parents to be able to deal with the children individually. Each cottage is allowed to have eight children, whose support is provided by the church. The father continues his secular work, as any other father, while the mother stays home during the day to care for the children.

"Thus, the children are subject to an almost ideal home life which is impossible in a large institution. The elders of the Whites Ferry Road Church of Christ oversee the child care program, which is a work of the congregation. Stan and Eloise Fortenberry were chosen as the first house parents.

"The basic goal of this program is to reunite families that have been divided, due to immaturity, sin or any other cause; and in addition, unite them in Jesus Christ. The greatest opportunity in caring for the children will be not only to care for their physical needs, but also to expose them to the teachings of Jesus Christ and to help bring them to their Lord and to salvation.

INCREASES

"Since its beginning in August of 1965, the child care program has grown from one cottage to two, from five children to nine, and from one set of house-parents to two. In addition to the Fortenberrys, Farley and Vera Aiken are now in a temporary cottage with their family.

"The original temporary cottage was at 3312 North 8th Street, West Monroe. This was replaced by the first of seven permanent cottages, located in 'Happy Acres' off Arkansas Road. Construction is to begin on cottage number two within the next few weeks. These cottages will form only a part of this subdivision. Long range plans call for further development of the child care program ith additional cottages."

Mr. and Mrs. Fortenberry and their children will host an open house in cottage number one this afternoon from 2 to 5 p.m.

Joint Community Day Observance Set By Women

The United Church Women of Monroe and West Monroe will participate in the observance of World Community Day, a service of prayer and dedication, Friday at St. Paul's Methodist Church, 1901 Lexington Ave. The service will start at 9:30 a. m.

Mrs. Lawrence Hunnicutt will lead the program. This year's theme, "Laity - Rights, Resources, Responsibilities," will be depicted through a film, "The Long March." It shows the joint action of the denominations through Church World Service, as they reach out to serve all men in need.

Mrs. John R. White will assist Mrs. Hunnicutt in presenting the program. The service is open to all women of the Twin Cities.

China Sea Baptistry For Seabees

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) —A Southern Baptist minister is using the South China Sea as a baptistry for men of a U.S. Navy Seabee battalion.

The Rev. Riley Huckaby, 36, of Gastonia, N.C., is a Navy lieutenant and chaplain for Navy Mobile Construction Battalion 1, stationed at Da Nang. These sailors handle construction in combat zones, and are almost equally adept at firing a rifle or pounding a nail.

In the Seabee camp, Sunday is not a day of rest, but the men are given time off to attend church, and Huckaby—or Huck, as the Seabees call him—says as many as 150 men crowd into the Protestant chapel.

Recently a few Seabees who had never joined a church told Huckaby they wanted to become Baptists—and Huckaby decided to use the sandy beach in front of the Seabee base on the South China Sea as a baptistry.

CONVENIENT WAY

"This was the most convenient way to do it," Huckaby explained. "There was no use in going over to Da Nang to find a river.

"I've baptized in baptistries and rivers, but its my first time to do it in the ocean. I thought it would be exciting for them and me too."

On a recent Sunday afternoon, Huckaby appeared on the beach dressed in the rough, green fatigues of the Seabee construction worker. With him were the new converts, similarly dressed.

Huckaby led them into the bay until they were waist deep. One by one Huckaby called the men in front of him. He raised his left hand toward the cloud-flecked blue sky and intoned:

"Upon your profession of faith in Jesus Christ and in obedience to his command, I baptize thee my brother in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost."

SUBMERGED

He then lowered each Seabee under the water for a fraction of a second. Upon lifting the man upright, Huckaby said "amen" quietly and called for the next man.

A few minutes later, Huckaby introduced five of the new Baptists—still dripping—to newsmen on the beach.

They were James R. Bretz, 18, of Lexington, Ky.; Terry Edminsten, 21, of Boone, N.C.; Carey Selby, 20, of Rochester, N.Y.; John Kinnie, 20, of Portland, Maine, and James B. Carruth, 28, of McComb, Miss.

My Answer

By BILLY GRAHAM

We just lost a missionary from our church — he was killed in South America. I'm always hearing of the death of missionaries in various parts of the world. We need such good people here in America. Why send them abroad? H.B.

These missionaries have set an example we all should heed. They went out in faithfulness to our Lord's command to go and make disciples of all nations. You and I have heard the gospel because there were faithful men and women in generations past.

America is full of witnesses to the gospel of Jesus Christ — every church speaks silently of God's call and claim upon our lives. There are Christians all around us who speak of Christ's redeeming power. We can hear the gospel on the radio, read about it in Christian magazines and all of us have Bibles. Anyone in America can hear and be converted. But the risen Christ said to His disciples: "And you shall be my witnesses . . . to the ends of the earth." These and other missionaries have heard this call and been obedient to it. Do you realize that Christian missionaries are among our nations greatest assets. They are ambassadors of the King of kings, not only winning men to Christ but breaking down barriers of prejudice and misunderstanding.

The cause of Christian missions is an imperative, not an elective, and our Lord tells us to pray that more witnesses go out for the work of His Kingdom.

DR. C. B. HASTINGS

Dr. Hastings Will Lead Series Here

Dr. C. B. Hastings, minister of adult education at the Park Cities Baptist Church in Dallas, Tex., will lead a series of conferences on adult religious education at Parkview Baptist Tuesday through Friday.

Dr. Hastings' subject in the evening conferences will be "Teaching The Bible in a Revolutionary Age." The conferences on Tuesday and Thursday are scheduled from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. The Wednesday conference will be from 6:30 p.m. to 8:15 p.m.

In addition to the evening sessions on adult education, he will also conduct morning conferneces from 9:30 to 11 Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, for parents and teachers of preteen children. The subject will be "The Spiritual Nurture and Religious Development of the Pre-Teen Child."

BACKGROUND

Dr. Hastings is the son of Dr. L. T. Hastings, former pastor of the First Baptist Church of Monroe. He is a graduate of Baylor University, and Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, where he received his doctor of theology degree in New Testament Greek.

For the past eight years he has served Park Cities Baptist Church, which has more than 4,000 members, specializing in adult education. Previously, he was director of the Baylor University Extension Department in Dallas. He also served as pastor of churches in Kentucky and Texas, and as chaplain at the Buckner Baptist Children's Home in Dallas.

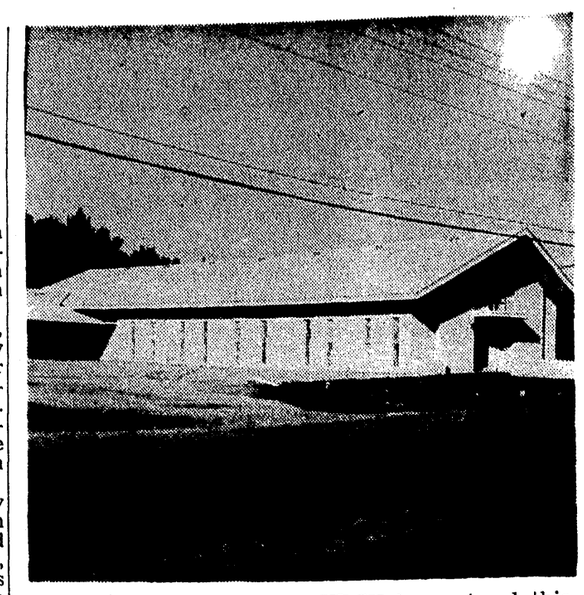
Appreciation Day Program Is Scheduled

McGuire Methodist Church in West Monroe, will hold an Appreciation Night for choir director Eugene Smith and his music co-workers today at 7 p.m.

Smith has been choir director at McGuire Church for a number of years and has succeeded in developing a meaningful sacred music program which has drawn widespread praise.

The recognition program will will be on the occasion of McGuire's regular fifth Sunday Festival of Music, which will include singing of hymns selected by the congregation, special anthems by the Youth and Adult choirs, and other special arrangements.

At the close of the program a fellowship and refreshment period will be held in the Parish Hall. Members of the church and friends of Eugene Smith and his music department will be in attendance. Smith is manager of the West Monroe Chamber of Commerce.



SOUTHSIDE BAPTIST CHURCH has entered this new auditorium at 700 South Sixth Street in Monroe. The building seats 450 persons and cost approximately $60,000. The Rev. L. E. Traxler, Sr., is pastor.

Rev. West Is Evangelist For Meetings

The Rev. Eddie West of Greenville, South Carolina will be the featured speaker for revival services at Emmanuel Baptist Church in West Monroe, Monday through Sunday. Weekday services will be held at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday services at 11 a.m. and 7 p. m.

A recent article in The South Carolina Baptist Courier states, "Eddie West is making headway in placing Greenville, S.C., on the map in realms of evangelism, much as Billy Graham has done for Minneapolis, Minn."

Cliff Barrows, president of World Wide Christian Films, and music director for Billy Graham had this to say about Evangelist West, "It is encouraging to witness the response to the call of God with eager obedience and sincere devotion as I have in Eddie West. His direct and sincere presentation of the Gospel of Christ will be the means of winning many over to our blessed Lord."

At the age of 28, the Rev. Mr. West has made considerable progress in the field of Baptist Evangelism. He is a graduate of Furman University, Greenville, S. C. and Southwestern Seminary in Fort Worth, Tex.

With five years of evangelistic work in local churches he is now working toward city-wide crusades. By 1967 he will be on coast to coast radio on at least 50 big stations, he said.

Emmanuel Baptist Church pastor, is the Rev. K. O. Burns.

The Rev. Mr. West also will conduct a series of meetings at Claiborne Baptist Church, Nov. 7-13, where the Rev. A.H. Johnson, Jr. is pastor.

THE REV. EDDIE WEST

Homecoming Set At Unity Baptist

The annual homecoming observance at Unity Baptist Church, Washington St., West Monroe, will be held today.

Sunday school will start at 9:45 a.m. with morning worship being held at 11 a.m. There will be a dinner on the grounds at noon followed by singing in the afternoon. The program will last until around 3 p.m. The Rev. Jeff N. Fontenot of Collinston, will be featured speaker at morning services. He will discuss "The Great Society."

Rev. T. Mitchell At Fair Park

The Rev. A. T. Mitchell will serve as supply pastor at 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. services today at Fair Park Baptist Church in West Monroe.

During the past few months, the Rev. Mr. Mitchell has been interim pastor and supply pastor for Baptist churches in Monroe and Bastrop.

He will be at Fair Park Church today in the absence of the Rev. Leland Langridge, pastor.

THE VALUE OF A SPIRITUAL OUTLOOK

"vision"

Every day we depend on "vision" that goes beyond what our eyes see. The challenge is always to find a greater vision — a deeper spiritual perception — that will guide mankind's progress, and lift men everywhere into their heritage as children of God. There's A Church Home For You in the Twin Cities...

Anyone desiring to know the location of a church of any denomination in the Twin Cities and the time of its Sunday services may call The Morning World at 323-2070, 323-3660, 323-0501 and ask for the church service directory. We'll be glad to supply you the information.

Rev. Bennett Evangelist For Series

The associate executive secretary of church extension for Brazos Presbytery in Texas, the Rev. Jack K. Bennett, will be evangelist for a series of revival services at Memorial Presbyterian Church, N. 4th and Mill streets, West Monroe, starting today and continuing through Friday, it was announced by the Rev. Hugh Bradshaw, pastor.

The evangelist will conduct a series on an introduction to the Book of Acts at morning and evening services. Each message will be a unit in itself.

CHURCH GROWTH

"He will lead the congregation in an understanding of what made the New Testament Church grow as it did," said the Rev. Mr. Bradshaw.

Services today will be at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., and weekday services will be at 7 a.m. and 7 p.m.

The Rev. Mr. Bennett has primary responsibility for the Sabine area, which includes the Beaumont - Port Arthur - Orange industrial triangle in southeast Texas.

Prior to assuming his present work, he was for six and a half years pastor of the Homer Presbyterian Church, served as stated supply of both the Athens and Haynesville churches, and was instrumental in bringing into being both Evergreen Presyterian Vocational School for mentally retarded boys and the Presbyterian Village of Homer for nursing patients. He was active in church courts as well.

A native of Rusk, Tex., the Rev. Mr. Bennett worked for some 12 years as an abstracter and landman before entering seminary. He was district landman for an oil company in Shreveport from 1950-1953. Immediately prior to entering the ministry, he was co-partner in an abstract firm in Palestine, Tex., where he was also active in both church and civic affairs. He did his B.D. work at Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary in Austin, Texas, where he won the Janie Maxwell Morris Fellowship in 1957 and the Sam B. Hicks Fellowship in 1958. He received the Th.M. degree from that same institution in 1964.

In his present position, he has served as stated supply of the Vidor, Tex. Presbyterian Church and presently serves as organizing pastor of three new works in the area — Amelia, Hardin-Jefferson and High Island. He is also engaged in research on a Board of Church Extension experimental ministry known as Operation Outreach, a volunteer service program for young men of approximately 20-24 years of age. The first 12 of such young men from across the Assembly are scheduled to be working with Mr. Bennett in the Sabine Area in Church Extension and evangelism by September 1, 1967.

He is married to the former Gloria Elizabeth Mackey of Mexia, Texas. The couple have five daughters — Carla Ann, 16; Kathy and Karen, 14; Gloria Kay, 11; and Lisa Lynn, 4. They make their home in Beaumont.

MISS G. CHAPPELL

THE REV. JACK BENNETT

PAUL A. ERICKSON

Missionary Nurse Will Speak Here

Miss Geraldine Chappell will be featured speaker at 10:45 a.m. services at West Monroe First Church of the Nazarene, and will speak at a missionary rally at 2:30 p.m. at the Monroe First Church of the Nazarene.

She has a bachelor of science degree in nursing education and also has a registered midwifery degree. She was assigned to India in 1946. She will tell of her experiences in working with members of the medical staff and other national workers in India, as well as recalling her time as a prisoner of war during World War Two.

Annual Meet Of Louisiana Baptists Set

The 119th session of the Louisiana Baptist Convention will open its three day meeting on Tuesday in Pineville's First Baptist Church, with approximately 2,000 Baptists representing 1,300 churches from throughout the state expected to attend.

The Annual Convention Sermon will be preached in the opening session by the Rev. H. L. Sampson, pastor of the Ridge Avenue Baptist Church, West Monroe.

Throughout the three-day session the Convention group will hear annual reports from various agencies, institutions, and representatives of the Southern Baptist Convention.

On Wednesday morning a budget for the Convention mission programs of over $3¼ million will be presented for adoption. New officers will be elected on Wednesday afternoon.

The closing session on Thursday morning will hear a report from the Special Committee on Church-State Relations presented by Judge Fred Jones of Ruston.

EARL WALDRUP

Leadership Conference At Parkview

Parkview Baptist Church in Monroe will host an area church leadership conference at 7 p.m. Monday. The two-hour meeting is designed for leaders of all church educational organizations and all pastors and is one of 24 being conducted throughout the state.

Conference leaders will include Earl Waldrup, supervisor of the field services section of the associational unit of the Baptist Sunday School Board, Nashville, Tenn.; Charles Stanley Howell, associational consultant with the Sunday School Board; Lucien Coleman of the Southern Baptist Brotherhood Commission, Memphis, Tenn.; and Miss Marjorie Jones, Woman's Missionary Union youth worker, Brimingham, Ala.

Earl Murphy and Cliff Holcomb, both of Nashville, Tenn.; the Rev. Jimmy P. Crowe, Louisiana Training Union secretary, Alexandria; and Dr. W. L. Stagg, Jr., Louisiana Baptist Convention missions and stewardship secretary, Alexandria, will also lead conferences.

Dr. Luther B. Hall of West Monroe, area field worker for Baptists, said that similar conferences are scheduled Tuesday, Nov. 1 in Mer Rouge and Thursday, Nov. 3 in Dubach.

Lecture Set On Spiritual Perception

An explanation on how to develop "spiritual perception" will be presented by Christian Scientist Paul A. Erickson, at a public lecture 8 p.m. Tuesday at the First Church of Christ, Scientist, 224 Auburn Ave., Monroe.

Title of the lecture is "The Value of a Spiritual Outlook."

Mr. Erickson, who once served as a chaplain's assistant at the U.S. Military Academy, gave up a position as manufacturer's agent in Chicago several years ago to become a recognized practitioner in the Christian Science healing ministry.

He also is an authorized teacher of religion, and is currently on a tour as a member of the Board of Lectureship of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

Youth Workshop Scheduled At Church Here

The First Methodist Church of Monroe, located at the corner of Jackson and Wood streets, will be the scene Saturday of a Youth Workshop.

The workshop sponsored by the First Church will be open to youth and adult workers from churches of any denominations who wish to attend. It is aimed at youths from senior high departments, youth counselors, and also is open to pastors.

Introductions will be given by the Rev. George Harbuck, pastor, and the keynote address will be given by Glen Langston, director of christian education of the First Methodist Church of West Monroe, who will deal with programs for youths.

PURPOSE

The purpose of the workshop is to strengthen the youth program at local levels.

Among others on the program will be the Rev. August Aamodt, associate pastor of the First Methodist Church of Shreveport, who will deal in the area of fellowship and recreation.

The Rev. Henry Blount, associate pastor of the First Methodist Church of Shreveport, will discuss adult workers with youths, and the Rev. Deen Thompson, pastor of Sulphur Methodist Church, Sulphur, will conduct a study in the area of worship.

Mrs. D. V. Loflin will be in charge of registration and general assembly.

Lunch will be served at noon in the church's fellowship hall.

Methodist Youths To Join Here In Special Drive

"West Monroe will win a share in a Nobel Peace Prize this year, through efforts of the junior high boys and girls of First Methodist Church, West Monroe, who will go Trick or Treating for UNICEF on Halloween", Glen Langston,, church education director, announced.

This award was given to the United Nation's Children's Fund last fall, for 20 years of lifesaving work in more than 100 countries. Monday these children will join over three million other youngsters across the nation in the program.

"Every penny they get will mean six glasses of milk for hungry youngsters", Langston said. "A nickel buys the penicillin to cure two little victims of yaws, an ugly, crippling tropical disease. A dime provides the antibiotics to save a child suffering from trachoma from total blindness. A quarter means enough BCG vaccine to protect 20 children against tuberculosis".

"Local residents will be asked to donate "treats" of coins when the young people knock on doors. They will be identified by the black and orange collection cartons bearing UNICEF's symbol of the mother and child.

"Our young people consider UNICEF an outstanding organization for the betterment of brotherhood and an excellent opportunity for them to help other children throughout the world," said Langston. "Through cooperation in this program they are given the chance to do something for world peace and to express their Christian love for children of all nations."

OPEN HOUSE will be held from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. today at this child care cottage in Happy Acres subdivision, Arkansas Road, West Monroe, which is maintained by the White's Ferry Road Church of Christ, West Monroe.

THIS SIGN signifies the location of Happy Acres subdivision in West Monroe, where the White's Ferry Road Church of Christ has constructed the first of several child care cottages, as a part of its long-range program in this field of service.

Church Child Care Work Program Is Expanding

Details behind the child care program of White's Ferry Road Church of Christ in West Monroe, were explained recently by William E. DeLoach, minister of education.

"The outstanding mark of the church of the first century," he said, "was that it was extremely militant and active in doing, as well as in teaching. Luke records in Acts 1:1 that 'Jesus began both to do and to teach.' Recognizing their need for greater activity in doing as well as in teaching, a number of the members of the White's Ferry Road Church of Christ, West Monroe, met in February of 1965 to lay long range plans toward developing a child care program."

He continued,"The tentative goal for the first home was set for approximately February of 1966. However, an unusual opportunity to acquire five children who had lost their mother-through a serious illness was brought to the attention of the church in August of 1965. Because of this unique opportunity, the White Ferry Road congregation found itself in its child care program ahead of schedule.

HOME ATMOSPHERE

"This child care program utilizes the home cottage atmosphere rather than the institutionalized atmosphere. The major advantage is that each home or cottage provides a normal home - life situation, thus making the children feel more secure and allowing the parents to be able to deal with the children individually. Each cottage is allowed to have eight children, whose support is provided by the church. The father continues his secular work, as any other father, while the mother stays home during the day to care for the children.

"Thus, the children are subject to an almost ideal home life which is impossible in a large institution. The elders of the Whites Ferry Road Church of Christ oversee the child care program, which is a work of the congregation. Stan and Eloise Fortenberry were chosen as the first house parents.

"The basic goal of this program is to reunite families that have been divided, due to immaturity, sin or any other cause; and in addition, unite them in Jesus Christ. The greatest opportunity in caring for the children will be not only to care for their physical needs, but also to expose them to the teachings of Jesus Christ and to help bring them to their Lord and to salvation.

INCREASES

"Since its beginning in August of 1965, the child care program has grown from one cottage to two, from five children to nine, and from one set of houseparents to two. In addition to the Fortenberrys, Farley and Vera Aiken are now in a temporary cottage with their family.

"The original temporary cottage was at 3312 North 8th Street, West Monroe. This was replaced by the first of seven permanent cottages, located in 'Happy Acres' off Arkansas Road. Construction is to begin on cottage number two within the next few weeks. These cottages will form only a part of this subdivision. Long range plans call for further development of the child care program ith additional cottages."

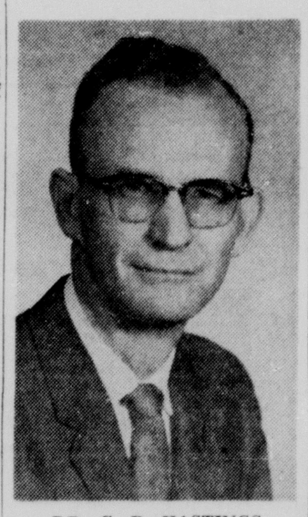
Mr. and Mrs. Fortenberry and their children will host an open house in cottage number one this afternoon from 2 to 5 p.m.

Joint Community Day Observance Set By Women

The United Church Women of Monroe and West Monroe will participate in the observance of World Community Day, a service of prayer and dedication, Friday at St. Paul's Methodist Church, 1901 Lexington Ave. The service will start at 9:30 a. m.

Mrs. Lawrence Hunnicutt will lead the program. This year's theme, "Laity - Rights, Resources, Responsibilities," will be depicted through a film, "The Long March." It shows the joint action of the denominations through Church World Service, as they reach out to serve all men in need.

Mrs. John R. White will assist Mrs. Hunnicutt in presenting the program. The service is open to all women of the Twin Cities.



DR. C. B. HASTINGS

Dr. Hastings Will Lead Series Here

Dr. C. B. Hastings, minister of adult education at the Park Cities Baptist Church in Dallas, Tex., will lead a series of conferences on adult religious education at Parkview Baptist Tuesday through Friday.

Dr. Hastings' subject in the evening conferences will be "Teaching The Bible in a Revolutionary Age." The conferences on Tuesday and Thursday are scheduled from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. The Wednesday conference will be from 6:30 p.m. to 8:15 p.m.

In addition to the evening sessions on adult education, he will also conduct morning conferneces from 9:30 to 11 Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, for parents and teachers of preteen children. The subject will be "The Spiritual Nurture and Religious Development of the Pre-Teen Child."

BACKGROUND

Dr. Hastings is the son of Dr. L. T. Hastings, former pastor of the First Baptist Church of Monroe. He is a graduate of Baylor University, and Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, where he received his doctor of theology degree in New Testament Greek.

For the past eight years he has served Park Cities Baptist Church, which has more than 4,000 members, specializing in adult education. Previously, he was director of the Baylor University Extension Department in Dallas. He also served as pastor of churches in Kentucky and Texas, and as chaplain at the Buckner Baptist Children's Home in Dallas.

China Sea Baptistry For Seabees

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) —A Southern Baptist minister is using the South China Sea as a baptistry for men of a U.S. Navy Seabee battalion.

The Rev. Riley Huckaby, 36, of Gastonia, N.C., is a Navy lieutenant and chaplain for Navy Mobile Construction Battalion 1, stationed at Da Nang. These sailors handle construction in combat zones, and are almost equally adept at firing a rifle or pounding a nail.

In the Seabee camp, Sunday is not a day of rest, but the men are given time off to attend church, and Huckaby—or Huck, as the Seabees call him—says as many as 150 men crowd into the Protestant chapel.

Recently a few Seabees who had never joined a church told Huckaby they wanted to become Baptists—and Huckaby decided to use the sandy beach in front of the Seabee base on the South China Sea as a baptistry.

CONVENIENT WAY

"This was the most convenient way to do it," Huckaby explained. "There was no use in going over to Da Nang to find a river.

"I've baptized in baptistries and rivers, but its my first time to do it in the ocean. I thought it would be exciting for them and me too."

On a recent Sunday afternoon, Huckaby appeared on the beach dressed in the rough, green fatigues of the Seabee construction worker. With him were the new converts, similarly dressed.

Huckaby led them into the bay until they were waist deep. One by one Huckaby called the men in front of him. He raised his left hand toward the cloud-flecked blue sky and intoned:

"Upon your profession of faith in Jesus Christ and in obedience to his command, I baptize thee my brother in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost."

SUBMERGED

He then lowered each Seabee under the water for a fraction of a second. Upon lifting the man upright, Huckaby said "amen" quietly and called for the next man.

A few minutes later, Huckaby introduced five of the new Baptists—still dripping—to newsmen on the beach.

They were James R. Bretz, 18, of Lexington, Ky.; Terry Edminsten, 21, of Boone, N.C.; Carey Selby, 20, of Rochester, N.Y.; John Kinnie, 20, of Portland, Maine, and James B. Carruth, 28, of McComb, Miss.

My Answer

By BILLY GRAHAM

We just lost a missionary from our church — he was killed in South America. I'm always hearing of the death of missionaries in various parts of the world. We need such good people here in America. Why send them abroad? H.B.

These missionaries have set an example we all should heed. They went out in faithfulness to our Lord's command to go and make disciples of all nations. You and I have heard the gospel because there were faithful men and women in generations past.

America is full of witnesses to the gospel of Jesus Christ — every church speaks silently of God's call and claim upon our lives. There are Christians all around us who speak of Christ's redeeming power. We can hear the gospel on the radio, read about it in Christian magazines and all of us have Bibles. Anyone in America can hear and be converted. But the risen Christ said to His disciples: "And you shall be my witnesses . . . . to the ends of the earth." These and other missionaries have heard this call and been obedient to it. Do you realize that Christian missionaries are among our nations greatest assets. They are ambassadors of the King of kings, not only winning men to Christ but breaking down barriers of prejudice and misunderstanding.

The cause of Christian missions is an imperative, not an elective, and our Lord tells us to pray that more witnesses go out for the work of His Kingdom.

Appreciation Day Program Is Scheduled

McGuire Methodist Church in West Monroe, will hold an Appreciation Night for choir director Eugene Smith and his music co-workers today at 7 p.m.

Smith has been choir director at McGuire Church for a number of years and has succeeded in developing a meaningful sacred music program which has drawn widespread praise.

The recognition program will will be on the occasion of McGuire's regular fifth Sunday Festival of Music, which will include singing of hymns selected by the congregation, special anthems by the Youth and Adult choirs, and other special arrangements.

At the close of the program a fellowship and refreshment period will be held in the Parish Hall. Members of the church and friends of Eugene Smith and his music department will be in attendance. Smith is manager of the West Monroe Chamber of Commerce.

SOUTHSIDE BAPTIST CHURCH has entered this new auditorium at 700 South Sixth Street in Monroe. The building seats 450 persons and cost approximately $60,000. The Rev. L. E. Traxler, Sr., is pastor.

Rev. West Is Evangelist For Meetings

The Rev. Eddie West of Greenville, South Carolina will be the featured speaker for revival services at Emmanuel Baptist Church in West Monroe, Monday through Sunday. Weekday services will be held at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday services at 11 a.m. and 7 p. m.

A recent article in The South Carolina Baptist Courier states, "Eddie West is making headway in placing Greenville, S.C., on the map in realms of evangelism, much as Billy Graham has done for Minneapolis, Minn."

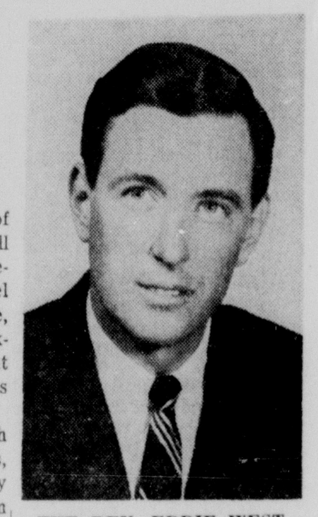
Cliff Barrows, president of World Wide Christian Films, and music director for Billy Graham had this to say about Evangelist West, "It is encouraging to witness the response to the call of God with eager obedience and sincere devotion as I have in Eddie West. His direct and sincere presentation of the Gospel of Christ will be the means of winning many over to our blessed Lord."

At the age of 28, the Rev. Mr. West has made considerable progress in the field of Baptist Evangelism. He is a graduate of Furman University, Greenville, S. C. and Southwestern Seminary in Fort Worth, Tex.

With five years of evangelistic work in local churches he is now working toward city-wide crusades. By 1967 he will be on coast to coast radio on at least 50 big stations, he said.

Emmanuel Baptist Church pastor, is the Rev. K. O. Burns.

The Rev. Mr. West also will conduct a series of meetings at Claiborne Baptist Church, Nov. 7-13, where the Rev. A.H. Johnson, Jr. is pastor.



THE REV. EDDIE WEST

Homecoming Set At Unity Baptist

The annual homecoming observance at Unity Baptist Church, Washington St., West Monroe, will be held today.

Sunday school will start at 9:45 a.m. with morning worship being held at 11 a.m. There will be a dinner on the grounds at noon followed by singing in the afternoon. The program will last until around 3 p.m. The Rev. Jeff N. Fontenot of Collinston, will be featured speaker at morning services. He will discuss "The Great Society."

Rev. T. Mitchell At Fair Park

The Rev. A. T. Mitchell will serve as supply pastor at 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. services today at Fair Park Baptist Church in West Monroe.

During the past few months, the Rev. Mr. Mitchell has been interim pastor and supply pastor for Baptist churches in Monroe and Bastrop.

He will be at Fair Park Church today in the absence of the Rev. Leland Langridge, pastor.

Senator Says It Takes Big Money To Win In Campaigns

(EDITOR'S NOTE — The U.S. Senate is a man's world, but a woman can survive. Maurine Neuberger, sums up her six - year experience and tells what it takes to get elected — big money (she deplores that), and a campaign identity, like the same hat, or a checked suit.)

By KELLY SMITH

WASHINGTON (AP) — If a woman wants to be a senator she should wear the same hat, have plenty of money, and not fall for that "woman's place is in the home" gag.

So sayeth Maurine B. Neuberger, who ought to know. She's been in the Senate six years, one of only two women in a world of 98 men. "I'm not a militant feminist," says Mrs. Neuberger, retiring this year by her own decision.

But she has raised her soft, low-keyed voice on more than one occasion. She has been an outspoken foe of cigarettes and excessive campaign spending, and once accepted eviction from her apartment rather than give up her cat, Muffet.

At 59, Mrs. Neuberger looks 10 years younger. A Democrat from Portland, Ore., and a former state legislator, she was elected to the Senate in 1960 to fill the post vacated by the death of her husband, Richard L. Neuberger. In 1964, she married Boston psychiatrist Dr. Philip Solomon.

Q. When you announced your decision not to seek re-election, you said you didn't want "to be beholden to some groups for campaign money." Is money with strings attached a problem?

A. Everything comes back to money. Every liberal Northern senator who has strong opposition finds no matter how evenly matched he is — it's the one with the most money who will win.

It's a thwarting of what we call the great democracy. My campaign in 1960 cost $80,000. That was cheap. Campaigns now run into the millions. You couldn't run for the Senate in Illinois today without spending $2 million.

I was offered money from groups whose policies I was pretty sure I couldn't support. Support is what they expect. It's pretty obvious.

Take billboards. I never use them. But there's no stronger lobby than the billboard lobby when it comes to highways. When he faces billboard legislation, a candidate who's accepted money can hardly fly in the face of that support.

The idea is to permit a candidate with only limited financial resources to present his platform and views to the public.

Q. What's a senator's biggest problem?

A. If there's a problem, it's getting pet legislation through. You fit into a ladder of seniority. You know you have to plead your cause with the leadership to approve bills. Some senators have more money in the bank — more bargaining powers — than others. A committee chairman is so influential. If you have something to offer him in return.

Q. Is being a woman a handicap?

A. Definitely. This is most apparent in the campaign itself. A woman enters into a man's world of politics, into backfighting and grubbing. Before she puts her name on the ballot, she encounters prejudice and people saying, 'A woman's place is in the home.'

She has to walk a very tight wire in conducting her campaign. She can't be too pussy-footing or mousy. Also, she can't go to the other extreme — belligerent, coarse, nasty.

It's certainly possible to do it. Most men hate to run against a woman — because of the code you don't attack a woman. Sen. (Stuart) Symington said the harest race he ever ran was against a woman.

A. Why aren't more women running for public office?

A. I'm disappointed they aren't. For one thing, it's the war. Women are especially sensitive to war. They see here (Sen. Wayne) Morse, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and the President himself unable to bring it to a conclusion, to negotiate a peace, or even do anything towards a constructive solution.

They think, 'My gosh. These people are more experienced than I am and I'd be just a little voice.' So they don't run. Women are always brought up to be ladylike and most are sort of self-deprecating.

Q. Once elected, are women over enthusiastic for causes?

A. Some of the women in Congress certainly are tenacious to the point of not being pliable enough. If women go into politics, they go with some great zeal. They don't have to act that way.

The men I work with are pretty amiable. They can be violent in opposition to a colleague in one committee and be great friends in another.

Q. What kind of reaction do you receive from women constituents?

A. Some of the meanest, most nit-picking opposition comes from women. They're jealous of you. I've had this happen.

Q. Do you have any advice for an aspiring woman politician?

A. One piece of advice I'll never forget, though I didn't always adhere to it, came from Portland's woman mayor, Dorothy McCollugh Lee, a Republican.

'As you go into your campaign,' she said, 'always wear the same hat. Don't go dashing around getting different hats, different hairdos, different dresses.'

When I had my campaign pictures taken, I happened to have on a blue and white checked suit with a carnation on the lapel. I didn't consciously just keep wearing it, but people began to identify me with it. One day, much later, my niece was looking at an old scrapbook and said, "That's that famous suit.' I didn't realize till then what a good thing I'd done.

Q. Is there a letdown knowing you're leaving the Senate?

A. I don't want anybody to say, She didn't do her work because she's quitting.' I get up at six o'clock in Boston to catch the plane back for a session. I think, 'What do I do it for? Plenty of senators around here are not so diligent.'

But you come in on a blaze of glory, and you want to go out that way.

ONE OF TWO women in the United States Senate, Maurine B. Neuberger, is retiring after this term. She was elected to the Senate in 1960, and filled the post vacated by the death of her husband, Richard L. Neuberger. As she recently started to pack her papers to send to the University of Oregon (her state) and to the Library of Congress, she graciously answered interview questions both simply and directly . . . On women in politics: ". . . she has to walk a tight wire" between not being" . . . too pussy-footing or mousy" and not being too extreme in the other directions. By the same token, the Senator states that women constituents are sometimes "meanest . . . They're jealous of you." Others, she adds, write very personal letters, woman-to-woman. Senator Says It Takes Big Money To Win In Campaigns

(EDITOR'S NOTE — The U.S. Senate is a man's world, but a woman can survive. Maurine Neuberger, sums up her six - year experience and tells what it takes to get elected — big money (she deplores that), and a campaign identity, like the same hat, or a checked suit.)

By KELLY SMITH

WASHINGTON (AP) — If a woman wants to be a senator she should wear the same hat, have plenty of money, and not fall for that "woman's place is in the home" gag.

So sayeth Maurine B. Neuberger, who ought to know. She's been in the Senate six years, one of only two women in a world of 98 men. "I'm not a militant feminist," says Mrs. Neuberger, retiring this year by her own decision.

But she has raised her soft, low-keyed voice on more than one occasion. She has been an outspoken foe of cigarettes and excessive campaign spending, and once accepted eviction from her apartment rather than give up her cat, Muffet.

At 59, Mrs. Neuberger looks 10 years younger. A Democrat from Portland, Ore., and a former state legislator, she was elected to the Senate in 1960 to fill the post vacated by the death of her husband, Richard L. Neuberger. In 1964, she married Boston psychiatrist Dr. Philip Solomon.

Here are some reflections on being a woman and a senator:

Q. When you announced your decision not to seek re-election, you said you didn't want "to be beholden to some groups for campaign money." Is money with strings attached a problem?

A. Everything comes back to money. Every liberal Northern senator who has strong opposition finds no matter how evenly matched he is — it's the one with the most money who will win.

It's a thwarting of what we call the great democracy. My campaign in 1960 cost $80,000. That was cheap. Campaigns now run into the millions. You couldn't run for the Senate in Illinois today without spending $2 million.

I was offered money from groups whose policies I was pretty sure I couldn't support. Support is what they expect. It's pretty obvious.

Take billboards. I never use them. But there's no stronger lobby than the billboard lobby when it comes to highways. When he faces billboard legislation, a candidate who's accepted money can hardly fly in the face of that support.

The idea is to permit a candidate with only limited financial resources to present his platform and views to the public.

Q. What's a senator's biggest problem?

A. If there's a problem, it's getting pet legislation through. You fit into a ladder of seniority. You know you have to plead your cause with the leadership to approve bills. Some senators have more money in the bank — more bargaining powers — than others. A committee chairman is so influential. If you have something to offer him in return.

Q. Is being a woman a handicap?

A. Definitely. This is most apparent in the campaign itself. A woman enters into a man's world of politics, into backfighting and grubbing. Before she puts her name on the ballot, she encounters prejudice and people saying, 'A woman's place is in the home.'

She has to walk a very tight wire in conducting her campaign. She can't be too pussy-footing or mousy. Also, she can't go to the other extreme — belligerent, coarse, nasty.

It's certainly possible to do it. Most men hate to run against a woman — because of the code you don't attack a woman. Sen. (Stuart) Symington said the harest race he ever ran was against a woman.

A. Why aren't more women running for public office?

A. I'm disappointed they aren't. For one thing, it's the war. Women are especially sensitive to war. They see here (Sen. Wayne) Morse, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and the President himself unable to bring it to a conclusion, to negotiate a peace, or even do anything towards a constructive solution.

They think, 'My gosh. These people are more experienced than I am and I'd be just a little voice.' So they don't run. Women are always brought up to be ladylike and most are sort of self-deprecating.

Q. Once elected, are women over enthusiastic for causes?

A. Some of the women in Congress certainly are tenacious to the point of not being pliable enough. If women go into politics, they go with some great zeal. They don't have to act that way.

The men I work with are pretty amiable. They can be violent in opposition to a colleague in one committee and be great friends in another.

Q. What kind of reaction do you receive from women constituents?

A. Some of the meanest, most nit-picking opposition comes from women. They're jealous of you. I've had this happen.

Q. Do you have any advice for an aspiring woman politician?

A. One piece of advice I'll never forget, though I didn't always adhere to it, came from Portland's woman mayor, Dorothy McCollugh Lee, a Republican.

'As you go into your campaign,' she said, 'always wear the same hat. Don't go dashing around getting different hats, different hairdos, different dresses.'

When I had my campaign pictures taken, I happened to have on a blue and white checked suit with a carnation on the lapel. I didn't consciously just keep wearing it, but people began to identify me with it. One day, much later, my niece was looking at an old scrapbook and said, "That's that famous suit.' I didn't realize till then what a good thing I'd done.

Q. Is there a letdown knowing you're leaving the Senate?

A. I don't want anybody to say, She didn't do her work because she's quitting.' I get up at six o'clock in Boston to catch the plane back for a session. I think, 'What do I do it for? Plenty of senators around here are not so diligent.'

But you come in on a blaze of glory, and you want to go out that way.

ONE OF TWO women in the United States Senate, Maurine B. Neuberger, is retiring after this term. She was elected to the Senate in 1960, and filled the post vacated by the death of her husband, Richard L. Neuberger. As she recently started to pack her papers to send to the University of Oregon (her state) and to the Library of Congress, she graciously answered interview questions both simply and directly . . . On women in politics: ". . . she has to walk a tight wire" between not being" . . . too pussy-footing or mousy" and not being too extreme in the other directions. By the same token, the Senator states that women constituents are sometimes "meanest . . . They're jealous of you." Others, she adds, write very personal letters, woman-to-woman. Northeast Indians Shock Southwestern With Upset

Looked Like Third Tribe Catastrophe

By STUART HILL
World Sports Writer

For a while it looked as though USL would do it, would become the third consecutive Gulf States Conference foe to come from behind to defeat Northeast in the closing minutes of the game.

The symptoms were there, a 15 yard penalty with about 30 seconds left and Southwestern, without any time outs remaining, moving the ball into Indian territory.

But time finally ran out in favor of the Indians, who have lost two heart-breaking GSC games to league opponents, each by a meager one point. The Indians got past the Bulldogs by three points.

USL Coach Russ Faulkenberry managed to quip after the game, "Well, I'm glad Dixie won a conference game, but I wish it wasn't me." The victory is the first in the GSC since Dixie White took over. Faulkenberry knew his Bulldogs, who dropped to third place in the GSC, came close but, "We dropped a little hook pass," said Faulkenberry, "that was a key play there at the last."

The final minutes of the game had almost everyone worried. The scouts from Northwestern now tied with McNeese for the loop lead, squirmed in their seats and mumbled, "Mansur better not throw that ball." The well-tanned scout from Tampa, Northeast's next opponent, mumbled very little but stuck to the task at hand — daigraming plays.

USL played the game without the aid of its entire starting backfield, but Coach Faulkenberry offered no excuses. Quarterback Bill Byard, halfback Gerald Landry and halfback-fullback Chester Gosnell, who also punts for the Bulldogs were all sidelined with injuries.

"Northeast has a good ball club and they beat us," said the cigar-chewing Faulkenberry.

Northeast's Dixie White chagrined, "I still don't believe it. I was going to wait until the morning papers to see if it is really true.

"It's a wonderful feeling," he added, reflecting on his first conference victory.

"I am especially happy for the team," Coach White said. "They have worked so hard and tried so hard. We kept telling them that the breaks would come their way if they just kept their shoulders to the wheel.

"It was a splendid effort after two heart-breaking weekends. To come back like this after losing two close one's just goes to show that this team has a lot of character."

Northeast also scored 10 points against NSL last season but came out a loser because the Bulldogs pushed over 14 down at McNaspy Stadium in Lafayette.

It is ironic that the Indians scored the very same way last year as Saturday night. In each game the Tribe kicked a field goal and quarterback Steve Mansur tossed a touchdown pass.

USL plays host to Arkansas State, which lost to Lamar Tech Saturday night in a Southland Conference game, this week. The Bulldogs close out with Northwestern and McNeese back to back.

Although Coach Faulkenberry refused to elaborate on the loss of so many of his regulars, five in all, and other injury-ridden players, it seemed quite apparent in the Bulldog dressing room that help would have to come from somewhere, especially for the final two games of the season.

The Bulldogs, co-champions with McNeese last season, must win both in order to at least share the crown again this year.

Last Minute Drive By USL Halted

By KEITH PRINCE
World Sports Editor

Just when it was becoming apparent that there is only one way to end a Northeast football game—by losing in the final hectic seconds — a gallant Tribe defense rose to the occasion behind a clutch tackle from freshman Kenneth Frith and the Indians secured a mammoth upset of defending GSC champion Southwestern, 10-7, at Ouachita Stadium Saturday night.

	USL	NE
First downs	10	10
Rushing yardage	67	127
Passing yardage	44	46
Passes	5-15	6-14
Passes Intercepted by	1	1
Punts	8-39	8-35
Fumbles lost	2	2
Yards penalized	35	50

With a packed house looking on, and sure of only one thing—that even in coming to a football game it had evidently failed to escape the Saturday night reruns — Northeast fought savagely with its back to the wall in the final minute to bag the biggest prize of them all, a band of Rajun' Cajuns picked to win its second straight league crown.

With USL driving in Northeast's territory as the final two minutes ticked off, things began to look more and more like last week's heart-breaking loss to Southeastern.

But as the Bulldogs reached Northeast's 31 it faced a third and eight with 30 seconds remaining. Here youth Frith, the all-stater from Lake Providence broke through the USL offensive wall to spill quarterback Mickey Bergeron back on the 37 and put the 'Dogs into a state of mass confusion.

Out of time-outs and trying desperately to regroup forces as the clock ticked away, Bergeron apparently lost count of the downs and threw out of bounds to stop the clock on the next play.

And he succeeded. Except for one thing. His clock-stopping throw was on USL's fourth down, and the incompletion gave Northeast the ball on downs.

And, so, finally victory came again to the courageous Indians of Dixie White. It leaves Northeast 4-3 overall and 1-3 in league combat, while USL is now 5-2 for the year and 2-1 in GSC action.

Ironically, the win over the GSC kingpin marked the first league victory for Northeast in three years. And, it also kept the Tribe's streak alive of not having lost to USL in Monroe since 1957.

From USL's view, the bitter loss dropped Russ Faulkenberry's Cajuns from first to third in the hot race, behind Northwestern and McNeese. And, of course, the Bulldogs will always feel things would have been different had they been able to use three men — QB Bill Bayard and halfbacks Chester Gosnell and Gerald Landry — who were out because of injuries.

And, maybe things would have been different. But, then again, maybe not.

The victory came on an 18-yard field goal by Clark Blake 43 seconds deep into the second quarter and a clutch touchdown pass from QB Steve Mansur to Al Miller with 8:35 left in the game which brought the Tribe back from a 7-3 deficit.

Southwestern had gone in front in the third quarter after recovering a Tribe fumble and marching 41 yards to score on Bergeron's 26 yard scamper. Rick Borg kicked the extra point for the 7-3 gap with 11 minutes remaining in the period.

Statistically, Northeast — as usual — was way in front. Although both clubs finished with 10 first down, Northeast had 127 yards on the ground and 46 passing while the Bulldogs were netting only 67 rushing and 44 passing.

The contest was a tremendous defensive battle all the way. In fact, all the scoring for both clubs came as a result of the defenses managing to get possession of the ball in it's opponents end of the field.

Northeast linebacker Wayne Cunningham, one of the Tribe's most consistent defenders every week, set up the first score of the night when he made a diving interception at USL's 43 late in the first quarter.

After Cunningham's interception, Mansur kept for 12 yards and a first at the 31 on the initial play. Seafidel then went for two and Mansur followed with an incompleted pass before coming up with a good eight yard run that gave Northeast a first at the 21.

Mansur kept again for two, then threw to LeBlanc for 17 yards and a first down at the USL six. The Bulldog defense tightened here and three plays left the ball at the one where Northeast elected to go for the field goal.

Northeast went on to dominate play in the rest of the first half, and twice moved deep into USL territory before helping to stop itself with penalties.

Ole Miss Drops LSU Tigers, 17-0

By JACK GATES
Executive Editor
News-Star—World

BATON ROUGE — Mississippi, showing only a few spurts of offense and aided by fumbles and a poorly officiated game as far as Tiger fans are concerned, defeated Louisiana State 17-0 Saturday night in a game in which coach Charlie McClendon pulled out all the stops, but to no avail.

It was the second straight loss for the Tigers, who probably will make it three in a row when they go up against Alabama at Birmingham next Saturday.

	Ole Miss	LSU
First downs	16	13
Rushing yardage	75	88
Passing yardage	131	130
Passes	7-10	9-25
Passes intercepted by	0	0
Punts	9-38	10-34
Fumbles lost	1	3
Yards penalized	57	40

The Rebels, who got all the breaks in the game, scored 10 points in the first period, and 7 in the final as three Tiger bobbles in that period killed any hope for a victory — if there was ever any.

Neither team showed any sustained offense, with the Rebels scoring two touchdowns on pass plays, one for 75 yards from quarterback Bruce Newell to fullback Bobby Wade.

In the opinion of many, officiating left much to be desired. On some occasions, players were tackled outside the playing field, and several pass interference penalties could have been called against Rebel defenders. In one case in the third period, a pilling on penalty should have been called.

However, all such calls are judgment calls and there is no redress, and presumably officials are doing their best under trying conditions.

Critized last week for rushing plays when the Tigers were trailing Florida 21 to 0, Coach McClendon's team came out throwing against the Rebels. To the surprise of fans, quarterback Fred Haynes passed on the first LSU play of the game to Billy Masters and completed a six-yarder from his 27. He came back with another to Masters for 20 yards, moving to the Rebel 48. But there it ended as Mississippi's stingly defense held.

The Rebels' first score came the second time they got the ball. Starting on their own 15, they moved to the 25 from where Newell hit Wade at the 35 and he dashed down the sidelines for 75 yards and the touchdown while his teammates cut down would be Tiger defenders. Jimmy Keys kicked the first two conversions.

The Rebel field Goal came in the same period after a poor punt by LSU's Mitch Worley gave Mississippi the ball at the Tiger 20. After failing to make a first down, Keys booted the 3 pointer from 35 yards out.

In the second, neither team made a serous scoring thrust, although the Tigers made their deepest penetration of the first half, driving once to the 31 and again to the 29. On a fourth down pass play from the 29, Masters, down for a pass about the 15, obviously was fouled, but it was not called.

In the third period, the Rebels moved to the Tiger 31, but LSU defenders held. As the third period ended, the Tigers, under the direction of substitute quarterback Trey Prather, moved to the Rebel 42.

Early in the fourth, the drive was stopped cold when Prather fumbled the ball on the Rebel 32, the first of three such miscues in that period, and the Rebels recovered. However, Ole Miss couldn't move and Tiger defenders partially blocked the ball and regained possession of it at the Rebel 34. On a fourth-down play, Haynes hit Masters, who made a circus catch at the Mississippi 6 and at that point the Tigers were still in the game. But on the first play from that point, strongback Frank Matte fumbled and Jerry Richardson recovered for the Rebels as a golden opportunity for the Tigers went fading. Unable to move, the Rebels punted to LSU's Sammy Grezaffi who fumbled the ball at the 48 and Don Street recovered for the Rebels.

Late in the period, LSU had held the Rebels at their on 46 when a roughing the kicker penalty gave them new life at the LSU 36, although it appeared the ball was partially blocked. Two plays later from the 32 Newell hit end Hank Snow for a touchdown after the lanky end had gotten behind all LSU defenders and was wide open.

It seemed that almost anything the Tigers tried backfired, despite the wide open offense coach McClendon tried, including going on fourth down deep in Tiger territory, and also passing from near the LSU goal line.

This was McClendon's fourth loss to Ole Miss in the five years he has been head coach at LSU and the second in a row the Tigers were shutout by the Rebels.

Ironically, the Tigers won the battle of statistics, but that didn't affect the score. They picked up 13 first downs to 6 for Mississippi, gained 88 yards rushing to the Rebels 75, and were edged by Ole Miss in the passing department 131 yards to 130. In total offense the Tigers picked up 218 yards to 206 for the Rebs.

Frequently, Mississippi's punter, Chuck Norman, got fantastic yardage on his punts. On two occasions he got off only a 35-yard punt, but the ball rolled for 25 more yards, putting the Tigers deep in their own end of the field.

Individually, Haynes completed 8 of 21 attempts for 16 yards and rolled for an additional 44 yards on the ground. Masters, his favorite receiver, caught five for 94 yards, while Jim Dousay gathered in 3 for 23 yards.

For the Rebels, Newell completed 7 of 10 for 131 yards, while Doug Cunningham, their fleet tailback, lead Ole Miss rushers with 48 yards in 14 carries.

McClendon termed the game "as good an effort as we have had all year. I've never been any prouder of our kids. They were as aggressive as any LSU team has been, and but for two plays, we defensed them as well as anyone could.

"We are a young team and we are going to make mistakes. Sometimes the opposition forces these mistakes, but this LSU team tonight was as courageous as any team I've had. I felt our staff did a fine job with the game plan, and if we had to play it again, I doubt if we would change our plan. They were big, we knew it would be difficult to run inside, so we tried to hit the seams with passes and pinch the tackle in. Our kids are not down-hearted. They know they played well. They know that they didn't hold anything back. They gave all they had."

In addition to the more wide open style of play, the Tigers employed a cross-motion series, the first time they had used it.

Coach Johnny Vaught of the Rebels claimed LSU "has a good football team. They bothered us an awful lot with their cross-motion series at first. Finally, we adjusted to it by the half."

When asked about what appeared to be a partially blocked punt by LSU in the fourth period, Vaught said: "It was just a bad kick — it was not partially blocked. I'll say one thing—it was a good rush."

Ken Hebert Paces Victory For Houston

HOUSTON (UPI) — Split end Ken Hebert caught touchdown passes of 85, 46, 34 and 13 yards Saturday night to lead the University of Houston to a 48-9 victory over an outclassed Tampa University.

Hebert, who also kicks extra points, scored 30 points, including 28 in a row during one stretch. He made three consecutive scoring catches in the second quarter and his 46-yarder was the first touchdown of the third period.

Fullback Dick Post scored Houston's first two touchdowns in the first quarter on runs of six and 23 yards and halfback George Nordgren scored the last one with a two-yard dive in the fourth period.

Tampa scored on a 25-yard field goal by quarterback Jesse Kaye in the first quarter and on a 13-yard pass from Kaye to flanker Gary Rapp in the last quarter.

Kaye set a new school career passing record by completing 16 of 41 for 237 yards to raise his career total to 1,241 yards. Rapp was his favorite receiver with seven catches for 82 yards. Houston also intercepted six.

Bo Burris, the Houston quarterback, completed 8 of 16 for 246 yards. Hebert, who is considered an excellent pro punting prospect, caught five for 205 yards, a single-game school record by four yards.

'Pokes Roll By Wildcats For 31-0 Win

Quarterback William Keigley got the first touchdown in the opening quarter with a 45-yard dash around left end.

Tailback Damon Bradford added another on an eight-yard run: fullback Carroll Breaux tallied on a one-yard plunge, and fullback Paul Demarch scampered 50 yards for the final McNeese touchdown.

David Coche, who kicked all four extra points, also booted a 30-yard field goal.

Louisiana College made only one scoring threat in the game. That was in the third quarter, but the ball was fumbled in the end zone.

The victory boosted the McNeese record to 4-3 for the season, while Louisiana College lost its seventh straight.

It was one of the best offensive games for McNeese, including 310 yards on the ground and 107 in the air.

Breaux was the leading rusher with 87 yards net in 18 attempts. Fullback Tommy Cannon was tops for Louisiana College with 83 yards in 18 carries.

Northwestern Drops Troy State, 14-7

TROY, Ala. (AP) — Northwestern Louisiana's Demons scored two touchdowns in the second quarter to defeat Troy State, 14-7 here Saturday night.

The Northwestern win ruined Troy's homecoming and gave the Red Wave its fourth loss of the season.

Neither team could manage a score the first period, but the second quarter the Demons began a drive at their own 12 that ended 14 plays later with Barry Fresh going in from the one. Malcolm Lewis kicked the extra points.

Later in the period Dick Concillo intercepted a Troy pass at the Red Wave 37. Lewis connected on five passes to Steve Gaspard and Rush Gileow went the final yard for the score. Lewis kicked the final point of the night.

Troy got on the scoreboard late in the third period when freshman cornerback David Cooper intercepted a Demon pass. Cotton picked up 26 yards on eight plays and J. A. Williams went the final two with Danny Moore kicking the point.

Troy picked up 12 first downs to 15 for Northwestern and had 261 yards total offense to 289 for the visitors. Troy plays the University of Tennessee Martin Branch next week at Martin, Tenn.

Wolverines Wear Down Wisconsin

Detwiler scored on two plunges from the three-yard line and set the stage for a 23-yard touchdown romp by Dave Fisher with his kickoff return to the Badgers' 36.

Wisconsin, trailing 14-7 at halftime, blew glittering scoring opportunities in both halves against the Wolvers — a team that blew apart Minnesota 49-0 a week ago.

Wayne Todd lost a handoff on a third down play at the Michigan two in the second period and Dick Volk recovered for Michigan.

Northeast Indians Shock Southwestern With Upset

Looked Like Third Tribe Catastrophe

By STUART HILL
World Sports Writer

For a while it looked as though USL would do it, would become the third consecutive Gulf States Conference foe to come from behind to defeat Northeast in the closing minutes of the game.

The symptoms were there, a 15 yard penalty with about 30 seconds left and Southwestern, without any time outs remaining, moving the ball into Indian territory.

But time finally ran out in favor of the Indians, who have lost two heart-breaking GSC games to league opponents, each by a meager one point. The Indians got past the Bulldogs by three points.

USL Coach Russ Faulkenberry managed to quip after the game, "Well, I'm glad Dixie won a conference game, but I wish it wasn't me." The victory is the first in the GSC since Dixie White took over. Faulkenberry knew his Bulldogs, who dropped to third place in the GSC, came close but, "We dropped a little hook pass." said Faulkenberry, "that was a key play there at the last."

The final minutes of the game had almost everyone worried. The scouts from Northwestern now tied with McNeese for the loop lead, squirmed in their seats and mumbled, "Mansur better not throw that ball." The well-tanned scout from Tampa, Northeast's next opponent, mumbled very little but stuck to the task at hand — daigraming plays.

USL played the game without the aid of its entire starting backfield, but Coach Faulkenberry offered no excuses. Quarterback Bill Byard, halfback Gerald Landry and halfback-fullback Chester Gosnell, who also punts for the Bulldogs were all sidelined with injuries.

"Northeast has a good ball club and they beat us," said the cigar-chewing Faulkenberry.

Northeast's Dixie White chagrined, "I still don't believe it. I was going to wait until the morning papers to see if it is really true.

"It's a wonderful feeling," he added, reflecting on his first conference victory.

"I am especially happy for the team," Coach White said. "They have worked so hard and tried so hard. We kept telling them that the breaks would come their way if they just kept their shoulders to the wheel.

"It was a splendid effort after two heart-breaking weekends. To come back like this after losing two close one's just goes to show that this team has a lot of character."

Northeast also scored 10 points against NSL last season but came out a loser because the Bulldogs pushed over 14 down at McNaspy Stadium in Lafayette.

It is ironic that the Indians scored the very same way last year as Saturday night. In each game the Tribe kicked a field goal and quarterback Steve Mansur tossed a touchdown pass.

USL plays host to Arkansas State, which lost to Lamar Tech Saturday night in a Southland Conference game, this week. The Bulldogs close out with Northwestern and McNeese back to back.

Although Coach Faulkenberry refused to elaborate on the loss of so many of his regulars, five in all, and other injury-ridden players, it seemed quite apparent in the Bulldog dressing room that help would have to come from somewhere, especially for the final two games of the season.

The Bulldogs, co-champions with McNeese last season, must win both in order to at least share the crown again this year.

Ken Hebert Paces Victory For Houston

HOUSTON (UPI) — Split end Ken Hebert caught touchdown passes of 85, 46, 34 and 13 yards Saturday night to lead the University of Houston to a 48-9 victory over an outclassed Tampa University.

Hebert, who also kicks extra points, scored 30 points, including 28 in a row during one stretch. He made three consecutive scoring catches in the second quarter and his 46-yarder was the first touchdown of the third period.

Fullback Dick Post scored Houston's first two touchdowns in the first quarter on runs of six and 23 yards and halfback George Nordgren scored the last one with a two-yard dive in the fourth period.

Tampa scored on a 25-yard field goal by quarterback Jesse Kaye in the first quarter and on a 13-yard pass from Kaye to flanker Gary Rapp in the last quarter.

Kaye set a new school career passing record by completing 16 of 41 for 237 yards to raise his career total to 1,241 yards. Rapp was his favorite receiver with seven catches for 82 yards. Houston also intercepted six.

Bo Burris, the Houston quarterback, completed 8 of 16 for 246 yards. Hebert, who is considered an excellent pro punting prospect, caught five for 205 yards, a single-game school record by four yards.

Ole Miss Drops LSU Tigers, 17-0

By JACK GATES
Executive Editor
News-Star—World

BATON ROUGE — Mississippi, showing only a few spurts of offense and aided by fumbles and a poorly officiated game as far as Tiger fans are concerned, defeated Louisiana State 17-0 Saturday night in a game in which coach Charlie McClendon pulled out all the stops, but to no avail.

It was the second straight loss for the Tigers, who probably will make it three in a row when they go up against Alabama at Birmingham next Saturday.

	Ole Miss	LSU
First downs	6	13
Rushing yardage	75	88
Passing yardage	131	130
Passes	7-10	9-25
Passes intercepted by	0	0
Punts	9-38	10-34
Fumbles lost	1	3
Yards penalized	57	40

The Rebels, who got all the breaks in the game, scored 10 points in the first period, and 7 in the final as three Tiger bobbles in that period killed any hope for a victory — if there was ever any.

Neither team showed any sustained offense, with the Rebels scoring two touchdowns on pass plays, one for 75 yards from quarterback Bruce Newell to fullback Bobby Wade.

In the opinion of many, officiating left much to be desired. On some occasions, players were tackled outside the playing field, and several pass interference penalties could have been called against Rebel defenders. In one case in the third period, a pilling on penalty should have been called.

However, all such calls are judgment calls and there is no redress, and presumably officials are doing their best under trying conditions.

Critized last week for rushing plays when the Tigers were trailing Florida 21 to 0, Coach McClendon's team came out throwing against the Rebels. To the surprise of fans, quarterback Fred Haynes passed on the first LSU play of the game to Billy Masters and completed a six-varder from his 27. He came back with another to Masters for 20 yards, moving to the Rebel 48. But there it ended as Mississippi's stingly defense held.

The Rebels' first score came the second time they got the ball. Starting on their own 15, they moved to the 25 from where Newell hit Wade at the 35 and he dashed down the sidelines for 75 yards and the touchdown while his teammates cut down would be Tiger defenders. Jimmy Keys kicked the first two conversions.

The Rebel field Goal came in the same period after a poor punt by LSU's Mitch Worley gave Mississippi the ball at the Tiger 20. After failing to make a first down, Keys booted the 3 pointer from 35 yards out.

In the second, neither team made a serous scoring thrust, although the Tigers made their deepest penetration of the first half, driving once to the 31 and again to the 29. On a fourth down pass play from the 29, Masters, down for a pass about the 15, obviously was fouled, but it was not called.

In the third period, the Rebels moved to the Tiger 31, but LSU defenders held. As the third period ended, the Tigers, under the direction of substitute quarterback Trey Prather, moved to the Rebel 42.

Early in the fourth, the drive was stopped cold when Prather fumbled the ball on the Rebel 32, the first of three such miscues in that period, and the Rebels recovered. However, Ole Miss couldn't move and Tiger defenders partially blocked the ball and regained possession of it at the Rebel 34. On a fourth-down play, Haynes hit Masters, who made a circus catch at the Mississippi 6 and at that point the Tigers were still in the game. But on the first play from that point, strongback Frank Matte fumbled and Jerry Richardson recovered for the Rebels as a golden opportunity for the Tigers went fading. Unable to move, the Rebels punted to LSU's Sammy Grezaffi who fumbled the ball at the 48 and Don Street recovered for the Rebels.

Late in the period, LSU had held the Rebels at their on 46 when a roughing the kicker penalty gave them new life at the LSU 36, although it appeared the ball was partially blocked. Two plays later from the 32 Newell hit end Hank Snow for a touchdown after the lanky end had gotten behind all LSU defenders and was wide open.

It seemed that almost anything the Tigers tried backfired, despite the wide open offense coach McClendon tried, including going on fourth down deep in Tiger territory, and also passing from near the LSU goal line.

This was McClendon's fourth loss to Ole Miss in the five years he has been head coach at LSU and the second in a row the Tigers were shutout by the Rebels.

Ironically, the Tigers won the battle of statistics, but that didn't affect the score. They picked up 13 first downs to 6 for Mississippi, gained 88 yards rushing to the Rebels 75, and were edged by Ole Miss in the passing department 131 yards to 130. In total offense the Tigers picked up 218 yards to 206 for the Rebs.

Frequently, Mississippi's punter, Chuck Norman, got fantastic yardage on his punts. On two occasions he got off only a 35-yard punt, but the ball rolled for 25 more yards, putting the Tigers deep in their own end of the field.

Individually, Haynes completed 8 of 21 attempts for 16 yards and rolled for an additional 44 yards on the ground. Masters, his favorite receiver, caught five for 94 yards, while Jim Dousay gathered in 3 for 23 yards.

For the Rebels, Newell completed 7 of 10 for 131 yards, while Doug Cunningham, their fleet tailback, lead Ole Miss rushers with 48 yards in 14 carries.

McClendon termed the game "as good an effort as we have had all year. I've never been any prouder of our kids. They were as aggressive as any LSU team has been, and but for two plays, we defensed them as well as anyone could.

"We are a young team and we are going to make mistakes. Sometimes the opposition forces these mistakes, but this LSU team tonight was as courageous as any team I've had. I felt our staff did a fine job with the game plan, and if we had to play it again, I doubt if we would change our plan. They were big, we knew it would be difficult to run inside, so we tried to hit the seams with passes and pinch the tackle in. Our kids are not down-hearted. They know they played well. They know that they didn't hold anything back. They gave all they had."

In addition to the more wide open style of play, the Tigers employed a cross-motion series, the first time they had used it.

Coach Johnny Vaught of the Rebels claimed LSU "has a good football team. They bothered us an awful lot with their cross-motion series at first. Finally, we adjusted to it by the half."

When asked about what appeared to be a partially blocked punt by LSU in the fourth period, Vaught said: "It was just a bad kick — it was not partially blocked. I'll say one thing—it was a good rush."

Tailback Damon Bradford added another on an eight-yard run; fullback Carroll Breaux tallied on a one-yard plunge, and fullback Paul Demarch scampered 50 yards for the final McNeese touchdown.

David Coche, who kicked all four extra points, also booted a 30-yard field goal.

Louisiana College made only one scoring threat in the game. That was in the third quarter, but the ball was fumbled in the end zone.

The victory boosted the McNeese record to 4-3 for the season, while Louisiana College lost its seventh straight.

It was one of the best offensive games for McNeese, including 310 yards on the ground and 107 in the air.

Breaux was the leading rusher with 87 yards net in 18 attempts. Fullback Tommy Cannon was tops for Louisiana College with 83 yards in 18 carries.

Northwestern Drops Troy State, 14-7

TROY, Ala. (AP) — Northwestern Louisiana's Demons scored two touchdowns in the second quarter to defeat Troy State, 14-7 here Saturday night.

The Northwestern win ruined Troy's homecoming and gave the Red Wave its fourth loss of the season.

Neither team could manage a score the first period, but the second quarter the Demons began a drive at their own 12 that ended 14 plays later with Barry Fresh going in from the one. Malcolm Lewis kicked the extra points.

Later in the period Dick Concillo intercepted a Troy pass at the Red Wave 37. Lewis connected on five passes to Steve Gaspard and Rush Gileow went the final yard for the score. Lewis kicked the final point of the night.

Troy got on the scoreboard late in the third period when freshman cornerback David Cooper intercepted a Demon pass. Cotton picked up 26 yards on eight plays and J. A. Williams went the final two with Danny Moore kicking the point.

Troy picked up 12 first downs to 15 for Northwestern and had 261 yards total offense to 289 for the visitors. Troy plays the University of Tennessee Martin Branch next week at Martin, Tenn.

Wolverines Wear Down Wisconsin

Detwiler scored on two plunges from the three-yard line and set the stage for a 23-yard touchdown romp by Dave Fisher with his kickoff return to the Badgers' 36.

Wisconsin, trailing 14-7 at halftime, blew glittering scoring opportunities in both halves against the Wolvers — a team that blew apart Minnesota 49-0 a week ago.

Wayne Todd lost a handoff on a third down play at the Michigan two in the second period and Dick Volk recovered for Michigan.

Last Minute Drive By USL Halted

By KEITH PRINCE
World Sports Editor

Just when it was becoming apparent that there is only one way to end a Northeast football game—by losing in the final hectic seconds — a gallant Tribe defense rose to the occasion behind a clutch tackle from freshman Kenneth Frith and the Indians secured a mammoth upset of defending GSC champion Southwestern, 10-7, at Ouachita Stadium Saturday night.

With a packed house looking on, and sure of only one thing—that even in coming to a football game it had evidently failed to escape the Saturday night reruns — Northeast fought savagely with its back to the wall in the final minute to bag the biggest prize of them all, a band of Rajun' Cajuns picked to win its second straight league crown.

With USL driving in Northeast's territory as the final two minutes ticked off, things began to look more and more like last week's heart-breaking loss to Southeastern.

But as the Bulldogs reached Northeast's 31 it faced a third and eight with 30 seconds remaining. Here youth Frith, the all-stater from Lake Providence broke through the USL offensive wall to spill quarterback Mickey Bergeron back on the 37 and put the 'Dogs into a state of mass confusion.

Out of time-outs and trying desperately to regroup forces as the clock ticked away, Bergeron apparently lost count of the downs and threw out of bounds to stop the clock on the next play.

And he succeeded. Except for one thing. His clock-stopping throw was on USL's fourth down, and the incompletion gave Northeast the ball on downs.

And, so, finally victory came again to the courageous Indians of Dixie White. It leaves Northeast 4-3 overall and 1-3 in league combat, while USL is now 5-2 for the year and 2-1 in GSC action.

Ironically, the win over the GSC kingpin marked the first league victory for Northeast in three years. And, it also kept the Tribe's streak alive of not having lost to USL in Monroe since 1957.

From USL's view, the bitter loss dropped Russ Faulkenberry's Cajuns from first to third in the hot race, behind Northwestern and McNeese. And, of course, the Bulldogs will always feel things would have been different had they been able to use three men — QB Bill Bayard and halfbacks Chester Gosnell and Gerald Landry — who were out because of injuries.

And, maybe things would have been different. But, then again, maybe not.

The victory came on an 18-yard field goal by Clark Blake 43 seconds deep into the second quarter and a clutch touchdown pass from QB Steve Mansur to Al Miller with 8:35 left in the game which brought the Tribe back from a 7-3 deficit.

Southwestern had gone in front in the third quarter after recovering a Tribe fumble and marching 41 yards to score on Bergeron's 26 yard scamper. Rick Borg kicked the extra point for the 7-3 gap with 11 minutes remaining in the period.

Statistically, Northeast — as usual — was way in front. Although both clubs finished with 10 first down, Northeast had 127 yards on the ground and 46 passing while the Bulldogs were netting only 67 rushing and 44 passing.

The contest was a tremendous defensive battle all the way. In fact, all the scoring for both clubs came as a result of the defenses managing to get possession of the ball in it's opponents end of the field.

Northeast linebacker Wayne Cunningham, one of the Tribe's most consistent defenders every week, set up the first score of the night when he made a diving interception at USL's 43 late in the first quarter.

From here the Indians marched down to the one where it finally settled for a three pointer by Blake, his sixth successful in eight tries this fall.

After Cunningham's interception, Mansur kept for 12 yards and a first at the 31 on the initial play. Scafidel then went for two and Mansur followed with an incompleted pass before coming up with a good eight yard run that gave Northeast a first at the 21.

Mansur kept again for two, then threw to LeBlanc for 17 yards and a first down at the USL six. The Bulldog defense tightened here and three plays left the ball at the one where Northeast elected to go for the field goal.

Northeast went on to dominate play in the rest of the first half, and twice moved deep into USL territory before helping to stop itself with penalties.

Tennessee Eagles Put Mark On Tech

The pattern of the afternoon was set the first time the Eagles got the ball as they pounded 75 yards to paydirt in 13 plays. Halfback Frank Sorrells rounded the left side for the six points.

A fumble recovery gave the home team possesson again on the final play of the first period and the Eagles marched 46 yards for another score with halfback Terry Parks getting the final yard.

Louisiana Tech made its only sustained drive following the kickoff with freshman quarterback Terry Bradshaw at the controls. It traveled 71 yards in nine plays with Bradshaw passing to Jim Jones for 10 yards and to halfback Eddie Taylor for 22. Taylor bulled across from the seven, but a two-point conversion pass failed.

The Canines trimmed their deficit to 14-9 in the third quarter on Richie Golmon's 35-yard field goal after a drive had stalled.

But Tennessee Tech put the game out of reach in the final quarter, once again after recovering a Bulldog fumble 34 yards out.

It took nine plays to get the score and fullback Joe Reliegh went over from the five. Tackle John Swords made good his third straight conversion.

Tech's first string quarterback, Phil Robertson, sat out most of the contest after his fumble had set up the Eagles' second score. Bradshaw played the rest of the way on offense, completed seven of 15 passes for 102 yards and avoided interceptions, but could sustain only the one touchdown drive.

Tennessee Tech, literally wearing out the Bulldogs' flanks with a cagey use of options, racked up 250 yards on the ground and added 72 through the air.

Taylor was again the Bulldogs' best ground weapon picking up 78 yards, one more than the entire Tech net ground game.

Northeast Wins, 10-7

And, on the very next Northeast series the Indians had a second and seven at the USL 30 turned into a second and 12 at the 35 because of a motion penalty.

By the end of the third quarter it looked like those needlessly ruined potential scoring drives might be fatal.

On the third play of the third quarter, Mansur threw to Alton Thomas at the Tribe 41 and he fumbled the ball into the hands of USL's Jimmy Edney.

From here Southwestern marched to its lead. A 17 yard pass completion from Dickey Mart to Kleinpeter moved USL to the 26, from where Bergeron scrambled to paydirt after penalties against both clubs on successive plays left the ball there.

The remainder of the third quarter was a see-saw kicking battle between Northeast's Ronny Holland and Southwestern's Johnny Benoit. Neither team was able to penetrate the opponent's territory.

Thanks to a 58-yard Holland punt which rolled dead at the USL eight, Northeast gained excellent field position — which eventually set up the Tribe touchdown.

Holland's boomer came on the last play of third quarter. Moving from the eight, USL was able to pick up a first to its 19 on three runs. But on first from here Bergeron fumbled and Larry Johnson pounced on it for a Northeast possession at the 21.

But it wasn't here that Northeast was able to cash in. Mansur was trapped for an 11-yard loss on first down, threw to LeBlanc for three on second down, then had another incompletion on a third try.

Here, Holland's educated toe put USL in even deeper trouble. He punted high and Northeast was able to kill the ball at the one. USL couldn't move in two tries and punted out on third down.

The kick by Benoit was a good one, to the 50, and Lynn Mitchell returned equally well, to the USL 37. From here the Indians went in.

The initial try was the well executed reverse play with Thomas making a beautiful, weaving run down to the 14. However, here another penalty nearly stopped Northeast — leaving it with a first and 15 from the 19.

Mansur made a big nine yard run from the 19 and Northeast was back in business at the 10. LeBlanc picked up four to the six on second down and Northeast needed two for a first.

An incompleted pass followed, and it was fourth from the six.

The entire Northeast defensive unit is a story within itself. The leaders included such people as linebacker Butch Shuman with nine tackles, nose guard Greg Jubert with six, Cunningham, Mitchell, Charles Rohner and Ron Sumter in on five each and Kenneth Holland, Nic LaBarbera and Johnson with four each.

Alton Thomas was the game's leading ground gainer with 43 yards on five tries — one a beautiful 23 yard run on a reverse that set up the Northeast touchdown.

Mansur finished with 42 yards on 21 carries and fullback Bobby Scafidel netted 32 on 12 carries. The GSC's leading rusher, Dalton LeBlanc, was held to 10 yards on seven carries, but was used effectively as a receiver and caught four for 40 yards.

George Gros led USL with 22 yards on four tries. Dangerous split end Leonard Kleinpeter was held to two receptions for 24 yards, thanks to double coverage most of the time by Northeast's secondary.

Sub Quarterback Paces Tide's Victory

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — Unbeaten Alabama used three touchdown passes by senior quarterback Wayne Trimble, a second stringer most of the year, to beat Mississippi State 27-14 in a Southeastern Conference football battle here Saturday.

Trimble hit end Ray Perkins with a 26-yard scoring pass in the second quarter, connected with Jerry Duncan on a tackle eligible pass in the fourth period, then found Perkins again for a 37-yard scoring pass.

Steve Davis boomed field goals of 35 and 31 yards and kicked three extra points as the defending national champions kept their record unblemished with their sixth consecutive win of the season.

The Bulldogs's first score was on a three-yeard run by wingback Prentiss Calhoun.

Then with three seconds left in the game, quarterback Don Saget threw an 11-yard scoring pass to Calhoun. Specialist James Neill kicked State extra points.

Mississippi State has won two, lost five.

Alabama had chances to score in the first period but couldn't put together the tight combination until 12:30 left in the second quarter, when Davis kicked his 35-yard field goal after Alabama had driven from its own 48 to the State 19. Quarterback Kenny Stabler had directed that drive.

The next time Alabama had the ball Trimble came on and took the Tide 37 yards in four plays, hitting Perkins with a 37-yarder with just under nine minutes left in the half. That brief drive had been set up when safety man John Mosely recovered a Bulldog fumble.

In the third quarter, Stabler came back at quarterback and took Alabama down on the State 10, where Kaiser picked off one of his passes in the end zone. State ran four downs and punted, and Trimble came back in at quarterback.

This time, Trimble led the Tide to the State 15, where Davis kicked his second three-pointer.

Then in the fourth period, Stabler threw another interception to Kaiser and after Mississippi State had driven 37 yards for its first score, Trimble came back in again. This time he took the reins at the Alabama 29, and six plays later the Tide had scored again, Duncan going the last 71 yards with Trimble's second touchdown pass.

Gophers Get Upset Over Ohio State

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Curt Wilson and John Wintermute shredded Ohio State's defenses for more than 100 yards rushing apiece and Minnesota's defense made the crucial plays in the Gophers' 17-7 upset victory over the Buckeyes in a regionally televised Big Ten football game Saturday.

The victory gave the Gophers a 2-1-1 Big Ten record and dropped the Buckeyes to 1-3.

The Gopher defense shook the ball loose from OSU quarterback Bill Long as he tried to pass early in the second half and recovered the fumble to set up a touchdown that shoved Minnesota ahead 14-0.

Wilson scored on a three-yard keeper to cap the 23-yard strike.

Ohio State bounced back to score its only touchdown on Long's 10-yard pass to Bob Rein. But the Gophers then clinched the victory with a 21-yard field goal by Jerry Beavan after Minnesota recovered an onside kick and drove 44 yards to set it up.

Southern Miss Tops Richmond

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP)— With its defensive unit as stingy as ever, Southern Mississippi got it offense untracked in the third period and crushed Richmond 27-0 here Saturday night.

Southern, leading the nation in total defense, stopped the Spiders with a minus one yard rushing and 114 yards passing.

The Southerners were able to score only once in the first half but broke loose for three in the third period to win handily.

Southern's first touchdown came after an 11-yard punt return by Billy Devrow put the ball on Richmond's 33 yard line. The drive from there was climaxed by a two-yard smash by fullback Mike McCarthy with 3:40 to go in the first half.

A sensational 62 - yard pass play accounted for the second touchdown and seemed to put new life in Southern's offensive unit. The long aerial from quarterback Mike McClellan was snagged by split end Clyde Dowd on the dead run at the Richmond 17 and he bolted into the end zone.

The next time Southern got the ball it took just two plays to score. McCarthy broke through the line and raced 43 yards to paydirt.

Goal By Spurrier Gives Florida Win

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP)— Steve Spurrier kicked a 40-yard field goal in the closing minutes Saturday and gave seventh-ranked Florida a breathtaking 30-27 victory over Auburn.

Florida, now 7-0 on the season, went ahead in the first minute but couldn't contain Auburn's long kickoff returns. The Gators had to battle from behind to pick up the victory before 60,000 homecoming fans.

Spurrier completed 27 of 40 passes for 259 yards, short of the record 289 yards he set against Auburn last year when the Tigers upset Florida.

But the Gators added a running attack paced by sophomore Larry Smith Saturday and drilled huge holes in Auburn's defenses.

Spurrier passed for one touchdown and sneaked a yard for another. His passing set up the other two on short plunges by fullback Graham McKeel and Smith.

Florida moved 13, 73, 69 and 72 yards for touchdowns.

The first came easily when Auburn's Dwight Hurston fumbled the opening kickoff. Spurrier tossed 10 yards to Richard Trapp in the end zone on the third play.

Auburn turned another good kickoff return, this one by wingback Freddie Hyatt, into a drive that brought a field goal by Jimmy Jones just before halftime and gave the Tigers a 17-13 lead.

The Tigers got their second touchdown when linebacker Gusty Yearout stole the ball from Florida's Tom Christian and ran 91 yards behind a wall of blockers that formed along the left sideline so quickly it seemed Auburn had practiced this freak play all week.

Florida went ahead twice in the second half on long drives, only to have Auburn come back to tie the score.

With 4:08 left, quarterback Larry Blakeney ran three yards to score after a Florida fumble his field goal kick traveled straight and sure.

Big Second Quarter Nets Raiders Upset

HOUSTON (AP) — The fired-up Texas Tech Red Raiders, sparked by the clutch passing of quarterback John Scovell, raced to a 35-19 Southwest Conference football victory over sputtering Rice Saturday.

Tech, a 10-point underdog, scored 28 points in the second quarter as the Red Raiders ran up their highest conference score since beginning league play in 1960.

Scovell, a junior from Dallas, Tex., mixed his plays well, sending a stable of running backs through the Rice line when he was not passing.

Mike Leinert and Roger Freeman each scored two touchdowns, and Bobby Allen took a 30-yard scoring strike for the other. Kenny Vinyard converted after each one.

Bob Griese Puts Purdue By Illinois

LAFAYETTE, IKND. (AP) Purdue's Bob Griese shook off five pass interceptions and hurled the Boilermakers to a 25-21 victory over Illinois Saturday on a touchdown in the final 80 seconds.

The victory gave Purdue sole possession of second place in the Big Ten football standings and the inside track to the Rose Bowl.

Griese completed 19 of 35 passes for 288 yards and all three Purdue touchdowns. He also kicked two extra points and a 22-yard field goal and passed for a two-point conversion.

Griese had to bring the Boilermakers from behind twice. They went into the fourth period trailing 21-10.

Illinois drove 80 yards after the opening kickoff and scored on a four-yard run by Rich Johnson.

Purdue drove 75 yards in five plays to tie the score as Griese hit Jim Beirne on a 19-yard touchdown toss.

An Illinois fumble gave Purdue the ball o the Illini 12 in the second quarter and Griese kicked the field goal.

Illinois drove 71 yards in 12 plays in the third period to regain the lead, Bob Naponic going the last 13 after fading to pass.

Samford Blasts Way To Victory

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Samford University jumped to a 24-0 halftime lead and went on to celebrate homecoming day with a 45-21 victory over Mississippi College, Clinton.

The Bulldogs turned a blocked punt into a first quarter touchdown and came right back to score on a 61-yard drive to put the Mississippians in the hole early.

Donnie Edwards covered the blocked punt and halfback Jim Lovette scored on a three yard run climaxing the long drive. After that, Curtis Padgett took over and passed for scores of 11 and 6 yards to end Jimmy Jackson and 13 yards to end John Easley.

Alternate quarterback Jerry Colvin tossed 41 yards to end Tommy Cook for Samford's other score and Rex Keeling added six extra points and a 36-yard field goal for the winners.

Miss. College quarterback Larry Suchy scored on a 10-yard run and passed to end Wayne Thornton for touchdowns of 53 and 10 yards. George Fields kicked three conversions.

Samford brought its record to 5-2 for the season while Miss. College stands 2-5.

Safety Gives Clemson Win

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Wake Forest quarterback Ken Erickson was trapped behind his goal line with 26 seconds to play Saturday for the safety that gave Clemson a 23-21 victory it needed to remain tied with Jaryland for the Atlantic Coast Conference football lead.

Only minutes before, sophomore Erickson had pulled the aroused Deacons into a tie with a five-yard touchdown pass to flanker Eddie Arrington and a two-point conversion pass to Ken Hauswald.

Andy Harper seemingly preserved the 21-all tie for Wake Forest when he intercepted a third-down Addison pass on the Deacon seven with 30 seconds to play.

On the next play, however, Erickson was caught behind the goal line by Clemson tackle Wilson Childers and guard Jim Tompkins for the safety that decided the battle.

Arkansas Sweeps Past Aggies, 34-0

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — Charles Williams ran for three touchdowns to pace Arkansas AM&N to a 34-28 comeback victory over Southwestern Athletic Conference foe Alcorn A&M here Saturday.

Williams scored on runs of 48, 17 and one yards while teammate Charles Barnett scampered 11 and six yards for other AM&N touchdowns.

AM&N took a 13-0 lead in the first quarter and it stood up until the third period, when Alcorn scored all 28 of its points.

Leroy Hardy started the visitors' scoring with an 81-yard run and then Alcorn picked off a pass to get the ball at the AM&N four. Prince Barton scored on the first play, and Nathaniel Pruitt kicked his second of four extra points to put Alcorn ahead 14-13.

AM&N lost a fumble at its 24 and Alcorn's Donald Jones made it across the goal line on the first play.

With Alcorn leading 21 - 13, Williams got off his 48-yard gallop and Robert Lee ran for a two-point conversion to tie the game.

Alcorn marched 62 yards with Barton going the final two to wind up the high-scoring third quarter.

Barnett's six-yard run and Eddie Milus' extra point tied the game again and Williams' 17-yard score put the Golden Lions in front. Alcorn blocked the final point-after try.

Last-Minute Goal Nets Iowa Win

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Bob Anderson kicked a 28-yard field goal with 41 seconds left in a wild fourth quarter Saturday to give Iowa a 20-19 victory over Indiana and the Hawkeyes' first Big Ten triumph in two years.

Anderson's kick came just 48 seconds after Indiana had moved ahead 19-17 when quarterback Frank Stagoff hit end Bill Couch with a four-yard scoring strike.

Just a minute and a half before that, Iowa's Silas McKinnie had taken a pitchout, juggled it a few times, then scampered 62 yards for a touchdown that had put the Hawkeyes in the lead 17-13.

The Hoosiers had used Mike Krivoshia's one-yard plunge for a 13-10 advantage with 11 minutes left.

Beban Paces UCLA Over Air Force

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Quarterback Gary Beban threw one touchdown pass and ran for two more scores as UCLA ran its unbeaten string to seven Saturday night with a 38-13 victory over Air Force.

Playing before 34,654 in Memorial Coliseum, the third-ranked Bruins ran into unexpected opposition from the Falcons and held only a 14-10 lead at the half.

Sophomore quarterback Steve Turner, an 18-year-old surprise from Evanston, Ill., who started and played most of the game, actually guided the Falcons to a 10-7 lead in the second quarter.

But the most electrifying play of the game, which put UCLA in front to stay, was a 71-yard run back of a pass interception by Sandy Green, a 171-pound junior. The return put the ball on the Air Force 24 and four plays later Beban went over from the two.

The lone Air Force touchdown came on a screen pass from Turner to the visitors' chief receiver, Jim Schultz, who got by three tacklers on a 33-yard play.

Tennessee Eagles Put Mark On Tech

The pattern of the afternoon was set the first time the Eagles got the ball as they pounded 75 yards to paydirt in 13 plays. Halfback Frank Sorrells rounded the left side for the six points.

A fumble recovery gave the home team possesson again on the final play of the first period and the Eagles marched 46 yards for another score with halfback Terry Parks getting the final yard.

Louisiana Tech made its only sustained drive following the kickoff with freshman quarterback Terry Bradshaw at the controls. It traveled 71 yards in nine plays with Bradshaw passing to Jim Jones for 10 yards and to halfback Eddie Taylor for 22. Taylor bulled across from the seven, but a two-point conversion pass failed.

The Canines trimmed their deficit to 14-9 in the third quarter on Richie Golmon's 35-yard field goal after a drive had stalled.

But Tennessee Tech put the game out of reach in the final quarter, once again after recovering a Bulldog fumble 34 yards out.

It took nine plays to get the score and fullback Joe Reliegh went over from the five. Tackle John Swords made good his third straight conversion.

Tech's first string quarterback, Phil Robertson, sat out most of the contest after his fumble had set up the Eagles' second score. Bradshaw played the rest of the way on offense, completed seven of 15 passes for 102 yards and avoided interceptions, but could sustain only the one touchdown drive.

Tennessee Tech, literally wearing out the Bulldogs' flanks with a cagey use of options, racked up 250 yards on the ground and added 72 through the air.

Taylor was again the Bulldogs' best ground weapon picking up 78 yards, one more than the entire Tech net ground game.

Northeast Wins, 10-7

And, on the very next Northeast series the Indians had a second and seven at the USL 30 turned into a second and 12 at the 35 because of a motion penalty.

By the end of the third quarter it looked like those needlessly ruined potential scoring drives might be fatal.

On the third play of the third quarter, Mansur threw to Alton Thomas at the Tribe 41 and he fumbled the ball into the hands of USL's Jimmy Edney.

From here Southwestern marched to its lead. A 17 yard pass completion from Dickey Mart to Kleinpeter moved USL to the 26, from where Bergeron scrambled to paydirt after penalties against both clubs on successive plays left the ball there.

The remainder of the third quarter was a see-saw kicking battle between Northeast's Ronny Holland and Southwestern's Johnny Benoit. Neither team was able to penetrate the opponent's territory.

Thanks to a 58-yard Holland punt which rolled dead at the USL eight, Northeast gained excellent field position — which eventually set up the Tribe touchdown.

Holland's boomer came on the last play of third quarter. Moving from the eight, USL was able to pick up a first to its 19 on three runs. But on first from here Bergeron fumbled and Larry Johnson pounced on it for a Northeast possession at the 21.

But it wasn't here that Northeast was able to cash in. Mansur was trapped for an 11-yard loss on first down, threw to LeBlanc for three on second down, then had another incompletion on a third try.

Here, Holland's educated toe put USL in even deeper trouble. He punted high and Northeast was able to kill the ball at the one. USL couldn't move in two tries and punted out on third down.

The kick by Benoit was a good one, to the 50, and Lynn Mitchell returned equally well, to the USL 37. From here the Indians went in.

The initial try was the well executed reverse play with Thomas making a beautiful, weaving run down to the 14. However, here another penalty nearly stopped Northeast — leaving it with a first and 15 from the 19.

Mansur made a big nine yard run from the 19 and Northeast was back in business at the 10. LeBlanc picked up four to the six on second down and Northeast needed two for a first.

An incompleted pass followed, and it was fourth from the six.

The entire Northeast defensive unit is a story within itself. The leaders included such people as linebacker Butch Shuman with nine tackles, nose guard Greg Jubert with six, Cunningham, Mitchell, Charles Rohner and Ron Sumter in on five each and Kenneth Holland, Nic LaBarbera and Johnson with four each.

Alton Thomas was the game's leading ground gainer with 43 yards on five tries — one a beautiful 23 yard run on a reverse that set up the Northeast touchdown.

Mansur finished with 42 yards on 21 carries and fullback Bobby Scafidel netted 32 on 12 carries. The GSC's leading rusher, Dalton LeBlanc, was held to 10 yards on seven carries, but was used effectively as a receiver and caught four for 40 yards.

George Gros led USL with 22 yards on four tries. Dangerous split end Leonard Kleinpeter was held to two receptions for 24 yards, thanks to double coverage most of the time by Northeast's secondary.

Sub Quarterback Paces Tide's Victory

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — Unbeaten Alabama used three touchdown passes by senior quarterback Wayne Trimble, a second stringer most of the year, to beat Mississippi State 27-14 in a Southeastern Conference football battle here Saturday.

Trimble hit end Ray Perkins with a 26-yard scoring pass in the second quarter, connected with Jerry Duncan on a tackle eligible pass in the fourth period, then found Perkins again for a 37-yard scoring pass.

Steve Davis boomed field goals of 35 and 31 yards and kicked three extra points as the defending national champions kept their record unblemished with their sixth consecutive win of the season.

The Bulldogs's first score was on a three-yard run by wingback Prentiss Calhoun.

Then with three seconds left in the game, quarterback Don Saget threw an 11-yard scoring pass to Calhoun. Specialist James Neill kicked State extra points.

Mississippi State has won two, lost five.

Alabama had chances to score in the first period but couldn't put together the tight combination until 12:30 left in the second quarter, when Davis kicked his 35-yard field goal after Alabama had driven from its own 48 to the State 19. Quarterback Kenny Stabler had directed that drive.

The next time Alabama had the ball Trimble came on and took the Tide 37 yards in four plays, hitting Perkins with a 37-yarder with just under nine minutes left in the half. That brief drive had been set up when safety man John Mosely recovered a Bulldog fumble.

In the third quarter, Stabler came back at quarterback and took Alabama down on the State 10, where Kaiser picked off one of his passes in the end zone. State ran four downs and punted, and Trimble came back in at quarterback.

This time, Trimble led the Tide to the State 15, where Davis kicked his second three-pointer.

Then in the fourth period, Stabler threw another interception to Kaiser and after Mississippi State had driven 37 yards for its first score, Trimble came back in again. This time he took the reins at the Alabama 29, and six plays later the Tide had scored again, Duncan going the last 71 yards with Trimble's second touchdown pass.

Gophers Get Upset Over Ohio State

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Curt Wilson and John Wintermute shredded Ohio State's defenses for more than 100 yards rushing apiece and Minnesota's defense made the crucial plays in the Gophers' 17-7 upset victory over the Buckeyes in a regionally televised Big Ten football game Saturday.

The victory gave the Gophers a 2-1-1 Big Ten record and dropped the Buckeyes to 1-3.

The Gopher defense shook the ball loose from OSU quarterback Bill Long as he tried to pass early in the second half and recovered the fumble to set up a touchdown that shoved Minnesota ahead 14-0.

Wilson scored on a three-yard keeper to cap the 23-yard strike.

Ohio State bounced back to score its only touchdown on Long's 10-yard pass to Bob Rein. But the Gophers then clinched the victory with a 21-yard field goal by Jerry Beavan after Minnesota recovered an onside kick and drove 44 yards to set it up.

Southern Miss Tops Richmond

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP)— With its defensive unit as stingy as ever, Southern Mississippi got it offense untracked in the third period and crushed Richmond 27-0 here Saturday night.

Southern, leading the nation in total defense, stopped the Spiders with a minus one yard rushing and 114 yards passing.

The Southerners were able to score only once in the first half but broke loose for three in the third period to win handily.

Southern's first touchdown came after an 11-yard punt return by Billy Devrow put the ball on Richmond's 33 yard line. The drive from there was climaxed by a two-yard smash by fullback Mike McCarthy with 3:40 to go in the first half.

A sensational 62 - yard pass play accounted for the second touchdown and seemed to put new life in Southern's offensive unit. The long aerial from quarterback Mike McClellan was snagged by split end Clyde Dowd on the dead run at the Richmond 17 and he bolted into the end zone.

The next time Southern got the ball it took just two plays to score. McCarthy broke through the line and raced 43 yards to paydirt.

Goal By Spurrier Gives Florida Win

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP)— Steve Spurrier kicked a 40-yard field goal in the closing minutes Saturday and gave seventh-ranked Florida a breathtaking 30-27 victory over Auburn.

Florida, now 7-0 on the season, went ahead in the first minute but couldn't contain Auburn's long kickoff returns. The Gators had to battle from behind to pick up the victory before 60,000 homecoming fans.

Spurrier completed 27 of 40 passes for 259 yards, short of the record 289 yards he set against Auburn last year when the Tigers upset Florida.

But the Gators added a running attack paced by sophomore Larry Smith Saturday and drilled huge holes in Auburn's defenses.

Spurrier passed for one touchdown and sneaked a yard for another. His passing set up the other two on short plunges by fullback Graham McKeel and Smith.

Florida moved 13, 73, 69 and 72 yards for touchdowns.

The first came easily when Auburn's Dwight Hurston fumbled the opening kickoff. Spurrier tossed 10 yards to Richard Trapp in the end zone on the third play.

Auburn turned another good kickoff return, this one by wingback Freddie Hyatt, into a drive that brought a field goal by Jimmy Jones just before halftime and gave the Tigers a 17-13 lead.

The Tigers got their second touchdown when linebacker Gusty Yearout stole the ball from Florida's Tom Christian and ran 91 yards behind a wall of blockers that formed along the left sideline so quickly it seemed Auburn had practiced this freak play all week.

Florida went ahead twice in the second half on long drives, only to have Auburn come back to tie the score.

With 4:08 left, quarterback Larry Blakeney ran three yards to score after a Florida fumble his field goal kick traveled straight and sure.

Big Second Quarter Nets Raiders Upset

HOUSTON (AP) — The fired-up Texas Tech Red Raiders, sparked by the clutch passing of quarterback John Scovell, raced to a 35-19 Southwest Conference football victory over sputtering Rice Saturday.

Tech, a 10-point underdog, scored 28 points in the second quarter as the Red Raiders ran up their highest conference score since beginning league play in 1960.

Mike Leinert and Roger Freeman each scored two touchdowns, and Bobby Allen took a 30-yard scoring strike for the other. Kenny Vinyard converted after each one.

Bob Griese Puts Purdue By Illinois

LAFAYETTE, IKND. (AP) Purdue's Bob Griese shook off five pass interceptions and hurled the Boilermakers to a 25-21 victory over Illinois Saturday on a touchdown in the final 80 seconds.

The victory gave Purdue sole possession of second place in the Big Ten football standings and the inside track to the Rose Bowl.

Griese completed 19 of 35 passes for 288 yards and all three Purdue touchdowns. He also kicked two extra points and a 22-yard field goal and passed for a two-point conversion.

Griese had to bring the Boilermakers from behind twice. They went into the fourth period trailing 21-10.

Illinois drove 80 yards after the opening kickoff and scored on a four-yard run by Rich Johnson.

Purdue drove 75 yards in five plays to tie the score as Griese hit Jim Beirne on a 19-yard touchdown toss.

An Illinois fumble gave Purdue the ball o the Illini 12 in the second quarter and Griese kicked the field goal.

Illinois drove 71 yards in 12 plays in the third period to regain the lead, Bob Naponic going the last 13 after fading to pass.

Samford Blasts Way To Victory

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Samford University jumped to a 24-0 halftime lead and went on to celebrate homecoming day with a 45-21 victory over Mississippi College, Clinton.

The Bulldogs turned a blocked punt into a first quarter touchdown and came right back to score on a 61-yard drive to put the Mississippians in the hole early.

Donnie Edwards covered the blocked punt and halfback Jim Lovette scored on a three yard run climaxing the long drive. After that, Curtis Padgett took over and passed for scores of 11 and 6 yards to end Jimmy Jackson and 13 yards to end John Easley.

Alternate quarterback Jerry Colvin tossed 41 yards to end Tommy Cook for Samford's other score and Rex Keeling added six extra points and a 36-yard field goal for the winners.

Miss. College quarterback Larry Suchy scored on a 10-yard run and passed to end Wayne Thornton for touchdowns of 53 and 10 yards. George Fields kicked three conversions.

Samford brought its record to 5-2 for the season while Miss. College stands 2-5.

Safety Gives Clemson Win

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Wake Forest quarterback Ken Erickson was trapped behind his goal line with 26 seconds to play Saturday for the safety that gave Clemson a 23-21 victory it needed to remain tied with Jaryland for the Atlantic Coast Conference football lead.

Only minutes before, sophomore Erickson had pulled the aroused Deacons into a tie with a five-yard touchdown pass to flanker Eddie Arrington and a two-point conversion pass to Ken Hauswald.

Andy Harper seemingly preserved the 21-all tie for Wake Forest when he intercepted a third-down Addison pass on the Deacon seven with 30 seconds to play.

On the next play, however, Erickson was caught behind the goal line by Clemson tackle Wilson Childers and guard Jim Tompkins for the safety that decided the battle.

Last-Minute Goal Nets Iowa Win

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Bob Anderson kicked a 28-yard field goal with 41 seconds left in a wild fourth quarter Saturday to give Iowa a 20-19 victory over Indiana and the Hawkeyes' first Big Ten triumph in two years.

Anderson's kick came just 48 seconds after Indiana had moved ahead 19-17 when quarterback Frank Staoff hit end Bill Couch with a four-yard scoring strike.

Just a minute and a half before that, Iowa's Silas McKinnie had taken a pitchout, juggled it a few times, then scampered 63 yards for a touchdown that had put the Hawkeyes in the lead 17-13.

SMU Edges Texans On Field Goal, 13-12

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Dennis Partee kicked a 32-yard field goal with 18 seconds remaining in the game, and Southern Methodist edged past Texas 13-12 Saturday in a bruising Southwest Conference football game.

The dramatic victory, set up by Bill Bradley's fumble at the SMU 33 when the Longhorns were driving, kept the Ponies unbeaten in conference play with a 3-0 record. Texas fell to 2-2 and is probably out of the running.

Texas appeared to have the game securely tucked away as Chris Gilbert, a tireless sophomore, and Bradley moved the ball on the ground toward SMU's goal line.

Tulane's Defense Holds, Greenies Dump Vandy

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Tulane's defense, guarding a one-point lead late in the fourth quarter, held Vanderbilt on two plays at the one-yard line and scored a 13-12 football victory Saturday night.

Tulane trailed 12-6 at halftime, but Duhon engineered a 43-yard march and rached around left end for the last nine. Then Pontius, who had missed a placement after the first touchdown, made good his second attempt.

In the fourth quarter, Vandy's Alex Maclean punted out on the Tulane 1 and after Tulane was forced to punt from its own end zone, the Commodores drove 31 yards to the Green Wave 1.

Quarterback Roger May and fullback Jim Whiteside were smacked down for no gain on defensive plays by the Tulane defensive.

Vanderbilt went ahead 6-0 in the first period when tailback Don North scored on a one-yard burst to climax a 44-yard drive. Fred Klaass missed the extra point.

With Duhon at the throttle, Tulane marched 60 yards in 10 plays after the kickoff to score. Duhon carried over left tackle for the touchdown. Pontius, who previously had kicked 14 consecutive extra points, missed the placement.

Chip Healy, Vandy's sophomore defensive star, intercepted a Tulane pass in the second quarter and returned it 35 yards to score. May's pass to Chuck Boyd for two extra points fell incomplete.

With May starting at quarterback for the first time, Vanderbilt did not throw a pass in the first three quarters, and its futile drive late in the game was on the ground.

Playing possession football, Tulane gained 278 yards on the ground to Vandy's 159 and had an 18-6 edge in first downs.

Tailback Pete Johns led Tulane's ground attack with 93 yards on 19 carries, and Duhon added 76. May was Vandy's big gainer with 84 yards.

VPI Pulls Upset Win Over FSU

BLACKSBURG, Va. (AP) — Hard-pressed Virginia Tech, all but chilled by Florida State's blizzard of passes, rediscovered its speciality with two tremendous fourth-quarter defensive stands Saturday and upset the Seminoles 23-21 in a major intersectional football game.

Safetyman Frank Loria's 80-yard punt return for a touchdown got the Tech offense back in action after FSU had taken a 14-9 lead in the third period, and after that Tech never trailed. But right up to the end of the regionally televised donnybrook before 31,000 homecoming fans, the Techmen had to battle for survival.

Trailing 23-21, Florida State charged to the Tech one as the fourth quarter opened, and right there Virginia Tech's nationally fourth-ranked defense began asserting itself.

The Techmen held one-half foot from the goal.

Later, with six minutes to go, the Seminoles came charging down the field again, this time reaching the Tech 21, where Tech's Ken Whitley intercepted a third-down pass by Gary Pajcic and pulled Tech out of danger.

Passing Combo Nets Indian Win

LEXINGTON, Va. (AP) — William and Mary's running quarterback, Mike Madden, threw three touchdown passes to flanker back Ned Carr and led the Indians to a 22-15 football victory Saturday over Virginia Military Institute that boosted them into a tie for the Southern Conference lead.

The clinching touchdown came with just three minutes left after William and Mary seemingly had blown its chance to win by failing to score a few minutes earlier after having a first down on the VMI four.

TCU Defense Blanks Bears

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — A furious Texas Christian defense muffled Baylor's high-powered offense Saturday and Bruce Alford's two field goals carried the Frogs to a 6-0 victory over the Bruins.

The loss chilled Baylor's Southwest Conference title dream and virtually barred the Bears, from the Cotton Bowl once again.

Their last conference title came in 1924.

The victory severed a three-game TCU losing streak and squared its conference record at 2-2. Baylor now is 1-2 and 3-3 for the season.

Alford, who missed his first collegiate extra point a week ago as TCU bowed to Auburn 7-6, kicked field goals of 32 and 48 yards, both in the first half.

Ted Makalena Fires 6-Under For Two-Stroke Lead

HONOLULU (AP) — Hawaii's Ted Makalena, fighting a stiff shoulder that caused his drives to stray, scrambled to a six-under-par 66 in the third round of the $57,000 Hawaiian Open Golf Tournament Saturday and grabbed a two-shot lead with one round to go.

U.S. Open Champion Billy Casper, whose putter has learned to behave since he pitched it into the surf in a practice round, fashioned a fine 67 and slipped into second place.

Makalena, who learned to play golf on the Waialae course where the tournament is being played, had scores of 66-71-66 for a three-round total of 203.

Casper stood at 205, after earlier rounds of 72 and 66.

Dapper Doug Sanders, the man with the cramped swing, faded to a 73 Saturday and blew the lead. He was three strokes in front at the halfway mark, but had a horrendous 39 on the back nine.

Defending champion Gay Brewer had a 69 and moved into a tie with Sanders.

Jack McGowan, a sun-wizened little fellow from New Hampshire who wears a porkpie hat and looks out of place among the husky regular tour players, also posted a 69 and stood in six place at 207.

Then came PGA champion Al Geiberger, Ken Still of Tacoma, Wash., and Al Besselink with 208, and Frank Beard, Miller Barber and Bob Goalby with 209.

The rest appeared to be out of the race for the top money of $8,500.

In addition to his problems on the course — Sanders said "nothing went right on the back nine" — he was handed a letter from the PGA on the 18th green advising him that he had been fined $100 for throwing a club in the recent Sahara tournament.

He crumpled the letter, strode off the green and said he would just as soon not discuss it.

Makalena, the natural favorite of an enormous throng that lined the fairways on a warm Hawaiian day, said he has been bothered by a stiff neck the last two rounds.

Capser said he has played five good rounds on the course, counting his two closing rounds in last year's tournament. "I'm still not putting as well as I'd like," he said, "but I'm improving."

Linebackers Help Jackets Get Win

DURHAM, N. C. (UPI) — A trusty crew of Georgia Tech linebackers, led by W. J. Blane, blocked a punt and forced fumbles that carried undefeated Tech to a 48-7 win over Duke before 42,000 homecoming fans Saturday.

The defense was so devastating that Tech's famed offense had to stage only one long drive. Blane and fellow linebackers Billy Schroer and Randall Edmunds shattered the Duke attack and took the ball away from the Blue Devils repeatedly.

Tech still showed its offense with Lennie Snow getting his 10th touchdown of the year, Bunky Henry kicking two field goals, and defensive back Giles Smith returning a punt 63 yards for a score. Tech quarterback Larry Good, subbing for injured star Kim King, also ran 32 yards for a touchdown.

Another long punt return by Jimmy Brown in the fourth period set up a touchdown for Ken Bonifay to score from the one yard line.

All these scores were sudden strikes either set up by Duke's mistakes or made on brilliant long - range offensive plays. Tech staged only one long march in the classic tradition, a 60-yard drive in the first period. Craig Baynham scored the touchdown on a four-yard run. Duke's only score came in the second period when quarterback Larry David guided a 77-yard march and Jay Calabrese scored from the one.

Tech's blitzing defense jarred loose three fumbles and blocked a punt which resulted in two touchdowns and a field goal in a 17-point second period.

Dave Dunaway attempted to punt from about his 20 and end Tommy Carlisle blocked the punt so hard it bounded straight back into the end zone where Edmunds pounced on it.

Schroer recovered a fumble by Jake Devonshire a few plays later and after a short drive, Snow scored from the one.

Tech got another fumble but Henry missed a field goal attempt.

But as soon as Duke got the ball after that, Ken Chatham fumbled and this time Henry kicked a 37-yard field goal. Henry also kicked five extra points for the day.

Independent Georgia Tech has won seven games this year.

Georgia Tech blocked a punt and recovered three Duke fumbles in the second period in scoring 17 points.

In the last quarter Giles Smith returned a punt 63 yards for a touchdown for the Engineers. Shortly afterwards, Jimmy Brown set up another Tech touchdown with a 58-yard punt return to the Duke nine. Ken Bonifay scored from the one.

Duke scored its touchdown shortly before the half when it drove 78 yards behind the running and passing of soph quarterback Larry Davis. Fullback Jay Calabrese carried over from the one.

Georgia Tech's Bunky Henry kicked a 37-yard field goal in the second period and another for 22 yards in the third quarter.

On the first play of the second period, Tech's Tommy Carlisle blocked Dave Dunaway's punt on the Duke 35. The ball bounded into the end zone and Randall Edmunds recovered for a Yellow Jacket touchdown.

More misfortune came a few plays later for the Blue Devils. Halfback Jake Devonshire fumbled on his 42 shortly after the kickoff and Tech's Bill Schrorer recovered. The Yellow Jackets' Lenny Snow pushed over from the one seven plays later.

Another scoring opportunity came Tech's way on the kickoff when halfback Ken Chatham fumbled and Sammy Buke nailed it on the Duke 30.

Futch Sweeps Cajun's Slate

Three Starters' Still Lead NLSC Hopeful

The competition has been keen but after two weeks of preseason drills the three returning starters on Northeast State's basketball team are as solidly entrenched as ever.

Coach Lenny Fant said before the opening of practice that he had a lot of players of nearly equal ability and expected spirited competition for the regular jobs. With a month to go before the opening game, however, returning starters Glynn Saulters of Lisbon, Paul Thompson of Calhoun and Chris Rhodes of Monteray are still the three best players on the squad.

Saulters and Thompson were considered solid bets to hold on to their jobs since Saulters was the No. 4 scorer in the Gulf States Conference in 1965-66 and Thompson the league's No. 2 rebounder. Rhodes, however, was rated as vulnerable since he was one of the shorter post men in the conference at 6-3 and the lowest-scoring regular on the team with a 6.1-point average.

The blond junior hasn't appeared vulnerable in workouts, however, and, in fact, has been one of the better looking cagers on the squad.

Other players who have sparkled in workouts are junior lettermen Rich Bailey of Jonesboro and Ronnie Suggs of Lisbon and three redshirt graduates — J. Dodd Brooks, the former Neville of Monroe star; 6-8 Hoyt Cosper of Sylacauga, Ala.; and Larry Saulters Glynn's brother, from Lisbon.

The work of Cosper, who has been particularly strong on the boards in practice, has been encouraging since the Indians have been searching for a good big man for several seasons.

Cosper and the other two exredshirts wil see some varsity action, how much depending on how well they perform, but will log most of their time with the freshmen team, along with several promising prospects Fant inked last spring.

Other varsity candidates are letterman senior Mike Vining of Forest; 6-6 Walter Hays of Athens, who was redshirted last year after playing on the 1964-65 frosh team; and the five freshmen starters of last winter — Ricky Peel of Weston, Joe Canal of Monroe, Jeff Foster of Jonesville, Tommy Stevenson of Jonesboro and Buster Toms of Minden.

Northeast will open the season here Dec. 1 against Mississippi State.

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Dennis Partee kicked a 32-yard field goal with 18 seconds remaining in the game, and Southern Methodist edged past Texas 13-12 Saturday in a bruising Southwest Conference football game.

The dramatic victory, set up by Bill Bradley's fumble at the SMU 33 when the Longhorns were driving, kept the Ponies unbeaten in conference play with a 3-0 record. Texas fell to 2-2 and is probably out of the running.

Texas appeared to have the game securely tucked away as Chris Gilbert, a tireless sophomore, and Bradley moved the ball on the ground toward SMU's goal line.

Tulane's Defense Holds, Greenies Dump Vandy

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Tulane's defense, guarding a one-point lead late in the fourth quarter, held Vanderbilt on two plays at the one-yard line and scored a 13-12 football victory Saturday night.

Tulane trailed 12-6 at halftime, but Duhon engineered a 43-yard march and rached around left end for the last nine. Then Pontius, who had missed a placement after the first touchdown, made good his second attempt.

In the fourth quarter, Vandy's Alex Maclean punted out on the Tulane 1 and after Tulane was forced to punt from its own end zone, the Commodores drove 31 yards to the Green Wave 1.

Quarterback Roger May and fullback Jim Whiteside were smacked down for no gain on defensive plays by the Tulane defensive.

Vanderbilt went ahead 6-0 in the first period when tailback Don North scored on a one-yard burst to climax a 44-yard drive. Fred Klaass missed the extra point.

With Duhon at the throttle, Tulane marched 60 yards in 10 plays after the kickoff to score. Duhon carried over left tackle for the touchdown. Pontius, who previously had kicked 14 consecutive extra points, missed the placement.

Chip Healy, Vandy's sophomore defensive star, intercepted a Tulane pass in the second quarter and returned it 35 yards to score. May's pass to Chuck Boyd for two extra points fell incomplete.

With May starting at quarterback for the first time, Vanderbilt did not throw a pass in the first three quarters, and its futile drive late in the game was on the ground.

Playing possession football, Tulane gained 278 yards on the ground to Vandy's 159 and had an 18-6 edge in first downs.

Tailback Pete Johns led Tulane's ground attack with 93 yards on 19 carries, and Duhon added 76. May was Vandy's big gainer with 84 yards.

VPI Pulls Upset Win Over FSU

BLACKSBURG, Va. (AP) — Hard-pressed Virginia Tech, all but chilled by Florida State's blizzard of passes, rediscovered its speciality with two tremendous fourth-quarter defensive stands Saturday and upset the Seminoles 23-21 in a major intersectional football game.

Safetyman Frank Loria's 80-yard punt return for a touchdown got the Tech offense back in action after FSU had taken a 14-9 lead in the third period, and after that Tech never trailed. But right up to the end of the regionally televised donnybrook before 31,000 homecoming fans, the Techmen had to battle for survival.

Trailing 23-21, Florida State charged to the Tech one as the fourth quarter opened, and right there Virginia Tech's nationally fourth-ranked defense began asserting itself.

The Techmen held one-half foot from the goal.

Later, with six minutes to go, the Seminoles came charging down the field again, this time reaching the Tech 21, where Tech's Ken Whitley intercepted a third-down pass by Gary Pajcic and pulled Tech out of danger.

Passing Combo Nets Indian Win

LEXINGTON, Va. (AP) — William and Mary's running quarterback, Mike Madden, threw three touchdown passes to flanker back Ned Carr and led the Indians to a 22-15 football victory Saturday over Virginia Military Institute that boosted them into a tie for the Southern Conference lead.

The clinching touchdown came with just three minutes left after William and Mary seemingly had blown its chance to win by failing to score a few minutes earlier after having a first down on the VMI four.

TCU Defense Blanks Bears

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — A furious Texas Christian defense muffled Baylor's high-powered offense Saturday and Bruce Alford's two field goals carried the Frogs to a 6-0 victory over the Bruins.

The loss chilled Baylor's Southwest Conference title dream and virtually barred the Bears, from the Cotton Bowl once again.

Their last conference title came in 1924.

The victory severed a three-game TCU losing streak and squared its conference record at 2-2. Baylor now is 1-2 and 3-3 for the season.

Alford, who missed his first collegiate extra point a week ago as TCU bowed to Auburn 7-6, kicked field goals of 32 and 48 yards, both in the first half.

Ted Makalena Fires 6-Under For Two-Stroke Lead

HONOLULU (AP) — Hawaii's Ted Makalena, fighting a stiff shoulder that caused his drives to stray, scrambled to a six-under-par 66 in the third round of the $57,000 Hawaiian Open Golf Tournament Saturday and grabbed a two-shot lead with one round to go.

U.S. Open Champion Billy Casper, whose putter has learned to behave since he pitched it into the surf in a practice round, fashioned a fine 67 and slipped into second place.

Makalena, who learned to play golf on the Waialae course where the tournament is being played, had scores of 66-71-66 for a three-round total of 203.

Casper stood at 205, after earlier rounds of 72 and 66.

Dapper Doug Sanders, the man with the cramped swing, faded to a 73 Saturday and blew the lead. He was three strokes in front at the halfway mark, but had a horrendous 39 on the back nine.

Defending champion Gay Brewer had a 69 and moved into a tie with Sanders.

Jack McGowan, a sun-wizened little fellow from New Hampshire who wears a pork-pie hat and looks out of place among the husky regular tour players, also posted a 69 and stood in six place at 207.

Then came PGA champion Al Geiberger, Ken Still of Tacoma, Wash., and Al Besselink with 208, and Frank Beard, Miller Barber and Bob Goalby with 209.

The rest appeared to be out of the race for the top money of $8,500.

In addition to his problems on the course — Sanders said "nothing went right on the back nine" — he was handed a letter from the PGA on the 18th green advising him that he had been fined $100 for throwing a club in the recent Sahara tournament.

He crumpled the letter, strode off the green and said he would just as soon not discuss it.

Makalena, the natural favorite of an enormous throng that lined the fairways on a warm Hawaiian day, said he has been bothered by a stiff neck the last two rounds.

Capser said he has played five good rounds on the course, counting his two closing rounds in last year's tournament. "I'm still not putting as well as I'd like," he said, "but I'm improving."

Linebackers Help Jackets Get Win

DURHAM, N. C. (UPI) — A trusty crew of Georgia Tech linebackers, led by W. J. Blane, blocked a punt and forced fumbles that carried undefeated Tech to a 48-7 win over Duke before 42,000 homecoming fans Saturday.

The defense was so devastating that Tech's famed offense had to stage only one long drive. Blane and fellow linebackers Billy Schroer and Randall Edmunds shattered the Duke attack and took the ball away from the Blue Devils repeatedly.

Tech still showed its offense with Lennie Snow getting his 10th touchdown of the year, Bunky Henry kicking two field goals, and defensive back Giles Smith returning a punt 63 yards for a score. Tech quarterback Larry Good, subbing for injured star Kim King, also ran 32 yards for a touchdown.

Another long punt return by Jimmy Brown in the fourth period set up a touchdown for Ken Bonifay to score from the one yard line.

All these scores were sudden strikes either set up by Duke's mistakes or made on brilliant long - range offensive plays. Tech staged only one long march in the classic tradition, a 60-yard drive in the first period. Craig Baynham scored the touchdown on a four-yard run. Duke's only score came in the second period when quarterback Larry David guided a 77-yard march and Jay Calabrese scored from the one.

Tech's blitzing defense jarred loose three fumbles and blocked a punt which resulted in two touchdowns and a field goal in a 17-point second period.

Dave Dunaway attempted to punt from about his 20 and end Tommy Carlisle blocked the punt so hard it bounded straight back into the end zone where Edmunds pounced on it.

Schroer recovered a fumble by Jake Devonshire a few plays later and after a short drive, Snow scored from the one.

But as soon as Duke got the ball after that, Ken Chatham fumbled and this time Henry kicked a 37-yard field goal. Henry also kicked five extra points for the day.

Independent Georgia Tech has won seven games this year.

Georgia Tech blocked a punt and recovered three Duke fumbles in the second period in scoring 17 points.

In the last quarter Giles Smith returned a punt 63 yards for a touchdown for the Engineers. Shortly afterwards, Jimmy Brown set up another Tech touchdown with a 58-yard punt return to the Duke nine. Ken Bonifay scored from the one.

Duke scored its touchdown shortly before the half when it drove 78 yards behind the running and passing of soph quarterback Larry Davis. Fullback Jay Calabrese carried over from the one.

Georgia Tech's Bunky Henry kicked a 37-yard field goal in the second period and another for 22 yards in the third quarter.

On the first play of the second period, Tech's Tommy Carlisle blocked Dave Dunaway's punt on the Duke 35. The ball bounded into the end zone and Randall Edmunds recovered for a Yellow Jacket touchdown.

More misfortune came a few plays later for the Blue Devils. Halfback Jake Devonshire fumbled on his 42 shortly after the kickoff and Tech's Bill Schrorer recovered. The Yellow Jackets' Lenny Snow pushed over from the one seven plays later.

Another scoring opportunity came Tech's way on the kickoff when halfback Ken Chatham fumbled and Sammy Buke nailed it on the Duke 30.

Futch Sweeps Cajun's Slate

Ken Tugwell of Little Rock, Ark. took second place in the feature with Freddy Cook third.

Three Starters' Still Lead NLSC Hopeful

The competition has been keen but after two weeks of preseason drills the three returning starters on Northeast State's basketball team are as solidly entrenched as ever.

Coach Lenny Fant said before the opening of practice that he had a lot of players of nearly equal ability and expected spirited competition for the regular jobs. With a month to go before the opening game, however, returning starters Glynn Saulters of Lisbon, Paul Thompson of Calhoun and Chris Rhodes of Monteray are still the three best players on the squad.

Saulters and Thompson were considered solid bets to hold on to their jobs since Saulters was the No. 4 scorer in the Gulf States Conference in 1965-66 and Thompson the league's No. 2 rebounder. Rhodes, however, was rated as vulnerable since he was one of the shorter post men in the conference at 6-3 and the lowest-scoring regular on the team with a 6.1-point average.

The blond junior hasn't appeared vulnerable in workouts, however, and, in fact, has been one of the better looking cagers on the squad.

Other players who have sparkled in workouts are junior lettermen Rich Bailey of Jonesboro and Ronnie Suggs of Lisbon and three redshirt graduates — J. Dodd Brooks, the former Neville of Monroe star; 6-8 Hoyt Cosper of Sylacauga, Ala.; and Larry Saulters Glynn's brother, from Lisbon.

The work of Cosper, who has been particularly strong on the boards in practice, has been encouraging since the Indians have been searching for a good big man for several seasons.

Cosper and the other two exredshirts wil see some varsity action, how much depending on how well they perform, but will log most of their time with the freshmen team, along with several promising prospects Fant inked last spring.

Other varsity candidates are letterman senior Mike Vining of Forest; 6-6 Walter Hays of Athens, who was redshirted last year after playing on the 1964-65 frosh team; and the five freshmen starters of last winter — Ricky Peel of Weston, Joe Canal of Monroe, Jeff Foster of Jonesville, Tommy Stevenson of Jonesboro and Buster Toms of Minden.

Northeast will open the season here Dec. 1 against Mississippi State.

Irish Defeat Navy, 31-7

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Terry Hanratty turned on the Notre Dame ground power when Jim Seymour's absence crippled his air arm Saturday and led the top-ranked Irish to their sixth straight victory, 31-7 over Navy.

Four interceptions, three of them by linebacker John Pergine, helped Notre Dame throttle the Navy offense. The middies did break the Irish three-game shutout string when John Bergner blocked Bob Gladieux's punt and recovered for a fourth period score.

Hanratty sneaked over for two Notre Dame TDs and Larry Conjar and Gladieux each scored once.

Joe Azzaro, whose 42-yard field goal was the only score of the first period, added the extra points.

With both the 6-foot-4 Seymour and Paul Snow, his normal replacement, unable to play because of injuries, Hanratty was far from the passing marvel of early season. He completed only three of 14 and had two intercepted in the first half.

The Irish, a four-touchdown favorite, struggled through an erratic first half in which their offense produced only 102 yards, 67 on the ground.

However, that big line, led by 6-5 Kevin Haroy and those strong linebackers, threw back the only Navy threat when the Irish held for downs on their 29, stopping a first-period Navy march.

Tom O'Leary's interception put the Middies in a hole in the first period, and Azzaro came through with his field goal. An interception by Pergine on another John Cartwright pass, moved the Irish down deep in the second period, and Conjar bulled home from the seven.

Notre Dame marched 51 yards early in the third period for a score on a Hanratty sneak from the one. Shortly after halfback Nick Eddy suffered a leg injury, his replacement Gladieux, plunged home from the one.

After Bergner broke through and blocked Gladieux's punt, the Irish moved quickly to anothr score, 70 yards in four plays with Hanratty carrying over from the seven on a sneak around his left end.

Colorado In Upset Win Of Oklahoma

Boulder, colo. (AP) — Colorado countered Oklahoma's long distance touchdown strikes with a bone-crunching ground attack that overtook the Sooners 24-21 Saturday in Big Eight football.

Eddie Hinton's 93-yard punt return and Jim Jacson's 80-yard dash through left tackle for Oklahoma touchdowns sent Colorado reeling, but each time the Buffaloes regrouped under the generalship of quarterback Dan Kelly for equalizing scores.

The big break for Colorado came early in the fourth quarter when Oklahoma center Chuck Williamson passed over the head of punter Tom Stidham on Dick Anderson recovered on the Sooners' 18.

Three plays later Wilmer Cooks, who scored from the two earlier, charged nine yards into the end zone for the winning score with 13 minutes left.

Jackson broke through left tackle and, without a Colorado man touching him, raced 80 yards for a touchdown on Oklahoma's first offensive play.

Spasmodic Spartans Topple Stubborn Northwestern, 22-0

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Michigan State, the nation's No. 2 team, clicked spasmodically to subdue stubborn Northwestern 22 to 0 for the Spartans' fifth straight Big Ten victory and seventh of their undefeated season.

Although Michigan State could not score more than one touchdown in any quarter, the Spartans' great defense held Northwestern to only six rushing yards.

The Spartans, a 21-point favorite, were leading 12-0 at halftime when top-ranked Notre Dame's 31-7 conquest of Navy was announced to a Northwestern homecoming crowd of 44,304.

The news failed to give Michigan State enough incentive to overpower the scrappy Wildcats during a final half in which star Spartan fullback Bob Apisa limped off with an injured knee.

Michigan State's versatile attack produced only two impressive scoring drives. One came the first time the Spartans had the ball and they rolled 74 yards on 11 plays with Clint Jones scooting nine yards around end for the touchdown.

After that, Michigan State huffed and puffed to score a second touchdown in the second quarter after a 12-yard Northwestern punt and a 39-yard field goal by Barefooted kicker Dick Kenny in the third period.

The second Spartan touchdown came on Apisa's one-yard plunge after quarterback Jimmy Raye's 31-yard pass to end Gene Washington.

Green Bay, Lions Renew Feud But Fight Earlier This Season

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bart Starr and the Green Bay Packers will resume their private feud with the Detroit Lions' pass rushers today in a traditional football battle that normally is reserved for Thanksgiving Day.

Because the Packers objected to being the opponent every year at the same time, and thus doubling up with two games in one week, the National Football League finally agreed to rotate the Lions' Thanksgiving opponents. This year it will be San Francisco's turn.

While the favored Packers are visiting Detroit, two teams that were dropped from the ranks of the unbeaten last week, will be trying to bounce back in other games.

St. Louis, upset by Washington, will be at home to the big rough Chicago Bears in a Monday night special to be seen on national (CBS) television. Dallas, losers to Cleveland in a mild shocker last Sunday, will welcome Pittsburgh to the Cotton Bowl on Sunday. All NFL games, except Chicago at St. Louis, will be played Sunday afternoon.

Baltimore, 4-2, will be at Los Angeles 4-3, Cleveland, 4-2 at Atlanta, 0-7, San Francisco, 3-2-1, at Minnesota, 1-4-1, and Washington, 4-3 at Philadelphia, 4-3. New York, 1-5-1, has a bye.

The Packers, 6-1 normally have trouble with the Lions, 2-5, and will be seeing Karl Sweetan, semi-pro successor to injured Milt Plum, for the first time in season play. Green Bay won their first meeting Oct. 2 by a 23-14 score although Lions outgained them.

When Chicago, 3-3, travels to St. Louis, 5-1-1, Monday, it will be the first time the teams have met in the Cards' park since they moved from Chicago. Gale Sayers is in high gear and the Bears on the rebound after slow start, are hoping to catch the Cards in letdown after the upset by Washington. It will be a big chance for Johnny Roland, rookie of the year hope, to make a showing before a national audience.

Dallas, 4-1-1, returns after a tie and defeat in last two outings, hoping to take it out on Pittsburgh, 1-4-1, which had a bye last week. The Cowboys, weakened by the loss of tackle Jim Boeke and the controversy over tackle Ralph Neely, are sure to remember they split with Steelers in 1965.

Johnny Unitas needs 217 yards to top Y.A. Tittle's carreer passing yardage but will settle for enough points to make it six in a row for Baltimore over the Rams who have the top rusher in league in Dick Bass. The Colts still are hanging close to the Packers while the Rams have dropped to fourth while losing two of three on the road.

The Browns hope to close more ground in the Eastern Conference by taking advantage of the winless Falcons whose erratic passing game may add to Cleveland's league-leading interception total of 20. Leroy Kelly and Ernie Green are figuring on a big day.

The 49ers and Vikings played a 20-20 tie on opening day in San Francisco, Minnesota tying on a Fred Cox field goal with six seconds to go. San Francisco has won three in a row after a slow start. The Vikings still have only one win despite great promise.

The winner of the Washington at Philadelphia game will stay close in the Eastern race. The Redskins upset St. Louis last week and the Eagleshave won two straight after being roughed up in Dallas. The game could revolve around a personal duel between Washington's Charley Taylor and Philadelphia's Timmy Brown.

Harding Blasts Millsaps, 28-8

JACKSON, Miss. (Special) — Harry Lisle returned the opening kickoff 92 yards, then added a 61-yard punt return to spark Harding College to a 28-8 victory over Millsaps College here Saturday afternoon.

The Bisons, now 5-2, romped for 21 points in the first quarter, added seven more in the second, then held on for the win.

The Majors quarterback Danny Neeley went over from 11 yards out for the score, then passed to end Ted Weller for the two - point conversion.

Kenny Glass scored Harding's second touchdown on a 31-yard run and Bob Knight scored the last one on a one-yard plunge in the second quarter.

Jimmy Howard led the Harding ground gainers with 82 yards on 19 carries while Glass had 75 on just six tries.

Penn State Wins Easily Over Bears

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — Tom Sherman, switched from defense to quarterback several weeks ago, scored four touchdowns Saturday and led Penn State to a surprisingly easy 33-15 victory over California.

Sherman twice plunged over from the one-yard line twice and ran two and 12 yards for the other touchdowns after the work of fullback Dan Lucyk set the Golden Bears up for the kill. Lucyk, who started the season as a third-stringer, slashed for 133 yards.

Penn State trailed briefly in the second quarter after California had matched a Lions' TD and led 7-6 on a successful conversion.

But the Nittany Lions came back quickly with an 80-yard drive on 13 plays, climaxed by Sherman's two-yard run for the score. State never trailed again.

Upset Cauldron Boiling In AFL Division Races

After three underdogs won last week, it's hard to believe that anything could scramble the American Football League's division races much more today.

But with ghosts and goblins scurrying about this Halloween Eve, anything is liable to pop out of the upset cauldron.

Denver, running last in the AFL's Western Division and battling a three-game losing streak, would seem to need the most help from the supernatural.

The Broncos go up against San Diego and the Chargers out to regain the Western Division lead. San Diego has just completed a three-game winless tour of the East and shouldn't be in a very hospitale mood for its return home.

Oakland, enjoying its Eastern swing much more than the Chargers, goes after its third straight victory in Boston and nobody will be rooting harder for the Raiders than the New York Jets, who suffered a last-second loss to Western visitors last week.

The Jets' loss combined with Boston's 35-17 romp over San Diego, sliced New York's Eastern lead to one-half game over the Patriots and that's too close for Coach Weeb Ewbank.

"This is a good club," Ewbank said after the Jets' second straight loss, "but we've got to stop beating ourselves." New York mistakes led to 17 of Oakland's 24 points last Sunday.

The victory gave Oakland a 4-3 record and left the Raiders just one game behind first place Kansas City in the Western race. The Chiefs, who routed Denver a week ago, are 5-2, and defending Western champ San Diego is squeezed between Kansas City and Oakland with a 4-2-1 mark.

The Chiefs, boasting the AFL's top attack with an average gain of 353.4 yards per game, are at home to Houston. The Oilers, still hoping to step into the Eastern race, must bounce back after last week's 20-13 upset loss at Miami.

Buffalo, at 3-3-1 only one game back of New York and one-half game behind Boston in the East, plays the Jets. The Bills are the AFL's defending champions.

New York, which was unbeaten in its first five games and was threatening to make a shambles of the Eastern race, has dropped back to the field as a result of its two straight losses.

Larry Garron scored three touchdowns for the Patriots — two of them on 53-yard passes from Babe Parilli — to lead Boston past San Diego.

But Oakland's secondary deeended successfully against Joe Namath's bombs in New York and it's possible that the Pats will depend on their ground game built around the AFL's leading rusher, Jim Nance.

Nance has gained 545 yards and scored five touchdowns.

Kansas City showed both running strength and passing power against the hapless Broncos. Bert Coan scored four touchdowns for the Chiefs and gained 111 yards rushing in what he called "the greatest game I've ever played."

The Oilers never got started against Miami but they stand third in the league in both total offense with an average gain of 324.6 yards per game and average defense with a yield of 278.9 yards per game.

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bart Starr and the Green Bay Packers will resume their private feud with the Detroit Lions' pass rushers today in a traditional football battle that normally is reserved for Thanksgiving Day.

Because the Packers objected to being the opponent every year at the same time, and thus doubling up with two games in one week, the National Football League finally agreed to rotate the Lions' Thanksgiving opponents. This year it will be San Francisco's turn.

While the favored Packers are visiting Detroit, two teams that were dropped from the ranks of the unbeaten last week, will be trying to bounce back in other games.

St. Louis, upset by Washington, will be at home to the big rough Chicago Bears in a Monday night special to be seen on national (CBS) television. Dallas, losers to Cleveland in a mild shocker last Sunday, will welcome Pittsburgh to the Cotton Bowl on Sunday. All NFL games, except Chicago at St. Louis, will be played Sunday afternoon.

Baltimore, 4-2, will be at Los Angeles 4-3, Cleveland, 4-2 at Atlanta, 0-7, San Francisco, 3-2-1, at Minnesota, 1-4-1, and Washington, 4-3 at Philadelphia, 4-3. New York, 1-5-1, has a bye.

The Packers, 6-1 normally have trouble with the Lions, 2-5, and will be seeing Karl Sweetan, semi-pro successor to injured Milt Plum, for the first time in season play. Green Bay won their first meeting Oct. 2 by a 23-14 score although Lions outgained them.

When Chicago, 3-3, travels to St. Louis, 5-1-1, Monday, it will be the first time the teams have met in the Cards' park since they moved from Chicago. Gale Sayers is in high gear and the Bears on the rebound after slow start, are hoping to catch the Cards in letdown after the upset by Washington. It will be a big chance for Johnny Roland, rookie of the year hope, to make a showing before a national audience.

Dallas, 4-1-1, returns after a tie and defeat in last two outings, hoping to take it out on Pittsburgh, 1-4-1, which had a bye last week. The Cowboys, weakened by the loss of tackle Jim Boeke and the controversy over tackle Ralph Neely, are sure to remember they split with Steelers in 1965.

Johnny Unitas needs 217 yards to top Y.A. Tittle's carreer passing yardage but will settle for enough points to make it six in a row for Baltimore over the Rams who have the top rusher in league in Dick Bass. The Colts still are hanging close to the Packers while the Rams have dropped to fourth while losing two of three on the road.

The Browns hope to close more ground in the Eastern Conference by taking advantage of the winless Falcons whose erratic passing game may add to Cleveland's league-leading interception total of 20. Leroy Kelly and Ernie Green are figuring on a big day.

The 49ers and Vikings played a 20-20 tie on opening day in San Francisco, Minnesota tying on a Fred Cox field goal with six seconds to go. San Francisco has won three in a row after a slow start. The Vikings still have only one win despite great promise.

The winner of the Washington at Philadelphia game will stay close in the Eastern race. The Redskins upset St. Louis last week and the Eagleshave won two straight after being roughed up in Dallas. The game could revolve around a personal duel between Washington's Charley Taylor and Philadelphia's Timmy Brown.

Harding Blasts Millsaps, 28-8

JACKSON, Miss. (Special) — Harry Lisle returned the opening kickoff 92 yards, then added a 61-yard punt return to spark Harding College to a 28-8 victory over Millsaps College here Saturday afternoon.

THE YARDSTICK

	Harding	Millsaps
First downs	17	16

Punts-avg.	2-30.5	7-32.1
Fumbles-lost	3-2	2-0
Penalties-lost	7-55	4-20

The Bisons, now 5-2, romped for 21 points in the first quarter, added seven more in the second, then held on for the win.

The Majors quarterback Danny Neeley went over from 11 yards out for the score, then passed to end Ted Weller for the two - point conversion.

Kenny Glass scored Harding's second touchdown on a 31-yard run and Bob Knight scored the last one on a one-yard plunge in the second quarter.

Jimmy Howard led the Harding ground gainers with 82 yards on 19 carries while Glass had 75 on just six tries.

Penn State Wins Easily Over Bears

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — Tom Sherman, switched from defense to quarterback several weeks ago, scored four touchdowns Saturday and led Penn State to a surprisingly easy 33-15 victory over California.

Sherman twice plunged over from the one-yard line twice and ran two and 12 yards for the other touchdowns after the work of fullback Dan Lucyk set the Golden Bears up for the kill. Lucyk, who started the season as a third-stringer, slashed for 133 yards.

Penn State trailed briefly in the second quarter after California had matched a Lions' TD and led 7-6 on a successful conversion.

But the Nittany Lions came back quickly with an 80-yard drive on 13 plays, climaxed by Sherman's two-yard run for the score. State never trailed again.

Upset Cauldron Boiling In AFL Division Races

After three underdogs won last week, it's hard to believe that anything could scramble the American Football League's division races much more today.

But with ghosts and goblins scurrying about this Halloween Eve, anything is liable to pop out of the upset cauldron.

Denver, running last in the AFL's Western Division and battling a three-game losing streak, would seem to need the most help from the supernatural.

The Broncos go up against San Diego and the Chargers out to regain the Western Division lead. San Diego has just completed a three-game winless tour of the East and shouldn't be in a very hospitale mood for its return home.

Oakland, enjoying its Eastern swing much more than the Chargers, goes after its third straight victory in Boston and nobody will be rooting harder for the Raiders than the New York Jets, who suffered a last-second loss to Western visitors last week.

The Jets' loss combined with Boston's 35-17 romp over San Diego, sliced New York's Eastern lead to one-half game over the Patriots and that's too close for Coach Weeb Ewbank.

"This is a good club," Ewbank said after the Jets' second straight loss, "but we've got to stop beating ourselves." New York mistakes led to 17 of Oakland's 24 points last Sunday.

The victory gave Oakland a 4-3 record and left the Raiders just one game behind first place Kansas City in the Western race. The Chiefs, who routed Denver a week ago, are 5-2, and defending Western champ San Diego is squeezed between Kansas City and Oakland with a 4-2-1 mark.

The Chiefs, boasting the AFL's top attack with an average gain of 353.4 yards per game, are at home to Houston. The Oilers, still hoping to step into the Eastern race, must bounce back after last week's 20-13 upset loss at Miami.

Buffalo, at 3-3-1 only one game back of New York and one-half game behind Boston in the East, plays the Jets. The Bills are the AFL's defending champions.

New York, which was unbeaten in its first five games and was threatening to make a shambles of the Eastern race, has dropped back to the field as a result of its two straight losses.

Larry Garron scored three touchdowns for the Patriots — two of them on 53-yard passes from Babe Parilli — to lead Boston past San Diego.

But Oakland's secondary deeended successfully against Joe Namath's bombs in New York and it's possible that the Pats will depend on their ground game built around the AFL's leading rusher, Jim Nance.

Nance has gained 545 yards and scored five touchdowns.

Kansas City showed both running strength and passing power against the hapless Broncos. Bert Coan scored four touchdowns for the Chiefs and gained 111 yards rushing in what he called "the greatest game I've ever played."

The Oilers never got started against Miami but they stand third in the league in both total offense with an average gain of 324.6 yards per game and average defense with a yield of 278.9 yards per game.

Here's the ride that's been ten years in the making! Chevrolet's famed Full Coil suspension, with a decade of engineering behind it, will show you what this means on one short test drive.

The rear suspension has been refined to make your ride even smoother. The body is isolated from the rear suspension and from the entire chassis by a new mounting system with softer rated body mounts, while heavy rubber cushions between body and frame reduce noise and vibration more than ever.

On station wagons this new mounting system is further strengthened by two rubber-isolated supporting struts between frame and body. This greatly reduces jounces and jiggles.

A refined rear linkage system hushes driveline operation, while a new-type acoustical headliner also absorbs noise. Anti-dive features in the front suspension, anti-squat ones in the rear keep you level whether you're stopping—or starting.

Steering that's up to 10% easier. Ball-Race steering gear and newly designed steering linkage reduce steering effort, give better control of wheel alignment, even make stopping smoother.

New front disc brakes with spinners all around. Cast fins on hydraulic caliper-type units force air between cast iron discs for cooler brakes, less fade. Come with big 15" wheels and special wheel trim. One of many performance items you can order.

All these new standard safety features: Dual master cylinder brake system with warning light. • GM-developed energy-absorbing steering column. • Seat belts front and rear with pushbutton buckles and front belt retractors. • Four-way hazard warning flasher • Passenger-guard door locks. Larson Gun Show Here

With Paul Martin

Sportsmen and school kids interested in firearms get an opportunity to see rare exhibitions by a one-time all-star football player whose fighting spirit conquered adversity after he once had been pronounced dead.

He is Colonel Larson, who might have been an obscure high school coach somewhere in the midwest today except for a polio attack while coach at Lake City, Minn., in 1940.

The one-time Wisconsin State end who played for the College All-Stars against the pro New York Giants at Soldier Field in Chicago in 1939, was erroneously pronounced dead by hometown press and radio during his polio attack. Later he was told he would be a hopeless cripple.

Colonel — that's his real first name and not a title — turned to childhood exercises to activate new muscles with a homemade boomerang, rifle target practice, squeezing rubber balls, and roping al la Tom Mix, the old cowboy movie star of the kids of the 1920s. Larson was born in 1914 at Chippewa Falls, Wis.

How Colonel Larson regained his coordination, overcame the cripping disease and found a new profession as an expert rifleman and stage performer is a story all by itself, taking a lot of telling.

Now, called the world's champion rifleman, Colonel Larson is headed for Monroe. He'll be here Tuesday as the guest of Gene Lutz and appear Tuesday night in his free gun performance and clinic at Ouachita Parish High School auditorium, 7 p.m.

Larson claimed his world's rifle title in 1960 at Rockerville, S.D., against 50 of the world's finest rifles from England, Argentina, Australia and the United States.

Records he claims are: Splitting 125 playing cards, consecutively, at 52 feet; hitting 1,100 eight-inch targets in 4½ hours without a miss; shooting 750 aspirins at 30 feet over the shoulder while sighting through a mirrow; hitting 17 three-inch blocks of wood dead center in 18 seconds; scoring 3,600 consecutive hits in one day; and discharging over 500,000 rounds through the same gun barrel, breaking the previous world mark of 250,000 held by Ad Topperwein of Texas.

Marlin Firearmy told Colonel Larson as a member of its family in 1961 to give such demonstrations as he has scheduled here. Gene's Sporting Goods was instrumental in bringing Colonel here. So be Gene's guests. The show is free.

Wildlife Executives To Meet

Area directors include John C. Ensminger, president of the Ouachita Wildlife Unit, and Mike Tarver, Monroe; Jack E. Bell, Monroe, representing the Louisiana Field Archery Association; O. W. Hogan and Bobby Franklin, Lincoln parish; M. T. Doughty, Jena, and Fred McVicker, Homer.

Clyde D. Smith, New Orleans, federation president, messages sportsmen's groups throughout the state that "several vital decisions will be made" at the meeting.

"Fish and wildlife did quite well in most instances in the regular session of legislature," Smith commented.

"Several measures that we wanted to see passed were so watered down that they are of little value, but on the other hand virtually all harmful legislation was defeated or died when the legislature adjourned.

"With the selection of Dr. Leslie Glasgow as executive director of the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission we have the dawn of a new era in Louisiana. Most every person who knows Professor Glasgow thinks he is one of the finest persons that walks on earth.

"But the new era will only blossom and bear fruit if Dr. Glasgow and the commission is given time and support. Changes can not be made overnight in a state agency that has some 750 employes and an operating budget of $6-million. It is unfortunate but true that the commission in several matters has been going in the wrong direction (an opinion) and to get moving forward in the correct direction will take more time and even more public support.

"We believe the majority of the seven-member board wants to have one of the most outstanding wildlife programs in America. At the top levels our commission is fortunate enough to have some of the best men anywhere. These professional men know what is needed and what should be done. Given reasonable time and full public support 'Sportsman's Pradise' will be a reality and not a slogan.

"If you want a 'Paradise' just do one thing now — tell every elected official, every politician you know to let the commission and Dr. Glasgow administer the affairs of the agency without interference."

The Outdoor Scoreboard

DR. GLASGOW was getting acquainted with the fine fishing at Bastrop's Bussey Brake this week. RUSSELL WHITE, West Monroe, guided "the boss" on a brief trip for ten bass Thursday afternoon. Friday morning they were back on the water, both soon taking bass limits.

Bussey also yielded bass limits for OTTO KLICK and ACIE ORR, Bastrop; M. H. LARY and TIM ALLEN, Monroe, with LARRY scoring two straight days. W. M. and MRS. LOVE, Monroe, took 18 bass, the same count for EUGENE and MRS. SAMPLE, El Dorado. HUGH BUFFINGTON, Bastrop showed off a seven-pound bass.

White perch limits taken at Lake D'Arbonne included FRED BEST and LAY HORRELL, Arcadia; MAX ALEXANDER, W. L. SEAL, M. L. and MRS. OGDEN, Ruston; and ALVIS and MRS. WHITTINGTON, Arcadia. Bass limits went to OLEY MOORE, West Monroe, and PAUL ROGERS, Ruston. Other good catches included HAROLD and MRS. FLEMING, West Monroe, 72 crappie; VIRGIL and MRS. FLEMING, West Monroe, 65 crappie FRED ROGERS, Ruston, 12 bass; and WALTER W. and MRS. YORK, El Dorado, 85 crappie.

Black Bayou limits were scored by VORIS LYONS, crappie; PAUL DANNA and WAYNE PARKER, bass; MR. TAYLOR, Sterlington, crappie. SAM DANNA landed a 20-pound buffalo caught while spin fishing for bass. JOE and ANN WILKINS mixed 92 specks and bream. A. C. and MRS. DRISCOLL took 16 big specks and bream; and a MR. SCALES, Dallas, Tex., took 18 big crappie.

BOBBY OWENS, Lake Providence, took six bass from his home lake, one of five pounds. MRS. SAM FOUTZ, Lake Providence, has been showing her sister, MRS. MATTIE GRIFFITH, Charleston, Mo., all the fishing holes in East Carroll like Lake Providence Port River Chute, Concordia, and Hollybrook, landing nice strings each day of the past week. MRS. FOUTZ spiced the program with a little excitement Wednesday when she was spilled from the boat in eight feet of water at River Chute. It was her first time ever to do such a trick, had on her life jacket.

HENRY THOMPSON took the bass limit at Lake Concordia one day, went back for seven more the next. "POP" BERCEGEAY, Gonzales, fished Lake Concordia eight days straight for nice bass catches. JOHN SHAW and party, in the same water, got bass limits two days straight, and GEORGE BOOTH, Natchez, was getting "all he wanted" too.

BUCK ANDERSON, Ruston, was at Long Branch recently for a big string of specks. TROY and MRS. GRAFTON, Bernice, made a good white perch haul at Saline Bayou where HENRY and MRS. KOONCE, Castar also had good luck.

CLAUDE RENNICKER, Lake Providence, broke the lull in white perch fishing there, taking a nice string from the American Legion pier, one weighing a pound and three-quarters.

RACIN LAURITSEN said the 71-pound buffalo he took early the past week at Long Lake was the second largest fish of this kind he had ever caught. Biggest was a 72-pounder in the same lake a few years ago.

Volunteers Thrash Army's Cadets, 38-7

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Dewey Warren's passing set the stage for all but one of Tennessee's scores Saturday as the Vols thrashed Army 38-7 in an intersectional football game.

Warren completed 18 of 25 passes for 250 yards, hitting just about every available target on the Volunteer squad. One of his tosses was good for a touchdown and he scored another by jumping over the goal from the one.

	Army	Tenn.
First downs	16	22
Rushing yardage	85	142
Passing yardage	165	250
Passes	12-26	18-25
Passes Intercepted by	0	2
Punts	6-43.7	3.42.7
Fumbles lost	1	2
Yards penalized	45	13

Tennessee took the opening kickoff and drove in back into field goal position, where Gary Wright's true placement set the Vols off to a lead which turned into a runaway victory. Wright also kicked extra points after all five of the Vols' touchdowns.

Army threatened several times, but never very seriously until its own passing attack produced a touchdown in the third period.

Charley Fulton, a converted quarterback running at tailback, scored two Tennessee touchdowns on the ground, and defensive end Nick Showalter returned an interception 28 yards for another.

Quarterback Steve Lindell passed Army into position for its only touchdown late in the third period, and then hit Terry Young in the end zone for the score. Lindell kicked the conversion.

Warren got the Vol attack moving on the opening drive, hitting end Austin Denney going to the left, then to the right on successive completions that set the pattern for the afternoon.

Army penetrated to the Tennessee 26 on one of several abortive drives when Lindell began spotting big end Gary Steele, but fullback Charles Jarvis the workhorse of the Army offense, fumbled at the 25 to set up Tennessee's first touchdown.

The drive got its big yardage on Warren passes to Flowers and end Johnny Mills, the latter putting the ball on the 28. On the next play, Fulton took a pitchout and churned through the Army line to score.

Army got a chance when Tennessee end Tarry Dalton caught a pass and fumbled it away on the Vol 26. But the Cadets were thrown back to the 31 and Lindell's field goal try from the 38 dropped far short.

Tennessee took over late in the half when Army gambled on fourth down on the Tennessee 31 and lost. The Vols raced the clock and Warren threw to Flowers and Mills, moving to the Army 21, then the 3. Fulton stepped over from there. Jerry Smith's interception on the Vol one stopped an Army comeback try.

Warren hit nine straight passes, running up the end of the third quarter. Passes to Flowers, Mills and Walter Chadwick moved the Vols close enough for Warren to get a touchdown of his own with a one-yard sneaker.

Then Lindell got hot, throwing one 41-yard bomb to John Peduto at the Vol 34. Lindell and Jarvis ran it to the seven, and Lindell hit Young from there.

Warren hit Flowers three times in the last Vol drive, then spotted Dalton, who took in a pass and scored in a 24-yard play.

Showalter grinned all the way to the goal line when he charged in on Lindell a few minutes later, batted a pass in the air and hauled it down going away.

Warren's touchdown throw to Dalton was his ninth of the season, a Vol record. His 18 completions were just short of a school record for a single game, but Coach Doug Dickey pulled him out before he could get another.

Harvard, 27-7

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Harvard's Bobby Leo recovered his own fumble in the end zone for one touchdown and the undefeated Crimson capitalized on three other breaks for scores in defeating stubborn Pennsylvania 27-7 Saturday for their sixth viciory in a march toward the Ivy League football title.

Xavier quarterback Carroll Williams all day, enabling him to hit on only two of 23 passes.

Georgia Bulldogs Topple Tar Heels, 28-3

ATHENS, Ga. (AP)—Georgia spoiled Danny Talbott's return to action by picking off three of the North Carolina quarterback's passes Saturday, and fleet Kent Lawrence supplied the offensive spark as the Bulldogs rolled to a 28-3 victory.

The triumph boosted Georgia's football record to 6-1 and kept it unbeaten in Southeastern Conference play because the game against the Atlantic Coast Conference rival counted in the SEC race to give the Bulldogs the required six games.

Lawrence, a 9.5 sprinter in track, scored twice for Georgia. The slender sophomore started the scoring with a 37-yard touchdown sprint midway in the first period, and he nailed down the triumph in the fourth period with a five-yard scoring dash.

Defensive end Larry Kohn had cracked a 7-3 duel in the third period when he grabbed one of Talbott's tosses and ran 62 yards for a touchdown.

Talbott, who missed the Tar Heels' last two losses with a leg injury, also had a pass picked off in the end zone which ended North Carolina's deepest drive, and another Talbott toss was intercepted at midfield.

A wild pitchout by Talbott set up Georgia's first score.

The North Carolina standout wound up with a passing mark of five of 13 for 61 yards. He reinjured his ankle early in the fourth period and replacement Tim Karrs had a toss intercepted which led to Georgia's final touchdown, a three-yard burst by Ronnie Jenkins.

The Bulldogs needed all the help they could get early in the game because they fumbled away the ball three times and had two passes picked off.

The loss was the third straight for North Carolina, which hasn't scored a touchdown during the slump.

The Tar Heels' only points against Georgia were provided by Bill Dodson in the second quarter, when he kicked a 36-yard field goal.

North Carolina was not able to move against the sturdy Georgia defense, led by tackles Bill Stanfill and George Patton.

Patton recovered Talbott's bobbled pitchout on the North Carolina 49, and Lawrence scored three plays later when he out-ran the Tar Heels on a 37-yard jaunt.

Spain's recovery stopped a drive on the North Carolina 16, and Bomar's interception in the end zone halted the Bulldogs after they had driven to the Tar Heels' 7.

Syracuse Gets Past Pitt, 33-7

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Syracuse turned a fumble and a pass interception into early touchdowns and went on to smother sputtering Pittsburgh 33-7 Saturday in a homecoming football battle.

Speedster Floyd Little pried open the Orange scoring gates midway through the opening period when he slashed one yard off tackle after Herb Stecker pounced on a Pitt fumble on the Panther 12.

Rick Cassatta engineered Syracuse's second touchdown, moving the Orange 80 yards in five plays and hitting Oley Allen in the end zone with a 35 yard pass.

Sophomore Jim Del Gaizo, who alternated with Cassata, put Syracuse ahead 26-0 at halftime with an eight-yard toss to end Dick Towne.

Nebraska Cornhuskers Roll Past Missouri Tigers, 35-0

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Eighth-ranked Nebraska strapped Missouri with a tenacious defense Saturday and rambled to a surprisingly easy 35-0 Big Eight football victory before a record Memorial Stadium crowd of 65,095.

The regionally televised Cornhusker victory ran Nebraska's regular season win string to 17 games and fortified the Husker bid for a fourth straight conference crown.

Missouri, its own title hopes jolted by a 10-10 tie with Iowa State last week, was left with a 4-2-1 mark for the season—2-1-1 in the loop.

It was the most lopsided Nebraska win over Missouri since 1922 when the Tigers bowed 48-0. The last shutout in a 60-game Nebraska—Missouri series was posted by Missouri in 1960, 28-0.

A pair of touchdowns in each of the second and third quarters put the game out of reach of the Tigers and Husker coach Bob Devaney turned the game over to second stringers for a one-touchdown final period assault.

So stiff were Nebraska defenses that Missouri was able to cross the midfield stripe only once before the game's waning moments and that incipient second quarter threat was choked off when Larry Wachholtz pirated a Gary Kombrink pass, sixth interception of the year for the Husker safety man.

A fumble recovery by Ben Gregory and a pass interception by Kaye Carstens set the stage for two Nebraska touchdowns.

Pete Tatman's one-yard touchdown plunge on the second play of the second quarter gave Nebraska its first counter.

Less than five minutes later Gregory recovered a punt return bobble by Jim Whataker and on the next play, shook off three tacklers to score from 16 yards out.

COLONEL LARSON

hometown press and radio during his polio attack. Later he was told he would be a hopeless cripple.

Colonel — that's his real first name and not a title — turned to childhood exercises to activate new muscles with a homemade boomerang, rifle target practice, squeezing rubber balls, and roping al la Tom Mix, the old cowboy movie star of the kids of the 1920s. Larson was born in 1914 at Chippewa Falls, Wis.

How Colonel Larson regained his coordination, overcame the cripping disease and found a new profession as an expert rifleman and stage performer is a story all by itself, taking a lot of telling.

Now, called the world's champion rifleman, Colonel Larson is headed for Monroe. He'll be here Tuesday as the guest of Gene Lutz and appear Tuesday night in his free gun performance and clinic at Ouachita Parish High School auditorium, 7 p.m.

Larson claimed his world's rifle title in 1960 at Rockerville, S.D., against 50 of the world's finest rifles from England, Argentina, Australia and the United States.

Records he claims are: Splitting 125 playing cards, consecutively, at 52 feet; hitting 1,100 eight-inch targets in 4½ hours without a miss; shooting 750 aspirins at 30 feet over the shoulder while sighting through a mirrow; hitting 17 three-inch blocks of wood dead center in 18 seconds; scoring 3,600 consecutive hits in one day; and discharging over 500,000 rounds through the same gun barrel, breaking the previous world mark of 250,000 held by Ad Topperwein of Texas.

Marlin Firearmy told Colonel Larson as a member of its family in 1961 to give such demonstrations as he has scheduled here. Gene's Sporting Goods was instrumental in bringing Colonel here. So be Gene's guests. The show is free.

Wildlife Executives To Meet

Area directors include John C. Ensminger, president of the Ouachita Wildlife Unit, and Mike Tarver, Monroe; Jack E. Bell, Monroe, representing the Louisiana Field Archery Association; O. W. Hogan and Bobby Franklin, Lincoln parish; M. T. Doughty, Jena, and Fred McVicker, Homer.

Clyde D. Smith, New Orleans, federation president, messages sportsmen's groups throughout the state that "several vital decisions will be made" at the meeting.

"Fish and wildlife did quite well in most instances in the regular session of legislature," Smith commented.

"Several measures that we wanted to see passed were so watered down that they are of little value, but on the other hand virtually all harmful legislation was defeated or died when the legislature adjourned.

"With the selection of Dr. Leslie Glasgow as executive director of the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission we have the dawn of a new era in Louisiana. Most every person who knows Professor Glasgow thinks he is one of the finest persons that walks on earth.

"But the new era will only blossom and bear fruit if Dr. Glasgow and the commission is given time and support. Changes can not be made overnight in a state agency that has some 750 employes and an operating budget of $6-million. It is unfortunate but true that the commission in several matters has been going in the wrong direction (an opinion) and to get moving forward in the correct direction will take more time and even more public support.

"We believe the majority of the seven-member board wants to have one of the most outstanding wildlife programs in America. At the top levels our commission is fortunate enough to have some of the best men anywhere. These professional men know what is needed and what should be done. Given reasonable time and full public support 'Sportsman's Pradise' will be a reality and not a slogan.

"If you want a 'Paradise' just do one thing now — tell every elected official, every politician you know to let the commission and Dr. Glasgow administer the affairs of the agency without interference."

The Outdoor Scoreboard

DR. GLASGOW was getting acquainted with the fine fishing at Bastrop's Bussey Brake this week. RUSSELL WHITE, West Monroe, guided "the boss" on a brief trip for ten bass Thursday afternoon. Friday morning they were back on the water, both soon taking bass limits.

Bussey also yielded bass limits for OTTO KLICK and ACIE ORR, Bastrop; M. H. LARY and TIM ALLEN, Monroe, with LARRY scoring two straight days. W. M. and MRS. LOVE, Monroe, took 18 bass, the same count for EUGENE and MRS. SAMPLE, El Dorado. HUGH BUFFINGTON, Bastrop showed off a seven-pound bass.

White perch limits taken at Lake D'Arbonne included FRED BEST and LAY HORRELL, Arcadia; MAX ALEXANDER, W. L. SEAL, M. L. and MRS. OGDEN, Ruston; and ALVIS and MRS. WHITTINGTON, Arcadia. Bass limits went to OLEY MOORE, West Monroe, and PAUL ROGERS, Ruston. Other good catches included HAROLD and MRS. FLEMING, West Monroe, 72 crappie; VIRGIL and MRS. FLEMING, West Monroe, 65 crappie FRED ROGERS, Ruston, 12 bass; and WALTER W. and MRS. YORK, El Dorado, 85 crappie.

Black Bayou limits were scored by VORIS LYONS, crappie; PAUL DANNA and WAYNE PARKER, bass; MR. TAYLOR, Sterlington, crappie. SAM DANNA landed a 20-pound buffalo caught while spin fishing for bass. JOE and ANN WILKINS mixed 92 specks and bream. A. C. and MRS. DRISCOLL took 16 big specks and bream; and a MR. SCALES, Dallas, Tex., took 18 big crappie.

BOBBY OWENS, Lake Providence, took six bass from his home lake, one of five pounds. MRS. SAM FOUTZ, Lake Providence, has been showing her sister, MRS. MATTIE GRIFFITH, Charleston, Mo., all the fishing holes in East Carroll like Lake Providence Port River Chute, Concordia, and Hollybrook, landing nice strings each day of the past week. MRS. FOUTZ spiced the program with a little excitement Wednesday when she was spilled from the boat in eight feet of water at River Chute. It was her first time ever to do such a trick, had on her life jacket.

HENRY THOMPSON took the bass limit at Lake Concordia one day, went back for seven more the next. "POP" BERCEGEAY, Gonzales, fished Lake Concordia eight days straight for nice bass catches. JOHN SHAW and party, in the same water, got bass limits two days straight, and GEORGE BOOTH, Natchez, was getting "all he wanted" too.

BUCK ANDERSON, Ruston, was at Long Branch recently for a big string of specks. TROY and MRS. GRAFTON, Bernice, made a good white perch haul at Saline Bayou where HENRY and MRS. KOONCE, Castar also had good luck.

CLAUDE RENNICKER, Lake Providence, broke the lull in white perch fishing there, taking a nice string from the American Legion pier, one weighing a pound and three-quarters.

RACIN LAURITSEN said the 71-pound buffalo he took early the past week at Long Lake was the second largest fish of this kind he had ever caught. Biggest was a 72-pounder in the same lake a few years ago.

Volunteers Thrash Army's Cadets, 38-7

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Dewey Warren's passing set the stage for all but one of Tennessee's scores Saturday as the Vols thrashed Army 38-7 in an intersectional football game.

Warren completed 18 of 25 passes for 250 yards, hitting just about every available target on the Volunteer squad. One of his tosses was good for a touchdown and he scored another by jumping over the goal from the one.

	Army	Tenn.
First downs	16	22
Rushing yardage	85	142
Passing yardage	165	250
Passes	12-26	18-25
Passes Intercepted by	0	2
Punts	6-43.7	3.42.7
Fumbles lost	1	2
Yards penalized	45	13

Tennessee took the opening kickoff and drove in back into field goal position, where Gary Wright's true placement set the Vols off to a lead which turned into a runaway victory. Wright also kicked extra points after all five of the Vols' touchdowns.

Army threatened several times, but never very seriously until its own passing attack produced a touchdown in the third period.

Charley Fulton, a converted quarterback running at tailback, scored two Tennessee touchdowns on the ground, and defensive end Nick Showalter returned an interception 28 yards for another.

Quarterback Steve Lindell passed Army into position for its only touchdown late in the third period, and then hit Terry Young in the end zone for the score. Lindell kicked the conversion.

Warren got the Vol attack moving on the opening drive, hitting end Austin Denney going to the left, then to the right on successive completions that set the pattern for the afternoon.

Army penetrated to the Tennessee 26 on one of several abortive drives when Lindell began spotting big end Gary Steele, but fullback Charles Jarvis the workhorse of the Army offense, fumbled at the 25 to set up Tennessee's first touchdown.

The drive got its big yardage on Warren passes to Flowers and end Johnny Mills, the latter putting the ball on the 28. On the next play, Fulton took a pitchout and churned through the Army line to score.

Army got a chance when Tennessee end Tarry Dalton caught a pass and fumbled it away on the Vol 26. But the Cadets were thrown back to the 31 and Lindell's field goal try from the 38 dropped far short.

Tennessee took over late in the half when Army gambled on fourth down on the Tennessee 31 and lost. The Vols raced the clock and Warren threw to Flowers and Mills, moving to the Army 21, then the 3. Fulton stepped over from there. Jerry Smith's interception on the Vol one stopped an Army comeback try.

Warren hit nine straight passes, running up the end of the third quarter. Passes to Flowers, Mills and Walter Chadwick moved the Vols close enough for Warren to get a touchdown of his own with a one-yard sneaker.

Then Lindell got hot, throwing one 41-yard bomb to John Peduto at the Vol 34. Lindell and Jarvis ran it to the seven, and Lindell hit Young from there.

Warren hit Flowers three times in the last Vol drive, then spotted Dalton, who took in a pass and scored in a 24-yard play.

Showalter grinned all the way to the goal line when he charged in on Lindell a few minutes later, batted a pass in the air and hauled it down going away.

Warren's touchdown throw to Dalton was his ninth of the season, a Vol record. His 18 completions were just short of a school record for a single game, but Coach Doug Dickey pulled him out before he could get another.

Harvard, 27-7

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Harvard's Bobby Leo recovered his own fumble in the end zone for one touchdown and the undefeated Crimson capitalized on three other breaks for scores in defeating stubborn Pennsylvania 27-7 Saturday for their sixth victory in a march toward the Ivy League football title.

Xavier quarterback Carroll Williams all day, enabling him to hit on only two of 23 passes.

Georgia Bulldogs Topple Tar Heels, 28-3

ATHENS, Ga. (AP)—Georgia spoiled Danny Talbott's return to action by picking off three of the North Carolina quarterback's passes Saturday, and fleet Kent Lawrence supplied the offensive spark as the Bulldogs rolled to a 28-3 victory.

The triumph boosted Georgia's football record to 6-1 and kept it unbeaten in Southeastern Conference play because the game against the Atlantic Coast Conference rival counted in the SEC race to give the Bulldogs the required six games.

Lawrence, a 9.5 sprinter in track, scored twice for Georgia. The slender sophomore started the scoring with a 37-yard touchdown sprint midway in the first period, and he nailed down the triumph in the fourth period with a five-yard scoring dash.

Defensive end Larry Kohn had cracked a 7-3 duel in the third period when he grabbed one of Talbott's tosses and ran 62 yards for a touchdown.

Talbott, who missed the Tar Heels' last two losses with a leg injury, also had a pass picked off in the end zone which ended North Carolina's deepest drive, and another Talbott toss was intercepted at midfield.

A wild pitchout by Talbott set up Georgia's first score.

The North Carolina standout wound up with a passing mark of five of 13 for 61 yards. He reinjured his ankle early in the fourth period and replacement Tim Karrs had a toss intercepted which led to Georgia's final touchdown, a three-yard burst by Ronnie Jenkins.

The Bulldogs needed all the help they could get early in the game because they fumbled away the ball three times and had two passes picked off.

The loss was the third straight for North Carolina, which hasn't scored a touchdown during the slump.

The Tar Heels' only points against Georgia were provided by Bill Dodson in the second quarter, when he kicked a 36-yard field goal.

North Carolina was not able to move against the sturdy Georgia defense, led by tackles Bill Stanfill and George Patton.

Patton recovered Talbott's bobbled pitchout on the North Carolina 49, and Lawrence scored three plays later when he out-ran the Tar Heels on a 37-yard jaunt.

Spain's recovery stopped a drive on the North Carolina 16, and Bomar's interception in the end zone halted the Bulldogs after they had driven to the Tar Heels' 7.

Nebraska Cornhuskers Roll Past Missouri Tigers, 35-0

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Eighth-ranked Nebraska strapped Missouri with a tenacious defense Saturday and rambled to a surprisingly easy 35-0 Big Eight football victory before a record Memorial Stadium crowd of 65,095.

The regionally televised Cornhusker victory ran Nebraska's regular season win string to 17 games and fortified the Husker bid for a fourth straight conference crown.

Missouri, its own title hopes jolted by a 10-10 tie with Iowa State last week, was left with a 4-2-1 mark for the season—2-1-1 in the loop.

It was the most lopsided Nebraska win over Missouri since 1922 when the Tigers bowed 48-0. The last shutout in a 60-game Nebraska—Missouri series was posted by Missouri in 1960, 28-0.

A pair of touchdowns in each of the second and third quarters put the game out of reach of the Tigers and Husker coach Bob Devaney turned the game over to second stringers for a one-touchdown final period assault.

So stiff were Nebraska defenses that Missouri was able to cross the midfield stripe only once before the game's waning moments and that incipient second quarter threat was choked off when Larry Wachholtz pirated a Gary Kombrink pass, sixth interception of the year for the Husker safety man.

A fumble recovery by Ben Gregory and a pass interception by Kaye Carstens set the stage for two Nebraska touchdowns.

Pete Tatman's one-yard touchdown plunge on the second play of the second quarter gave Nebraska its first counter.

Less than five minutes later Gregory recovered a punt return bobble by Jim Whataker and on the next play, shook off three tacklers to score from 16 yards out.

FOR THE THIRD consecutive week the Associated Press Average of 60 stocks moved higher, closing Friday at 293.6, up from 284.3 last week. The Dow Jones Average of 30 industrials closed at 807.96, up from 787.30. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

Mart Racks Up 3rd Straight Advance

NEW YORK (AP) — A more comfortable feeling prevailed in Wall Street today as the stock market racked up its third straight weekly advance.

Well - known stock market commentators are quoted as saying that there is a more cheerful economic environment that most people believe the worst is over and that better quality investment issues are more in demand than for months.

A return to basic investment value in the street seemed to be in the making as buyers picked up many of the top quality steels, utilities and rails.

For both averages it was the best advance since the week ended Oct. 15.

For the Dow, it was a rebound of 55.25 from the closing low of 744.32 made Oct. 7. This snapback was about as predicted by technical analysists who now believe the level of the Oct. 7 low should be tested to see if it will hold and provide the springboard for another rally. If the low survives such a test, analysists believe, the market will have formed a fairly trustworthy base

Volume was 31,894,490 shares compared with 31,750,461 shares last week. Of 1,582 issues traded 1,055 advanced and 404 declined.

The advance gathered momentum as the week progressed reading its greatest strength on Thursday and tapering off on Friday when the market ended mixed. There were more gainers than losers but the averages and indexes gave a contradictory verdict.

On Monday, with President Johnson on his Asian trip and disorderly protests in Manila against U.S. policy in Viet Nam, the market could only manage an irregular advance. Aerospace issues were weak.

Buying spread out to a broader list of Blue Chips Thursday.

U.S. Steel rose 4⅛ and Bethlehem 4 points during the trading week. General Motors wound up with a net gain of ¾ at 73 despite a drop in new car sales in mid-October and a decline in GM's third quarter profits.

Municipals led a general bond market rally last week followed closely by corporate bonds.

It was the largest weekly advance for the municipal market since early September.

Some seasoned and recent corporate issues rose also.

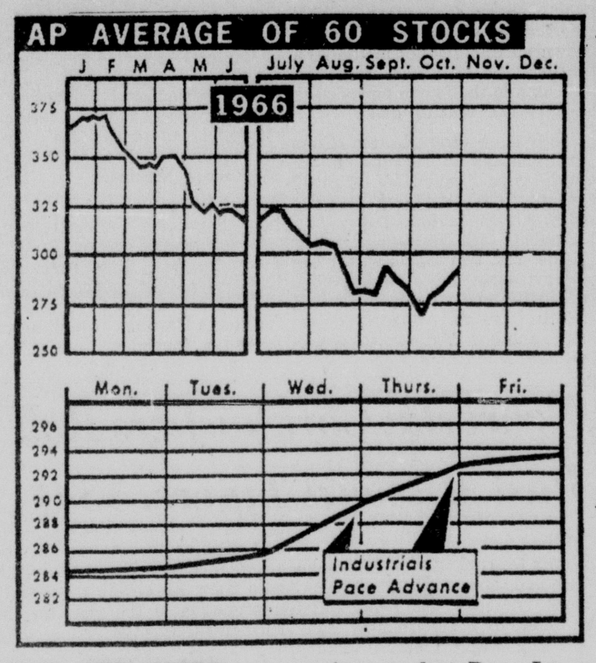
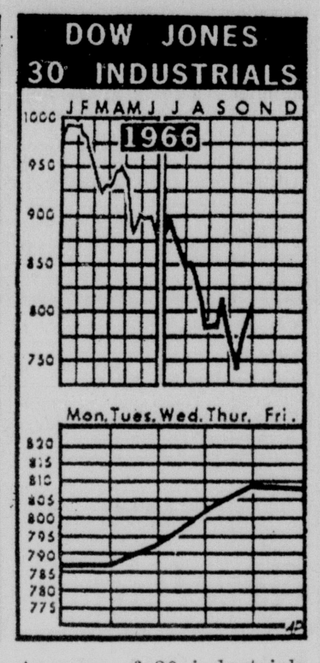
AP AVERAGE OF 60 STOCKS



DOW JONES 30 INDUSTRIALS



FOR THE THIRD consecutive week the Associated Press Average of 60 stocks moved higher, closing Friday at 293.6, up from 284.3 last week. The Dow Jones Average of 30 industrials closed at 807.96, up from 787.30. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

Mart Racks Up 3rd Straight Advance

NEW YORK (AP) — A more comfortable feeling prevailed in Wall Street today as the stock market racked up its third straight weekly advance.

Well - known stock market commentators are quoted as saying that there is a more cheerful economic environment that most people believe the worst is over and that better quality investment issues are more in demand than for months.

A return to basic investment value in the street seemed to be in the making as buyers picked up many of the top quality steels, utilities and rails.

For both averages it was the best advance since the week ended Oct. 15.

For the Dow, it was a rebound of 55.25 from the closing low of 744.32 made Oct. 7. This snapback was about as predicted by technical analysists who now believe the level of the Oct. 7 low should be tested to see if it will hold and provide the springboard for another rally. If the low survives such a test, analysists believe, the market will have formed a fairly trustworthy base

Volume was 31,894,490 shares compared with 31,750,461 shares last week. Of 1,582 issues traded 1,055 advanced and 404 declined.

The advance gathered momentum as the week progressed reading its greatest strength on Friday and tapering off on Monday when the market ended mixed. There were more gainers than losers but the averages and indexes gave a contradictory verdict.

On Monday, with President Johnson on his Asian trip and disorderly protests in Manila against U.S. policy in Viet Nam, the market could only manage an irregular advance. Aerospace issues were weak.

Buying spread out to a broader list of Blue Chips Thursday. U.S. Steel rose 4⅛ and Bethlehem 4 points during the trading week. General Motors wound up with a net gain of ¾ at 73 despite a drop in new car sales in mid-October and a decline in GM's third quarter profits.

Municipals led a general bond market rally last week followed closely by corporate bonds.

It was the largest weekly advance for the municipal market since early September.

Some seasoned and recent corporate issues rose also.

RATING GUIDE: A (adult), AMY (adult and mature young people), AYC (adults, young people and children), MY (mature young people), and C (espically for children, accompanied, by adults). When no rating is available on foreign imports, etc., a listing of NRA will indicate "No Rating Available." Ratings are compiled from listings in Film Estimate Board ("The Green Sheet") and Parents Magazine.

EASTGATE

Now Showing: "Doctor Zhivago" — AMY — Oma Sharif, Julie Christie, Ralph Richardson in David Lean's film adaptation of Boris Pasternak's award-winning novel about a compassionate poet and doctor who is embittered by the outcome of World War I and the Russian Revolution. Winner of six Academy Awards and special Merit Award. In color. Reserve seat performances, 7:30 p.m. Monday through Sunday and 2 p.m. on Saturday, Sunday and holidays.

JIM

Sunday through Tuesday: "Fantastic Voyage" — AYC — Stephen Boyd, Raquel Welch in science fiction adventure set in 1995. Opponents in the cold war have a process for miniaturizing men and materials to microscopic size. Then the one man in the world who knows how to control the process sustains a brain injury operable only from inside the skull. A nuclear powered submarine with medical and technical experts aboard is reduced to germ size, injected into the scientist's blood stream and started on its voyagle to the injured brain.

Wednesday through Nov. 8: "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" — A — Elizabeth Taylor, Paul Newman, Burl Ives in re-release of 1959 romantic drama based on Pulitzer Prize-winning play by Tennessee Williams. Miss Taylor portrays the rejected wife of the character portrayed by Newman. Ives portrays the husband's father who rescues the marriage. In color.

"Butterfield 8" — A — Elizabeth Taylor, Laurence Harvey, Eddie Fisher in re-release of 1961 drama based on the novel by John O'Hara and concerning the mental anguish experienced by a nymphomaniac.

JOY DRIVE-IN

Sunday through Tuesday: "Modesty Blaise" — A — Monica Vitti, Terence Stamp, Dirk Bogarde, Harry Andrews, Rosella Falk in comedy-drama based on the "Evening Standard" comic strip created by Peter O'Donnell and Jim Holdaway. British secret agent and adventuress is engaged by the British government to protect a fortune in diamonds on its way to an Arab sheik in an undercover deal for oil leases. International thieves plan to hijack the gems and Modesty Blaise is hired to guard them. "Rio Bravo" — NRA — John Wayne, Dean Martin in Western originally released in 1959.

Wednesday through Friday: "Made In Paris" — AMY— Ann-Margret, Louis Jourdan in romantic drama. New York model is sent to Paris for the openings of the fashion shows. She gets attention from three suitors, her employer's son, an expatriate newspaper man and a French designer who expects special favors for his exclusive creations.

"Cincinnati Kind" — NRA — Steve McQueen in drama concerning tense moments during a pool hall contest with high stakes.

Saturday through Nov. 8: "Mother Goose A-Go-Go" — NRA — "Father Goose" — AMY — Cary Grant, Leslie Caron in World War II romantic comedy. An Australian Naval Commander is sorely in need of civilian spotters to report movement by enemy planes and ships by radio from the islands in the South Seas. A likely fellow for this service is a disillusioned intellectual and beachcomber who cruises aimlessly and contentedly around the islands in his launch. He must later care for an evacuee with seven schoolgirl charges in tow and protect them from enemy action.

PARAMOUNT

Sunday through Thursday: "The Swinger' — NRA — Ann-Margret, Tony Franciosa, Robert Coote, Yvonne Romain, Barbara Nichols in romantic drama. Young girl with an impeccable background composes a story for a pulp magazine by pilfering lines and situations from a stack of paperback books. The authoress sells the story of a depraved young lady by claiming it is based upon her own life. To convince the publisher she is telling the truth she stages a wild party and does a seductive dance. A reform - conscious co-publisher seeks to play Pygmalion with the authoress and falls in love with her. In theater color.

Starting Friday: "The Appaloosa" — AMY — Marlon Brando, Anjanette Comer, John Saxon, Frank Silvera, Emilio Fernandez in adventure based on novel by Robert Macleod. A saddle tramp, bone weary after a life of buffalo hunting on the open range, decides to settle down on a ranch and become a breeder of horses. His prize Appaloose stallion is stolen by Mexican bandits but the rancher gets the horse back, through the help of an old goatherder and a girl who has been sold to the bandit.

Coming Soon: "Kaleidoscope" — AMY — Warren Beatty, Susannah York, Clive Revill in British comedy thriller. Young man perfects a method of marking cards before the sealed decks arrive in Europe's gambling spots. He makes a tour of the casinos and piles up winnings. But he finds a blithe and off-beat blonde irresistible and she draws him to the attention of her father, a Scotland Yard inspector. The inspector blackmails the young man into helping the police bankrupt an international narcotics peddler whose hobby is poker.

RIALTO

Sunday through Thursday: "Boy Did I Get a Wrong Number" — AMY — Bob Hope, Elke Sommer, Phyllis Diller in slapstick comedy about a faithful husband who becomes innocently involved with a runaway actress when she rents his hide-away camp house. He struggles to keep the knowledge from his wife. In color. Features at 1:10, 2:58, 4:45, 6:30 and 8:20 p.m.

STRAND

Sunday through Tuesday: "Assault on a Queen —AMY — Frank Sinatra portrays a Caribbean fishing guide who joins an amoral group headed by Virna Lisa and agrees to assist them in the robbery of the Queen Mary ocean liner while in mid-ocean. In color.

Wednesday and Thursday: "Love the Italian Way — NRA — Elke Sommer and Walter Chiari in romantic drama.

Friday and Saturday: "Flipper's New Adventure —AYC — Luke Halpin, Pamela Franklin in drama especially for children. Flipper, the friendly dolphin, helps his companion capture escaped convicts and give assistance to castaways.

"Flipper — AYC — Chuck Connors, Luke Halpin in childrens film. Son of fisherman in the Florida Keys rescues an injured dolphin and the dolphin becomes his faithful companion. During a hurricane, the dolphin becomes lost and a hectic search begins.

BEGUILING GAMBLER Barney Lincoln, portrayed by Warren Beatty, falls in love with a blonde named Angel whom he meets in the midst of a London traffic jam, in "Kaleidoscope," the motion picture opening soon at the Paramount Theater. Susannah York plays Angel, who follows the gambler throughout Europe's gambling casinos as he applies a "foolproof" system for winning a fortune.

New Change In Movie Screen Made

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Remember the 12-by-15-foot screen of silent movies and early talkies?

In 1952 Cinerama, using three cameras and three projectors, took happily screaming audiences down roller-coasters and across mountains on a massive screen twice as wide as it was high.

The next year Cinemascope unveiled Marilyn Monroe on a wide screen, and the year after that Todd A-O, challenging Cinerama's three-film process, issued "Oklahoma" on film 70 millimeters wide — twice as wide as the previous standard.

Other 70-mm. systems followed — Ultra Panavision, Super Panavision, Super Technirama 70 — and 35-MM. Vista Vision.

LATEST TYPE

The latest is Dimension 150 or D-150, the brainchild of two ex-UCLA instructors who say it's the first new process in eight years and gives the highest fidelity yet in picture and sound.

United Artists Theaters, which owns D-150, Inc., is installing the system in its new movie houses. Film Daily has said D-150 "has everything that has been claimed for it," and critic Bosley Crowther acclaimed its "stunning projection."

Dimension 150 was in the news last month when a New York appeals court, ruling on the manufacturer's petition ordered "The Bible" shown in the process where possible. The $18 million spectacle is the only feature so far made in the system, but negotiations are on for others.

What's dimension 150? the 150 stands for the number of degrees' spread it can photograph — nearly the field of human vision.

D-150 uses "wide-angle, telephoto and zoom camera lenses heretofore unknown to wide-film photography," says Dr. Richard Vetter, one of the co-inventors.

With special projector lenses it throws images on a deeply curved, floor-to-ceiling screen without distortion, he says, "giving audiences more sense of participation, involvement and realism." The screen has "a new type surface manufactured for us in England and the subject of a pending patent." The sound system has eight tracks, two more than customary.

Harvey McMillin Says

The joy of Thanksgiving brings families and friends together, but for some the joy will not be as great as it should because of a hearing loss.

A hearing loss can keep you from understanding your friends and loved ones and makes you feel left out. These special holidays are few and life is too short not to enjoy yourself.

So call or come in today for a free hearing test. There is no obligation. Make the holidays this year something to remember. Happy Thanksgiving.

CURTAIN CALL

By CURTIS RAPE

'You Can't Take It With You" has set a box office record for a non-musical show with a near complete sell-out prior to opening night. The theatre has extended the run of the show one extra performance due to capacity crowds at all performances.

The final performance is scheduled for 2:30 p.m., today. A few seats may still be available, so call the box office after 10 a.m. and make your reservation for today's matinee.

No greater tribute can be paid the staff, cast, and crew of any show than to have full houses every night and be requested to play a holdover. Crowds have been good and audience reception has been most gratifying. It is because of this that those concerned wish to express appreciation for your support on this production.

CHILDREN'S THEATRE

Thornton Wilder's "Our Town," the theatre's current teen production will be presented in a special preview performance Friday. City Officials and other dignitaries have been invited to the preview.

Performances of the play will be opened to the general public Saturday, Nov. 5, and Sunday, Nov. 6. Curtain time for both performances is 2 p.m. Two additional performances will be held Saturday, Nov. 12, at 2 and 7:30 p.m.

The box office will be open from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., Nov. 4-6, 11, and 12. Admission is $1.00 for adults and $.75 for children. Tickets may be secured at the box office or by phone. Special groups and classes are cordially invited.

"FANTASTICKS"

Before the current production is over, work must begin on the next show, "The Fantasticks." This musical will be designed and directed by Bill Haddad. Helen Wooldridge will serve as musical director, and Curtis Rape will stage the musical numbers.

This show has been running in New York for the past seven years and has had over 90 different actors playing the various parts. It's continued success and popularity might in part be attributed to the uniqueness of the show. It is like no other musical ever presented at Strauss Playhouse, and one you can really look forward to seeing.

The staff has been busy this past week holding auditions and selecting the cast — never an easy task. Many talented actors, singers, and dancers attended tryouts. Among those attending were: Jack and Freda Murphy, Bobby Trudeau, Sandy Knoblock, Judy Swayze, Kay Pruitt, Ronnie Brothers, Jo Oswell, and Buddy Smith.

Also attending were: Ronn Robinson, James Biegenwald, Gyl Rowell, Gertrude Sandrock, Ricky Estrada, Joe Mangin, Mona Brooks, Franz Sohngen, Sandy Walker, and Cookie Young.

In addition were: Sue Brooks, Ken Garrison, Hugh Matthews, Jeannie Taylor, Valerie Taylor, Bess and Lamar Mullican, John Filhoil, Lallage and Shady Wall, V. P. Dalrymple, Chuck Stanart, Marc and June Swayze, Anita Womack, Julius Cahn, and Murray Burfford.

WORKERS NEEDED

Members are urgently needed to help work backstage for the next production. People are needed to gather properties, construct sets, and work lights. A most important part of the theatre's productions rests with those who work behind the scenes. If you have just a little free time, give Bill a call at the theatre or come on out and help with "Fantasticks."

RATING GUIDE: A (adult), AMY (adult and mature young people), AYC (adults, young people and children), MY (mature young people), and C (especially for children, accompanied, by adults). When no rating is available on foreign imports, etc., a listing of NRA will indicate "No Rating Available." Ratings are compiled from listings in Film Estimate Board ("The Green Sheet") and Parents Magazine.

EASTGATE

Now Showing: "Doctor Zhivago" — AMY — Oma Sharif, Julie Christie, Ralph Richardson in David Lean's film adaptation of Boris Pasternak's award-winning novel about a compassionate poet and doctor who is embittered by the outcome of World War I and the Russian Revolution. Winner of six Academy Awards and special Merit Award. In color. Reserve seat performances, 7:30 p.m. Monday through Sunday and 2 p.m. on Saturday, Sunday and holidays.

JIM

Sunday through Tuesday: "Fantastic Voyage" — AYC — Stephen Boyd, Raquel Welch in science fiction adventure set in 1995. Opponents in the cold war have a process for miniaturizing men and materials to microscopic size. Then the one man in the world who knows how to control the process sustains a brain injury operable only from inside the skull. A nuclear powered submarine with medical and technical experts aboard is reduced to germ size, injected into the scientist's blood stream and started on its voyagle to the injured brain.

Wednesday through Nov. 8: "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" — A — Elizabeth Taylor, Paul Newman, Burl Ives in re-release of 1959 romantic drama based on Pulitzer Prize-winning play by Tennessee Williams. Miss Taylor portrays the rejected wife of the character portrayed by Newman. Ives portrays the husband's father who rescues the marriage. In color.

"Butterfield 8" — A — Elizabeth Taylor, Laurence Harvey, Eddie Fisher in re-release of 1961 drama based on the novel by John O'Hara and concerning the mental anguish experienced by a nymphomaniac.

JOY DRIVE-IN

Sunday through Tuesday: "Modesty Blaise" — A — Monica Vitti, Terence Stamp, Dirk Bogarde, Harry Andrews, Rosella Falk in comedy-drama based on the "Evening Standard" comic strip created by Peter O'Donnell and Jim Holdaway. British secret agent and adventuress is engaged by the British government to protect a fortune in diamonds on its way to an Arab sheik in an undercover deal for oil leases. International thieves plan to hijack the gems and Modesty Blaise is hired to guard them. "Rio Bravo" — NRA — John Wayne, Dean Martin in Western originally released in 1959.

Wednesday through Friday: "Made In Paris" — AMY — Ann-Margret, Louis Jourdan in romantic drama. New York model is sent to Paris for the openings of the fashion shows. She gets attention from three suitors, her employer's son, an expatriate newspaper man and a French designer who expects special favors for his exclusive creations.

"Cincinnati Kind" — NRA — Steve McQueen in drama concerning tense moments during a pool hall contest with high stakes.

Saturday through Nov. 8: "Mother Goose A-Go-Go" — NRA — "Father Goose" — AMY — Cary Grant, Leslie Caron in World War II romantic comedy. An Australian Naval Commander is sorely in need of civilian spotters to report movement by enemy planes and ships by radio from the islands in the South Seas. A likely fellow for this service is a disillusioned intellectual and beachcomber who cruises aimlessly and contentedly around the islands in his launch. He must later care for an evacuee with seven schoolgirl charges in tow and protect them from enemy action.

PARAMOUNT

Sunday through Thursday: "The Swinger" — NRA — Ann-Margret, Tony Franciosa, Robert Coote, Yvonne Romain, Barbara Nichols in romantic drama. Young girl with an impeccable background composes a story for a pulp magazine by pilfering lines and situations from a stack of paperback books. The authoress sells the story of a depraved young lady by claiming it is based upon her own life. To convince the publisher she is telling the truth she stages a wild party and does a seductive dance. A reform - conscious co-publisher seeks to play Pygmalion with the authoress and falls in love with her. In theater color.

Starting Friday: "The Appaloosa" — AMY — Marlon Brando, Anjanette Comer, John Saxon, Frank Silvera, Emilio Fernandez in adventure based on novel by Robert Macleod. A saddle tramp, bone weary after a life of buffalo hunting on the open range, decides to settle down on a ranch and become a breeder of horses. His prize Appaloose stallion is stolen by Mexican bandits but the rancher gets the horse back, through the help of an old goatherder and a girl who has been sold to the bandit.

Coming Soon: "Kaleidoscope" — AMY — Warren Beatty, Susannah York, Clive Revill in British comedy thriller. Young man perfects a method of marking cards before the sealed decks arrive in Europe's gambling spots. He makes a tour of the casinos and piles up winnings. But he finds a blithe and off-beat blonde irresistible and she draws him to the attention of her father, a Scotland Yard inspector. The inspector blackmails the young man into helping the police bankrupt an international narcotics peddler whose hobby is poker.

RIALTO

Sunday through Thursday: "Boy Did I Get a Wrong Number" — AMY — Bob Hope, Elke Sommer, Phyllis Diller in slapstick comedy about a faithful husband who becomes innocently involved with a runaway actress when she rents his hide-away camp house. He struggles to keep the knowledge from his wife. In color. Features at 1:10, 2:58, 4:45, 6:30 and 8:20 p.m.

Starting Friday: "Return of the Seven" — NRA — Yul Brynner, Robert Fuller in drama featuring the star of "The Magnificent Seven, based on The Seven Samurai."

STRAND

Sunday through Tuesday: "Assault on a Queen —AMY — Frank Sinatra portrays a Caribbean fishing guide who joins an amoral group headed by Virna Lisa and agrees to assist them in the robbery of the Queen Mary ocean liner while in mid-ocean. In color.

Wednesday and Thursday: "Love the Italian Way — NRA — Elke Sommer and Walter Chiari in romantic drama.

Friday and Saturday: "Flipper's New Adventure —AYC — Luke Halpin, Pamela Franklin in drama especially for children. Flipper, the friendly dolphin, helps his companion capture escaped convicts and give assistance to castaways.

"Flipper — AYC — Chuck Connors, Luke Halpin in childrens film. Son of fisherman in the Florida Keys rescues an injured dolphin and the dolphin becomes his faithful companion. During a hurricane, the dolphin becomes lost and a hectic search begins.

BEGUILING GAMBLER Barney Lincoln, portrayed by Warren Beatty, falls in love with a blonde named Angel whom he meets in the midst of a London traffic jam, in "Kaleidoscope," the motion picture opening soon at the Paramount Theater. Susannah York plays Angel, who follows the gambler throughout Europe's gambling casinos as he applies a "foolproof" system for winning a fortune.

New Change In Movie Screen Made

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Remember the 12-by-15-foot screen of silent movies and early talkies?

In 1952 Cinerama, using three cameras and three projectors, took happily screaming audiences down roller-coasters and across mountains on a massive screen twice as wide as it was high.

The next year Cinemascope unveiled Marilyn Monroe on a wide screen, and the year after that Todd A-O, challenging Cinerama's three-film process, issued "Oklahoma" on film 70 millimeters wide — twice as wide as the previous standard.

Other 70-mm. systems followed — Ultra Panavision, Super Panavision, Super Technirama 70 — and 35-MM. Vista Vision.

LATEST TYPE

The latest is Dimension 150 or D-150, the brainchild of two ex-UCLA instructors who say it's the first new process in eight years and gives the highest fidelity yet in picture and sound.

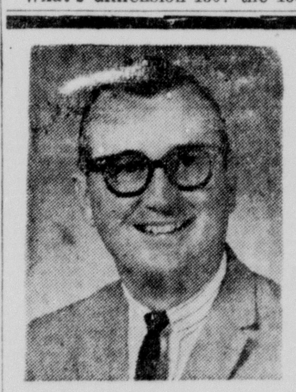
United Artists Theaters, which owns D-150, Inc., is installing the system in its new movie houses. Film Daily has said D-150 "has everything that has been claimed for it," and critic Bosley Crowther acclaimed its "stunning projection."

Dimension 150 was in the news last month when a New York appeals court, ruling on the manufacturer's petition ordered "The Bible" shown in the process where possible. The $18 million spectacle is the only feature so far made in the system, but negotiations are on for others.

What's dimension 150? the 150 stands for the number of degrees' spread it can photograph — nearly the field of human vision.

D-150 uses "wide-angle, telephoto and zoom camera lenses heretofore unknown to wide-film photography," says Dr. Richard Vetter, one of the co-inventors.

With special projector lenses it throws images on a deeply curved, floor-to-ceiling screen without distortion, he says, "giving audiences more sense of participation, involvement and realism." The screen has "a new type surface manufactured for us in England and the subject of a pending patent." The sound system has eight tracks, two more than customary.



Harvey McMillin Says

The joy of Thanksgiving brings families and friends together, but for some the joy will not be as great as it should because of a hearing loss.

A hearing loss can keep you from understanding your friends and loved ones and makes you feel left out. These special holidays are few and life is too short not to enjoy yourself.

So call or come in today for a free hearing test. There is no obligation. Make the holidays this year something to remember. Happy Thanksgiving.

CURTAIN CALL

By CURTIS RAPE

'You Can't Take It With You" has set a box office record for a non-musical show with a near complete sell-out prior to opening night. The theatre has extended the run of the show one extra performance due to capacity crowds at all performances.

The final performance is scheduled for 2:30 p.m., today. A few seats may still be available, so call the box office after 10 a.m. and make your reservation for today's matinee.

No greater tribute can be paid the staff, cast, and crew of any show than to have full houses every night and be requested to play a holdover. Crowds have been good and audience reception has been most gratifying. It is because of this that those concerned wish to express appreciation for your support on this production.

CHILDREN'S THEATRE

Thornton Wilder's "Our Town," the theatre's current teen production will be presented in a special preview performance Friday. City Officials and other dignitaries have been invited to the preview.

Performances of the play will be opened to the general public Saturday, Nov. 5, and Sunday, Nov. 6. Curtain time for both performances is 2 p.m. Two additional performances will be held Saturday, Nov. 12, at 2 and 7:30 p.m.

The box office will be open from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., Nov. 4-6, 11, and 12. Admission is $1.00 for adults and $.75 for children. Tickets may be secured at the box office or by phone. Special groups and classes are cordially invited.

"FANTASTICKS"

Before the current production is over, work must begin on the next show, "The Fantasticks." This musical will be designed and directed by Bill Haddad. Helen Wooldridge will serve as musical director, and Curtis Rape will stage the musical numbers.

This show has been running in New York for the past seven years and has had over 90 different actors playing the various parts. It's continued success and popularity might in part be attributed to the uniqueness of the show. It is like no other musical ever presented at Strauss Playhouse, and one you can really look forward to seeing.

The staff has been busy this past week holding auditions and selecting the cast — never an easy task. Many talented actors, singers, and dancers attended tryouts. Among those attending were: Jack and Freda Murphy, Bobby Trudeau, Sandy Knoblock, Judy Swayze, Kay Pruitt, Ronnie Brothers, Jo Oswell, and Buddy Smith.

Also attending were: Ronn Robinson, James Biegenwald, Gyl Rowell, Gertrude Sandrock, Ricky Estrada, Joe Mangin, Mona Brooks, Franz Sohngen, Sandy Walker, and Cookie Young.

In addition were: Sue Brooks, Ken Garrison, Hugh Matthews, Jeannie Taylor, Valerie Taylor, Bess and Lamar Mullican, John Filhoil, Lallage and Shady Wall, V. P. Dalrymple, Chuck Stanart, Marc and June Swayze, Anita Womack, Julius Cahn, and Murray Burfford.

WORKERS NEEDED

Members are urgently needed to help work backstage for the next production. People are needed to gather properties, construct sets, and work lights. A most important part of the theatre's productions rests with those who work behind the scenes. If you have just a little free time, give Bill a call at the theatre or come on out and help with "Fantasticks."

Righteous Brothers Slated Here

One of popular music's top attractions, the Righteous Brothers, will perform for Northeast Louisiana State College students in a two-hour concert at Neville Auditorium Monday night.

The concert will begin at 8 p.m. and is a sellout, according to a spokesman for the Northeast Student Government Association, which is sponsoring the appearance.

The Righteous Brothers are Bobby Hatfield, 25, and Bill Medley, 26, a couple of Californians who combined their talents in 1962. Their first big hit was "Little Latin Lupe Lu," written by themselves.

Since then they have had a string of hits, including their latest — "White Cliff of Dover." At one time they had three albums listed among the top 20 sellers and have sold more than 10 million records.

They have appeared in two movies and on numerous television variety shows. Their style described as a mixture of spiritual, rock 'n roll, rhythm and blues, country and western, jazz and gospel, has proved especially popular with college audiences.

They acquired their name at one of their performances when the audience began chanting, "That's righteous, brother."

Union Parish May Be Put In District

HOMER (Special) — Change proposed in Claiborne Senatorial district indicates Union Parish will replace Jackson in the senatorial district, that includes Claiborne, according to the chairman of the special committee that has been preparing a plan for redistricting the state senate and house representatives.

Claiborne, Bienville, Lincoln and Union will be one senatorial district if the plan is accepted.

Claiborne is to be placed in a house district with Webster Parish with the district electing two representatives, according to the proposal.

Claiborne presently elects a representative, and Claiborne and Bienville parishes comprise a senatorial district. North Louisiana will lose representation under any redistricting plan.

The state supreme court has ordered the state to reapportion both houses or all legislators will be forced to run at large.

New Tourist Center Will Be Dedicated

SHREVEPORT (Special) — The Louisiana Tourist Development Commission's new tourist reception center on Interstate 20 will be dedicated Friday, LTDC Director John Tarver has announced.

Located just east of the Louisiana - Texas line near the Greenwood Interchange, the center is the first of several proposed for the state's interstate highway routes.

Designed in Louisiana colonial styling by the architectural firm of Baker, Mathys and Associates of Winnsboro, the building measures 36 by 60 feet and is on a rest area with picnic facilities.

Total cost of the structure, which was built by C. K. Carter Construction Company of Shreveport, was $39,821. Construction was begun on the project immediately after groundbreaking ceremonies were held at the site on April 22.

Miss Louisiana At Area Game

The two "Misses" presented a program showing styles in dress and farm machinery.

Programs earlier Friday included a style show during which Miss Woods played the oboe. The promotion week was sponsored by The West Carroll Parish Farm Bureau.

Groups Urge Soft Race Line For GOP

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two organizations claiming progressive labels urged Saturday night that Republican candidates in the South preach racial moderation in an effort to defeat segregationist Democrats. One said failure to do so will be costly to the party.

Republicans for Progress and the Ripon Society said in a joint statement that victories of segregationists in Democratic gubernatorial primaries in Georgia, Arkansas, Maryland and Alabama "have provided the Republican party with an unparalleled opportunity to rally the forces of the future in the South."

Republicans for Progress is a GOP citizens organization headed by Charles P. Taft of Cincinnati. It includes former members of the Eisenhower administration.

The Ripon Society, with headquarters in Cambridge, Mass., describes itself as "a group of young, progressive Republican intellectuals, professional men and activists."

In a separate news letter, the Ripon group criticized the Republican leaders of the House and Senate for not coming up with any alternatives to President Johnson's "great Society" programs.

Noting the vote of the House Republican Conference to hold Johnson "personally responsible" for the Viet Nam war, the newsletter said it "seemed an act of cowardice for Republicans in the House to disassociate themselves from action they once clamorously approved and now cannot improve upon."

The Ripon Society said it suspects that any Republican victories in next month's elections will be "individual triumphs" and not the result of a GOP sweep.

The Ripon group said Republicans will be digging their political graves in the South if they don't do something to attract the growing Negro vote there.

"If the Republican party bets on the forces on the way up — the Negro, the moderate white middle class, the teacher — it will continue to grow," the report said. "Yet, should the Republican party choose instead for short-term gains to court segregationist whites, or Birchite extremists, it will surely pay a heavy penalty for decades."

Picker Catches Exhausted Eagle

LEGHORN, Italy (AP) — An exhausted eagle from the Helsinki Zoo was captured here Saturday by a mushroom picker.

The eagle was found in a forest, catching its breath after the flight from Helsinki, more than 1,300 miles away. A band identifying the bird as coming from the zoo was on its leg.

Silla Morelli picked it up, brought it home, restored its spirits with some meat and water, then put it in a cage.

U.S. Air Force Opts For Fliers

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a move to keep more pilots and other officers available for duty in Viet Nam and elsewhere, the Air Force announced Saturday a sharp curtailment of advanced training for officers.

Officials said the move is in line with an Air Force program aimed at getting more fliers and other needed officers out of desk jobs and into combat.

The Air Force, although meeting its requirements in Viet Nam, is known to have serious shortages of pilots elsewhere. More than 2,000 officers have been ordered out of desk jobs and into cockpits in the past year.

The advanced-training schools, which are musts for career officers seeking advancement, still will graduate more than 1,000 men a year, officials said. But their enrollments will be chopped like this:

— The 3-month squadron officers' course for lieutenants and younger captains, from 750 to 225 in January.

— The 9-month air command and staff college for senior captains and majors, from 220 to 66 in July.

— The one-year air war college for lieutenant colonels, from 500 to 150 next July.

All the schools operate at Maxwell Air Force Base, Montgomery, Ala., and together make up what is called the Air University.

LOUISIANA — Clear to partly cloudy through Monday. A little cooler in the north portion today and tonight, otherwise no important temperature changes. High today 74 to 82. Low tonight 44 to 50 in the north and 50 to 56 in the south.

LOUISIANA DELTA — Drying conditions very good in the daytime and fair at night. Dewpoints in the 40's. More than 80 per cent sunshine today and Monday. No rain indicated through Monday. Winds mostly from the north at 8 to 18 mph.

ARKANSAS — Fair and cool today. Considerably cooler tonight. Highs today in the 60's. Low tonight 36 to 42.

MISSISSIPPI — Continued fair through Monday. Cooler today and tonight. Mild Monday. High today 64 to 72. Low tonight 32 to 40.

MIDSOUTH HIGHLIGHTS — A weak cold front moved into northwest Arkansas Saturday morning and during the day drifted southeast through Arkansas, the Missouri bootheel and west Tennessee. By nightfall it extended into the Louisiana Delta. Temperatures Saturday morning were mostly in the 40's though a few spots reported readings in the upper 30's while others read low 50's. During the day in abundance of sunshine brought the temperatures soaring into the 70's though in the Missouri bootheel only to the mid 60's. Northeasterly winds followed the front bringing in cooler and drier air but all in all the weather was ideal.

An ideal fall day is expected today.

Dog Sought After Girl Bitten Here

The parents of a four-year-old West Monroe girl, bitten by a dog two weeks ago, are desperately searching for the animal.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Frot asked for aid in locating the dog, described as reddish - brown, with a white blaze on his chest and face, and with white feet. The dog is about "medium build," the Frosts said.

Their dughter, Beth, was bitten on the forehead while playing in her yard in the Mt. Vernon Community two weeks ago by the cur dog, which belonged to neighbors.

Young Beth began taking a long and painful series of rabies shots Friday, and will have to take a total of 14-one a day-unless the animal is found and examined for signs of rabies.

The dog was pinned up for several days after biting the child, but escaped about 10 days ago, Mrs. Frost said. She indicated that she learned that the dog was missing Wednesday, and contacted the sheriff's department and parish health authorities.

Planning Survey

HOMER (Special) — Homer Jaycees, in conjunction with the Community Development program are planning to conduct a community attitude survey, with Frank Speers heading the survey.

The survey will consist of printed forms to be filled out and turned in to the Jaycees, who will compile the data. Indicated will be particular problems to be worked out by the Jaycees and turned over to the town officials for use, Speers explained.

New Radar Device

HOMER (Special) — The State Police patrol unit in the Claiborne Parish area is now equipped with a radar device to accurately determine the speed of motor vehicles on the highways, according to State Police Sgt. L. D. Grigsby Jr.

The trooper said that through the use of the meter, public roads will be made safer by slowing down traffic. It was pointed out that Claiborne Parish recorded nine traffic fatalities during 1965.

Slate Meetings

PINEVILLE (Special) — Two sectional meetings designed to provide the most study possible have been scheduled for the first time as a feature of the Conference of Louisiana colleges and Universities for the group's next annual meeting set March 3-4, according to Dr. Edward McMillan, president.

Dr. Wilford Smith, Northeast State College, and Dr. E. L. Cole, Grambling College, are among officers of the conference.

Revival Slated

JONESBORO (Special) — Revival services will begin at the Jonesboro Methodist Church today, continuing through Thursday, each night at 7 o'clock.

Bishop Aubrey Walton, Methodist Bishop of the Louisiana area will be the guest speaker today at the 7 p.m. service.

Dr. Henry Rickey, district superintendent of the Ruston District, will preach each evening beginning Monday.

The Rev. Otis Spinks, associate minister of the Trinty Methodist Church in Ruston, will lead the song service.

New Officers

WINNFIELD (Special) — New officers of the Winn Riding Club have been elected for the coming year. They are:

J. D. Barber, re-elected president; James Bruce, re-elected vice-president; Shirley Goins, secretary; Audie Brooks, treasurer; and Jimmy Brooks, Arena Director.

Thomas Wise and Ted Price were elected to two-year terms on the Board of Directors. Thomas Wise was also elected, to be in charge of the concession stand.

ASC Nominees

HOMER (Special) — A slate of nominees has been completed for each of the nine communities in Claiborne Parish for the coming ASC community Committee elections.

Ballots were mailed to all eligible farmers of record Friday. To be counted, the blllots must be marked and mailed or delivered to the parish ASCS office in Homer not later than Nov. 10.

Ballots wil be tabulated publicly at the ASC office in Homer Monday, Nov. 14, at 8:30 a.m.

Rat Campaign

WINNFIELD (Special) — The annual war on rats campaign, sponsored by the Winn Parish Health Unit and the City of Winnfield, will be conducted on Wednesday and Thursday, according to an announcement from A. L. Shirley, of the parish Health Department.

Pival rat poison, not poisonous to humans, will be distributed house to house on those days, Shirley reported.

The Health Unit announced days in November when the Unit will be closed, as follows: Tuesday, Nov. 1, All Saints Day; Tuesday, Nov. 8, General Election; Friday, November 11, Veteran's Day; Thursday, November 24, Thanksgiving Day; and Friday, Nov. 25.

Arraignment Set

HARRISONBURG (Special)— An arraignment date of Tuesday was set by the Seventh Judicial District Court in Harrisonburg for Liddie Ann Chest, charged with murder and Shirley Mae Richardson, charged with manslaughter.

In other action Gerald Noone's arraignment was put on notice due to injuries sustained in an accident. A medical statement from his doctor was presented to the court in his behalf.

LOUISIANA — Clear to partly cloudy through Monday. A little cooler in the north portion today and tonight, otherwise no important temperature changes. High today 74 to 82. Low tonight 44 to 50 in the north and 50 to 56 in the south.

LOUISIANA DELTA — Drying conditions very good in the daytime and fair at night. Dewpoints in the 40's. More than 80 per cent sunshine today and Monday. No rain indicated through Monday. Winds mostly from the north at 8 to 18 mph.

ARKANSAS — Fair and cool today. Considerably cooler tonight. Highs today in the 60's. Low tonight 36 to 42.

MISSISSIPPI — Continued fair through Monday. Cooler today and tonight. Mild Monday. High today 64 to 72. Low tonight 32 to 40.

MIDSOUTH HIGHLIGHTS — A weak cold front moved into northwest Arkansas Saturday morning and during the day drifted southeast through Arkansas, the Missouri bootheel and west Tennessee. By nightfall it extended into the Louisiana Delta. Temperatures Saturday morning were mostly in the 40's though a few spots reported readings in the upper 30's while others read low 50's. During the day in abundance of sunshine brought the temperatures soaring into the 70's though in the Missouri bootheel only to the mid 60's. Northeasterly winds followed the front bringing in cooler and drier air but all in all the weather was ideal.

An ideal fall day is expected today.

Dog Sought After Girl Bitten Here

The parents of a four-year-old West Monroe girl, bitten by a dog two weeks ago, are desperately searching for the animal.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Frot asked for aid in locating the dog, described as reddish - brown, with a white blaze on his chest and face, and with white feet. The dog is about "medium build," the Frosts said.

Their daughter, Beth, was bitten on the forehead while playing in her yard in the Mt. Vernon Community two weeks ago by the cur dog, which belonged to neighbors.

Young Beth began taking a long and painful series of rabies shots Friday, and will have to take a total of 14-one a day-unless the animal is found and examined for signs of rabies.

The dog was pinned up for several days after biting the child, but escaped about 10 days ago, Mrs. Frost said. She indicated that she learned that the dog was missing Wednesday, and contacted the sheriff's department and parish health authorities.

Planning Survey

HOMER (Special) — Homer Jaycees, in conjunction with the Community Development program are planning to conduct a community attitude survey, with Frank Speers heading the survey.

The survey will consist of printed forms to be filled out and turned in to the Jaycees, who will compile the data. Indicated will be particular problems to be worked out by the Jaycees and turned over to the town officials for use, Speers explained.

New Radar Device

HOMER (Special) — The State Police patrol unit in the Claiborne Parish area is now equipped with a radar device to accurately determine the speed of motor vehicles on the highways, according to State Police Sgt. L. D. Grigsby Jr.

The trooper said that through the use of the meter, public roads will be made safer by slowing down traffic. It was pointed out that Claiborne Parish recorded nine traffic fatalities during 1965.

Slate Meetings

PINEVILLE (Special) — Two sectional meetings designed to provide the most study possible have been scheduled for the first time as a feature of the Conference of Louisiana colleges and Universities for the group's next annual meeting set March 3-4, according to Dr. Edward McMillan, president.

Dr. Wilford Smith, Northeast State College, and Dr. E. L. Cole, Grambling College, are among officers of the conference.

Revival Slated

JONESBORO (Special) — Revival services will begin at the Jonesboro Methodist Church today, continuing through Thursday, each night at 7 o'clock.

Bishop Aubrey Walton, Methodist Bishop of the Louisiana area will be the guest speaker today at the 7 p.m. service.

Dr. Henry Rickey, district superintendent of the Ruston District, will preach each evening beginning Monday.

The Rev. Otis Spinks, associate minister of the Trinty Methodist Church in Ruston, will lead the song service.

New Officers

WINNFIELD (Special) — New officers of the Winn Riding Club have been elected for the coming year. They are:

J. D. Barber, re-elected president; James Bruce, re-elected vice-president; Shirley Goins, secretary; Audie Brooks, treasurer; and Jimmy Brooks, Arena Director.

Thomas Wise and Ted Price were elected to two-year terms on the Board of Directors. Thomas Wise was also elected to be in charge of the concession stand.

ASC Nominees

HOMER (Special) — A slate of nominees has been completed for each of the nine communities in Claiborne Parish for the coming ASC community Committee elections.

Ballots were mailed to all eligible farmers of record Friday. To be counted, the bllots must be marked and mailed or delivered to the parish ASCS office in Homer not later than Nov. 10.

Ballots wil be tabulated publicly at the ASC office in Homer Monday, Nov. 14, at 8:30 a.m.

Rat Campaign

WINNFIELD (Special) — The annual war on rats campaign, sponsored by the Winn Parish Health Unit and the City of Winnfield, will be conducted on Wednesday and Thursday, according to an announcement from A. L. Shirley, of the parish Health Department.

Pival rat poison, not poisonous to humans, will be distributed house to house on those days, Shirley reported.

The Health Unit announced days in November when the Unit will be closed, as follows: Tuesday, Nov. 1, All Saints Day; Tuesday, Nov. 8, General Election; Friday, November 11, Veteran's Day; Thursday, November 24, Thanksgiving Day; and Friday, Nov. 25.

Arraignment Set

HARRISONBURG (Special)— An arraignment date of Tuesday was set by the Seventh Judicial District Court in Harrisonburg for Liddie Ann Chest, charged with murder and Shirley Mae Richardson, charged with manslaughter.

In other action Gerald Noone's arraignment was put on notice due to injuries sustained in an accident. A medical statement from his doctor was presented to the court in his behalf.

HOWARD LEWIS
Joins Rivers Ford Sales

H. E. "Howard" Lewis, lifelong resident of Monroe, is a new salesman for Rivers Ford, it was announced by Sales Manager Joe Kvaternik. Howard wants all his friends to know he's making some great deals now on new cars and trucks, as well as used vehicles. He comes to Rivers after more than 25 years selling tires to automobile dealers, so he's well acquainted with the automotive industry. He and his wife, Flavelia, reside at 1507 Emerson. They have one son, who resides in Florida. Howard would like to invite his friends to call on him at Rivers Ford and let him explain the advantages of owning a '67 Ford.

HOWARD LEWIS
Joins Rivers Ford Sales

H. E. "Howard" Lewis, lifelong resident of Monroe, is a new salesman for Rivers Ford, it was announced by Sales Manager Joe Kvaternik. Howard wants all his friends to know he's making some great deals now on new cars and trucks, as well as used vehicles. He comes to Rivers after more than 25 years selling tires to automobile dealers, so he's well acquainted with the automotive industry. He and his wife, Flavelia, reside at 1507 Emerson. They have one son, who resides in Florida. Howard would like to invite his friends to call on him at Rivers Ford and let him explain the advantages of owning a '67 Ford.

HOWARD LEWIS
Joins Rivers Ford Sales

H. E. "Howard" Lewis, lifelong resident of Monroe, is a new salesman for Rivers Ford, it was announced by Sales Manager Joe Kvaternik. Howard wants all his friends to know he's making some great deals now on new cars and trucks, as well as used vehicles. He comes to Rivers after more than 25 years selling tires to automobile dealers, so he's well acquainted with the automotive industry. He and his wife, Flavelia, reside at 1507 Emerson. They have one son, who resides in Florida. Howard would like to invite his friends to call on him at Rivers Ford and let him explain the advantages of owning a '67 Ford.

HOWARD LEWIS
Joins Rivers Ford Sales

H. E. "Howard" Lewis, lifelong resident of Monroe, is a new salesman for Rivers Ford, it was announced by Sales Manager Joe Kvaternik. Howard wants all his friends to know he's making some great deals now on new cars and trucks, as well as used vehicles. He comes to Rivers after more than 25 years selling tires to automobile dealers, so he's well acquainted with the automotive industry. He and his wife, Flavelia, reside at 1507 Emerson. They have one son, who resides in Florida. Howard would like to invite his friends to call on him at Rivers Ford and let him explain the advantages of owning a '67 Ford.

The Plain Facts About Today's Market

IS IT SMART TO BUY A NEW HOME NOW?

IT CERTAINLY IS. Here's why: Land prices are rising steadily. Labor and materials costs are increasing. Today's $20,000 new home is going to cost at least $21,000 a year from now.

WHY WAIT? Buy now—and the increased valuation in both house and land will be your GAIN and not your loss.

Do you envy the man paying $56 a month on a mortgage obtained 20 years ago? His income is far greater, his home is almost paid for and its value has zoomed – yet his monthly payment remains the same. HE'S AHEAD OF THE GAME.

SO CAN YOU BE – today's mortgage payments will look just as good to you 10 to 20 years from now as his do today.

The Plain Facts About Today's Market

IS IT SMART TO BUY A NEW HOME NOW?

IT CERTAINLY IS. Here's why: Land prices are rising steadily. Labor and materials costs are increasing. Today's $20,000 new home is going to cost at least $21,000 a year from now.

WHY WAIT? Buy now–and the increased valuation in both house and land will be your GAIN and not your loss.

Do you envy the man paying $56 a month on a mortgage obtained 20 years ago? His income is far greater, his home is almost paid for and its value has zoomed – yet his monthly payment remains the same. HE'S AHEAD OF THE GAME.

SO CAN YOU BE – today's mortgage payments will look just as good to you 10 to 20 years from now as his do today.

A NEW HOME IS YOUR BEST INVESTMENT NOW!

NOW

Is The Time To Buy A Home!!

IRENE REID, Realtor

President, I&S Realty

The reason I offer this advice is that, at the present, interest rates for mortgages as well as construction and land costs in the Monroe, West Monroe area appear to be on a "plateau"; but every indicator we receive from housing economists and finance authorities is that costs will continue to advance steadily over the next few years.

Now is the time to buy!

RIGHT HERE, you may be thinking:

"This Realtor is just trying to sell people on buying new homes." And you would be perfectly right. I am telling you frankly that the best information we can get indicates that conditions for purchase of a home are better right now than they will be a year from now, or later.

And, no matter what you may have heard, a family with steady income and good credit can obtain a satisfactory mortgage loan in ratio to its purchasing ability. Here are some reasons for the above advice:

1. In periods of uncertainty and inflation, real property traditionally becomes one of the safest investments. A new home today is one of the least expendable investments you can make. Your dollars that go for food, clothing, and automobiles, are either totally expended or subject to a high rate of depreciation the minute you begin to make use of the articles. The home, and the land it occupies, usually retain or gain value in times of stress.

2. It now seems apparent that the forces of economic expansion we have experienced, particularly during the past 10 months, indicate more inflation in costs. And history tells us that as land becomes scarcer in the area, the cost of land for all uses will go higher.

3. The economics experts, and our bankers and mortgage finance officials, all predict that interest rates will not drop, and that terms for loans will not improve in the foreseeable future. Many believe that interest rates and terms could become even more severe.

WE ALL KNOW, without thinking about it as much as perhaps we might, that our family is the center of our life. And we take for granted that the home is the center around which our family life revolves.

All the struggle and effort we pour into "getting ahead" really stems from the desire to provide the best for the family—whether it is a large one already established, or a dream we plan to make reality in the future.

When you come right down to bedrock, our whole way of life rests on home ownership. While American homes already are by far the finest in the world, our advancing technology and rising standard of living make it possible and desirable to improve housing for our growing families.

Not only is a better home desirable as the family grows in numbers and increases its income, there is no better investment in our family, in our future or in our country than in a good home.

AT THIS TIME, we have a reasonable number of homes available almost anywhere in the Monroe - West Monroe area — and in almost all price ranges.

But this inventory of salable homes decreases each week, because the rate of construction starts has dropped steadily each month since spring of this year.

We have fine investments in homes still available. Qualified buyers still can get the 80 per cent loan, the 90 per cent loan, the 75 per cent loan — all of which carry a different rate of interest.

"It is true that some of the traditional sources for home mortgage money have virtually no money to loan. On the other hand, with certain savings and loan associations and insurance companies, the situation is actually better than it was a few months ago.

"A prospective buyer might get the wrong impression when he gets turned down by one source — thinking that is the situation everywhere.

"Actually, home builders and home buyers are lucky that rates haven't gone up even more, considering increases on everything else.

"The home buyer is paying only a little more than the government has to pay to borrow money.

"The inventory of existing new homes is now very low and looks as if it may get lower — not so much because of the shortage of mortgage money, but because of rapid growth of the area. Irene Reid still has a fine selection of the best homes in our area for sale in all price ranges.

"With costs going up and up and no weakness in the prices of lots (because development costs continue upward and land becomes scarcer), it makes economic sense to buy a home now — while there are still choices and before prices go up any more."

"Now is the time to beat the rising costs, not later.

MONROE AND WEST MONROE home buyers find themselves in a much more favorable position, value-wise and selection-wise, than most other parts of the nation. Experts from all over the country tell us this. We know it is true, because we have investigated it! There isn't a better place to invest in a home for your family than in the Monroe, West Monroe area. There is no better investment for a family than a home.

Now is the time to buy!

All the struggle and effort we pour into "getting ahead" really stems from the desire to provide the best for the family—whether it is a large one already established, or a dream we plan to make reality in the future.

When you come right down to bedrock, our whole way of life rests on home ownership. While American homes already are by far the finest in the world, our advancing technology and rising standard of living make it possible and desirable to improve housing for our growing families.

Not only is a better home desirable as the family grows in numbers and increases its income, there is no better investment in our family, in our future or in our country than in a good home.

AT THIS TIME, we have a reasonable number of homes available almost anywhere in the Monroe - West Monroe area — and in almost all price ranges.

But this inventory of salable homes decreases each week, because the rate of construction starts has dropped steadily each month since spring of this year.

We have fine investments in homes still available. Qualified buyers still can get the 80 per cent loan, the 90 per cent loan, the 75 per cent loan — all of which carry a different rate of interest.

"It is true that some of the traditional sources for home mortgage money have virtually no money to loan. On the other hand, with certain savings and loan associations and insurance companies, the situation is actually better than it was a few months ago.

"A prospective buyer might get the wrong impression when he gets turned down by one source — thinking that is the situation everywhere.

"Actually, home builders and home buyers are lucky that rates haven't gone up even more, considering increases on everything else.

"The home buyer is paying only a little more than the government has to pay to borrow money.

"The inventory of existing new homes is now very low and looks as if it may get lower — not so much because of the shortage of mortgage money, but because of rapid growth of the area. Irene Reid still has a fine selection of the best homes in our area for sale in all price ranges.

"With costs going up and up and no weakness in the prices of lots (because development costs continue upward and land becomes scarcer), it makes economic sense to buy a home now — while there are still choices and before prices go up any more."
"Now is the time to beat the rising costs, not later.

MONROE AND WEST MONROE home buyers find themselves in a much more favorable position, value-wise and selection-wise, than most other parts of the nation. Experts from all over the country tell us this. We know it is true, because we have investigated it! There isn't a better place to invest in a home for your family than in the Monroe, West Monroe area. There is no better investment for a family than a home.

Now is the time to buy!

The World For WOMEN

October 30, 1966

Above: Forthcoming marriage of Miss Margaret Elizabeth Amacker and Thomas Eugene Barham II is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nicholson Amacker, of Lake Providence. Parents of the future bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. William Thomas Barham of Bastrop. The wedding will take place on January 24 in the First Methodist Church of Lake Providence with the Rev. Ned Stout performing the ceremony.

Below: Solemnized Saturday, October 29 in a double ring ceremony at Faith Baptist Church in West Monroe, was the wedding of Miss Anita Sehon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Sehon, 2002 Georgia, West Monroe, and Lieutenant Jerry Richard Guin, U.S. Army, son of Mrs. Dollie Hall Guin, 311 Otis, West Monroe. A white and emerald green theme was carried out in the wedding and reception which followed.

Above: Engagement and forthcoming marriage of Miss Phyllis Brister, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin C. Brister of Pineville, to Joseph Woodrow Pankey, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Woodrow Pankey, of Winnsboro, is announced by her parents. The wedding will be an event of December 17, at 5 p.m. in the First Baptist Church of Pineville.

At left: Betrothal of Miss Pamela Annette Payne and Thomas Lewis Love, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. Eston Payne, 1104 D'Arbonne Street, Ruston. Mr. Love is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Love, Jr., 702 Jessamine Street, Ruston. Marriage vows will be exchanged before Rev. Douglas McGuire at 6:30 p.m. January 28, in Trinity Methodist Church of Ruston.

Below: Miss Betty Joyce Oglesbee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Oglesbee, 209 Oaklawn Drive, West Monroe, became the bride of John Kennon Rogers, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Rogers of Okaloosa, in a double ring ceremony Saturday, October 29. Vows were exchanged in the First United Pentecostal Church in West Monroe at 7:30 p.m. with Rev. E. W. Caughron officiating. Following a wedding trip to Colorado the couple will be at home in West Monroe.

Church Reception Follows Rogers-Oglesbee Wedding

Candelabra entwined with Southern smilax and fan shaped arrangements of white gladioli formed a setting Saturday, October 29, in First United Pentecostal Church West Monroe for the wedding of Miss Betty Joyce Oglesbee and John Kennon Rogers.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Oglesbee, 209 Oaklawn Drive, West Monroe, and parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Rogers of Okaloosa.

Rev. E. W. Caughron officiated at the double ring ceremony at 7:30 p.m. following a prenuptial concert by the organist, Mrs. Wayne Fordham, and soloist, Ronald Sanford.

Wearing a gown of white satin, the bride was escorted by her father who gave her in marriage. The molded bodice was veiled in Chantilly lace traced with pearls, and her illusion shoulder length veil extended from a crown of pearls and rose petals. Her bouquet was a white orchid placed on a white Bible surrounded by feathered white chrysanthemums and satin streamers.

Mrs. Clifton Gilliland Jr., served as matron of honor and wore a red brocade gown with matching red satin shoes and carried a single long - stemmed red rose. Her headdress was fashioned of red satin and net. Miss Gwin Roberts and Miss Julie Gilliland, bridesmaids, were attired identically to the matron of honor, as was junior bridesmaid, Miss Terri Brady.

Ring bearers were Chris and Rennie Gilliland, and the groom's father served his son as best man. Groomsmen were Clifton Gilliland Jr., David Wallace, and Lester Rogers, and ushers were Bert Brady and Wendell Oglesbee.

Candles were lighted by Steve Brady and Janet Oglesbee, and Kelly Brady, niece of the bride, served as flower girl.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained with a reception in the church social hall. Covered with a satin and lace cloth, the refreshment table was centered with white pompon chrysanthemums and red roses. Mrs. Andrea Heckford served cake at one end of the table and Mrs. Wendell Oglesbee presided over the crystal punch bowl at the opposite end. Rice bags were distributed to the guests by Carol Oglesee and Karla Brady. Mrs. Bent Brady assisted at the guest book.

After a short wedding trip to Colorado the couple will be at home in West Monroe. For travel the bride donned a beige wool sheath with matching coat in suede, and brown accessories.

Both are graduates of West Monroe High School, where the bride was a member of Beta Sigma Phi social sorority.

MISS SHIRLEY MAE NELSON

Miss Shirley Nelson Engaged To Wed Jeff Sawyer Foote

Mr. and Mrs. Noble William Nelson, 1112 Cherry Ridge Road, Bastrop, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Shirley Mae Nelson, and Jeff Sawyer Foote. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Foote of Hamburg, Arkansas.

The wedding is planned for Saturday, November 26 at 3 p.m. in Bartholomew Methodist Church of Bastrop with Rev. Peyton officiating.

The bride-elect has chosen Miss Ann McElroy to serve as maid of honor, and Mrs. Joe Huffman as matron of honor. Bridesmaids will be Mrs. Gary Vieaux and Miss Joyce Estes.

William E. Foote has been named by Mr. Foote to serve as best man. Chosen to serve as groomsmen and ushers are Joe Foote, William Botts, Bill Foote, and William Neal Nelson.

Miss Nelson is the granddaughter of Mrs. Neal Jenkins of Bastrop, and the late Mr. Jenkins, and Mrs. Jess Nelson, also of Bastrop, and the late Mr. Nelson. A graduate of Bastrop High School and Northeast Louisiana State College, she is at present a second grade teacher at North Highlands Elementary School in Shreveport.

The prospective bridegroom is decended from Mrs. Jeff Sawyer of Hamburg, and the late Mr. Sawyer, and Mrs. William E. Foote of Hamburg, and the late Mr. Foote. He attended the University of Arkansas, received his degree in Chemistry at Henderson State Teacher's College in Arkadelphia, Arkansas, and a degree in Pharmay at Northeast. He was a member of Pi Kappa Alpha social fraternity and Kappa Psi pharmaceutical fraternity.

Following their marriage the couple will be at home in Shreveport.

Phyllis Brister Is Engaged To Joseph Woodrow Pankey Jr.

Announcement is made today by Mr. and Mrs. Marvin C. Brister, Pineville, of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Phyllis Brister to Joseph Woodrow Pankey Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Pankey Jr., of Winnsboro.

The wedding will be an event of December 17 at 5 p.m. in the First Baptist Church of Pineville. Dr. R. Houston Smith will perform the ceremony.

Miss Brister attended Northeast Louisiana State College and will graduate in January from Louisiana Tech with a B. A. degree in Education. Mr. Pankey is a graduate of Louisiana Tech and is now enrolled in the graduate school of Micro-biology.

The bride-elect is the granddaughter of Mrs. T. E. Aguillard of Eunice and the late Mr. Aguillard and Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Brister of Pineville. Double Ring Ceremony Unites Anita Sehon, Lieutenant Guin Faith Baptist Church in West Monroe was scene of the double ring ceremony on Saturday, October 29, which united in marriage Miss Anita Sehon and Lieutenant Jerry Richard Guin. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Sehon, 2002 Georgia, and Mrs. Dollie Hall Guin, 311 Otis, all of West Monroe.

The couple exchanged vows before an arch formed of smilax and stephanotis interspersed with white wedding bells. A massive fan - shaped arrangement of white gladioli flanked each side of the arch. Rev. Roy Myers performed the ceremony at 4 p.m. Mrs. Eddie McKnight, organist, played appropriate nuptial music and accompanied the soloist, Floyd Fisher.

Escorted by her father who gave her in marriage the bride wore a floor length gown of white crepe. The bodice featured a lace panel to the waist, and long sleeves. Lace banded the hem,and her veil of illusion was attached to a crown of seed pearls. She carried a crescent shaped bouquet of white butterfly roses accented by white satin streamers.

Miss Judy Guin attended the bride as maid of honor and Mrs. Jo Ann Verrett was matron of honor. They wore identical gowns of mint green crepe with long sleeves tapered to lily points over the hands. Their headdresses were flat velvet bows in the same shade, and they each carried a long-stemed white rose tied with white satin bows and streamers.

Serving as best man was Robert E. Sehon. Groomsman was Wayne Wassan, and ushers were Pat Harris and Jack Robertson.

Mrs. Sehon chose for the occasion a sky blue crepe dress with three - quarter length sleeves, accented by a corsage of white carnations. The groom's mother was wearing a mauve crepe dress with lace jacket and three-quarter length sleeves, and a corsage of white carnations.

The social hall of the church was scene of the reception which followed the ceremony. The bride's table was draped with a white lace cloth over green, and centered with roses. A green and white theme prevailed throughout the receiving area.

For travel, the bride changed into an antique gold knitted dress with matching accessories. The bride was graduated from Ouachita Parish High School and attended Northeast Louisiana State College. The groom was graduated from West Monroe High School and Northeast Louisiana State College, where he was a member of Scabbard and Blade military fraternity.

Lieutenant and Mrs. Guin will be at home at 2344 Bell Avenue, Lawton, Oklahoma.

Advice Offered Prospective Fur Coat Shopper

NEW YORK — It's important to choose a reliable furrier. How? Steer clear of stores which consistently use bait advertising. A dealer who also has storage and remodeling services is a good bet, because he's not afraid to have customers come back!

Examine the furs to see that the pelts match in color, texture and depth. In natural, undyed furs, the darker pelts are sometimes placed center front and center back, shading to lighter colors on the sides. Be sure this gives a pleasing effect on you.

Straight-haired furs like beaver and mink should be dense and "silky" to touch. The tightness of the curl determines the quality of Persian lamb. Long-haired fox, raccoon and sable should be thick, yet soft. It's also important that the hard-wear areas like sleeves, cuffs, collars, pockets and hems are of thick, full fur. In fact, thin spots anywhere are an indication of poor quality and not worth your investment.

Be sure to look on other side of fur garments, too. Clues to the quality of the coat can be spotted quickly on the leather side. The seams should form a regular pattern indicating the process called "letting out" or "letting in". This is the quality way to make furs longer and narrower or shorter and wider than the original pelt. It takes nine to ten days to do this one alone. The pelts are cut into thin strips (sometimes 1-16" apart) and sewn together.

Linings are also a clue to good furs. Moderate - priced furs are lined with rayon or acetate. Better garments have silk, satin or brocade linings. And the lining is hand-sewn.

Read the hangtags. They are there to protect the consumer. By federal law, the label must tell the true English name of the animal that produced the fur and the country of origin. It will indicate second-hand fur used in the garment. You can also tell whether the fur has been bleached or dyed.

Church Reception Follows Rogers-Oglesbee Wedding

Candelabra entwined with Southern smilax and fan shaped arrangements of white gladioli formed a setting Saturday, October 29, in First United Pentecostal Church West Monroe for the wedding of Miss Betty Joyce Oglesbee and John Kennon Rogers.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Oglesbee, 209 Oaklawn Drive, West Monroe, and parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Rogers of Okaloosa.

Rev. E. W. Caughron officiated at the double ring ceremony at 7:30 p.m. following a prenuptial concert by the organist, Mrs. Wayne Fordham, and soloist, Ronald Sanford.

Wearing a gown of white satin, the bride was escorted by her father who gave her in marriage. The molded bodice was veiled in Chantilly lace traced with pearls, and her illusion shoulder length veil extended from a crown of pearls and rose petals. Her bouquet was a white orchid placed on a white Bible surrounded by feathered white chrysanthemums and satin streamers.

Mrs. Clifton Gilliland Jr., served as matron of honor and wore a red brocade gown with matching red satin shoes and carried a single long - stemmed red rose. Her headdress was fashioned of red satin and net. Miss Gwin Roberts and Miss Julie Gilliland, bridesmaids, were attired identically to the matron of honor, as was junior bridesmaid, Miss Terri Brady.

Ring bearers were Chris and Rennie Gilliland, and the groom's father served his son as best man. Groomsmen were Clifton Gilliland Jr., David Wallace, and Lester Rogers, and ushers were Bert Brady and Wendell Oglesbee.

Candles were lighted by Steve Brady and Janet Oglesbee, and Kelly Brady, niece of the bride, served as flower girl.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained with a reception in the church social hall. Covered with a satin and lace cloth, the refreshment table was centered with white pompon chrysanthemums and red roses. Mrs. Andrea Heckford served cake at one end of the table and Mrs. Wendell Oglesbee presided over the crystal punch bowl at the opposite end. Rice bags were distributed to the guests by Carol Oglesee and Karla Brady. Mrs. Bent Brady assisted at the guest book.

After a short wedding trip to Colorado the couple will be at home in West Monroe. For travel the bride donned a beige wool sheath with matching coat in suede, and brown accessories.

Both are graduates of West Monroe High School, where the bride was a member of Beta Sigma Phi social sorority.

Versatile Knits Fill Bill For Early Fall Party Needs

By FLORENCE de SANTIS

In the rise of knits to a top spot in the fashion firmament, one wardrobe need after another has been filled by these versatile styles. Now it's the turn of dressy fashions to be taken over by knits.

The knit dress-up style fills the bill for early fall party clothes, when brocades and peau de soies still look too wintery and formal. A suit, when it's a supple knit can be a cocktail costume, a simple shift turns into an elegant short evening dress when it's knit and beaded. Color, like pink combined with coffee, then glittered with Lurex threads, makes a two-piece into a dinner look.

Many current social events are the kind which puzzle women in the clothes department. Just how formal, just how informal? Knits can combine both elements with a dash all their own.

MUST HAVE "POW"

However, don't suppose this means any old knit. That powder blue travel suit which your Aunt Martha always wears is definitely not it. Nor is that baggy beige knit dress you always walk the dog in. Dress-up knits can be simple, but they must have some "Pow!" in color or styling to qualify as party-going knits.

Gino Paoli, for example, working within the aura of Italian knit inspiration, tailors gray wool knit into an elegantly shaped walking-jacket suit with double-breasted front. Then deep cuffs and a boa of clipped wool fringe are added, in gray and contrasting cranberry, which is the color of the overblouse beneath.

Many women prefer a dress to a suit for late-day social events. Here the variety is very wide, depending to a great extent on such factors as age and figure.

For the young, Stanley Herman likes the skimp look, such as an extended bicycle shirt in horizontal red, white and black stripes, or a little Empire slip of a dress in knit white Dacron ottoman. But he also gets quite away from the idea that a knit must fit in his pastel double-knit tent dress with the bishop sleeves.

3-PIECE STARS

For the woman who wants dress clothes that are practical as well, the three-piece costume knit is irreplaceable. From Cisa, another of those knowing Italian knitters, it comes in two colors, like toast and pale blue, pink and coffee. The texture is crocheted, the waistline marked by an inset band of the contrast color, which is also the color of the turtleneck shell blouse.

Mark down the turtleneck look as one of fall's big ones for both day and dress-up. Don't suppose that a knit with this neckline must be sporty or for daytime only. You'll find it on the barest little knit cocktail dresses and on floor-length knit evening gowns.

But if knits usually combine such casual details with dashing color or elegant glitter, they can also go away out to the extremes of luxury. This is like knits and crochets of Castilho de Portugal, now being imported.

Their French yarn, hand-crocheted shift with funnel sleeves, entirely hand-beaded in crystals, costs near $500, is just about the ultimate in simplicity combined with the kind of luxe appreciated only by connoisseurs.

HALLOWEEN TIPS TO AVOID TRICKS

Halloween is a conglomeration of Christian festival and pagan custom. October 31 is the eve of All Staint's Day, known in merry England as Hallowmas. In ancient days it was believed that ghosts and witches rampaged across the world on this night, and huge bon-fires were built to shoo them away. Trick and treating can be traced back to a Roman festive day when fruit was given to honor Pomona in the fall of the year.

Don't let the goblins get you—empty handed! Halloween's Monday, the thirty-first, so eerie spirits and cunning creatures will be abroad as soon as school lets them out.

Of course, a home-made handout softens the fiercest monster heart. To add this special touch, call in a child and spend an hour of friendly pre-Halloween foolery in the kitchen. Two recipes, fun for youngsters to help concoct and to consume, are Wisconsin Fair Prize Jelly Apples. And another, so-simple-a-child can make confection of weird shape and spooky texture deserving the name, Goblumps.

WISCONSIN FAIR JELLY APPLES

12 lg. apples or 16 med. apples
1 cup light corn syrup
red food coloring.
2 cups sugar
1½ cups water
12 (or 16) wooden skewers

Wash and dry apples. Insert sticks. Combine sugar, corn syrup, water in saucepan. Cook over direct heat stirring until sugar dissolves and mixture boils. Continue cooking without stirring to hard crack stage (300 degrees F.), wiping sugar crysatls from sides of pan with damp cloth.

When syrup has cooked, add lots of red coloring. Remove from heat at once. Hold applies by stick and plunge into syrup, draw out and twirl until syrup coats the apple. If further fanciness of shredded coconut or chopped nuts is desired, dip syruped apples into these garnishes immediately. Stand upright in wire cake cooler to harden, or topside down on lightly greased cookie sheet.

When hard and dry, bag apples individually and store in cool area. Do not refrigerate.

GOBLUMPS

12 oz. semi-sweet chocolate pieces
6 oz. butterstoch pieces
1 — 5½ oz can chow mein noodles

Melt chocolate and butterscotch in top of double boiler over boiling water. Stir until thoroughly blended.

NOVEMBER 26 is the date chosen for their wedding by Miss Helene Rogers of Monroe and Airman Third Class Ted Christy Lewis, U.S.A.F., whose engagement is announced today. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Rogers, Winnsboro Road in Monroe and the prospective groom the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl R. Lewis, Harvey Street in Sterlington. The ceremony will be performed in Calvary Baptist Church of Monroe by Rev. L. L. Morris.

By FLORENCE de SANTIS

In the rise of knits to a top spot in the fashion firmament, one wardrobe need after another has been filled by these versatile styles. Now it's the turn of dressy fashions to be taken over by knits.

The knit dress-up style fills the bill for early fall party clothes, when brocades and peau de soies still look too wintery and formal. A suit, when it's a supple knit can be a cocktail costume, a simple shift turns into an elegant short evening dress when it's knit and beaded. Color, like pink combined with coffee, then glittered with Lurex threads, makes a two-piece into a dinner look.

Many current social events are the kind which puzzle women in the clothes department. Just how formal, just how informal? Knits can combine both elements with a dash all their own.

MUST HAVE "POW"

However, don't suppose this means any old knit. That powder blue travel suit which your Aunt Martha always wears is definitely not it. Nor is that baggy beige knit dress you always walk the dog in. Dress-up knits can be simple, but they must have some "Pow!" in color or styling to qualify as party-going knits.

Gino Paoli, for example, working within the aura of Italian knit inspiration, tailors gray wool knit into an elegantly shaped walking-jacket suit with double-breasted front. Then deep cuffs and a boa of clipped wool fringe are added, in gray and contrasting cranberry, which is the color of the overblouse beneath.

Many women prefer a dress to a suit for late-day social events. Here the variety is very wide, depending to a great extent on such factors as age and figure.

For the young, Stanley Herman likes the skimp look, such as an extended bicycle shirt in horizontal red, white and black stripes, or a little Empire slip of a dress in knit white Dacron ottoman. But he also gets quite away from the idea that a knit must fit in his pastel double-knit tent dress with the bishop sleeves.

3-PIECE STARS

For the woman who wants dress clothes that are practical as well, the three-piece costume knit is irreplaceable. From Cisa, another of those knowing Italian knitters, it comes in two colors, like toast and pale blue, pink and coffee. The texture is crocheted, the waistline marked by an inset band of the contrast color, which is also the color of the turtleneck shell blouse.

Mark down the turtleneck look as one of fall's big ones for both day and dress-up. Don't suppose that a knit with this neckline must be sporty or for daytime only. You'll find it on the barest little knit cocktail dresses and on floor-length knit evening gowns.

But if knits usually combine such casual details with dashing color or elegant glitter, they can also go away out to the extremes of luxury. This is like knits and crochets of Castilho de Portugal, now being imported.

Their French yarn, hand-crocheted shift with funnel sleeves, entirely hand-beaded in crystals, costs near $500, is just about the ultimate in simplicity combined with the kind of luxe appreciated only by connoisseurs.

HALLOWEEN TIPS TO AVOID TRICKS

Halloween is a conglomeration of Christian festival and pagan custom. October 31 is the eve of All Staint's Day, known in merry England as Hallowmas. In ancient days it was believed that ghosts and witches rampaged across the world on this night, and huge bon-fires were built to shoo them away. Trick and treating can be traced back to a Roman festive day when fruit was given to honor Pomona in the fall of the year.

Don't let the goblins get you—empty handed! Halloween's Monday, the thirty-first, so eerie spirits and cunning creatures will be abroad as soon as school lets them out.

Of course, a home-made handout softens the fiercest monster heart. To add this special touch, call in a child and spend an hour of friendly pre-Halloween foolery in the kitchen. Two recipes, fun for youngsters to help concoct and to consume, are Wisconsin Fair Prize Jelly Apples. And another, so-simple-a-child can make confection of weird shape and spooky texture deserving the name, Goblumps.

WISCONSIN FAIR JELLY APPLES

12 lg. apples or 16 med. apples
1 cup light corn syrup
red food coloring.
2 cups supgar
1½ cups water
12 (or 16) wooden skewers

Wash and dry apples. Insert sticks. Combine sugar, corn syrup, water in saucepan. Cook over direct heat stirring until sugar dissolves and mixture boils. Continue cooking without stirring to hard crack stage (300 degrees F.), wiping sugar crysatls from sides of pan with damp cloth.

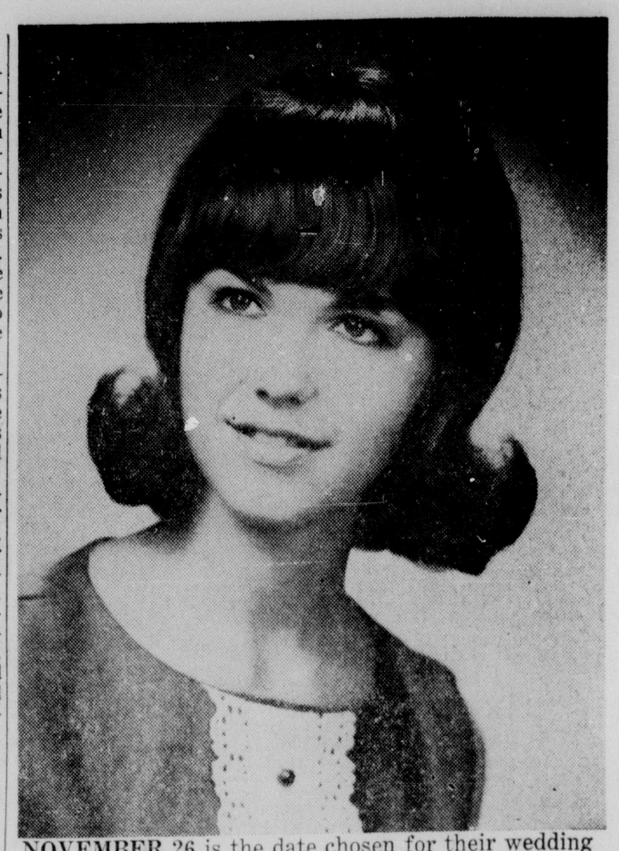
When syrup has cooked, add lots of red coloring. Remove from heat at once. Hold applies by stick and plunge into syrup, draw out and twirl until syrup coats the apple. If further fanciness of shredded coconut or chopped nuts is desired, dip syruped apples into these garnishes immediately. Stand upright in wire cake cooler to harden, or topside down on lightly greased cookie sheet.

When hard and dry, bag apples individually and store in cool area. Do not refrigerate.

GOBLUMPS

12 oz. semi-sweet chocolate pieces
6 oz. butterstotch pieces
1 — 5½ oz can chow mein noodles

Melt chocolate and butterscotch in top of double boiler over boiling water. Stir until thoroughly blended.



NOVEMBER 26 is the date chosen for their wedding by Miss Helene Rogers of Monroe and Airman Third Class Ted Christy Lewis, U.S.A.F., whose engagement is announced today. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Rogers, Winnsboro Road in Monroe and the prospective groom the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl R. Lewis, Harvey Street in Sterlington. The ceremony will be performed in Calvary Baptist Church of Monroe by Rev. L. L. Morris.

West Monroe School Faculty Honors Mrs. Eleanor King

The faculty of West Monroe High School honored Mrs. Eleanor King with a coffee hour in the faculty lounge on Wednesday morning, October 26. Sharing the occasion with Mrs. King were her husband, Solon King, and her mother, Mrs. Maxwell. Mrs. King was attired in an early fall model and was wearing a corsage presented to her by the faculty.

Greeting guests with the honoree were S. R. Braley, principal, and Wood Sers, assistant principal, of West Monroe High School. Mrs. Margaret McKee presided at the guest book.

A harvest theme of yellow and bronze was carried out in the decorations. Coffee was served from a table covered with a white linen cutwork cloth. A low silver bowl holding an arrangement of chrysanthemums centered the table. Mrs. Daisy Bergeron presided at the silver service. Iced drinks were served from a silver tray on another table.

Assisting with the courtesies were Mrs. Frances Hurst, Mrs. Helen LeFevre, Mrs. Jane Steed Hobgood, Mrs. Neva McKay, Mrs. Margaret Hayes, Mrs. Mary Jane Steed, Truett Thorn, and L. M. Frey Jr. Students serving as tea girls were Blanche Hall and Penney Moore.

Mrs. King was graduated from Glenmora High School, studied at Louisiana Tech, Louisiana College, and earned her B. A. degree at Northwestern State College in Natchitoches, and a Master of Education degree at L.S.U. In addition, she earned more than thirty graduate hours in home economics at Columbia University and Texas Woman's University. Her tenure of service has included teaching in a United States Indian School on the Navajo Indian Reservation in New Mexico, and being a member of the faculties of Oak Grove and West Monroe High School. Her teaching in the Louisiana schools has extended over thirty-eight and a half school sessions.

Mrs. King was presented with a lovely gift as a token of esteem from the faculty.

Bold Dash Marks Campus Accessories

By FFLORENCE DE SANTIS

Bold dash marks the look of this fall's campus accessories. Whether it be spats for pants suits or shoulder-strap bags that look like military pouches, college accessories must have real punch.

Umbrellas come in flowered, water-proofed corduroy, or in flowered silk with tortoise vinyl handles and cases. Vinyl umbrellas have a different color for each segment, with a see-through panel for the front.

Hats are a big campus fashion, in military-look berets, rope-knit toques and shiny vinyl helmets with chin straps.

Teens Returning To Natural Makeup

A new magazine for teenagers, reports that London's "go-go" set is wearing the totally natural look in make-up.

The empahsis is on the eyes . . .big, young eyes stand out on a nude, un-made-up-looking face and the lips are subtle with underplayed color. Lipstick is used to create a definite color clash as hot pink and hot orange.

For the eyes, two colors again: always white with grape, brown or blue-gray.

For the nails, again two colors. One over the other to create a third, such as white with gray, to create chrome.

MRS. CHARLES BRUCE FAUGHT

Faught-Anderson Nuptials Read In Fort Bragg Chapel

The wedding of Miss Sandra Dean Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Lambert Anderson of Tallulah and Private First Class Charles Bruce Faught, son of Mrs. Walter Sealy of Oak Grove and the late Mr. Sealy, took place on October 15 at 10 a.m.

The John F. Kennedy chapel at Fort Bragg, Fayetteville, North Carolina, was scene of the double ring ceremony performed by Major Logan. Wedding music was provided by the organist, Lieut. Roberson.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a costume suit in ivory Chatelaine wool. Her triple tiered circular veil of English illusion was held in place by a Chantilly lace medallion. She carried a white orchid in a shower of tuberoses atop a white Bible.

Only attendant for the bride was her aunt, Mrs. Georgia Morelock, who wore a wool knit suit in cappicine with peacock blouse and headpiece. Her bouquet was of white roses and chrysanthemums.

Captain Robert J. Faught served his brother as best man.

Mrs. Anderson chose for her daughter's wedding a bone silk suit with matching accessories, a green hat and a white orchid corsage.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents were hosts at a brunch at the Holiday Inn in Fayetteville. The bride's table was centered with a tiered wedding cake flanked by twin arrangements of white stock, chrysanthemums, pink carnations and smilax.

After a short wedding trip the couple will be at home at 2101 Ramsey, Fayetteville, N.C. The bride attended the University of Southwestern Louisiana, in Lafayette and Northeast Louisiana State College, Monroe. Mr. Faught attended Mississippi College and is presently training in a Special Forces Training Group at Fort Bragg.

CAKE CRACKS

...On Dit...

by Marillyn Taylor

Fall is a marvelous time to travel — one finds the most invigorating weather; the enthusiasm of "return to normal" routines after summer recess. This seems to be true of other countries as well as the USA.

This week we visited Quebec City, Canada — and here the weather was almost too invigorating — down in the thirties for several days. Natives tell us that their winter temperatures often read 30-40 below zero; the average "only around 12-15." From our point of view, anything "below" is more than we want. We don't recommend travel to Quebec for Southerners any later in the year than October — not even for "Carnaval" in February.

Quebec is a city with an Old World flavor. Its history dates from the day in 1608 when Champlain sailed up the St. Lawrence and exclaimed, according to tradition, "Que bec!" when he saw the steep bluff overhanging the water. The military citadel is built on the bluff commanding the river. And a wall like those of medieval Europe encloses the entire Old City. Originally a French colony, Quebec passed to English control when Wolfe defeated Montcalm on the Plains of Abraham outside the city walls.

The Citadel is garrisoned today by a detachment of Canadian soldiers, part of a group stationed some miles out of town. They wear the traditional British redcoats, and observe the changing of the guard daily. A museum is maintained on the Citadel grounds, containing military exhibits and relics of the pre-nuclear days when this was considered one of the world's most impregnable fortresses. Walls enclosing the old city are a continuation of and an addition to the Citadel. Estimates for building wall and fort today run as high as 200 million dollars. Landowners inside the walls are forbidden by law to change or to tear down the old buildings. Anyone wishing to add on or to remodel must submit his plans to a planning commission for approval.

We stayed at the Chateau Frontenac — a hotel in the grand tradition. It is built on the foundations of the old viceregal palace which stood on the site for nearly 200 years. The present hotel opened in 1895; was later enlarged. It dominates the skyline of Quebec.

Curving around the base of the hotel and extending up to the Citadel a short distance away is the Promenade des Gouverneurs — a boardwalk built atop the old city wall overlooking the river. At one end of the boardwalk is an elevator to the lower town. Farther up is a toboggan for winter snows. Wrought iron benches line the walk for those who wish to sit and contemplate the river.

Inside the Chateau, public rooms are carved panelling, Nouveau art stained glass, tremendous open fireplaces, crystal chandeliers. Loomed - to - order carpets feature the Frontenac crest in running borders. Guest rooms are lacking in personality, except for magnificent views of city and river. Little old ladies dressed in costumes like upstairs maids of Victorian novels are seen scurrying through the halls. They know by instinct when guests are out. One returns from shopping at any hour to find a fresh supply of clean towels, a newly dusted room. While guests are out for the evening, beds are turned down, ashtrays emptied, and more towels laid out.

For learning about a new town, our favorite approach is through a knowledgeable cab driver; one who knows his city and is proud to talk about it. In Quebec we found an outstanding example of the type. He drove us to all the places we should visit, gave us advice on where to eat, filled us in on various historical and sociological facts about Quebec.

In other parts of Canada, we had found the French - speaking aspect rather forced — a quaint custom tolerated somewhat self-consciously by the government. Not so in Quebec — here is a genuine French - speaking populace. Figures given us by our cab driver set the French at 90 per cent of the population, with British numbering 5 per cent and other groups (Mediterranean, Levantine, Oriental) the remainder.

Our driver told us that in school he had received only one hour of instruction each week in English — and that from a Frenchman. So that his first real knowledge of English came while serving in the Army. Now in French schools, English-speaking teachers instruct for an hour each day. In the English schools, an hour is devoted to French, with the idea of having a truly bi-lingual populace.

Quebec is a town of statues—over forty in the area. Those honored range from discoverer Champlain to "Bonhomme Carnaval", snowman figure which symbolizes the winter carnival. There are statues and memorials to Wolfe and Montcalm, to the Indians and to the missionary fathers, to soldiers and politicians of recent years. Each statue is placed in a park or boulevard or circle, giving a charming appearance to the city.

A custom of the area which struck us as peculiarly European was in connection with stores where alcoholic drinks are sold. Those known as "tavernes" are forbidden to women. Those designated "Bar-Salons" may serve women. Our driver tells us that this is because "tavernes" open early, "Bar - Salons" not until 11 a.m. And your Quebecois doesn't want his wife to drink so early in the morning. We suspect it rather can be traced to the male - dominated French heritage.

Reminiscent of a French town are the large number of churches in Quebec. Our taxi driver gave these figures: 47 Catholic churches, 6 or 7 Protestant, 2 synagogues. Some of these, as that of Notre Dame des Victoires, date back nearly 300 years. This old church contains many works of art, including a painting by Rubens. Hanging from the ceiling is a model of Champlain's ship, sent to the new church by the King of France.

A short drive from Quebec is the basilica of Ste. Anne de Beaupre, renowned for generations as a miraculous shrine. The little old original building is still standing; and across the street, the magnificent cathedral completed within the past generation. The style of the building is Gothic, but mosaics and statutes are obviously of the present day, creating an unusual but striking effect. Large numbers of abandoned crutches and braces testify to cures credited to Ste. Anne.

One of the delights of a visit to Quebec City is the opportunity afforded to dine at excellent restaurants. The choice here seems to be almost unlimited. Our driver recommended several restaurants within walking distance of the Chateau; we had advice from friends, various clubs and agencies had their own suggestions. Two dedicated eaters consuming two large meals a day for four days can visit a goodly number of establishments. Here were our favorites:

"Chez Guido" is across from the city hall, in an old residence built directly on the sidewalk. One can almost miss the restrained brass plate which is the only sign. One enters plain doors, 2 steps up, and then mounts a half - flight of stairs to double Victorian frosted-glass doors. The double parlors of the old house now comprise the main dining room.

By contrast, "Cafe Continental" is flamboyantly fronted with glass windows bearing large - lettered signs. Indeed, it was the kind of place we would have passed by had it not been for the recommendation. Inside we found the traditional French cleanliness, spotless linens, excellent food.

The studied shabbiness of a Parisian "little restaurant" is found at "Le Vendome." Here are striped awnings, mismatched chairs, checked cloths. Walls are covered with French travel posters and paintings after Toulouse Lautrec. This charming place is located about halfway down and around the hill from the Chateau. "It isn't up, it isn't down, it isn't anywhere," as A. A. Milne would say.

French cuisine, of course, is featured at all these places. This influence is noted in types of preparation rather than in selection of food. From the New World are the Western beef, Maine lobster, Nova Scotia fish. We found the Canadian smoked salmon to be a superb treat. Onion soups were generally excellent; but no more so than "Habitant pea soup", invented by the voyageurs.

So for a trip to Quebec City, the best we can wish you is "Bon Appetit!"

Youthful, Elegant Designs Found In Fall Collections

NEW YORK — If you've been reluctant to put the words elegante and youth together — forget it and start over. Two designers Glenn Connolly and Tom Nassare, prove the two words are meant for each other.

The "big coat" with supple bulk has nudged over the skinny coat. A bitter brown melton short (above-the-knee) tie coat is worn over a matching skirt and white Dr. Zhivago knit blouse. Two vivid evening coats, one in kelly green melton with rhinestone buttons and the other in a turquoise diagonal twill with low back belting brighten up evening gad-abouts.

For town shopping sprees or country stolls, there are myriad inspirations such as a goldenrod walking dress with large buttons in back and a long matching stole wrap; a wool plaid three-piece with belted waistline and little brass buttons encrested with the "J.S." insignia. A French blue reefer coat with two-tone dress in red and navy will swivel heads at Il Mio or Arthur. The lipstick red suit, doublebreated with black licorice buttons, is a real day-and-on stunner.

Flannel and leather combine for an air of sophistication. A two-piece gray flannel dirndl skirt is topped by a red-orange all leather shirt jacket. Another gray flannel dress has red-orange leather belt and buttons at hi-rise. Silk also combines handsomely with leather as in a black silk dress with white leather collar and buttons.

Strictly "go" is the traffic-signal green vinyl that appears in a racing car trench coat with bright brass buttons, worn over a matching "go" green vinyl skirt and jersey top. Just as racy is a shiny purple vinyl cardigan jacket that tops a matching jersey skirt and top.

The wearers of the "Dough Boy" pants suit, probably never heard of the original born in World War I. These are strictly contemporary, though still slightly military in red shetland wool with bell bottom trousers and a long jacket with epaulette shoulders.

End Dry Skin

Wrinkles form in colder weather because skin contracts, making it difficult for the tiny oil ducts to feed the surface skin. Avoid winter-dry skin by smoothing oil of Olay over the face and neck daily before making-up. This oil, available from your druggist, gives the complexion a lovely peaches-and-cream bloom and is the finest protection against wrinkle dryness.

MRS. CHARLES BRUCE FAUGHT

Faught-Anderson Nuptials Read In Fort Bragg Chapel

The wedding of Miss Sandra Dean Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Lambert Anderson of Tallulah and Private First Class Charles Bruce Faught, son of Mrs. Walter Sealy of Oak Grove and the late Mr. Sealy, took place on October 15 at 10 a.m.

The John F. Kennedy chapel at Fort Bragg, Fayetteville, North Carolina, was scene of the double ring ceremony performed by Major Logan. Wedding music was provided by the organist, Lieut. Roberson.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a costume suit in ivory Chatelaine wool. Her triple tiered circular veil of English illusion was held in place by a Chantilly lace medallion. She carried a white orchid in a shower of tuberoses atop a white Bible.

Only attendant for the bride was her aunt, Mrs. Georgia Morelock, who wore a wool knit suit in cappicine with peacock blouse and headpiece. Her bouquet was of white roses and chrysanthemums.

Captain Robert J. Faught served his brother as best man.

Mrs. Anderson chose for her daughter's wedding a bone silk suit with matching accessories, a green hat and a white orchid corsage.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents were hosts at a brunch at the Holiday Inn in Fayetteville. The bride's table was centered with a tiered wedding cake flanked by twin arrangements of white stock, chrysanthemums, pink carnations and smilax.

After a short wedding trip the couple will be at home at 2101 Ramsey, Fayetteville, N.C. The bride attended the University of Southwestern Louisiana, in Lafayette and Northeast Louisiana State College, Monroe. Mr. Faught attended Mississippi College and is presently training in a Special Forces Training Group at Fort Bragg.

...On Dit...

by Marillyn Taylor

Fall is a marvelous time to travel — one finds the most invigorating weather; the enthusiasm of "return to normal" routines after summer recess. This seems to be true of other countries as well as the USA.

This week we visited Quebec City, Canada — and here the weather was almost too invigorating — down in the thirties for several days. Natives tell us that their winter temperatures often read 30-40 below zero; the average "only around 12-15." From our point of view, anything "below" is more than we want. We don't recommend travel to Quebec for Southerners any later in the year than October — not even for "Carnaval" in February.

Quebec is a city with an Old World flavor. Its history dates from the day in 1608 when Champlain sailed up the St. Lawrence and exclaimed, according to tradition, "Que bec!" when he saw the steep bluff overhanging the water. The military citadel is built on the bluff commanding the river. And a wall like those of medieval Europe encloses the entire Old City. Originally a French colony, Quebec passed to English control when Wolfe defeated Montcalm on the Plains of Abraham outside the city walls.

The Citadel is garrisoned today by a detachment of Canadian soldiers, part of a group stationed some miles out of town. They wear the traditional British redcoats, and observe the changing of the guard daily. A museum is maintained on the Citadel grounds, containing military exhibits and relics of the pre-nuclear days when this was considered one of the world's most impregnable fortresses. Walls enclosing the old city are a continuation of and an addition to the Citadel. Estimates for building wall and fort today run as high as 200 million dollars. Landowners inside the walls are forbidden by law to change or to tear down the old buildings. Anyone wishing to add on or to remodel must submit his plans to a planning commission for approval.

We stayed at the Chateau Frontenac — a hotel in the grand tradition. It is built on the foundations of the old vice-regal palace which stood on the site for nearly 200 years. The present hotel opened in 1895; was later enlarged. It dominates the skyline of Quebec.

Curving around the base of the hotel and extending up to the Citadel a short distance away is the Promenade des Gouverneurs — a boardwalk built atop the old city wall overlooking the river. At one end of the boardwalk is an elevator to the lower town. Farther up is a toboggan for winter snows. Wrought iron benches line the walk for those who wish to sit and contemplate the river.

Inside the Chateau, public rooms are carved panelling, Nouveau art stained glass, tremendous open fireplaces, crystal chandeliers. Loomed - to - order carpets feature the Frontenac crest in running borders. Guest rooms are lacking in personality, except for magnificent views of city and river. Little old ladies dressed in costumes like upstairs maids of Victorian novels are seen scurrying through the halls. They know by instinct when guests are out. One returns from shopping at any hour to find a fresh supply of clean towels, a newly dusted room. While guests are out for the evening, beds are turned down, ashtrays emptied, and more towels laid out.

For learning about a new town, our favorite approach is through a knowledgeable cab driver; one who knows his city and is proud to talk about it. In Quebec we found an outstanding example of the type. He drove us to all the places we should visit, gave us advice on where to eat, filled us in on various historical and sociological facts about Quebec.

In other parts of Canada, we had found the French - speaking aspect rather forced — a quaint custom tolerated somewhat self-consciously by the government. Not so in Quebec — here is a genuine French - speaking populace. Figures given us by our cab driver set the French at 90 per cent of the population, with British numbering 5 per cent and other groups (Mediterranean, Levantine, Oriental) the remainder.

Our driver told us that in school he had received only one hour of instruction each week in English — and that from a Frenchman. So that his first real knowledge of English came while serving in the Army. Now in French schools, English-speaking teachers instruct for an hour each day. In the English schools, an hour is devoted to French, with the idea of having a truly bi-lingual populace.

Quebec is a town of statues—over forty in the area. Those honored range from discoverer Champlain to "Bonhomme Carnaval", snowman figure which symbolizes the winter carnival. There are statues and memorials to Wolfe and Montcalm, to the Indians and to the missionary fathers, to soldiers and politicians of recent years. Each statue is placed in a park or boulevard or circle, giving a charming appearance to the city.

A custom of the area which struck us as peculiarly European was in connection with stores where alcoholic drinks are sold. Those known as "tavernes" are forbidden to women. Those designated "Bar-Salons" may serve women. Our driver tells us that this is because "tavernes" open early, "Bar - Salons" not until 11 a.m. And your Quebecois doesn't want his wife to drink so early in the morning. We suspect it rather can be traced to the male - dominated French heritage.

Reminiscent of a French town are the large number of churches in Quebec. Our taxi driver gave these figures: 47 Catholic churches, 6 or 7 Protestant, 2 synagogues. Some of these, as that of Notre Dame des Victoires, date back nearly 300 years. This old church contains many works of art, including a painting by Rubens. Hanging from the ceiling is a model of Champlain's ship, sent to the new church by the King of France.

A short drive from Quebec is the basilica of Ste. Anne de Beaupre, renowned for generations as a miraculous shrine. The little old original building is still standing; and across the street, the magnificent cathedral completed within the past generation. The style of the building is Gothic, but mosaics and statutes are obviously of the present day, creating an unusual but striking effect. Large numbers of abandoned crutches and braces testify to cures credited to Ste. Anne.

One of the delights of a visit to Quebec City is the opportunity afforded to dine at excellent restaurants. The choice here seems to be almost unlimited. Our driver recommended several restaurants within walking distance of the Chateau; we had advice from friends, various clubs and agencies had their own suggestions. Two dedicated eaters consuming two large meals a day for four days can visit a goodly number of establishments. Here were our favorites:

"Chez Guido" is across from the city hall, in an old residence built directly on the sidewalk. One can almost miss the restrained brass plate which is the only sign. One enters plain doors, 2 steps up, and then mounts a half - flight of stairs to double Victorian frosted-glass doors. The double parlors of the old house now comprise the main dining room.

By contrast, "Cafe Continental" is flamboyantly fronted with glass windows bearing large - lettered signs. Indeed, it was the kind of place we would have passed by had it not been for the recommendation. Inside we found the traditional French cleanliness, spotless linens, excellent food.

The studied shabbiness of a Parisian "little restaurant" is found at "Le Vendome." Here are striped awnings, mismatched chairs, checked cloths. Walls are covered with French travel posters and paintings after Toulouse Lautrec. This charming place is located about halfway down and around the hill from the Chateau. "It isn't up, it isn't down, it isn't anywhere," as A. A. Milne would say.

French cuisine, of course, is featured at all these places. This influence is noted in types of preparation rather than in selection of food. From the New World are the Western beef, Maine lobster, Nova Scotia fish. We found the Canadian smoked salmon to be a superb treat. Onion soups were generally excellent; but no more so than "Habitant pea soup", invented by the voyageurs.

So for a trip to Quebec City, the best we can wish you is "Bon Appetit!"

ENGAGEMENT and approaching marriage of Miss Martha Elizabeth Peters to Felix Wayne Boyd of Bossier City, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Peters Sr., of Fairbanks. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Boyd of Bossier City. The wedding will take place in late November.

MISS RENEE LA RUE

Engagement Of Renee La Rue To Sam Hilburn Announced

Mr. and Mrs. John Hayden La Rue of Ruston, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Renee, to Sam Glenn Hilburn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Bethel Hilburn of Shreveport, Louisiana.

The wedding ceremony will be solemnized at the Margaret Rainwater Fuller Chapel, Trinity Methodist Church, Ruston, on November 24, 1966.

Miss La Rue is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Barton Milam of Ruston, Louisiana and the late Mr. and Mrs. William Cannon La Rue of Missouri. She is a graduate of Ruston High School, attended Louisiana Tech, and is now a senior in the School of Pharmacy at Northeast Louisiana State College. She is a member of Kappa Delta Sorority and Kappa Epsilon Fraternity.

Mr. Hilburn is the grandson of Mrs. William Kavanaugh Edwards of Houston, Texas and Mr. William Kavanaugh Edwards of Ville Platte, Louisiana. His paternal grandparents are the late Mr. and Mrs. William Oscar Hilburn of Bellville, Texas. He is a graduate of Byrd High School, Shreveport, and attended Louisiana Tech. His fraternity is Kappa Alpha. He is presently employed with a pharmaceutical company in New Orleans.

ANNOUNCEMENT is made today of the forthcoming marriage of Miss Rose Marie Dockery, daughter of Mrs. R. B. Dockery of Delhi and the late Mr. Dockery, and Charles Clayton Brown, son of Charles R. Brown of Tallulah and the late Mrs. Nina Brown. The wedding will take place on December 27 at 7 p.m. in First Baptist Church of Delhi with Rev. Connie Ward officiating.

Pale Curry Color Suggested For Colonial Setting

By BETTY PEPIS

Q: My living room is 9½ feet by 14 and quite dark with one window facing the adjoining apartment wall. At present walls are desert sand, sofa and one chair are covered in brown, a recliner is ivory. Rug is gray with brown, black, and beige in design. How can I brighten the room and give it the Colonial charm I would like?

A: Paint walls and woodwork a pale curry color. Have deep, rich curry for the braided rug. Cafe curtains could be in a Colonial print in pale curry ground with brown, apple green, lemon yellow. Brighten sofa with pillows, in curry, apple green and lemon yellow. Use print again for cushions on side chairs or slip cover on small occasional chair.

Q: We are remodeling our bedroom and installing a bath. Fixtures in bath are fern green, one-inch square tiles on lower wall will be in several shades of green. What color for upper walls, floor and curtain?

A: Paint bathroom walls in palest shade found in green tiles. Have rug in a bright green and curtains in a small scale print in green and white.

Q: I will soon be married. For the living room we have selected a blue-green contemporary sofa and two champagne pull-up chairs. What do you suggest for rug, walls, draperies and a color accent?

A: Have walls in champagne and rug in a deeper shade of this color. Draperies could be champagne color too, or, if room is large, possibly a print in champagne ground with blue-green and lemon yellow. Have brilliant lemon yellow for small accessories.

Q: We have gold colored carpet and draperies in our living room. Please suggest color for walls, sofa, occasional chair, scatter rugs and lamps. Wood pieces are in a dark finish and a platform rocker is covered in beige floral print. We have six children.

A: A soft, muted gold would be a good color for the walls and woodwork. Sofa could be in a deep gold and beige plaid and the occasional chair in a soft,

Your Problems

Penniless With Joint Checking Account Wacky

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Please tell me what to do about a husband who will not let me have any money. I have been married to Bruno for 35 years and have been kept completely in the dark about money matters. Also, he has a thing about cash. He won't let me have any.

We have a grown family, a new car and a joint checking account. But every bit of cash is in Bruno's wallet — and he takes it to work. You have no idea how humiliating it is to turn the house upside down looking for a dollar to give the March of Dimes or the Red Cross. I have to ask for a dime when I want to buy a spool of thread.

Bruno is good to me in all other ways, but his peculiarity about cash is driving me crazy. Advise me, please.—COMFORTABLE BUT PENNILESS

Dear C. But P.: Did you say you had a joint checking account? Well, for heaven's sake, Lady, write yourself a check for $20 and live like a human being. If you've been sitting on a joint checking account for 35 years and asking your husband for a dime to buy a spool of thread, you're as wacky as he is.

Dear Ann Landers: A bunch of the guys in my platoon want to know what to do about a problem that bugs a lot of us.

When a guy takes a girl to dinner, is it considered bad manners to tell her that she should go ahead and order whatever she wants and not to worry about the price?

Some of the fellows — me for instance — just happen to like ground steak or fish but we don't want our girls to think that we are ordering it just because it is the cheapest thing on the menu.

I have taken out some great chicks who have looked at the menu and then said, "Ill have whatever you have." I am sure they are trying to be careful with my money.

I like to show a girl a real good time, Ann. What is the proper way to handle this problem? — FORT HOOD, TEXAS

Dear Fort Hood: The best way to do it is let the girl order first. If she insists on waiting to hear what you're going to have, go ahead and tell her that she may not like your choice.

It's how you treat a gal and not what she eats on a date that determines what kind of time she has, so I wouldn't pay too much attention to whether she orders a sirloin or the spaghetti.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have been married for 10 months. I have a very good job here in this college town and my husband is working on his master degree. The problem is my parents.

They have furnished our apartment, down to the last teaspoon. My mother has strong ideas and this apartment looks like her home, not mine. I don't object to this but my husband does.

Furthermore, the gifts continue to pour in almost daily from Mom and Dad and this is causing real trouble between my husband and me. I have tried to explain to him they are big-hearted and want me to have nice things. He says these gifts are ruining his self-respect and that I must put a stop ot it.

How can I do it without hurting their feelings? They have been just wonderful. — SMOTHERED WITH LOVE

Dear Smothered: Simply tell your folks that their generosity is causing marital problems and that in the future all gifts will be returned. Then keep your word. The success of your marriage may depend on it — and obviously, that success is more precious than ANY gift.

To solve some of the frustrations, disappointments and disillusionments of married life, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "What To Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self - addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of Monroe Morning World, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

ANCHOVY PASTE

Go slow when you are adding anchovy paste to the yoke mixture (for stuffed eggs) or to a cream cheese spread because the paste is usually pretty salty. Work in a small amount of the paste and taste before adding more.

VARIOUS USES

Truss that whole chicken before steaming or simmering it and it will keep its shape. Chill the chicken and any stock separately. The cold chicken will taste delicious with potato salad and such crisp raw vegetables as lettuce, cucumber and radishes.

GOOD FLAVOR

Your Problems

Penniless With Joint Checking Account Wacky

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Please tell me what to do about a husband who will not let me have any money. I have been married to Bruno for 35 years and have been kept completely in the dark about money matters. Also, he has a thing about cash. He won't let me have any.

We have a grown family, a new car and a joint checking account. But every bit of cash is in Bruno's wallet — and he takes it to work. You have no idea how humiliating it is to turn the house upside down looking for a dollar to give the March of Dimes or the Red Cross. I have to ask for a dime when I want to buy a spool of thread.

Bruno is good to me in all other ways, but his peculiarity about cash is driving me crazy. Advise me, please.—COMFORTABLE BUT PENNILESS

Dear C. But P.: Did you say you had a joint checking account? Well, for heaven's sake, Lady, write yourself a check for $20 and live like a human being. If you've been sitting on a joint checking account for 35 years and asking your husband for a dime to buy a spool of thread, you're as wacky as he is.

Dear Ann Landers: A bunch of the guys in my platoon want to know what to do about a problem that bugs a lot of us.

When a guy takes a girl to dinner, is it considered bad manners to tell her that she should go ahead and order whatever she wants and not to worry about the price?

Some of the fellows — me for instance — just happen to like ground steak or fish but we don't want our girls to think that we are ordering it just because it is the cheapest thing on the menu.

I have taken out some great chicks who have looked at the menu and then said, "Ill have whatever you have." I am sure they are trying to be careful with my money.

I like to show a girl a real good time, Ann. What is the proper way to handle this problem? — FORT HOOD, TEXAS

Dear Fort Hood: The best way to do it is let the girl order first. If she insists on waiting to hear what you're going to have, go ahead and tell her that she may not like your choice.

It's how you treat a gal and not what she eats on a date that determines what kind of time she has, so I wouldn't pay too much attention to whether she orders a sirloin or the spaghetti.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have been married for 10 months. I have a very good job here in this college town and my husband is working on his master degree. The problem is my parents.

They have furnished our apartment, down to the last teaspoon. My mother has strong ideas and this apartment looks like her home, not mine. I don't object to this but my husband does.

Furthermore, the gifts continue to pour in almost daily from Mom and Dad and this is causing real trouble between my husband and me. I have tried to explain to him they are big-hearted and want me to have nice things. He says these gifts are ruining his self-respect and that I must put a stop ot it.

How can I do it without hurting their feelings? They have been just wonderful. — SMOTHERED WITH LOVE

Dear Smothered: Simply tell your folks that their generosity is causing marital problems and that in the future all gifts will be returned. Then keep your word. The success of your marriage may depend on it — and obviously, that success is more precious than ANY gift.

To solve some of the frustrations, disappointments and disillusionments of married life, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "What To Expect From Marriage," anclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self - addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in gare of Monroe Morning World, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Pale Curry Color Suggested For Colonial Setting

By BETTY PEPIS

Q: My living room is 9½ feet by 14 and quite dark with one window facing the adjoining apartment wall. At present walls are desert sand, sofa and one chair are covered in brown, a recliner is ivory. Rug is gray with brown, black, and beige in design. How can I brighten the room and give it the Colonial charm I would like?

A: Paint walls and woodwork a pale curry color. Have deep, rich curry for the braided rug. Cafe curtains could be in a Colonial print in pale curry ground with brown, apple green, lemon yellow. Brighten sofa with pillows, in curry, apple green and lemon yellow. Use print again for cushions on side chairs or slip cover on small occasional chair.

Q: We are remodeling our bedroom and installing a bath. Fixtures in bath are fern green, one-inch square tiles on lower wall will be in several shades of green. What color for upper walls, floor and curtain?

A: Paint bathroom walls in palest shade found in green tiles. Have rug in a bright green and curtains in a small scale print in green and white.

Q: I will soon be married. For the living room we have selected a blue-green contemporary sofa and two champagne pull-up chairs. What do you suggest for rug, walls, draperies and a color accent?

A: Have walls in champagne and rug in a deeper shade of this color. Draperies could be champagne color too, or, if room is large, possibly a print in champagne ground with blue-green and lemon yellow. Have brilliant lemon yellow for small accessories.

Q: We have gold colored carpet and draperies in our living room. Please suggest color for walls, sofa, occasional chair, scatter rugs and lamps. Wood pieces are in a dark finish and a platform rocker is covered in beige floral print. We have six children.

A: A soft, muted gold would be a good color for the walls and woodwork. Sofa could be in a deep gold and beige plaid and the occasional chair in a soft.

ANCHOVY PASTE

Go slow when you are adding anchovy paste to the yoke mixture (for stuffed eggs) or to a cream cheese spread because the paste is usually pretty salty. Work in a small amount of the paste and taste before adding more.

VARIOUS USES

Truss that whole chicken before steaming or simmering it and it will keep its shape. Chill the chicken and any stock separately. The cold chicken will taste delicious with potato salad and such crisp raw vegetables as lettuce, cucumber and radishes.

GOOD FLAVOR

Current Styles Are Ideal For Tiny Women

By FLORENCE DE SANTIS

No matter how designers try, they're having a hard time getting women to agree to any major change in the fashion silhouette which has prevailed now for a decade.

You can easily see why when you look at a group of women whose heights vary. Whether tall or tiny, they all look good in the skimmer silhouette. No seams define the waistline, so that old problem of being long or shortwaisted doesn't arise.

The skimmer silhouette is the big reason why, in the last few years, dress manufacturers have been so willing to go into new sizing groups. It doesn't take much doing to turn a regular junior fashion into one that fits a junior petite.

TINY WOMAN SIZES

The current collection of Tracy Petities, which is an offshoot of Sue Brett junior dress house, is a case in point. Here are found all the fabrics and new colors of the parent house, while the designs are re-scaled for the tiny girl.

The skimmer contains a lot of variations, too. Start with the coat dress, lightly shaped to the body and double-breasted. The front is pyramid seamed to lengthen the body, while a notched collar lends some shoulder width to the tiny figure.

Next on the drawing board, an acetate knit in a long torso cut, with a brief, bias-cut skirt flipping below. It's welt seamed across the bust and at the skirt top, has a jaunty regatta stripe bow at the collar. This one is for younger petites.

The simple shift has altered into a bonded wool jersey with double rows of buttons, a contrast color band running low across the skirt. The same fabric is used for a button-front dress with shirt sleeves and a hemline flared with inset pleats. A print scarf tucks into the neckline.

PANTS SUITS

What to wear with PANT SUITS? Ruth Preston, fashion editor of the New York Post, recommends low, sturdy-heeled shoes shaped high at the instep, scaled-down handbags and short, tailored gloves. She also advises skipping jewelry entirely, except for a bold-looking, wide-banded wrist watch.

WAX BASKETS

Give cleaned waste baskets a coating of wax inside and out to prevent dust from accumulating and improve their appearance.

LEATHER LIKES SOAP

Lingerie, Fireside Fashions Appear In Feminine Mood

Fall, 1966, should go down in fashion history as the year of crepe. Never have designers shown so many of their fall dresses, for both day and evening, in crepe, as in this fall's collections.

Right in step with the crepe outerwear story is lingerie in a nylon crepe tricot with all the look, feel and drapability of that long-lost lingerie crepe which was a glory of the thirties. An instant success when it was introduced for sleepwear and slips this fall it will be available in an extended range of demi-slips, chemise slips, half-slips, mini-slips, camisoles, garter belts, bras, pettipants and panties. This tricot is called Enka Crepeset.

It is the perfect partner for crepe outerwear, while its softly pebbled surface slides smoothly under knits. There's no cling, no riding up, and that light, airy feeling is just what fashion these days is ordering for the supple look of skimmer silhouettes.

Of course, a wardrobe of slips will be needed this fall, if only for the ups and downs of hemlines. Those really short sportswear skirts need the mini-slip such as Chevette's little chemise. Half-slips stop short enough to clear daytime knee-skimmer skirts, as in one company's lace-frosted pink charmer.

In bras, the shape is "natural", and Crepeset nylon makes that softly rounded shape. Some firms show a whole collection of these easy-to-wear, easy-care bras, including strapless bandeau, strapless, longline, bra-slips and almost-seamless-cup styles.

Lingerie in this lovely crepe has both beauty and virtue. The true crepe pebbled surface, the soft feel and drapability, are the beauty. The virtue lies in all the easy washable qualities of nylon. So naturally, new ideas in sleepwear continue to show up in crepe.

The pajama is a leading favorite, new again in the wide-legged look of the Thirties, when crepe was also queen of fashion, but was only for the wealthy, because it wasn't easy to care for. Crepe is easy care, today.

Pajamas this fall go much further than to bed. They appear for leisure hours, for at-home entertaining and even at other people's evening parties. Some are cut all in one piece, with a wrap sash, using two tones of Crepeset, such as hot pink for the pajama and sun gold for the sash. Others feature daringly bared effects, like Valentino's culotte pants with a night coat that bares the midriff.

But gowns are also very much with us, with newly luxurious effects made possible by this glamourous fabric. Oleg Cassini inspires a floor-length float of white for one leading house; it has a lace cape effect and a deep V-inset of lace. Another company uses appliqued bands of French lace in cocoa or black to edge a short gown and peignoir in platinum blonde or white. The gown has a rising curved hemline in front that reveals the knees.

Styling With Freedom Is Signature Of New Mohairs

NEW YORK — The approach of cold weather traditionally brings forth the lament about hating to bundle up in a weighty, confining coat again. That complaint is no longer valid, because the new Fall coats are striking a decisive blow for freedom. Emphasis is on free - wheeling motion — in tent shapes; A-lines; narrow coats animated by back pleats; trim little overcoats with matching dresses or skirts; and, most important, the most weightless, on-the-move fabric of all — mohair.

Buoyant, beautiful mohair takes the lead in espousing the cause for coat freedom. With the light-as-air, lofty textures that are the fiber's unmistakable signature, mohair fabrics almost seem to float, are always in motion, full of fashion and the zest for living.

The newest mohair coat fabrics for Fall are in a magnificent array of textures, starring deep, cloud-soft fleeces with a halo-like radiance, fabulous tweeds in thick-and-thin weaves, ropey surfaces, giant patterns and nubby flecked ones; fluffy loops; and diagonal weaves. Colors are glorious because they are reflective, in solids and multicolor mixtures, vibrating with a clarity and rich sheen that are special characteristics of the lustrous mohair fiber. One of the great wardrobe advantages of a multicolor mohair tweed coat is the variety of coordinating effects that can be achieved with everything in the wardrobe. Each of the many glowing colors can be used to key an individual costume color theme.

Leading designers have always favored mohair for its distinctive elegance and versatility in styling. Mohairs have no limitations in the coat wardrobe. They may be in great lady couture styles, frisky young ones, daytime tailored, breezily sporty, or dramatically formal. To each type they impart that special touch of quality so dear to every woman's heart. And that quality look of mohair is an all - time virtue, because it's one of the strongest fibers known and will maintain its lustrousness and handsome good looks in all kinds of weather; it thrives on strenous activity.

Incidentally, fashion's thanks for inimitable mohair go to a lively little creature, the Angora goat, whose long, ringleted coat is the source of the fiber. Only these permanently curled locks, so soft, shiny and springy, yet so amazingly strong, can create those frothy depths that make mohair fabrics so great. The Angora originated in the province of Angora, Turkey, where it has been cultivated for thousands of years. The United States is the world's leading producer of mohair, striding ahead of the country of origin. Our country began raising Angoras in 1849, when seven does and two bucks were imported from Turkey. Today's U. S. production amounts to 32,500,000 lbs. annually, with 97 per cent coming from Texas.

Brides Can Find Variety In Preparing Hamburger

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Is hamburger keeping the American married male from starving to death? One young bridegroom thinks it is. He has been married three months and it is the only food his bride has served him.

"I vary the taste with mustard, catsup, relish, onion, but no matter how you pat it, it's still hamburger," he says.

His advise is: Boys, eat while you can. Tomorrow you diet or dieth. He's not sure which.

Funny thing is, he was a hamburger buff when he was home with Mom.

"When the family was dining on roast beef, chicken, veal paprika and beef stroganoff, I was off with the gang gobbling hamburgers or pizza pie. I wish I'd told Mom to freeze all that stuff against the day."

This young man has even thought of taking cooking lessons. His wife has threatened to leave him if he tells anyone she can't cook. Her efforts with a 1½ pound chicken resulted in something that tasted like dishwater soap. She used six quarts of water with it.

So—there's a tip for all young brides-to-be. Learn to cook. You can't just walk up to a stove and get food purring. There is a little knack involved, especially if you want to eat a variety of foods.

The world's best chefs use cook books. If you must have an "out" begin a cook book collection. If you want to learn on the sly, libraries have cook books. Copy their recipes.

"If you can read, you can cook" is an old truism.

Budget-minded couples could learn two things: Hwo to serve a varied menu from one cut of meat and how to make cheaper cuts of meat do for a great dish.

A Sunday beef sirloin roast for example, may seem expensive, but it is solid meat. It can start out as a roast. It can become beef stroganoff with the addition of sour cream. It can be a beef-and-bean-sprouts dish another day, and the remainder can be cut up for hash or ground for chile con carne, tamale pie. Recipes for leftovers are in cookbooks.

Cheaper cuts of veal or beef can be used in place of more expensive cuts providing the meat is cooked slowly for a long time and trimmed of fat and gristle before putting it with final ingredients. Veal curry, paprika, ragout may be made from stew meat. These dishes may be served with rice or noodles to make good winter dishes.

You can have a party at the stove if refrigerator and pantry shelves are equipped with ingredients for making a wide variety of dishes. Once you learn to work with leftovers, you are on the road to being a good cook. Foods that can serve as ingredients for leftovers should be on hand — fresh, canned or frozen. These include peppers, mushrooms, tomatoes, curry powder, beef and chicken cubes or stock, onions, bean sprouts, carrots, parsley.

Timetable For Indoor Gardening

NEW YORK (UPI) — For indoor gardeners who plan to force hardy bulbs for winter flowering, here's an easy timetable:

All bulbs need from eight to 10 weeks to form their root systems, so if planted about Oct. 15, bulbs should be ready for forcing by the middle of December, and for blooming by the last week in January.

Hyacinth varieties recommended for forcing include 'Bismarck' and 'L'Innocence'; plant one large bulb to a 4 or 5-inch clay bulb pan, three or four to a 6 or 7-inch clay pot.

Tulip varieties for early forcing include 'Crown Imperial' and 'Rose Copland'; a 4 or 5-inch clay bulb pan accommodates two or three tulip bulbs, while a 6 or 7-inch pot can be planted with four to six tulips.

GAY BEDSPREADS

Bedspreads that can stand casual treatment by little boys (and big ones, too) are now produced by combining spot-resistance, duravle-press, and washability all in one fabric.

Gaily striped, these sturdy cotton spreads are ideal for college dorms as well as for summer homes. They can be machine-washed in hot soap or detergent suds and need no ironing.

NURSERY BASKET

Someone was bound to think of it, and it's a great idea: a nursery waste basket with a removable plastic outer cover which can be suds-sponged or actually immersed in soap or detergent suds. It makes life simpler for mother and more hygienic for baby.

That complaint is no longer valid, because the new Fall coats are striking a decisive blow for freedom. Emphasis is on free - wheeling motion — in tent shapes; A-lines; narrow coats animated by back pleats; trim little overcoats with matching dresses or skirts; and, most important, the most weightless, on-the-move fabric of all — mohair.

Buoyant, beautiful mohair takes the lead in espousing the cause for coat freedom. With the light-as-air, lofty textures that are the fiber's unmistakable signature, mohair fabrics almost seem to float, are always in motion, full of fashion and the zest for living.

The newest mohair coat fabrics for Fall are in a magnificent array of textures, starring deep, cloud-soft fleeces with a halo-like radiance, fabulous tweeds in thick-and-thin weaves, ropey surfaces, giant patterns and nubby flecked ones; fluffy loops; and diagonal weaves. Colors are glorious because they are reflective, in solids and multicolor mixtures, vibrating with a clarity and rich sheen that are special characteristics of the lustrous mohair fiber. One of the great wardrobe advantages of a multicolor mohair tweed coat is the variety of coordinating effects that can be achieved with everything in the wardrobe. Each of the many glowing colors can be used to key an individual costume color theme.

Leading designers have always favored mohair for its distinctive elegance and versatility in styling. Mohairs have no limitations in the coat wardrobe. They may be in great lady couture styles, frisky young ones, daytime tailored, breezily sporty, or dramatically formal. To each type they impart that special touch of quality so dear to every woman's heart. And that quality look of mohair is an all - time virtue, because it's one of the strongest fibers known and will maintain its lustrousness and handsome good looks in all kinds of weather; it thrives on strenous activity.

Incidentally, fashion's thanks for inimitable mohair go to a lively little creature, the Angora goat, whose long, ringleted coat is the source of the fiber. Only these permanently curled locks, so soft, shiny and springy, yet so amazingly strong, can create those frothy depths that make mohair fabrics so great. The Angora originated in the province of Angora, Turkey, where it has been cultivated for thousands of years. The United States is the world's leading producer of mohair, striding ahead of the country of origin. Our country began raising Angoras in 1849, when seven does and two bucks were imported from Turkey. Today's U. S. production amounts to 32,500,000 lbs. annually, with 97 per cent coming from Texas.

GAY BEDSPREADS

Bedspreads that can stand casual treatment by little boys (and big ones, too) are now produced by combining spot-resistance, duravle-press, and washability all in one fabric.

Gaily striped, these sturdy cotton spreads are ideal for college dorms as well as for summer homes. They can be machine-washed in hot soap or detergent suds and need no ironing.

NURSERY BASKET

Someone was bound to think of it, and it's a great idea: a nursery waste basket with a removable plastic outer cover which can be suds-sponged or actually immersed in soap or detergent suds. It makes life simpler for mother and more hygienic for baby.

Brides Can Find Variety In Preparing Hamburger

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Is hamburger keeping the American married male from starving to death? One young bridegroom thinks it is. He has been married three months and it is the only food his bride has served him.

"I vary the taste with mustard, catsup, relish, onion, but no matter how you pat it, it's still hamburger," he says.

His advise is: Boys, eat while you can. Tomorrow you diet or dieth. He's not sure which.

Funny thing is, he was a hamburger buff when he was home with Mom.

"When the family was dining on roast beef, chicken, veal paprika and beef stroganoff, I was off with the gang gobbling hamburgers or pizza pie. I wish I'd told Mom to freeze all that sutff against the day."

This young man has even thought of taking cooking lessons. His wife has threatened to leave him if he tells anyone she can't cook. Her efforts with a 1½ pound chicken resulted in something that tasted like dishwater soap. She used six quarts of water with it.

So—there's a tip for all young brides-to-be. Learn to cook. You can't just walk up to a stove and get food purring. There is a little knack involved, especially if you want to eat a variety of foods.

The world's best chefs use cook books. If you must have an "out" begin a cook book collection. If you want to learn on the sly, libraries have cook books. Copy their recipes.

"If you can read, you can cook" is an old truism.

Budget-minded couples could learn two things: Hwo to serve a varied menu from one cut of meat and how to make cheaper cuts of meat do for a great dish.

A Sunday beef sirloin roast for example, may seem expensive, but it is solid meat. It can start out as a roast. It can become beef stroganoff with the addition of sour cream. It can be a beef-and-bean-sprouts dish another day, and the remainder can be cut up for hash or ground for chile con carne, tamale pie. Recipes for leftovers are in cookbooks.

Cheaper cuts of veal or beef can be used in place of more expensive cuts providing the meat is cooked slowly for a long time and trimmed of fat and gristle before putting it with final ingredients. Veal curry, paprika, ragout may be made from stew meat. These dishes may be served with rice or noodles to make good winter dishes.

You can have a party at the stove if refrigerator and pantry shelves are equipped with ingredients for making a wide variety of dishes. Once you learn to work with leftovers, you are on the road to being a good cook. Foods that can serve as ingredients for leftovers should be on hand — fresh, canned or frozen. These include peppers, mushrooms, tomatoes, curry powder, beef and chicken cubes or stock, onions, bean sprouts, carrots, parsley.

Timetable For Indoor Gardening

NEW YORK (UPI) — For indoor gardeners who plan to force hardy bulbs for winter flowering, here's an easy timetable:

All bulbs need from eight to 10 weeks to form their root systems, so if planted about Oct. 15, bulbs should be ready for forcing by the middle of December, and for blooming by the last week in January.

Hyacinth varieties recommended for forcing include 'Bismarck' and 'L'Innocence'; plant one large bulb to a 4 or 5-inch clay bulb pan, three or four to a 6 or 7-inch clay pot.

Tulip varieties for early forcing include 'Crown Imperial' and 'Rose Copland'; a 4 or 5-inch clay bulb pan accommodates two or three tulip bulbs, while a 6 or 7-inch pot can be planted with four to six tulips.

Collect Pods For Designs

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

This is an excellent time, Mrs. Gardener, to collect seed pods from the garden, yard, and woods. Many plants in this area produce interesting seed pods that can be used in many ways by the imaginative homeowner. Nearly everything can be preserved either by one or more of the following methods: Hanging, sand, and boraz, silica gel and corn meal and borax. At this time of the year the fields and woods are abundant with beautiful seed pods produced by trees, shrubs and weeds.

If you, Mr. or Mrs. Gardener, plan to add a pecan tree to the landscape, now is the time to make some decisions as to the variety. Warren Meadows, our horticulture specialist, says that the best varieties for north Louisiana are: Stuart, Desirable, Success, Schley and Elliott. Warren, also, says that pecan trees should be planted in deep, rich, fertile soil with good drainage. They will not grow well in soil with a high water level or in poor sandy soil. If you, Mrs. Homemaker, have a seedling tree it can be converted to a name variety by grafting, in the spring.

If you want a rose bed for your landscape, then prepare the bed now, but wait until December, January or February to add the plants.

DEMONSTRATION

Do you, Mrs. Ouachita Homemaker, want to learn to make polyester grapes? Mrs. J. G. Haynes and Mrs. A. R. Robinson, members of the McClendon Home Demonstration Club, will give a demonstration Wednesday, Nov. 2, 9:30 - 11:30 a.m. at the Agriculture Auditorium, 704 Cypress, West Monroe. They will show you step by step and also furnish you with the directions. You are most welcome to come and learn to make this accessory for your home.

COOKING VEGETABLES

One of the best methods of cooking vegetables to conserve the maximum food value is to cook them only until tender in just enough water to prevent scorching. Use a pan with a tight fitting lid. Covering the pan helps prevent the escape of steam and vapor so that vegetables can be cooked quickly in a small amount of water.

The amount of water used in cooking vegetables is of major importance in preventing loss of water and nutrients, such as Vitamin C and B, and some of the minerals. The smaller amount of water used in cooking, the more food value retained in the cooked vegetable.

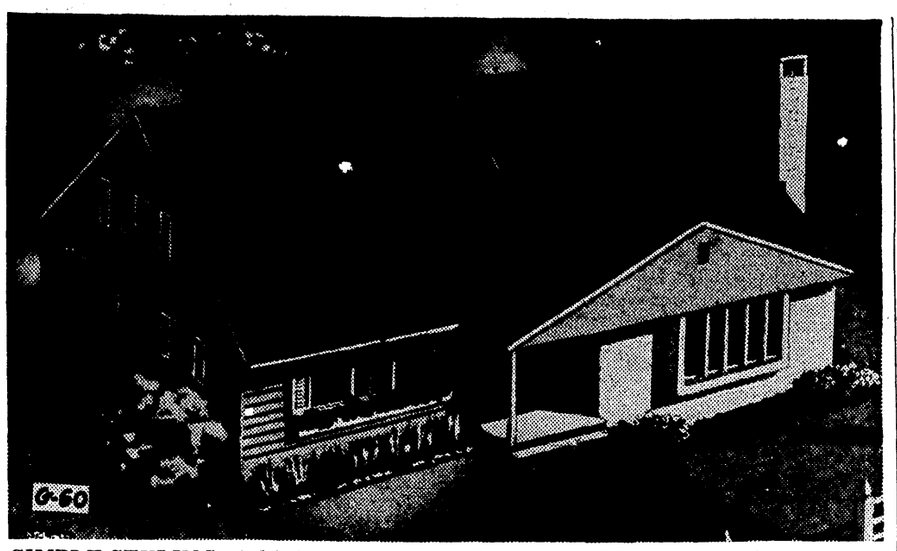
If the amount of water used in cooking cabbage equals about one third the amount of cabbage, the rentention of vitamin C drops to less than 50 per cent. So-called waterless cooking refers to cooking vegetables with only the water that remains on the vegetables after rinsing and the juice extracted from the vegetables. This method does not permit quick cooking, however, and conserves nutritive values no better than cooking vegetables quickly in a small amount of water.

Boiling root and tender vegetables such as carrots, sweet potatoes, and Irish potatoes in their skins retains more vitamins and minerals than cooking these vegetables pared and cut up. Tests show that potatoes boiled in their skins retain C, thiamine and other nutrients.

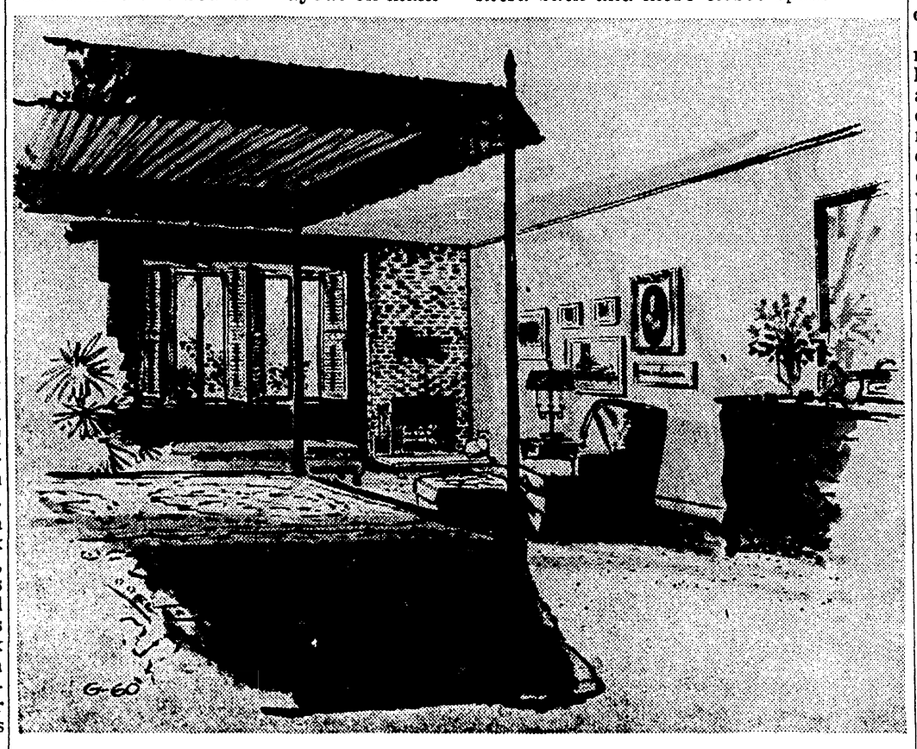
Steaming under pressure in a pressure saucepan is a quick method of cooking vegetables, particularly potatoes, turnips and carrots. The cooking period should be carefully timed. This is also a pratical way to cook dry peas, beans, and lima beans. Remember, Mrs. Homemaker, prolonged cooking under pressure often results in loss of food value.

A THOUGHT

Everyone you know can make you happy, some by arriving and some by leaving.



SIMPLE STYLING of this house makes it suitable for any area. Small family can utilize two-bedroom layout on main floor: large family can have upper story finished to add two bedrooms, extra bath and more closet space.



UPSTAIRS COMFORT is evident in one of two large bedrooms planned by architect for family that needs more space within regular dimensions. Corner fireplace uses same chimney as downstairs fireplace.

Unusual House Is Suitable For Large Or Small Family

By ANDY LANG

A quick glance at the floor plan shows over-all dimensions of 45' 6" by 27' 8", with a modest 1300 square feet of living space. This indeed places it into the "little" category from the standpoint of land requirements and habitable area. Within this concept, it is an ideal house for a young couple with perhaps one or two children or for a retired couple who do not want a large house yet want a second bedroom for guests or possible use as a den with a studio couch.

ADDITIONAL TAG

But the reason for the additional tag of "big" becomes apparent with a look at the remainder of the floor plan, which shows an optional second-floor layout of two extra-spacious bedrooms and a bath. When this expansion area is finished, either at the time of the original construction or at a later date, 873 square feet of living space are added, for a total 1½-story square footage of 2137 completely erasing the "little" designation.

Utilizing only the first floor, this is a comfortable two-bedroom house, with an interesting gabled effect over the porch and living room section that eliminates a boxy, exterior appearance. The living room has a bay window with five vertical glass compartments, an attractive fireplace and a length of 20' 4". It is directly to the right of the large entrance foyer and in front of a dining room which has sliding glass doors leading to a back patio.

ANOTHER ENTRANCE

There is another entrance to the patio from the dinette, which is adjacent to the kitchen and makes for easy informal dining. Together, the dinette and kitchen comprise an area 16' in one direction and 13' 4" at its widest point in the other.

To the left of the foyer is the bedroom wing, with each bedroom having cross ventilation and ample closet space. The main bath is located between the two bedrooms and can be entered from either room. However, a second lavatory and a water closet are directly accessible from the foyer, convenient both for the family and guests.

If and when the upstairs area is finished according to the architect's plans, there will be two sizable bedrooms, each 18' 4" by 16' 4", with a large bathroom and generous closet space. A fireplace can be built into one of the bedrooms in a corner which would enable it to utilize the existing chimney.

An extra advantage of a house of this type is that it will not go out of style and thus has a good resale value. Its potential purchasers will include both small and large families. But perhaps a discussion of resale isn't too appropriate with a home whose flexibility makes it likely to remain in the possession of one family a long time.

A full study of this architect-designed House of the Week may be obtained by writing THE HOUSE OF THE WEEK, c-o the Monroe-Morning World, Monroe, La., and enclosing 50 cents to cover cost of handling and mailing. Please specify House Plan G-60.

Garden Center Notes

West Oak's Designs Shown

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

The West Oak Garden Club of Monroe, presented the Center program last Wednesday, displaying seven outstanding designs made from their own garden flowers. Mrs. Norm Perry, president, with five of the members, made the seven designs.

Now is the time to bring the lovely blooms into the home to enjoy while we still have them at hand for arranging. Soon the frost will come and nip the dahlias and other choice garden blooms, so, enjoy them while they last, especially in the home. Four of the designs were made with dahlias as the main flower.

The first, in the oriental manner, was created by Mrs. Leslie Clark. The use of a basket as a container was cleverly executed in the moribana, informal manner. Pale pink dahlias formed the triangle line in a needle cup holder placed to one side within the woven straw sewing basket. For filler Mrs. Clark used the glossy, rich magnolia fiscara foliage. For proper balance the design was placed on a natural woven mat.

MINIATURE DESIGN

Mrs. Clark also made a miniature design in the moribana manner in a small natural colored basket. She secured a small glass jar to one side on the basket for the simple line of "country girl" mums combined with a smaller type lavender mum. Small foliage completed this attractive design, as filler material. This arrangement would be ideal for the gift to a new baby, or for use on a bedside table or coffee table.

Mrs. Linton Hughes chose the vivid red dahlias for her design made in a pale pink milk glass compote container. The dahlias formed a free-standing massed design triangle in pattern. The foliage of the dahlias and buds formed a pleasing contrast as filler at the basic part of the design.

Mrs. Roy Colquette made a massed triangle design, in the feeling of the Oriental, using the Burford Holly in soft curves for the overall pattern in a low glass bowl (green in color). Pale pink dahlias with the buds in the upper part of the design formed the filler within the design as the main flower. A pale green mat placed under the design added proper balance.

Mrs. August Danti made a very modern design using pyracantha branches with full berries for the line. The tall cylinder (black) container was ideal for this striking design which featured the bright orange berries. For distinction, and good balance the design was placed on an oriental burl stand. This is a wonderful way to use the berried pyracantha now for a striking design against a narrow wall space.

IN JAPANESE MANNER

Mrs. Perry made the typical moribana (in a low bowl) in the Japanese manner. Clipped pine branches, so typical of the oriental, formed the three lines, Heaven, Man, Earth. These were secured into place in the needle holder that was placed to the back left side in the low black bowl. Green foliage covered the holder. For fillers she used the soft yellow decorative type mums. Black rocks also could be seen in the bowl, from the holder, in a natural manner. The bowl was filled to the brim with water, also so typical of the Oriental — Moribana. A natural straw mat, placed under the design, gave the required balance.

The last design, made by Mrs. Dale Cronk, featured deep cerise colored dahlias placed against a background of aspidestra foliage which formed a large triangle design in a low green bowl. The feeling of the Oriental was in the design because of the materials used, and the container. The holder for the plant material was placed to one side in the bowl, covered with dahlia foliage. Water could easily be seen in the side of the bowl. A lovely bamboo mat placed under the design, completed the arrangement. A lovely way to display a few select blooms from the garden, and this is just what Mrs. Cronk did. She grew these lovely dahlias.

Wednesday, a surprise is in store — Ronnie Downing, a student at Northeast State College, will reveal a secret about floral craft. Mrs. Blondell Maxwell will present the program.

Plants Get Major Boost By Pruning

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

A major aim in pruning is to let more air and sun into the interior of plants. Autumn is an excellent time to remove dead, diseased or undesirable growth from many trees and shrubs.

Here are a few other pointers:

1. Always cut to a growing point, such as a bud or branch.
2. Don't leave long stubs. They often die and trouble enters the rotted holes.
3. Remove dead wood and suckers as soon as they are noticed.
4. Repair storm damage promptly, but do not prune frosted ends of tender shrubs and plants immediately. Wait until there are signs of new growth in the spring, even though the plant may look untidy for weeks.
5. Spray or paint all wounds over one inch in diameter with three - wound dressing, which is available in easy - to - handle aerosol cans.

Yaupon Holly Easily Shaped

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

When it comes to pruning and shaping, the most accommodating broadleaf evergreen is our native yaupon holly. A visit to colonial Williamsburg, Va. will soon convince you of this fact.

When the restoration of the Williamsburg gardens got under way some years ago, yaupon turned out to be the best material for the miles of hedges and the clipped and shaped specimens. One can see yaupon clipped and sheared into all the figures prevalent in English formal gardens of the Eighteenth Century. In England, of course, the hedges and figures were made out of English yew, but this plant is not adapted to our southern climate.

GROWS FAST

Yaupon grows fast enough when young to get up to hedge size in a hurry. It is completely amenable to pruning, and after it has attained the size one wants, it can be held at that size with a reasonable amount of shearing. If one is willing to wait for the slower growing "dwarf yaupon" to grow, shearing will not be needed very often.

In order not to disappoint my readers, I have not said much about dwarf yaupon in the column in years gone past because this choice plant has been hard to find. Today, happily, southern nurserymen have begun to propagate this wonderful plant, and even roadside plant stands have it in cans ready to go. Since this has happened, we are going to see some beautiful hedges all over the south, because dwarf or slow-growing yaupon can encourage many gardeners who long since gave up on boxwood. For hedges and formal treatment, yaupon and the many forms of Japanese holly are the plants supreme.

CONFORMS

While Japanese holly is desirable for its relatively slower growth habits, yaupon is extremely useful because it will conform to almost any shape with its dense growth. While it needs more attention than Japanese holly, it will respond more quickly to pruning and shaping.

In hedges and big specimens of the normal wild yaupon, the fiery red color of the tiny little shiny berries borne profusely on female plants is a great winter attraction. There seem to be two different kinds of the dwarf yaupon in the nurseries. One is a male which, of course, never has any berries. The other is a female with berries. Unless the female form is kept very well fed, it seems to get a little thin from its efforts at producing both growth and berries. The male dwarf yaupon, on the other hand, makes a very dense hedge.

A great virtue of yaupon is that, like so many of the plants of our coastal plains, it is a "fire plant" which can come back, after complete destruction of the shrub, from its roots. If your yaupon gets leggy, you can cut it down to within a foot of the ground, and it will spring up into a dense new shrub.

6th Stamp In Paintings Series Due

By SYD KRONISH
AP Newsfeatures

The sixth in the annual American Painting Series, featuring a famous piece of art by Mary Cassatt, will be issued Nov. 17 in Washington, D.C. The painting is "The Boating Party," a 19th century impressionist oil painting that now hangs in the National Gallery of Art. It depicts a mother and child seated in the prow of a small sailboat which is being rowed by a man in a blue beret.

The "Boating Party" was painted by Miss Cassatt in 1893-94. It hung in her Chateau until about 1914 and has been in the National Gallery since 1942.

This 5-cent stamp is the sixth in the American Painting series and promises to join the earlier issues in public popularity. These reproduced the work of Frederic Remington, Winslow Homer, John James Audubon, Charles M. Russell and John Singleton Copley.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations may send addressed envelopes together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed to the Postmaster, Washington, D. C. 20013. The envelope to the Postmaster should be endorsed "First Day Covers 5 cent Mary Cassatt Stamp." Request must be postmarked no later than Nov. 17.

Here is some interesting information on Mary Cassatt, whose painting appears on the 5-cent American Painting Series stamp to be issued in Washington, D. C. on Nov. 17.

She was born in 1844 and died in 1926, the daughter of a wealthy banker who was the first mayor of Allegheny City, Pa., now part of Pittsburgh. She gave up the life of a socialite to paint in Paris at a time when no proper young woman painted professionally. Miss Cassatt's works are the only ones of an American, besides Whistler, to hang in the Louvre and she has won France's highest award — the red ribbon of the Legion of Honor.

During the Kennedy administration two Cassatts hung in the private dining room of the White House. Recently Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson announced that Cassatts were being sought for the permanent collection there.

Australia's four cent stamp to commemorate the 350th anniversary of Dirk Hartog's landing on the Western Australian coast was issued on Oct. 24. The stamp shows a Dutch ship of the period and includes part of the inscription on the pewter plate which Hartog fixed to a post on what is now called Dirk Hartog Island. The date of issuance also coincided with the opening of a philatelic exhibition in Perth to honor Hartog's landing.

ANOTHER ENTRANCE

There is another entrance to the patio from the dinette, which is adjacent to the kitchen and makes for easy informal dining. Together, the dinette and kitchen comprise an area 16' in one direction and 13' 4" at its widest point in the other.

To the left of the foyer is the bedroom wing, with each bedroom having cross ventilation and ample closet space. The main bath is located between the two bedrooms and can be entered from either room. However, a second lavatory and a water closet are directly accessible from the foyer, convenient both for the family and guests.

If and when the upstairs area is finished according to the architect's plans, there will be two sizable bedrooms, each 18' 4" by 16' 4", with a large bathroom and generous closet space. A fireplace can be built into one of the bedrooms in a corner which would enable it to utilize the existing chimney.

An extra advantage of a house of this type is that it will not go out of style and thus has a good resale value. Its potential purchasers will include both small and large families. But perhaps a discussion of resale isn't too appropriate with a home whose flexibility makes it likely to remain in the possession of one family a long time.

A full study of this architect-designed House of the Week may be obtained by writing THE HOUSE OF THE WEEK, c-o the Monroe-Morning World, Monroe, La., and enclosing 50 cents to cover cost of handling and mailing. Please specify House Plan G-60.

Garden Center Notes

West Oak's Designs Shown

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

The West Oak Garden Club of Monroe, presented the Center program last Wednesday, displaying seven outstanding designs made from their own garden flowers. Mrs. Norm Perry, president, with five of the members, made the seven designs.

Now is the time to bring the lovely blooms into the home to enjoy while we still have them at hand for arranging. Soon the frost will come and nip the dahlias and other choice garden blooms, so, enjoy them while they last, especially in the home. Four of the designs were made with dahlias as the main flower.

The first, in the oriental manner, was created by Mrs. Leslie Clark. The use of a basket as a container was cleverly executed in the moribana, informal manner. Pale pink dahlias formed the triangle line in a needle cup holder placed to one side within the woven straw sewing basket. For filler Mrs. Clark used the glossy, rich magnolia fiscara foliage. For proper balance the design was placed on a natural woven mat.

MINIATURE DESIGN

Mrs. Clark also made a miniature design in the moribana manner in a small natural colored basket. She secured a small glass jar to one side on the basket for the simple line of "country girl" mums combined with a smaller type lavender mum. Small foliage completed this attractive design, as filler material. This arrangement would be ideal for the gift to a new baby, or for use on a bedside table or coffee table.

Mrs. Linton Hughes chose the vivid red dahlias for her design made in a pale pink milk glass compote container. The dahlias formed a free-standing massed design triangle in pattern. The foliage of the dahlias and buds formed a pleasing contrast as filler at the basic part of the design.

Mrs. Roy Colquette made a massed triangle design, in the feeling of the Oriental, using the Burford Holly in soft curves for the overall pattern in a low glass bowl (green in color). Pale pink dahlias with the buds in the upper part of the design formed the filler within the design as the main flower. A pale green mat placed under the design added proper balance.

Mrs. August Danti made a very modern design using pyracantha branches with full berries for the line. The tall cylinder (black) container was ideal for this striking design which featured the bright orange berries. For distinction, and good balance the design was placed on an oriental burl stand. This is a wonderful way to use the berried pyracantha now for a striking design against a narrow wall space.

IN JAPANESE MANNER

Mrs. Perry made the typical moribana (in a low bowl) in the Japanese manner. Clipped pine branches, so typical of the oriental, formed the three lines, Heaven, Man, Earth. These were secured into place in the needle holder that was placed to the back left side in the low black bowl. Green foliage covered the holder. For fillers she used the soft yellow decorative type mums. Black rocks also could be seen in the bowl, from the holder, in a natural manner. The bowl was filled to the brim with water, also so typical of the Oriental — Moribana. A natural straw mat, placed under the design, gave the required balance.

The last design, made by Mrs. Dale Cronk, featured deep cerise colored dahlias placed against a background of aspidestra foliage which formed a large triangle design in a low green bowl. The feeling of the Oriental was in the design because of the materials used, and the container. The holder for the plant material was placed to one side in the bowl, covered with dahlia foliage. Water could easily be seen in the side of the bowl. A lovely bamboo mat placed under the design, completed the arrangement. A lovely way to display a few select blooms from the garden, and this is just what Mrs. Cronk did. She grew these lovely dahlias.

Wednesday, a surprise is in store — Ronnie Downing, a student at Northeast State College, will reveal a secret about floral craft. Mrs. Blondell Maxwell will present the program.

Plants Get Major Boost By Pruning

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

A major aim in pruning is to let more air and sun into the interior of plants. Autumn is an excellent time to remove dead, diseased or undesirable growth from many trees and shrubs.

Here are a few other pointers:

1. Always cut to a growing point, such as a bud or branch.
2. Don't leave long stubs. They often die and trouble enters the rotted holes.
3. Remove dead wood and suckers as soon as they are noticed.
4. Repair storm damage promptly, but do not prune frosted ends of tender shrubs and plants immediately. Wait until there are signs of new growth in the spring, even though the plant may look untidy for weeks.
5. Spray or paint all wounds over one inch in diameter with three - wound dressing, which is available in easy - to - handle aerosol cans.

Yaupon Holly Easily Shaped

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

When it comes to pruning and shaping, the most accommodating broadleaf evergreen is our native yaupon holly. A visit to colonial Williamsburg, Va. will soon convince you of this fact.

When the restoration of the Williamsburg gardens got under way some years ago, yaupon turned out to be the best material for the miles of hedges and the clipped and shaped specimens. One can see yaupon clipped and sheared into all the figures prevalent in English formal gardens of the Eighteenth Century. In England, of course, the hedges and figures were made out of English yew, but this plant is not adapted to our southern climate.

GROWS FAST

Yaupon grows fast enough when young to get up to hedge size in a hurry. It is completely amenable to pruning, and after it has attained the size one wants, it can be held at that size with a reasonable amount of shearing. If one is willing to wait for the slower growing "dwarf yaupon" to grow, shearing will not be needed very often.

In order not to disappoint my readers, I have not said much about dwarf yaupon in the column in years gone past because this choice plant has been hard to find. Today, happily, southern nurserymen have begun to propagate this wonderful plant, and even roadside plant stands have it in cans ready to go. Since this has happened, we are going to see some beautiful hedges all over the south, because dwarf or slow-growing yaupon can encourage many gardeners who long since gave up on boxwood. For hedges and formal treatment, yaupon and the many forms of Japanese holly are the plants supreme.

CONFORMS

While Japanese holly is desirable for its relatively slower growth habits, yaupon is extremely useful because it will conform to almost any shape with its dense growth. While it needs more attention than Japanese holly, it will respond more quickly to pruning and shaping.

In hedges and big specimens of the normal wild yaupon, the fiery red color of the tiny little shiny berries borne profusely on female plants is a great winter attraction. There seem to be two different kinds of the dwarf yaupon in the nurseries. One is a male which, of course, never has any berries. The other is a female with berries. Unless the female form is kept very well fed, it seems to get a little thin from its efforts at producing both growth and berries. The male dwarf yaupon, on the other hand, makes a very dense hedge.

A great virtue of yaupon is that, like so many of the plants of our coastal plains, it is a "fire plant" which can come back, after complete destruction of the shrub, from its roots. If your yaupon gets leggy, you can cut it down to within a foot of the ground, and it will spring up into a dense new shrub.

6th Stamp In Paintings Series Due

By SYD KRONISH
AP Newsfeatures

The sixth in the annual American Painting Series, featuring a famous piece of art by Mary Cassatt, will be issued Nov. 17 in Washington, D.C. The painting is "The Boating Party," a 19th century impressionist oil painting that now hangs in the National Gallery of Art. It depicts a mother and child seated in the prow of a small sailboat which is being rowed by a man in a blue beret.

The "Boating Party" was painted by Miss Cassatt in 1893-94. It hung in her Chateau until about 1914 and has been in the National Gallery since 1942.

This 5-cent stamp is the sixth in the American Painting series and promises to join the earlier issues in public popularity. These reproduced the work of Frederic Remington, Winslow Homer, John James Audubon, Charles M. Russell and John Singleton Copley.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations may send addressed envelopes together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed to the Postmaster, Washington, D. C. 20013. The envelope to the Postmaster should be endorsed "First Day Covers 5 cent Mary Cassatt Stamp." Request must be postmarked no later than Nov. 17.

Here is some interesting information on Mary Cassatt, whose painting appears on the 5-cent American Painting Series stamp to be issued in Washington, D. C. on Nov. 17.

She was born in 1844 and died in 1926, the daughter of a wealthy banker who was the first mayor of Allegheny City, Pa., now part of Pittsburgh. She gave up the life of a socialite to paint in Paris at a time when no proper young woman painted professionally. Miss Cassatt's works are the only ones of an American, besides Whistler, to hang in the Louvre and she has won France's highest award — the red ribbon of the Legion of Honor.

During the Kennedy administration two Cassatts hung in the private dining room of the White House. Recently Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson announced that Cassatts were being sought for the permanent collection there.

Australia's four cent stamp to commemorate the 350th anniversary of Dirk Hartog's landing on the Western Australian coast was issued on Oct. 24. The stamp shows a Dutch ship of the period and includes part of the inscription on the pewter plate which Hartog fixed to a post on what is now called Dirk Hartog Island. The date of issuance also coincided with the opening of a philatelic exhibition in Perth to honor Hartog's landing.

Guide To Good Reading

Exciting New Books Continue To Arrive

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

Exciting and interesting new books continue to arrive each week at the Ouachita Parish Public Library. Whatever your reading taste, there is certain to be something that you will want to read. "Valentina" is the title of Evelyn Anthony's latest historical novel. This one has it's setting in Poland during the period of the Napoleonic Wars. Although there is much about the military situation, the love story is predominant and the book will be eagerly read by women. "Fathers and Dreamers" by Dallas Miller is a nostalgic family novel set at the time of World War II. This is a book which can be recommended for all types of readers. "The Gold In the Sea" by Brian Friel is an excellent collection of short stories with an Irish setting. The stories are beautifully written and the book will be enjoyed by the discerning reader. "The Day Television Died" by Don McGuire is a biting satire on the television industry. Men will particularly enjoy it. "Sabre-Tooth" is a fast paced mystery story written by Peter O'Donnell.

Non fiction books are interesting and unusual and contain a great deal of information. "The Library of Congress" by Gene Gurney is a fascinating picture story of the World's largest library. "Energizing the Twelve Powers of Your Mind" is a good book of practical psychology by Howard E. Hill. "Nationalism in Latin America" is a well done study of the political climate to the south of us by Gerhard Masur. "Life on Mars" by Francis Jackson is a very up-to-date treatise about this planet. "The New Field Book of Freshwater Life" by Elsie Klots will be most usful to the naturalist.

"Communications in Space" by Leonard Jaffee explains many of the modern marvels of communication. "Introduction to American Forestry" by Shirley Allen is a very scholarly work. "How Business is Bamboozled by the Ad-Boys" is a scathing denouncement of the advertising industry by Nicholas Samstag.

"Creating With Plaster" by Dona Z. Meilach will be useful to teachers and craft enthusiasts. "Flower and Garden Photography" by D. X. Fenton contains much useful information. "Essays on Schubert" by Maurice Brown is a welcome addition to the music collection. "Grand Slam" by James Bunning contains the secrets of power baseball. "The Ancient Olympic Games" by Heinz Schobel is a most informative work. "Fresh Water Bass" by Ray Bergman should be useful to the fisherman.

There are a number of interesting titles in the travel and history section. "The People of Japan" is a lovely work by Pearl Buck." "America's Frontier Heritage" by Ray Billington is a very fine piece of writing. "You Don't Say" by Benjamin De Mott is a social study of modern American inhibitions. "Must the West Decline" is a study of Western Civilization written by David Harleeh. "Men of Waterloo" by John Sutherland sheds new light on this battle. The first year of World War II is discussed by Laurence Thompson in "1940." "The Prince in the Heather" by Eric Linklater is a new account of the battle of Culloden and Bonnie Prince Charlie. Auguste Toussaint is the author of the most interesting "History of the Indian Ocean." Dee Brown has given us a history of another year, which she calls "'The Year of the Century, 1876." "The Northern Colonial Frontier, 1607-1763" is an account of life in the Northeastern States during these crucial years. Another American history is "Virginia; the English Heritage in America" by Parke Rouse Jr.

Probably no section of the Library is used more than the genealogy section. Patrons are always eager to know what new books we have in this section. "The Genealogical Periodical Annual" volumes 1, 2 and 3 will be most helpful. There are two books which will help those with Georgia ancestors. Both were compiled by the editors of the publication "Georgia Pioneers." One is the marriage records of Warren County and the other is that of Columbia County. "A History of Southwest Virginia, 1746-1786" by Lewis Preston Summers should be very useful.

LEFTOVER RICE

PREVENT SPOTS

If perfume is spilled on wooden furniture, wipe spill immediately and then use a furniture wax to rub away light spots immediately.

DELICIOUS CRUMBS

Crushed potato chips give a zippy flavor and crunchy texture to appetizers. Make them by pressing between wax paper sheets with a rolling pin.

Brides Air Domestic Gripes

By VIVIAN BROWN
ASSOCIATED PRESS

There are some good solid chores in married life, if you'd listen to three teen-agers. The girls, Ann 18, Flora 19 and Betty 18 bemoaned that "there's no place like home." Ma's home, that is.

Ann has been working in a local inn as a waitress, Flora works as a secretary to a car dealer, Betty is the lady of leisure — she stays home. "But I cook practically all day to live up to my husband's idea of what a wife should be — a long order chef," she quips.

"There should be a law that every man must wash his own socks," says Flora, "Jack complains that I leave too much soap in the socks, makes his feet itch."

Betty's husband is a sock griper too. His lightweight wool socks shrink and he complains that she doesn't match them evenly so it seems "as though one of his legs is shorter than the other," he's always telling her.

Ann tosses her husband's wash - and - wear socks in the washing machine, but has a fade problem. He insists she puts them in with clothes to be bleached.

Shirts are another nuisance, the girls say. All began married life at the ironing board "to save money."

Flora's husband complains about how she irons the collars, Betty's husband said the collars were dirtier after she washed them than before, and showed her how to loosen dirt with soap and a brush before washing the shirts. Her first shirt took more than an hour to iron but now she can iron a shirt in 10 minutes or less, she says.

All three girls have suggested sending shirts to the laundry.

One husband protests he has too few for that arrangement; another says they starch the collars, no matter what you say.

Cooking is one of the biggest adjustments. Two of the girls, Ann and Flora, never had any experience, but both ate well at home.

Ann's husband douses everything with catsup, and there is constant bickering about it. "There's no fun in making a delicious dish for someone to pour catsup over before it is tasted," she says.

Flora can't get in the swing of the kitchen, but she tries. She's progressed from frozen dinners to meat, vegetable and potatoes and knows one good company dish — Beef Stroganoff. Her husband doesn't nag too much about the lack of culinary skill.

Betty's husband was used to good cooking and takes pies and biscuits in stride. He always compliments her, but there are sure to be such remarks as "did you put paprika in the chicken batter?" Or "I like salmon croquettes with pickles mixed in." She refuses to put a hardboiled egg in the center of the meat loaf.

The less said about coffee-making the better, the girls say. All three strike out on the morning brew. The girls like coffee strong, the men like it weak. There doesn't seem to be a happy medium.

Another American history is "Virginia; the English Heritage in America" by Parke Rouse Jr.

Probably no section of the Library is used more than the genealogy section. Patrons are always eager to know what new books we have in this section. "The Genealogical Periodical Annual" volumes 1, 2 and 3 will be most helpful. There are two books which will help those with Georgia ancestors. Both were compiled by the editors of the publication "Georgia Pioneers." One is the marriage records of Warren County and the other is that of Columbia County. "A History of Southwest Virginia, 1746-1786" by Lewis Preston Summers should be very useful.

LEFTOVER RICE

PREVENT SPOTS

If perfume is spilled on wooden furniture, wipe spill immediately and then use a furniture wax to rub away light spots immediately.

DELICIOUS CRUMBS

Crushed potato chips give a zippy flavor and crunchy texture to appetizers. Make them by pressing between wax paper sheets with a rolling pin.

Brides Air Domestic Gripes

By VIVIAN BROWN
ASSOCIATED PRESS

There are some good solid chores in married life, if you'd listen to three teen-agers. The girls, Ann 18, Flora 19 and Betty 18 bemoaned that "there's no place like home." Ma's home, that is.

Ann has been working in a local inn as a waitress, Flora works as a secretary to a car dealer, Betty is the lady of leisure — she stays home. "But I cook practically all day to live up to my husband's idea of what a wife should be — a long order chef," she quips.

"There should be a law that every man must wash his own socks," says Flora, "Jack complains that I leave too much soap in the socks, makes his feet itch."

Betty's husband is a sock gripper too. His lightweight wool socks shrink and he complains that she doesn't match them evenly so it seems "as though one of his legs is shorter than the other," he's always telling her.

Ann tosses her husband's wash-and-wear socks in the washing machine, but has a fade problem. He insists she puts them in with clothes to be bleached.

Shirts are another nuisance, the girls say. All began married life at the ironing board "to save money."

Flora's husband complains about how she irons the collars, Betty's husband said the collars were dirtier after she washed them than before, and showed her how to loosen dirt with soap and a brush before washing the shirts. Her first shirt took more than an hour to iron but now she can iron a shirt in 10 minutes or less, she says.

All three girls have suggested sending shirts to the laundry.

One husband protests he has too few for that arrangement; another says they starch the collars, no matter what you say.

Cooking is one of the biggest adjustments. Two of the girls, Ann and Flora, never had any experience, but both ate well at home.

Ann's husband douses everything with catsup, and there is constant bickering about it. "There's no fun in making a delicious dish for someone to pour catsup over before it is tasted," she says.

Flora can't get in the swing of the kitchen, but she tries. She's progressed from frozen dinners to meat, vegetable and potatoes and knows one good company dish — Beef Stroganoff. Her husband doesn't nag too much about the lack of culinary skill.

Betty's husband was used to good cooking and takes pies and biscuits in stride. He always compliments her, but there are sure to be such remarks as "did you put paprika in the chicken batter?" Or "I like salmon croquettes with pickles mixed in." She refuses to put a hardboiled egg in the center of the meat loaf.

The less said about coffee-making the better, the girls say. All three strike out on the morning brew. The girls like coffee strong, the men like it weak. There doesn't seem to be a happy medium.

HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

DEAR HELOISE:
Did you know that a piece of damp nylon net, rubbed across a bar of soap, makes an excellent cleaning cloth to wash dirty hands after working on your car?

It is absolutely amazing how all the grease and oil comes off.

Bobby S.

* * *

No, Bobby, I didn't know that. You see, I don't work on the motor of our car! In fact, about the only thing I know about a car is where the gasoline goes, where the steering wheel, horn, brakes and lights are, and where the key fits! And please don't knock me for that. It's about average when it comes to women and cars!

Thanks for the wonderful hint. Our garage man says it works.

Heloise

THAT'S A SWITCH!

DEAR HELOISE:
I save all the hard plastic screw caps from prescription, shampoo or detergent bottles, and use them to replace the metal caps which become rusty after use on vinegar, catsup, flavoring and other bottles.

A plastic cap is easily wiped out, does not have to be dried (as metal does) to keep it from rusting, and will not bind or stick on the container as metal caps often do.

Martha

And, you know what? I WAS surprised. You're wonderful. All those metal bottle tops now are replaced with the lovely plastic ones. Thanks to you.

Heloise

FORECAST OF SHOWERS

DEAR HELOISE:
Here's an idea if you are trying to think of something unusual to give at a baby shower.

Find a good-sized box (a hat box would be perfect) and fill it with jars of baby food, several boxes of baby cereal and perhaps some small cans of fruit juice.

You could also include some small containers of baby powder, oil, etc.

Stuff pink or blue tissue around each item to prevent breakage. A rattle could be fastened to the top of the box for an added decoration. Useful, different, and inexpensive.

A Faithful Reader

SEE YOUR WAY CLEAR!

DEAR HELOISE:
I follow your column and would like to pass along my hint . . . you may be sure it is one to avoid housework!

For years I have kept our bathroom scales in a plastic container on the bathroom floor (the envelope-type that sweaters come in are best), and today it looks as if it just came from the store, with no dusting or cleaning in the meantime. It is used almost daily, and the figures are quite legible through the plastic.

Thelma Agar

* * *

The bag will also protect the scales from any water which might be splashed from the shower or sink and protect against rust caused by the steam from the shower.

Heloise

A BASKET OF MEMORIES

DEAR HELOISE:
An attractive wastebasket can be made by taking postcards from a trip and pasting them to an old wastebasket or a potato chip can. It really brings back memories.

Birthday, Christmas or almost any kind of card can be used. After pasting on the cards, use shellac to keep them clean. This would also make a cute gift.

Mrs. Lonnie Gruber

10-30

If you have a hint, problem or suggestion you'd like to share . . . write to Heloise in care of this newspaper.

NEVER LOST, ALWAYS FOUND

DEAR HELOISE:
I lined the flatware section of my dish drainer with some of your nylon net, using basting stitches to hold it to the drainer.

Now I never lose any small items (such as the screws of the meat grinder) when I wash dishes.

Sopko

INDOOR HOPSCOTCH

DEAR HELOISE:
I am an 11-year-old girl and I like to play hopscotch.

On rainy days, I can't play it outside and I can't mark with chalk on the floor. So I get some of my mother's string and shape it like a hopscotch. It works fine on a rug and is real easy to put away.

Kathy Stevens

SO WHAT'S UNDERNEATH?

DEAR HELOISE:
I have a treadle sewing machine which I consider an eyesore because it has no cover.

I bought a piece of plastic counter top to put on top of the machine, then tacked a skirt around the front and two sides of the board to match the curtains and bedspread. This hides the treadle.

A stand-up mirror completed the picture . . . real cute vanity with mirror. It is easily lifted off when I want to sew.

Mrs. Helen Blomlie

HAIR-RAISING THOUGHT

DEAR HELOISE:
I am 11 years old.
I have a little trick.
When someone is rolling your hair, hand them the plastic pins the easy way.

Take an ordinary roller and put some pins on it, leaving some of the pins sticking up so the person can reach them.

Frieda K. Johns

CANINE CUT-UPS

DEAR HELOISE:
For those who keep a dog on a running line and whose "best friend" is not kindly disposed toward a bath, put him on his run, get a tub of water and doggy shampoo, dump it in the water and mix well. Then get your dog and scrub away.

He may jump out of the tub, but he can't get away, and you can haul him right back to the job at hand.

Dog Lover

TABLESPOON STICK-UP

DEAR HELOISE:
Just thought of a hint that might help someone.

Some sticks of oleo and butter do not have the teaspoon or tablespoon measurements on them, so I cut a measuring guide off one box and taped it inside my cupboard door where I keep spices and other baking ingredients.

When I have to use a certain amount of butter, I can just hold the stick up to the markings and there's no guessing and no dirty measuring spoons or cups.
